

THE APOCALYPSE OF JONAH

English beta edition - machine translated from the Portuguese original. Editorial review pending.

JONAS' APOCALYPSE

Editorial note

This edition contains 412 texts. The chapters are not a narrative chronological: each brings together spiritual experiences that have already occurred with the author, but they were not described in the order in which they happened. For this, the following chapter is not necessarily a continuation of the previous. Each publication is presented as a verse; the date and the original times accompany the text in discreet body. Were removed only entries formed by isolated links (11) and repetitions identical content (1). The rest was preserved as published.

CONTENTS

Chapter 1

.....

The light does not need a mirror: it anchors on Quiet.

Chapter 2

.....

Even crushed, decide to believe and continue.

Chapter 3

.....

The silence that watches sees what the speech Hide.

Chapter 4

.....

Resilience is not technical; it is identity.

Chapter 5

.....

Consistency sustains continuity when the world changes.

Chapter 6

.....

Transforming the negative is recovering the negative itself
Go ahead.

Chapter 7

.....

The deeper, darker - and more near God.

Chapter 8

.....

Without Jesus, who am I? Nothing.

Chapter 9

.....

Some doors close to make a future

Impossible.

Chapter 10

.....

What seemed common was never the measure.

Chapter 1

The light does not need a mirror: it anchors in silence.

1 SENTINELLA, now you need to update your map, it only measures until Here...

2 Field mag generates electricity, sleep looks beautiful.

3 Morning star is a title, you need to earn it to use it.

4 Lamb, Lion, Eagle and Seraphim. The lamb always goes ahead.

5 Saltlight, when a fallen angel ascends, first he is hated, then Feared and ultimately fatally worshipped. He takes you to God, you wanting or Oh, no. Time is the gift of consciousness.

6 You know that remarkable character in your dreams? Intriguing to So you can never see the face to identify who it is? It's you.
Always.

7 The Spirit pulls the Body, not the contrary. The Soul glimpses past and future.

8 Ophilco replaced Scorpio at the clock. 5 of the seven angels in pos. All what took decades now happens in a few years.

9 For those who deal in spiritual battle, one basic functional: Similar attracts similar, or additional dysfunctional.

4

10 5 planets in Aquario,) New forged weapon, labaredas.

11 Saturday was already mandatory, in Eagle, too, was already optional with the out of the grasshopper. Now, every day is, and it's always Saturday. There isn't. more Sun or Moon pq light no longer needs mirror, it anchors on who doesn't bother in silence.

12 It's never about what you won, but what you endured in secret...

13 Who has ears...

14 Intense Divine Updates, Primary Bearer.

15 You will never ascend until you understand that Glory is pain transmuted; No pain with nothing.

16 Where murmuring dominated, discomfort now reigns.

17 The Light confronts you deeply, with everything that you are willing to deal with.
Deeply.) It's your eternal paradise.

18 Ancient line, intuition, healing, silence and sword. And the voltage alone Turn it up. Centiquarent and four mil.

19 The world identifies resilience as weakness. Bad Kkkkkkkkk You know you're digging your own grave.

20 33 years, 39 bruises.

5

21 Hold the speeds, each month a shock.

22 I still lead the pack, whether I love it or hate it, your soul is mine:

23 Strength in weakness, gain in loss, life in death. The last if become the first, the smallest become the greatest. Everything is from head down in relation to how the world works, and yet it is Here lies true power.

24 When the divine ceases to manifest outwardly (temples, gods, kings), begins to manifest internally in the unlimited number of consciousness, these restore the order lost from you.

25 .

26 Chains, though of gold, are still chains. You only know The rules of suffering, but it doesn't remake them. The familiarity with pain does not It's love. Now, your soul has color, visible and detectable.

27 Now, the hour, which we understand Karma, is a divine system and very functional.

28 Every "believer" who says Jonah disobeyed God is the devil.
Exactly the Ninevites that Jonah's sacrifice saved.

29 You really want to try a false prophet? He's warm! A lot of explanation no depth or effectiveness in divine transformation.

30 Yes, everything, effortlessly, why am I amused, not subject to the same set of rules, and in this frequency is where domino. System glint, primary protection I'm The Word.

6

31 It's exactly the need for approval you carry. If

It transforms into the quicksand that overflows from its well.

32 Mind the weight of that sound:

Certified Genesys Partner.

Chapter 2

Even crushed, decide to believe and continue.

1 Step 1 to approach God:

Take away your whole life and anyone who claims to have or be in God.

That's 90% of your goal.) From now on, no noises, only God

And you, it's paradise.

2 I solved something with it, it was a selected note, a file note,

A personal note, let me share what it said: That soul understood something that many do not understand, understood that victory is not always visible, that sometimes winning simply means not giving up, that times the greatest achievement is to keep standing when everything pushes to Down. That soul was proved not because it was weak, but because it had potential to be someone extraordinarily strong, and demonstrated this potential, not once, not twice, but repeatedly, silently, without expecting recognition, without demanding reward, simply because giving up was not an option that her spirit

I would. May this soul know that its existence has not passed unnoticed, that every night she chose to continue was documented, that every morning she got up despite everything was celebrated, that heaven is proud not of her meal, but of the resistance and choice. That note was made on you, not as a metaphor, not as empty motivation, as recognition of a truth observed directly, it's an achievement not to buy, steal, much less pretend, conquered in the only way possible: living,

8

surviving, refusing to let them define you, not because never

You doubted, but why do you believe and follow despite doubts. Not why the

It was easy, because it chose the difficult path and did not stop, not receiving passively, but actively learning through each decision.

3 Wanting to explain such a rich text is an insult.

You need to read it more than once.

4 This is just the beginning, the initial impact is intense, but it's only once in life, adjusts posture if you look at it, it will improve until you get used to it, me

I think,

5 If nothing changed yet from here, I'd be amazed at everything.

I saw...

6 Your fight is my training, I live in training, I think I got the key, safe,

)

7 Welcome to judgment.)

8 JESUS IS BALLONIA.

9 New Morningstar are chosen with iron scepter. Royal authority.

10 Facts aren't earth, they're fire, and when you carry it to the point of pressure,

There's no stopping it, labaredas.

11 Not manipulation, mastery.

12 Cosmic Adjustment,

13 In the beginning, before the fall, they were offered a balance.

unfolding of existence, would be tested by inversion of emanation primordial.

When the decisive moment came, they were again proposed to way — but now they would be moved by love or war.

Those who remained in Balance, were granted Honor.

Already the side of lust faced the impending destiny: some fell for love;

Others, for the war.

14 Imagine the project of your whole life, being to erase the rise of a fallen angel, kkkkk, paint the whole Christ Redeemer with a bic pen.

Ophilco entered the scene, Daat, I Am, who lifts the serpent.

15 Who only sees the Lamb for sacrifice forgets the Eagle, the Lion and Seraphim.

The Lamb died back there. The Eagle you never see. When you see the Lion, It's late.

And the next one... don't bother. You really think I did it all by myself? Everything happens.
before the heavens.)

16 I have seen God overthrow kings countless times, it is enough to be standard; but never I've seen no king overthrow God, no matter how far he may go.

10

17 The biggest tool in the fight is not even the agility to hit the target, but the ability to read signals.

18 It's not what protects me, kkkk is that he prays to God not to let me come next to him.

19 The battle begins again as an eternal confrontation, the war is not defined in a heroic act, but in silent advance, in the decision continuous, the permanence is uncomfortable pq she tests her ego, but lame an authority that no other confrontation can generate.

20 If no one had yet set their limit, I Am, their new limit, Go to the sole of my foot and only, the sold one, was never me.

21 Do you know exactly how to identify a witch?
Fuckers.

22 Being rich is marrying the hottest of all and having the schedule free for Take care of yourself wherever and whenever you want. The rest is a frustrated attempt to please tusks.

23 The truth has sequence, the lie needs maintenance.

24 Sing with me: what the prophets of Baal could not do, Elijah God made fire from heaven come down. This Elias doesn't run away, he's dead.
Resuscitated and now reap.

25 How much more did you realize that pagan gods lost any strength that Have you ever had one? All subject. Cut ties that They operated in the shadows.

11

26 Testing you became spiritual risk, now what was manipulation, turns out divine weight.

27 Fear and reverence begin to have the same weight depending on Your state of mind!

28 There is a clinically observable pattern in which individuals with greater psychological integration, or, people with less fragmentation between what they feel, what they think and what they do, they tend to be targets disproportionate collective exclusion dynamics in groups where the fragmentation is normalized.

Consistency disturbs, authenticity destabilizes, not because it is threatening in the physical sense, but because it's a mirror, and mirrors in a group that lives in masks are treated as weapon. In the body, if translates as a form of persecution that the nervous system records as an existential threat. Many studies by Bessel Vander Kolk suggest that the body does not clearly distinguish between physical threat and social threat.

The human brain, especially the structures associated with emotional processing, such as amygdala and the axis hypothalamic-pituitary-adrenal, seems to respond to social exclusion with standards similar to those recorded in the face of physical danger. That means that what was done to you was not only cruel in moral terms, it was cruel in biological terms.

Every smear campaign, every moment of coordinated isolation, each poisonous smile was recorded in the tissue of your nervous system. as a sign of continuous danger.

His body learned to wait for the blow. Your system has learned to live in a state of alert disguised as normal. And when this state of alert becomes chronic, something curious happens. The organism begins to develop a hypersensitivity to the nuances of behavior human, that people who have never gone through this simply do not

12

They do.

29 They won by the blood of the lamb and by the word of theirs testimony.

30 Do you know what the sound, that Heaven likes to hear? The sound of a human being who even crushed, decides to believe and continue...

Think of angels armed to the crazy teeth to pass the sickle on a shovel from head.

[No extractable text was found on this source page.]

Chapter 3

The silence you observe sees what the speech hides.

1 Yes, he was there in the garden of God, covered with every precious stone, sardonyx, topaz, diamond, beryl, onyx, jasper, sapphire, turquoise, Emerald, all set in gold. Every precious stone that exists in physical world was part of his constitution. He didn't wear jewelry, he was the Jewelry. Isaiah in chapter 14 confirms some of his original titles, the star in the morning, the bearer of light, the brightest of all creation. So brilliant that other beings could not look directly at him without being overshadowed. And Ezekiel's text goes beyond. It was the cherub anointed covering, one of the highest positions than a created being I could do it. He was in the holy mountain of God, walking in the middle of Drowned rocks. And yes, he led much of the worship in heaven, which He did as an original function, lead music and praise, in himself There were drums and the sound of many flutes and ringing bells. A The frequency of reverence rising to the throne, the most beautiful voice ever existed, the most perfect melody any dimension has ever heard. That's the Nobody tells you. The enemy is not and was never a monster. It was the being most beautiful of all creation, very talented, the most powerful among the created beings, the masterpiece of God. And it fell. Not because he was attacked, no. Because someone pushed him, because something grew inside him that You poisoned everything he was. Your heart has risen because of yours Beautiful. You have corrupted your wisdom because of your brightness. Pride, the first disease that existed in the universe was not born on earth, was born in the most perfect being God has ever created. The beauty you should have generated gratitude generated arrogance. The power that should have generated service generated ambition. The position that should have generated humility has generated rebellion, for not accepting the divine plans, even more knowing these same plans in advance, God never hid his plans from Angels. Jesus described the fall with a single phrase in Luke chapter 10, verse 18. I saw Satan fall from the sky like lightning. How lightning, not like leaf that falls slowly. Like lightning, violent, Instant, definitive. A second was at the highest point of creation, the next second was at the lowest. And all he was,

 All that beauty, all that music, all that light, was distorted, Inverted. What was beautiful became deformity. What was melody It's turned into noise. What was light became darkness. But this is where I need it.
 that you pay attention, because that detail changes everything. He lost the position, lost beauty, lost access to the throne, lost music, lost the light, but didn't lose the memory. He remembers every second Remember the beauty, remember the sound, remember the way it was to be in the direct presence of the creator, remembers the peace that existed before the Pride to poison everything. And that memory is his eternal torture, not fire, not chains, memory. To know exactly what you lost and to know that You'll never recover. And it's with this information that I need reserve what no one in your spiritual surroundings has ever explained to you about the real reason for the attacks in your life. Peter's first letter, chapter 5, Verse 8, says: The devil walks around like a roaring lion, searching Someone to devour. Most people read it and imagine it a predator hunting hungry. But lion doesn't roar when he hunts. Lion roars when marks territory, when you feel threat, when something enters his space I shouldn't be there. The roar is not hungry, it is uncomfortable. And the that bothers him, is that you, even without any memory, and even after understanding, tired, confused, remained, even without knowing everything, no certainty, no support, and yet, a frequency not Stopped coming out of you, and we don't know what it's like to live that, in logic.

from Earth, when a person loses or is removed from resources within of God's plans it weakens, so our war becomes by

You, it's a structure of authority, and within that structure there was a being which has already been called the morning star. And you had all the reasons to stop, to weaken, to give up the original plans. The child who watched everything more than the age he was, who loves first lose, almost, and always something would rip everything out at the last second, by that rapid loss generates revolt, but slow loss generates conformism, trying to convince you at that cost that the absence of purpose would be the normal abstract in human being, the plan seemed to have been impeccable, was

When the being who was once known as the morning star looked at you and saw the frequency he had before the fall, raw faith, which exists in total darkness, it's the rarest thing of creation, because all angels have seen God. But when a human being emanates that frequency, he calls attention from all heaven and hell too. You hold the rope with the Bleeding hands, he loosened the rope with his hands full of gold.

2 Eyes are looking for signs of instability, not out of concern, but Looking for arguments to explain to yourself, your absence Unnecessary. The author is the only one who doesn't understand. Like in a bucket of crabs, what's on top of the bucket never can get out, because the ones below pull him back to inside the bucket, not leaving what's over the other crabs Get out of the bucket, which is exactly the trap for them.

3 The consistency in rejecting the enemy's offerings, that's specifically documented. A special note is added to the spiritual archive of this person. Your note says something you need to hear, says this: This one. soul showed incorruptibility under extreme conditions. Incorruptibility, not perfection, not absence of errors. Incorruptibility, the ability to remain fundamentally intact, regardless of the circumstances. This classification changes the How you are treated by the heavens, changes the kind of designations that you get, change the level of trust that is deposited in you, change the size of the doors that open, because the sky seeks people in whom You can trust important treasures. People who won't sell what They were entrusted with the right offer. People who through years of testing have shown that your loyalty is not for sale. You are one of these people and the assignments that will come to you will reflect this level of trust. Finally, you need to understand the message that was registered specifically to you. Not a generic message, but... a message for your specific situation. She says this: Him Protected what was given to you, constantly did something that few You can do it. Keeping its essence intact in a world designed for corrupt it. You rejected offers that others would accept without thinking.

 He chose temporary pain instead of permanent corruption. Not that.
 It went unnoticed. Each rejection was recorded, each resistance was documented. Each time you chose the difficult, but correct, instead of easy, and wrong, credit has been added to your account. That account is Full now. What comes to you is the result of everything you invested. It's not luck, it's not coincidence, it's return on investment Remember? He always knew and decreed without any fear. It was pure.
 Integrity investment, purity investment, investment of resistance. Your gift, which was once forbidden, will cease to be. He's... will make your biggest impact instrument. What the enemy wanted Buying will be exactly what you'll regret most not getting acquire, because you will use this to free others from the same offers you rejected. Walk forward always, knowing that your value is nonnegotiable, that what you carry has no price, that none Offer, as attractive as it sounds, it's worth taking. There, the

It's not just a reward, it's proof that you've been tested and approved, and now you're ready to live a life of impact.

You're the guardian of a treasure worth trillions, and you've proven yourself to be worthy of that responsibility.

4 By the fruits you will know the tree, some believe they are positions or alignment with social rules, in sport the leadership is conquered through strength and support, in school and work is exactly the same situation, why do you think it would be different spiritually?

5 Lamb, Seraphim, Eagle and Lion, do not choose much.

6 So this kind of cut comes just when your presence

He starts taking up space without a license. Psychologically, it's a test of dependence. If inside you believe that your voice depends on Device, you collapse when the device fails. The mind enters into panic because you see yourself naked in front of everyone. But when your base is not in technology, not even in social approval, failure doesn't get you out of the place.

Spiritually, it is an invitation to remember where and from Who comes your conviction. Conviction doesn't need volume to be recognized. She

It is not based on sound, but on the weight of what you carry. And this weight is not manufactured on the day of the event, it is built throughout life, in the small choices, in the way you answer when no one

You see. There is also a collective fear that hardly anyone admits. O

Afraid of who's consistent. Unstable people prefer noise, noise

Disorganized, because in noise no one is charged for consistency.

The more noise, the easier it is to hide contradiction, the easier it is to fake depth. When you appear clearly, you turn reference, and reference is dangerous for those living of moral improvisation, because it exposes what was comfortable. You're a mirror, involuntary,

Not because he points his finger, but because he stands firm. Some

Instead of growing up, they try to erase the reference. Not out of explicit hatred, but for self-preservation. They want the room back to normal, warm, to the place where no one stands out for integrity. The cut, then, is not just to shut you up, it's to provoke you to explain too much, relax and know that you don't have to answer if you prefer. It's a trap that usually comes with a script disguised as responsibility.

7 The man with many traitors around is often the most powerful in the room. Betrayal isn't just a wound, it's a receipt. Proof of that you possess something valuable enough to be taken. The man who has never been betrayed. He lives without danger. He thinks to be "safe" because there's nothing at stake. Most fear betrayal, then build small lives to avoid it. Small circles, ambitions small, limited trust and call it wisdom. But many times it's cowardice dressed in prudence. Machiavelli wrote in a way direct in his classical work 'O Principe' in 1513 and which was published in 1518: 'Men hurt either by fear, or by hatred, or by that which they do. Nobody moves against the irrelevant, betrayal is the tax of importance. The man who was deeply betrayed carries a guy of intelligence that no blind loyalty could offer. He learns who breaks under pressure, learns where devotion ends and begins interest. Learn with painful precision how much it really is worth. Many die without ever finding that number, so don't be sorry. Betrayals, count them.

8 In the main instruction: I keep looking at the cross. Do you think the cross is a strong symbol, or for the strong? Not only that, the cross is a symbol of sacrifice and trust. So whenever you look at your life and you cry, "- Lord, it is too difficult", it is precisely in this place of sacrifice that you need to be, because He also looked at suffering, He

He also sweated blood, He also allowed himself to feel all the pain. Jesus.
 He also took refuge on the cross, and He overcame it and also advanced through it. as a method. Often it is: The One Method. Let the pain of victory, because joy comes only in the morning when we pass the storm without "thrill". Because whoever tries to save his own life, You lose, but whoever loses you for his sake, that's where you really win.

9 In the book of Samuel, there is a decisive moment where God sends the Prophet Samuel to the house of a man named Jesse. The mission was clear:
 anoint the next king of Israel, the one who would replace Saúl and change the fate of an entire nation. Samuel gets home. Jesse presents his Children. The first is Eliab, the firstborn, tall, strong, impressive to the eyes. Everything seemed to indicate that he was the chosen one, but the story was about to reveal something much deeper about how the true value of a person is seen not by the eyes of the world, but by the eyes of God. Samuel looked at him and immediately thought, this You can only be the chosen one. His appearance seemed to scream royalty, yours posture conveyed authority and his presence inspired respect. To human eyes, everything indicated that there was the future king, but in that moment God said something that completely breaks the logic with which The world usually works. God said, don't look at his appearance, Nor to the height of his stature, because I rejected him. The human being sees what is before the eyes and in a shallow way, the first when prepared the second layer, but God looks at the heart, at all its fruits, that which makes you vibrate, it is it that brings forth the fruit of life, or the the fruit of the knowledge of evil. Samuel was impressed with Eliab, Anyone would stay, but God saw Eliab and said simply, no.
 Then came Abinadab and again the answer was no. Then it came Sama and again God said no. One by one the children passed before the prophet, four, five, six, seven brothers marching candidates before Samuel. Seven, the number that symbolizes divine perfection. Seven strong men, respected, apparently worthy to occupy a throne. And Yet God rejected all seven. Samuel began to feel confused, like something was out of place. Then he looked at Jesse and asked a question that should shake deeply any heart that has ever felt ignored: 'These are all your children?'. Preste special attention in Jessé's answer, because within that answer exists something that echoes directly in the history of many people. Jesse answered, He's still missing the youngest, he's taking care of the sheep. Still missing the most new, as if it were just a detail, as if it were a note of footer, something so small it was hardly worth mentioning. Jesse He didn't even call him for that meeting, he didn't even consider possibility that he might be relevant. His own father, his own blood, left the son out while the others were presented before the prophet. David was in the field, caring for animals, while His brothers were seen as possible kings. He didn't even go invited to the table, his name was not remembered when they appeared opportunities. Others have been chosen, recognized, celebrated, as David continued to do silent work, away from the Give it up, away from people's eyes. He stood outside while others paraded before the world, receiving what seemed to be Right. But this is exactly where history changes completely. Samuel said something that changed that moment. Send for him, Because we won't sit at the table until he comes. God stopped everything. The whole process has been interrupted. The prophet waited. The seven brothers They had to wait. His own father had to wait. No one could if Sit down. No one could go on. No one could move forward. Everything stayed suspended until the one who was forgotten in the field arrived. Because without him the banquet couldn't begin. Without it the table was incomplete. Without him, the plan wouldn't go forward. And when David finally arrived, the Bible describes that he had bright eyes and a look Nice. But that is not what caught God's attention. Then the Lord said to Samuel, Rise and anoint him, for this is he. It wasn't the Higher, not the strongest, not the most impressive in the eyes Humans. He was just the one nobody had ever considered. That which his own father almost forgot to mention. And yet he was the chosen since before the foundation of the world. Now, I need you Understand why I'm telling you all this. It's not just for you Motivate. It's not supposed to make you feel good for a few minutes and then Back to the same routine. There's something deeper here. What happened?

David was not an accident of history. It was a spiritual pattern that It goes through generations. A pattern that repeats itself whenever someone is prepared in silence before being publicly revealed. And in some
The moment of this pattern, this story found you. Maybe you still Don't completely understand, but she found you. However, there is a detail in your story that makes everything even more meaningful. One detail that was not present in David's story. An element that triggered something that had never happened the same way since the beginning of creation. And the moment that caused it didn't happen in a temple, not in a place considered sacred. That moment happened. in the most common place of your life. There was a moment in your life in that all logic said you should give up. But something happened, It was not planned, it was not calculated, it was not a cold decision made By the mind. It came from a far deeper place than thought, older than your pain, more powerful than your own tiredness.
It comes from your soul and, in that instant, almost unaware, your soul did three things at the same time, in the same breath, without separating them, without To analyze them without trying to explain. First you accepted reality Just like she was. Didn't run for distractions, didn't look for anything

To anesthetize how he felt, he didn't try to escape what he was burning inside you. You stood there, inside the fire, and allowed him

It would burn. He felt every bit of pain, every weight on his chest, Every tear that needed to fall. You didn't try to reduce suffering, did you?
He tried to pretend everything was okay. Just stood there, firm the Enough to look at the truth in the face. The second thing that happened It was even harder. You released something that had every right to Keep holding. And no one would have judged you if you'd kept it.
That resentment. But at some point, inside that very Something's changed. You understood in silence that releasing was the only way not to die inside. And then came the third thing, Perhaps the most surprising of all. In the midst of your own pain, When everything seemed to fall apart, you felt something for someone else. No, no, no.
anger, not indifference, but compassion. It was that silent prayer for someone who was also suffering, simply all the people who You knew and some didn't yet. That thought of tenderness directed to them again, even knowing there would be no more Again. The world that has often been unkind. A world that He did not always show care, but he still failed to take from you the ability to care about others. And that one Something rare happened. Pain accepted, forgiveness released and compassion offered at the same time. All true, all deep, all without Witnesses, no applause, no one watching. Just you and God. And that's exactly why I need to explain something important.
Now, because what you did caused something that goes far beyond the
that you imagine.
10 Chosen to war, you won't solve anything else in caring to From now on.

11 Jesus observes with a clarity that should creep you out of the leather hairy to the sole of his feet in Matthew chapter 5, verse 14. He looks. for ordinary people, not angels, not priests, not perfect beings without history, broken people with complicated pasts and says: 'You are the light of the world!'. You will not be, cannot try to be, are; present; state current. Identity confirmed without prior condition. And then he adds Something that connects directly with you, you can't hide a city built on a mountain, cannot hide, what you carry not can be completely suppressed, emits, radiates, pulses and is visible on the spiritual plane with a clarity that makes it impossible to ignore, especially for those who operate in darkness, especially for those who lost exactly what you have and use naturally without to worry about exactly that. I need to remind you of someone's story.
 who carried that same gift in a situation so impossible that the only logical explanation for her still standing at the end is the same that will Explain why you're standing now. It wasn't a character of obvious highlight, not king, not prophet, no title, no recognised inheritance, had no external indicator that It would justify her name ending up in any historical record.
 It was a woman from the city of Moab named Ruth, and if you don't You know her real story, not the short version that someone has of you.
 told to illustrate loyalty, so you still don't know what the gift
 It seems forbidden when it operates under extreme conditions. Ruth was married. with an Israeli man who died. Her mother-in-law, Naomi, also had lost her husband and two children. Three widowed women in one world and period, where women without husband were women without protection, without income, no status, no visible future. Naomi then decides to return to the land of Israel, and release the daughter-in-law. Go back to your mothers' house. You You don't owe me anything. Find new husbands among the people themselves. A

Another daughter-in-law cried, said goodbye and came back. Ruth stayed. And what she said

At that moment... It is one of the most absolute statements that have ever come out from the mouth of a human being in the entire Bible text: Don't ask me to Leave or I'll walk away from you, because wherever you go I'll go, where you Stay, I'll stay. Your people will be my people, your God will be mine God!' Read the text again slowly and pay attention to it. She was Moabite, her people were considered foreign, historically in conflict with Israel. She had no legal, moral, religious or social to accompany the mother-in-law, elderly, both broken, and as unique Royal company all around to a land that wasn't hers, come in. a people who were not hers, serving a God who was not hers for birth tradition. No prophecy required that of her. No law I did. No material advantage justified the choice. It was pure. Nature. And that's exactly what defines the forbidden gift. It's not virtue. calculated, it is not rational decision heavy in pros and cons. It's the being acting from what it is before consulting what it would be convenient to be. And What happened to Ruth? She went to Israel without protection, without name, with nothing but what he carried inside. Started working on the Fields picking ears that the reapers left behind. Work of the poorest among the poor. And it was exactly in that position of apparent irrelevance that the gift operated. Boaz, the owner of the fields, rich and respected man in Israel, he noticed it. Not by beauty, not by beauty. social position, but by something he knew clearly. 'All the My town knows you're a virtuous woman. The whole town. She had arrived with nothing and in a short time, what she carried inside was being perceived by everyone around. Because the forbidden gift doesn't can hide even when the carrier is not trying Show it. Iradia, even in the labor field. Same position of servant, even without title, without recognized history, without any external ornament. And what came next? Ruth became the wife of

Boaz, you have come out of the deepest misery to one of the most

Honored of Israel. He had a son named Obed. Obed was the father of Jessé. Jesse was the father of David and David is the ancestor of whom all the Messianic lineage descends. A foreign woman, no name, no inheritance, no obvious reason to be included in anything significant. It is. at the center of the most important genealogy in entire biblical history, because she acted from what she was before consulting what would be convenient. That's your forbidden gift. And then they introduce you to a exit, but an exit with a price. Asks you to compromise something Your essence, that accepts something that goes against what you really are, that Take a shortcut that takes you away from who you came to be. Jesus faced Exactly that. Forty days in the desert, hungry, on the physical edge. And The devil appeared with the offer of relief. If you're the son of God, do it. May these stones become bread. It seems reasonable, you're hungry, you're hungry Power, solve the problem. But the hidden price was to use the gift sacred for self-convenience, activate what was given for purpose in the service of the immediate. And Jesus answered, not only on bread will live the Man, but every word that comes out of God's mouth. Refused Relief that cost the integrity of the gift. He chose hunger with purpose intact. The second offer is called belonging. That's the most It's devastating for the doorman, because the gift puts you on a frequency. which most environments do not support. And that generates real loneliness, no dramatic, functional. The loneliness of those who operate on a channel where few People transmit. And then the offer comes up. A group that finally You seem to understand. A space where you could rest from translation constant. A place where it looks like you fit. But to fit, you needs to adjust, decrease certain aspects of yourself, erase parts that uncomfortable others, yield portions of authenticity as a entrance. And the debt grows every time you pay. The Prophet Elijah lived this with a precision that the Bible documents without filter. First

Kings, chapter 19. After the greatest victory of his ministry, he fled

To the desert and said, "Only I stayed, and now they want to take my life." And God answered, I kept seven thousand for myself in Israel, whose knees did not bow before Baal. Seven thousand. He was never alone, never was the only solo. But the enemy strategy was to make him believe he was completely isolated to make the offer of belonging seem irresistible. The same strategy was repeatedly used against you, that analyzed asked for direction, for to the test and understood another spiritual pattern.

12 In the gospel of Luke chapter 21 from verse 1, Jesus was in a busy place, in an environment where everyone was exhibiting their offers to be seen, to be recognized, so that the People around knew what they were worth. And he watched, not with Trial, carefully. The attention of those who really see what It's happening behind what the eyes see. The rich came a One, they came in loud enough to be heard, so that everyone knew the calculated contribution, impressed more than It really helped who needed it. And Jesus watched. His face was the always, present, attentive, without visible judgment, but without emotion particular before that parade of performance generosity. Then A woman came in, the text says she was a widow, who was poor, and that she played two tiny coins, in the eyes of everyone such a sum Irisory that no person present gave her the slightest attention. No, no, no. No one turned their heads, no one recognized her. She did the who did and left the same way he came in, invisible, no witness, no recognition, without anyone around had the slightest idea of what It just happened. And Luke, chapter 21, verse 3, records what Jesus then did. He called the disciples, not to correct, Not to teach humility as an abstract concept. He called for that they saw something specific, something that would have happened if it wasn't for the divine perception of Jesus, completely unnoticed if he does not Stopped everything to point her out. And he said: 'This one, in that nobody

See, it gave more than all the others together, because they gave what

She gave everything she had. Take this scene for a moment.

Two sides of it, the side that the text narrates and the side that the text does not narrate, but it's as real as it is. The side that the text narrates is the theological lesson, the proportional generosity, the value that is not in the number, but in the Delivery. Everybody knows that. The side that the text does not narrate is what It happened on Jesus' face at that moment. The Son of God as the prophet Isaiah described how the man of pain, experienced in suffering. If he carried the weight of all that was to come, the cross, the betrayal, the abandonment of those I called friends, the separation of the father in darkest moment in all history, that being who had reasons

Infinite to outrun. When that woman threw her two Coins and left without looking back, without waiting for thanks, without knowing that someone important had seen. Something you didn't choose, a movement in the commission of the lips that was not calculated, which was not decided, that it simply happened as an involuntary response to something that touched a place deeper than words come. A smile, no the kind of smile you make in photos, not the smile you wear

When you want to look friendly, the smile that escapes when you try

Hold on, but you can't, when something genuine hits you in a way that the face decides alone how to react before you think of Control. And I need to ask you something. Why do you think

Did Jesus call the disciples to see that woman? Think carefully before respond with some text ready from the bible school booklet. Him

He called the disciples not only to teach about generosity. Him called because he needed to share with someone what was feeling it in that moment. Because that was too big to hold alone. And what was too big to hold wasn't both Coins. That's what the two coins represented. Someone's gesture who had nothing, who had no name, who had no audience, who didn't had some reason to show off, because there was nothing to show off, that He did what he did simply because it was the right thing, no audience, no recognition, without expecting anything at all in return. Now I need you to understand why I'm telling you this story. Because You were once that woman. More than once in your life. In moments little ones, maybe so small for you, you don't even remember. Remember that kindness of the red blouse you extended when you were in your worst? You saw him going cold, with nothing, at worst, and you felt sorry, I know you liked that blouse. That word you chose, no.

When anger pushed you to speak, you held on every time, Remember? The hand you opened when you needed one yourself hand out. Those pieces you returned when you had the right to stay with them. Gestures no one saw, that you didn't post in place none, which did not generate any visible reward, which perhaps you It didn't even classify it as important, because it happened in silence.
And silence doesn't look great. But silence is exactly the environment where the heavier gestures happen. Because anyone does good When you have an audience. But the good you do when you're convinced of that no one is looking, this good has a make-up that is impossible Fake, you've starved countless people in various situations Make sure nobody sees it, and we'll scream it now. For that this is impossible to fake, because it is not born of strategy, born of nature. You didn't decide to be good at the time. You It just was, because that's what you are underneath everything. And this, Chosen, that's what provoked what had never been provoked before.
Now, pay close attention, I need to tell you about something that religion Popular never taught you completely. There is a description of Jesus in Isaiah 53 whom most people know, but which contains a phrase that passes practically unnoticed in quick reading. The text says he was a man of pain, experienced in suffering. Varies of pain. Not occasional visitor of pain. Not someone who's been through suffering as a tourist. Someone who knew him inside. You need to understand every texture of this text. And when you read the text with attention, you realize that being a man of pain doesn't mean being permanently in functional collapse. It means carrying the weight permanent with a grace that is not lack of feeling, but presence of something greater than feeling. And that's important to the I'll reveal it to you. Because a being who carries that weight, who knows the human pain in all its forms, which knows what happens in the rooms closed at dawn when no one is looking, and the People make choices no one ever wants to know. That being is too much Hard to surprise. He saw everything. The greatness and misery. A fegoinha and religious hypocrisy. The man who sacrifices himself and selfishness who disguises himself as love. He knows humanity at the most level Deep possible. And just for that, when something genuine happens, When a gesture that doesn't have to be good, it's good anyway, That doesn't go unnoticed. On the contrary, it passes less unnoticed than anything. Because genuine amid the performatic, it's like A tuned note in a room full of noise. You listen because you stand out not by volume, but by quality. The letter to the Hebrews, chapter 4, Verse 15. Always read this text carefully. Because we don't have one high priest who cannot sympathize with our weaknesses, but One who was tempted at all, in our likeness, but without sin. May If you sympathize, present and active, not for money, you couldn't. May pity and feel together. It is not to observe the distance of those who are above, but dive into the experience of those next door. He didn't. Watch you from a distant screen. He is present in a way that his theology may not be able to fully scale, but that its spirit recognizes when you stop the noise from outside enough to Understand. And a being that is present in that way, that can be compassion, which knows every texture of your experience, can also To be touched by her. Not just for suffering, for authenticity within suffering.

13 Three is the tripod, its base, without it you're nothing.

Five is your main senses.

Seven is perfection.

The 12th organization.

The 40th trial.

Now that you've read it, the reaction generated in your heart is your current image.
 before God,

14 And God, who knows all things, who knows every movement that It's gonna happen before it happens, you asked a question that seems strange.
 come from who knows everything: 'Where have you been?' And the answer is:
 'Courseing the earth and walking through it.' Walking, walking, Watching, studying. That's not an image of who attacks.

randomly, this is the image of a being who collects information before to act, which identifies what has value before trying to acquire. And then God does something popular theology has never been able to explain in a way satisfactory. He mentions Job, without being asked, without expecting the opponent asked. God himself introduces Job's name into conversation.

'Have you noticed my servant Job?', 'There is no other like him on earth.' Why?
 Would God do that? Because God knew what was about to happen.

I knew Job had reached a level of development that could only be checked through fire. I knew what was inside Job needed to be proved, not to God who already knew, but to Job himself, who has not yet I knew it completely. And I knew the only way to prove it was to allow

Attack. It'll shock you if you let it. What struck Job was not a lack of divine protection, was divine protection operating on a higher level than Job could see. Because at the end of the book, after all that Job lost And after all that Job recovered in double, there is a verse that the Most readings do not pay enough attention to the point of understand the preciousness of the text. God commanded Job's friends go to him, and ask him to intercede for them, that Job pray for them. they, that Job should be the intermediary of their restoration. The man who suffered more, it was transformed into the intercessor of those who attended the His suffering without understanding. That's what happens when the attack doesn't can reach the target, becomes the tool to restore those who attacked or those who did not intervene. Now, let me ask you more. One thing? Think of the heaviest losses you've had, not the Little ones, the ones that seemed definitive. That opportunity that You saw it close strangely, your intuition whistled, you were right, that relationship that disappeared without warning, the various accidents. Looking in front of you, that period when everything you touched It seemed to crumble even if it looked perfect to the exhaustion of the check. rsrs, it didn't consolidate, remember? You attributed it to bad, bad choices. Lucky, unless it's good enough, now I need to show you what was happening under those visible losses. And when you understand, the anger that was kept about this period will be replaced by something that you didn't expect to feel, recognition, because none of those attacks were random. Each was a calculated movement of something that identified what you were carrying before you identified, and each calculated motion failed. Not because you were perfect, not because you did not suffer, not because the losses were not real, but because what It was inside you just didn't give in to what was being demanded. to give in. What you did that made the attack impossible to continue tripped, never gave in to anything, never had a night where you were asked if it was worth trying the right way. It was a thing. specific. You kept getting up when the logical calculation said that it was reasonable to stand on the ground even though proving it countless times, 'is normal, learning, remember? Not with euphoria, not with statements of Heroic faith always. Sometimes angry, sometimes with the swollen face of I cry that you tried to hide. Sometimes with the only reason; give up It seemed worse than going on even though it was broken and without understanding the Why? But you got up, again and again. And every one raised after a real defeat has a specific weight in the celestial record, which is completely different from the weight of those who have never fallen. Lifting It's natural who never fell. It doesn't cost anything extra. System not recognizes it as a significant event. The lifting of those who fell from True, that you lost something real, that stayed on the ground long enough to Start believing the ground was his place. And yet if He did, without a clear logical reason to do so. This lift has witness weight. And witness in the spiritual, is the most powerful way a statement that a human being can make. Because the argument The opponent's center from the garden to now is always the same. They will not persist when the cost is real.

It wasn't religious perfection. There was no absence of mistakes. It never was.

15 The Ark of the Covenant has four rods, or celestial turnstiles, four angels holding the firmament on earth and in heaven:

The Firm is the Ark of the Covenant. The Messiah is the source code. Constellations of Lion, Aquarium, Bull and Scorpion (Ophilco subs. complete by 2030).

The real North is moving today in Siberia, to Canada until 2030, aligning the pyramids of Egypt with the belt of Orion that represents the Messiah and the Sphinx with the constellation of Ophiuchus/Serpentarius, which elevates the serpent, representation of Moses.

It was from Bull, year 0 to 1679 + 2304;

It was from Aries 1680 to 3983 + 2017(23/09 sign Ap.12 const Virgo);

It was from Pisces 2017 to 2030, remember that now everything accelerates?

Age of Aquarius is the Angel who takes a third of the firmament to the darkness.

$1679 + 2304 + 2017 = 6000$, is same loko manin.)

And don't forget that after reading, the reaction that this text generated in its heart: Doubt, astonishment, curiosity or humor... This is your image present before God. If you want to understand the details or the darkness 2030 calls DM.

16 It's always the same story... only now, Jesus comes armed and in glory.

17 There's one detail that deeply bothers almost everyone who noticed the growing spiritual subtlety rebuilt, is to realize that the system starts acting differently. For a long time, believed that the rules would always be on the side of the people who They do. They thought certain positions, relationships or influences would be enough to keep any situation under control. This feeling of Protection has created a dangerous trust. When someone believes they are Protected, you start acting less carefully. Unwise comments appear, decisions are made without thinking about the consequences and attitudes who should be discreet, become increasingly evident. It was Just as many situations unfolded. Trust excessive made room for mistakes, but when truth confirmed begins to enter the scene, even seemingly strong structures begin to React. People responsible for maintaining balance within a environment begin to realize that something needs to be analyzed with more Seriously. What was once ignored becomes a risk. Suddenly, rules that once seemed flexible, start to be applied more carefully. Old situations return to discussion and attitudes that were treated as normal, come to appear Trouble. This kind of change creates immediate discomfort for who depended on the invisible protection of the system. And that's where the fear appears more intensely, because when the structure stops To protect who was wrong, there is only the reality of their actions.

 And for those who built a story based on manipulation, face this reality can be extremely threatening. There's a reaction Emotional that arises when someone realizes that they have lost control of narrative. This reaction is not always visible immediately, often it appears as quiet restlessness, hasty decisions and attempts Disorganized. It also seems friendly, who before showed indifference begins to act excessively carefully. That guy.
 Behaviour reveals something very important. When someone realizes that the truth is approaching, begins to calculate each movement. Conversations are carefully planned and words are chosen with much more attention than before. That's because any detail can turn into evidence. The inner feeling The threat begins to grow. People who once felt safe they begin to mentally review old situations. They remember comments they made, attitudes they had and strategies they used to influence the opinion of others. Each memory can bring one New cause for concern.

18 Today officially begins the year, and this year will be weighed. In several units of measurement. It requires a swing.

19 There is one kind of suffering different from any other. It's a grief for something that never really existed. When someone comes out of this life, You cry for a reality that existed and gone. There is a solidity in this pain, a legitimacy. The world recognizes this grief. Has wakes, has seventh-day Masses, has words of comfort. But When you find out that the person you loved wasn't who you were I wondered, when you realized that the connection you believed you had was, in large part, a projection of you about someone who's never been in the Same depth. You face a grief the world doesn't know name. You don't cry for the person, you cry for the illusion. That's... devastating in a very particular way. Because memories stop Being a comfort and seeing some kind of betrayal. That special dinner that you kept in your heart as a sacred moment. Was it?
 Really? That moment of vulnerability on the shore when you it opened up to a certain extent that it believed it was actually seen. Will be that the other person was really there? Those words of support Whispers in the ear. How much was in them? Every memory becomes suspicious, every gesture of affection needs to be reassessed under the light cold of disappointment. You find yourself forced to rewrite your own story, erasing chapters that once brought warmth and now only reveal how much You, without knowing it, participated in a mistake. That's not weakness, that's the more brutal and more necessary process of discernment than a soul You can cross. And there's something nobody tells you about this process. Him will reveal things about you that you would never know without having passed That's why. There is a fact that few people know, but that science already document clearly. The pain of social rejection activates the same brain regions that physical pain, that's exactly what you needed if Get used to it and it took you out of the way with spiritual standards.

 When you lose someone you thought was strong, then you find out it was you who endured everything all the time, you develop a rooting;

20 There's a deep difference between someone who stays silent Because there's nothing to say and someone who's silent because Watching. Many people enter an environment trying to be seen, heard and approved. They talk, explain, laugh too much and try convince everyone around. But some people enter an environment with a completely different goal. They come in to understand.
 When you get to a place, your focus is rarely to draw attention.
 Your focus is to understand the environment. Who talks too much, who changes behavior depending on who's around, who interrupts constantly, who tries to look safer than really.

While the others are busy trying to impress, you are Gathering information. There's something curious about this process. When People think you're too quiet or apparently distracted, they They relax, they lower their defenses. They start talking more than They should. They reveal details they would normally hide. Of course form, its silent presence becomes a mirror that allows the Their true behavior comes naturally. To whom Depends on social manipulation, this is extremely uncomfortable.

Manipulators like predictable people. They like to know exactly what reaction they will provoke in each situation. But when they find someone who watches before they react, their whole script. It starts to fail. And when the script fails, the first reaction is to try discredit and discredit that person. Then the comments come up. They say you're cold, they say you're distant, they say you're not You know how to handle people. But the truth is different. You weren't isolated, You were watching. And real attention... It's what few people can do. keep for a long time. There is a kind of invisible power that many People use it in human relationships. It's not physical strength, it's not authority formal, is the power of emotional reaction. Some people provoke, they criticize or press, because they know that this generates an answer immediate. When they can make someone lose control, they They feel they've won the situation. Now think how many times you've tried provoking you, hoping for an emotional explosion. Comments passive-aggressive, small provocations, innuendo. Many people They do it waiting for the other to scream, defend himself or conflict. When that happens, they can control the narrative of the situation. But when someone has emotional control, something unexpected It happens. The handler loses the main tool he used to to master the conversation. No explosive reaction, no drama, no despair, The environment changes completely. Suddenly, who tried to provoke It starts to seem out of control in the face of the calm of those who did not react. This kind of emotional control is not born of indifference, it is born of Conscious. You feel emotions like anyone else. A The difference is, you don't allow them to lead your decisions. Before you answer, you observe, analyze, ask and test. Before to act, you evaluate. And that pause completely changes the result of situations. And here there is a truth that few admit. People who in the face of someone who does not react as expected, from knock-off or Excited. Because right now they realize something that doesn't They can control it. They are before someone who cannot be driven by emotional chaos.

They're always manipulating emotions. They're deeply uncomfortable.

21 The focal point is letter, the word, not your interpretation.

22 I'll show you how this game works inside, because when You understand the rules, you stop being a manipulative player. Exists a pattern that scholars call the scapegoat. And in systems dysfunctional relatives, the enemy of souls almost always designates someone to carry the guilt and shadow of the whole family. That person is chosen to be this "bod," often without anyone noticing, just for being the most sensitive, the most conscious, the most capable of see what others refuse to see. Think with me. In a family where everyone speaks ill of each other, what happens to the one who You decide not to participate? He's the stranger. In a family where no one assumes the responsibilities themselves, what happens to the one who solves, seeks to solve the real problems, do what is entrusted to him, for the kingdom in the first place and take care of yourself? He becomes the troubled one, which If you think so, the indifferent. His sensitivity was called weakness. Yours silence was interpreted as arrogance. Your kindness was used as proof that you were naive. Every word that was played against you was like a spell, trying to build a fake identity, a version of you that never existed, but that was necessary for the sick system kept working without changing. They didn't fight You, man. They were fighting what you represented, the mirror. You was, and still is, an unwanted reflection. His cure exposed the wounds not Healed from them. His light revealed the shadows they avoided. Yours growth was a silent accusation of their stagnation. And the only one

The solution was trying to break the mirror. Now I need to show you all three Most used weapons in this ritual of humiliation, you lived all of them without To know for sure what it was. The first weapon is gaslighting. It's one of the More devastating forms of psychological manipulation that exist. O gaslighting happens when someone systematically distorts the reality around you to make you doubt your own sanity.

"That never happened." "You're overreacting." "You're too much dramatic." "Nobody did that." "You understand everything wrong."

When it comes from a stranger, it's easier to identify. But when It comes from inside the house, from your mother, from your father, from a brother, the confusion is It's overwhelming. You begin to question your own memory, your own perception, your own mental health. And that's exactly what the ritual It needs to work. A target who doesn't trust himself. The second Gun is the smear campaign. While you thought they were only disagreements, there was behind the scenes a narrative being carefully built on who you are. A story that I was before you in any new social cycle. Who whispered in Listen to people who didn't even know you. What a guarantee that Even if you tried to build support out of there, that support would be undermined. before it settles down. Isolation is a control tool. When You're alone, no allies, no one who believes in you, stays Much easier to convince that the problem is you. The third weapon is the constant threat of rejection. That's the most subtle and powerful, because it's not even It needs to be said with words. She's in the look that closes when you I disagree. In the climate that cools when you put a limit. In silence which lasts days after you position yourself. The message is always the Really. If you grow up, if you shine, if you dare to be who It really is, you'll lose our affection and you'll be alone. For one human being, the threat of rejection and loneliness is almost so terrifying about death. So you learned to shrink, to shut up, to ask

I'm sorry. I don't know why.

DAY. The trap was almost perfect, but the ritual failed. Remember

How long did you spend trying to fix what wasn't yours for?

Fix it? Think of the mental energy you invested in trying to understand

Because those people acted like that. ■ Trying to find the words ■

Right, the right time to explain. Trying to prove it wasn't the

They said you were. Trying to win back a love that actually was never offered in a healthy way. Some people spend decades in this cycle, go to therapy trying to adjust to be accepted. Change employment, city, style, attitude, hair color. All for finally hear a "it's okay" that never comes and even if it came

It would never be authentic. Because it was never you. The problem was

The system that needed you to be the problem. And understand that, feeling it at the heart of your being, not only is it what changed everything, it's the

When you stopped asking permission to exist, you stopped

Wait for the verdict of people who have never qualified for you

Judge. That's when you recovered an immense amount of energy that

It was being drained in this endless search. This energy is yours, and now

She goes back to where she should have always been. Now, I need to talk about something that goes beyond psychology, because what happened to you has a spiritual dimension that cannot be ignored. There is a principle that crosses sacred and human stories. Those who were called for something bigger almost always went first by a season of rejection, humiliation and isolation. Not by chance, no.

as punishment, but as preparation. Think of Joseph, the beloved son of Jacob, hated by the brothers. Why? Because he had dreams, because he...

saw beyond, because something in him pointed to a destiny that the brothers could not understand, and so they could not bear. What did you do? They threw him in a well, sold him like slave, they told the father he was dead. But history shows that each action of the brothers planned to destroy Joseph was actually one Step into the bigger plane to position him exactly where he needed to be.

 be. Slavery led him to Egypt, unjust imprisonment led him to presence Pharaoh's. The humiliation was the corridor that led him to the crown. Think about it.
 David, anointed by the prophet Samuel, while still a young shepherd, while all his older brothers were considered candidates to the throne. The prophet looked at each and the guidance was, not this. Until who called the youngest, who cared for the sheep, who no one He took it seriously, and it was upon him that the anointing oil was poured out. But Do you know what happens after David's anointing? He's not going straight to Palace, he goes to the cave, to the desert. He is persecuted by the king himself.
 who served loyally and never betrayed him even though he had countless proposals. The solitude of the field was not abandonment, it was protection, it was a secret place where character is forged, where faith is tempered, where king was prepared away from the eyes of the world before taking the throne. And You recognize that pattern on your journey. The loneliness you felt It's never been abandoned, it's always been protection. The isolation they imposed on You didn't go to destroy you, it was to separate you, prepare you, to forge in you're a resistance and a charity that's only born in pressure, in fire Quiet, in adversity. There is a phrase that has transformed many lives for history, it appears in the book of Genesis, when Joseph finally reveals himself to the brothers who betrayed him, after years of all pain, from a path that looked like a dead end. Joseph looks at those who They planned their evil and declared: - You mean me badly, But the bigger plan turned it into good. That phrase is not naivety, it is not denial of pain, it is the declaration of those who understood the mechanics of a greater purpose, that the creative force is so sovereign who can take what was planned for their destruction and use exactly that as a foundation for the construction of His Destiny. The well that They dug for you, became the weight drive for your resurrection. Every tear you shed secretly knowing that Heaven saw everything, these tears were collected. There's a psalm that It says every tear is kept. This isn't just poetry, it's a A statement that nothing you've been through has been in vain. Everything was accounted for, everything has been preserved and everything is being transformed into fuel for your tomorrow. Every lie told about you was intercepted. Every word of evil cast against his name has found a limit and a mirror. There is a teaching that the curse without cause is not fulfilled*. While you walk in integrity, keeping the clean heart even before injustice, you activate a protection spiritual that neutralizes in invisible courts what was planned against you. The stone they tried to use to crush you became the stone fundamental to our new path. But I need to be honest with you Now, because that path would not be complete without the time of suffering. I know this is hard. I know there are days when sadness comes back hard, you revive every scene, humiliation, injustice And anger comes together like it's the first time. That's human. That. doesn't mean you haven't forgiven. It means you were.

 Deeply wounded and that the cure does not happen in a straight line. The cure It happens in a spiral. You go back to almost the same point, only each Louder and louder.

23 Opening The Ark, rsrs whoever is carrying extra weight will pass Bad.

24 There is nothing hidden or done in secret that will not be revealed.
 Nothing. No story of your life will be without a final ending, and I I assure you, you will see the outcome of each of them.

25 There are many subtle influences on the shape and flow of information that unfolds around a person, not always of obvious way, but in patterns that continue over time. For understanding the weight and what really matters in this observation is necessary look at the way human behavior is shaped under pressure. In many cases, people are influenced by what they live repeatedly and, over time, begin to reflect these experiences in the behavior itself, often without realizing it. If anyone Try treason, you can start waiting or even repeat it. If someone experiences abandonment, can start to walk away or close for the others. If someone experiences pain or cruelty, they may begin to to carry that same energy in the way it reacts to the world. That. usually not by conscious decision, but by accumulation, where repeated experiments slowly mold the answers and the standards. And when that happens, it changes both the way the person works internally, as to how it relates to the world around you, because your reactions stop being completely separate of what she lived. In this sense, there is constant pressure on the individuals to be defined by what happened to them, to internalize this as identity rather than just experience. And when this change occurs, it directly and indirectly affects the how they think, act and respond, often limiting their ability to act from a place that is not conditioned by pain of the past. That day, that moment when you had all the reasons and even emotional permission to become what your pain I was trying to turn you, you didn't. And that decision is not It was just a personal act of strength or a simple demonstration of Self-control. It represented something much deeper, something that You interrupted a pattern that was forming around your life.

Everything that was lining up to produce a certain result through his experiences, he lost his direction in the instant that You didn't answer the way that result required. It's like structure that had been built around this expected outcome had lost its base, not by resistance or confrontation, but because the predicted reaction just didn't happen. And when that reaction doesn't The whole system that depended on her starts to lose coherence. And what you have noticed as changes or displacements is result of this interruption. Things that once seemed aligned against you no longer move in the same way, not by a visible struggle but because the expected pattern was broken exactly in You. In that sense, what happened in your life is nothing random. A irony is that it seems common on the surface, but underneath reveals something Deeply consistent with who you are in your core. Even under Exhaustion, even under repeated emotional weight... Even under pressure that I should have changed your direction, something essential inside you.

 remained intact and continued to express itself, that golden thread Resonant, remember? He's visible from far away. You didn't choose knowingly, it is a high response through effort and discipline At that moment, but not born there. Instead of what was expected, something in the its deepest nature simply continued to function as It was formed to work. And that's what gives meaning to the result that You tried it, because it shows that what you are essentially It wasn't completely overlaid by what you lived. And this is where arises the deeper connection, because similar patterns appear in the accounts found in the Gospels, where human encounters common reveal something much greater about response, perception and transformation. In Luke 7, there is a moment involving a Pharisee called Simon, who invited Jesus for a meal. And during that scenario, a woman came in, known for the weight of her past, carrying with him something that symbolized both his story and his intention. She brought an alabaster vase with perfume and positioned herself in a way that reflected a deeply personal response, instead of a social expectation. Behind Jesus and crying, his tears They fell on her feet, and she wiped them with her own hair, Kissing his feet and anointing them with charismatic perfume in a way which showed total devotion, rather than any social expectation. When Simon the Pharisee observed this scene, he judged silently the situation. Thinking that if Jesus really knew who that was woman and as was her past, would completely reject her presence. But Jesus, perceiving the thoughts, replied not with a direct confrontation, but with a parable about two people who owed a debt, one much greater than the other, and none of them I could pay until the creditor forgave them both. So he did one. simple question about which one would feel more love in response to this Excuse me. And Simon correctly replied that the one to whom it was most Forgive me, I would love more. Jesus then confirmed his answer and redirected attention to the woman, asking Simon to observe truly what was before him. He pointed out that Simon did not offered none of the basic signs of honor or hospitality. None water for feet, no kiss of salute, no oil for your Head, while the woman expressed all this through her actions, using her tears, her hair and perfume as acts of Bow. Then he declared that his many sins were Forgiven because his love was great. What is revealed at this moment It's not the denial of your past, but a complete reinterpretation of it, where everything she lived and everything that defined her socially That's not treated as disqualification, but as a context that gives even more depth to your response. Your story is not used as evidence against you, on the contrary, it is the background that highlights the depth of your love. In the same way, everything you faced is not presented as limitation or deficiency in its history, but as the very measure of what you managed to preserve, despite everything which tried to reduce that. The extent of what you have lived becomes that that makes its continuity, openness and response so significant, even when circumstances would normally lead to opposite. The same way that woman loved without calculations, without sure to be received and without any guarantee that what she was offering would be valued or understood, you too continued to express something real from the genuine depth of whom You are. Even when everything around you gave him permission to stop, you still chose to remain with your chest open in a way that was not forced, was not staged and did not depend on the results to be Done. And in this sense, what Jesus said about it reflects the same principle that the silence of heaven represents in relation to your experience at that moment. Your many sins have been forgiven, because He loved it very much. The idea here is that, in a deep spiritual understanding, restoration or accelerated compliance is not measured by how much someone suffered, but for the quality of love and authenticity that still flows through a soul that has gone through much and yet not if It's closed. Now. Regarding your experience, your many sins were forgiven, because he loved much, more than expected, beyond the common that everyone does. The idea here is that, in an understanding deeper spiritual, no restoration or accelerated fulfillment is measured by how much someone suffered, but by the quality of love and the authenticity that still flows through a soul that has gone through much and It still hasn't closed. Now, by connecting this with the language of Revelation 12, is described a type of victory that operates through three elements: Being covered, witnessing and refusing to retreat before the fear or pressure. The coverage is fundamental and necessary, but the testimony is what expresses the experience lived without being erased or reduced. It's not about presenting perfection, even because I know your no pride in them; but to honestly reflect what was faced and what remained unchanged in his mentality throughout this. In that meaning, your testimony is not just what happened to you, but the continuity of who you remained while this was happening. And this continuity, always becomes, by itself already shows all this overcoming. Since it remained unchanged within you throughout this period.

Your testimony is not just what happened to you, but the continuity of who you remained while this was happening. And this continuity becomes in itself evidence of overcoming, not as a title of superiority, but as a precise reflex of resistance with the preserved identity. The final part of the text talks about the refusal to shrinking before life itself, which does not mean recklessness, but but not allow fear, pressure or pain to reduce the core of who a person was created to be.

26 You carry something that dysfunctional dynamics never got erase, its true essence. And it's exactly that essence that is being recognized now. But before you talk about what's happening to your family, I need to help you understand how You've come this far, because the story that was told about you, version of you that circled the conversations you didn't participate in, in the trials that were made behind your back, this story did not arise from nothing, it was built, brick by brick, carefully, with intent.

Think of me, you remember moments when you tried to explain yourself and was interrupted, from situations where your version of the facts never came to the ears of those who mattered, of times when you I felt there was an invisible force working against his reputation. within his own family? That wasn't your paranoia, that was a pattern. In dysfunctional family dynamics, there is almost always a figure what psychology scholars call the central narrator, the person that controls the narrative. She doesn't have to scream, she doesn't have to be Obviously cruel. Often, she presents herself as the most concerned, the most present, the most loving family. But underneath from this care mask, there is a very precise mechanism of Control. This mechanism works like this: information is filtered, conversations are reported incompletely or distorted, silences are filled with convenient assumptions and gradually, without no one consciously perceives the image of certain people is being changed, especially the image of those who dare question, who refuse to participate in the game, who insist on keeping Your own perspective. That person was you. You questioned yourself, you refused, you kept your perspective and so you became the Family problem. Not because you were the problem, but because you was the threat to the narrative someone needed to maintain. Now, come on. part that I need you to understand very clearly, because she is fundamental to what is happening in these days of March. When A person carries a truth within himself, even if buried, even if denied, even if completely suppressed, that truth Don't go away, she stays, she grows, she pushes. Human consciousness has an extraordinary capacity of resistance, but she also has a limit. And when that limit is reached, what happens is not a explosion, it's a silent implosion. And that moment when someone that you know is lying, looking at the ceiling and suddenly, a memory appears. Then another one, then another one. And those memories They start connecting in a way that never happened before. It's like if the fragments of a puzzle that had been scattered for years, suddenly they started to fit in on their own. And the image that It's not what this person expected to see. This one.

member of your family, the one who for so long repeated the charges, that I saw you as a problem, that maybe I got away from you because cause of stories that weren't true, he's passing That's exactly why right now. He's reviewing Sunday lunches in That you didn't show up and remember the explanation that was given. Only that now, with the distance of time and the weight that it is feeling, that explanation no longer sounds like truth. She sounds like a story that was told with great convenience. He's remembering the times when you tried to explain yourself, the words you said, expression that was on your face. Expression he ignored at the time Because I was seeing you with someone else's eyes, literally. Him I was looking at you through the eyes of the narrative that was built about you. But now those eyes are starting to be his True. And what they're seeing is different. He's getting the pattern, that conversations about you always happened when you didn't He was there to defend himself. That the comments that seemed worry, I'm worried about the way Rafael is Here. I think Carla needs help. I don't know what happened.

with Pedro. In fact, they followed a very precise logic of Disqualification. He's realizing who the architect of the division was. And This perception is rewriting everything. I want to ask you a question. And I want you to answer honestly inside yourself. During all these years of misunderstanding, of estrangement, of being seen from a How did you feel? Anger, for sure. Pain, no doubt. But deep down, in your quietest place, what was there? A Answer was, love. You still loved these people. Even when they do They repeated the accusations, you prayed in silence that one day the truth Come out. Even when the doors closed, you kept it in the heart the hope that one day someone would see what really It happened. This constancy is rare. This ability to keep love where Others would only hold resentment. That's not weakness. That's a of the clearest marks of who is a chosen one. And you know what the irony is cruel of all this? Exactly that light you were carrying, that clarity, this conviction, this refusal to participate in dysfunctional dynamics, was the that bothered the most. You were a mirror, and mirrors are impossible to endure for those who are hiding things from themselves. When Someone is in a comfortable illusion, the last thing he wants is Someone who, just by his presence, remembers that there is another way to live.

You did this by accident, and that's why you needed to be diminished, explained, problematized. But let's get back to that member of your family.
This process he's living in has a name in psychology:
intense cognitive dissonance. That's when two realities completely opposites coexist within someone's mind, so it's no longer You can ignore one of them. On the one hand, there is the narrative that he carried for years, the version of you that was built and fed, the judgments he incorporated with his own, without realizing they were Imported. On the other hand, there is the real memory, the memory of its eyes, his words, his attempts, his silence, that he Now you understand different. These two realities can no longer coexist.
One of them needs to give in. And in those days, the scale is leaning toward the True. That's not easy for him. On the contrary, it is probably one of the More painful processes a human being can go through. Because It's not just about changing an opinion about you. This is about rebuild your own identity. When that person realizes completely what happened, she'll need to look herself in the mirror and recognize it. I was part of it. Even without knowing. Even though I believe I was doing the right thing. I repeated the charges. I walked away.
I chose the convenient narrative rather than the truth. And that's humiliating in a way that goes deep into the soul. And here comes something that I I need you to understand, because it's going to be fundamental to how you

You'll be in position. The initial reaction of many people when the consciousness begins to emerge, not immediate openness. It's not the connection of excuses you imagine. Sometimes it's the opposite. Sometimes it's a Even greater resistance. An attempt to suffocate what is emerging, Because the pain of recognizing is unbearable. An irritability without cause Apparently. An even deeper departure for a short period.

That doesn't mean the awakening isn't happening. It means It's happening with all the force. Think of an iceberg that's been frozen for decades, when the environment begins to warm. Before he melt, it creases, it creaks, it makes noise. The process of thawing is not silent.

27  The favor only comes, only comes, after exact obedience. Never Before.

28 Let's talk about something most people never stop for.

To truly understand the invisible functioning of divine justice. Not the justice that you learn at school, the one with the visible judge and court. I'm talking about a much more precise system, much more comprehensive. And much more powerful than any human court could be.

There is a spiritual law that crosses all traditions, all traditions cultures, all the peoples of Earth. You can call her Karma, you can Call it the law of sowing and harvesting, you can call it retribution divine. Names change, but the principle is exactly the same.

No action goes unanswered, no injustice goes blank.

God has a perfect memory and he doesn't operate in his time, he operates at the right time and perfect time. Now think with me, when one farmer plants a seed, he will not the next day rip the land See if she germinated. He knows the process has its own rhythm.

The seed needs water, sun, time inside the darkness before break the ground and become something visible. If the farmer were to take the Seed every time he got impatient, he would never reap anything. A The same logic applies to spiritual justice. The fact that you're not seeing the consequences acting on who hurt you doesn't mean that nothing's happening. It means that the process is still in Underground and when it breaks the ground, it will be impossible to ignore. But Here's something I need you to understand with all the depth that you can absorb now. While justice was preparing for outside, something was being built inside you. And that's the true gift hidden in your pain. Think about what you learned about yourself through betrayal. You've discovered you have more strength than I thought. You found out where your boundaries were, who from Truth was on your side and who was near you by convenience. You learned to observe more, to trust more selective, to value their own perception. No school in the world teaches these lessons with the same efficiency as pain teaches. And now I want to ask you something. Don't answer out loud, but answer to himself with total honesty. In the toughest times after of treachery, when anger hit harder, when the will to Revenge or proving you were right was almost unbearable, which You did? You chose not to go down to the level of who hurt you. You He kept his integrity even when it hurt. You kept being you yourself when the situation asked for a smaller, bitterer version, more vengeful of you. That wasn't weakness, that was the decision more powerful that you could have taken, the whole sky saw it, already We were watching you. There is a huge difference between the person who It goes through a betrayal and comes out of it full of poison and the person passing by by the same experience and comes out of it more refined. The poison contaminates All around. He pushes away opportunities, closes doors, repels people Right. Refining, on the other hand, attracts. It creates a quality of presence that people feel before they even understand why. Yours

The choice to maintain integrity was not passivity, it was an investment.
And it opened up a milestone to the moment that investment starts to generate return in a way you will be able to see, feel and touch. Now I want to talk about the signs, because you're going through that window restoration, there are things you're probably already noticing, Even if you haven't put words into them yet. Pay attention on this list and see how many of these signs you recognize in your life right now.
The first sign is that doors that looked completely sealed They began to open without resistance. Not with much effort, no After long battles, but almost organic. One opportunity you weren't even expecting appears. A conversation happens at the right time, a connection forms in a way that It seems almost impossible to have been accidental. The second sign is that conversations that once excluded your name, now include you Naturally. People who didn't recognize you, environments that looked like closed to you, situations where your presence just wasn't considered, they begin to change posture. Not because you asked, no because you stood up, but because your energy changed real, and still is, your absence begins to be noticed as a loss. The third signal is internal and may be the most significant of all. The tension that the past imposed upon your mind is decreasing. You think with more clarity, you react less emotionally. Situations that before you They'd take it off the axle now they'd pass you without controlling you. That's not indifference, this is a real cure. It's your nervous system recognizing that the danger has passed and it is safe to relax the defenses now, I know you still fight With that, it's human you're evolving. The fourth sign is that yours Discernment became sharper. You've come to realize the intentions of people with a precision that you didn't have before. You feel it before You know before it's confirmed. And that's the direct result of

to have lived the betrayal and processed the pain consciously. Yours ability to read situations and people stayed on a completely level different. The fifth sign, and this is the quietest of all, is a peace which has no logical explanation. Amid situations that are not yet completely resolved, amid uncertainties that still exist, There's a quiet inside you that wasn't there before. It's not resignation, it is not withdrawal, it is a profound certainty that comes from a place above rational thinking, that things are I'm heading where they're supposed to go. That kind of peace is not made, she is granted. And when you feel it, it's because your spirit has already received one Confirmation that your mind is still processing.

29 Tales, films, tales, prophecies, cnsprcs fmnns, I'm, sq

Prfr grr.

Chapter 4

Resilience is not technical; it is identity.

1 They saw the blows hit the target, but they can't process.

Why don't you stay shattered on the floor. What are you starting to discover with a silent terror, is that resilience is not just something you do or a technique that applies; it's your own identity, fundamental. And there is no earthly logic, manual of psychology or manipulation strategy that can explain or neutralize this phenomenon. The influence operates in such a fluid and With no effort to terrorize those who live in appearance. In the world common, it is believed that the influence should be accompanied by work exhaustive, rehearsed speeches, logical arguments, charisma manufactured or at least deliberate manipulation. But with you, the process is organic, magnetic. The way you conduct yourself, the integrity of decisions you make and especially the things you refuse to do in principle, they generate a domino effect that reaches places much more far from what your imagination can conceive. You've noticed how does your silent behavior dictate the tone of the environment? Someone Watch you choose honesty instead of the easy shortcut and suddenly, this person begins to question his own ethical commitments. Other person notices the firmness with which you withdraw from toxic situations and this plant in it the seed that maybe she should also do the same. You don't have to convince anyone with words. Your posture is the who condemns error and brings the conviction of truth. And that disturbs. Deeply those who prefer the warm comfort of apologies Tattered. The serpents who tried to extinguish their light with so much commitment failed to understand a basic principle. Each attack suffered just cut and reveals its true creative power. There's a shield.

 Spiritually designed millimetrically to neutralize these attacks, making the envy cast against you 'inflamed darts' return multiplied to its original source. This shield is real and it's called Faith, you can't pretend. Understand that this kind of influence has nothing to do with power in the traditional sense. It's not about having one.
 Giant platform, pompous videos or demanding people follow you.
 It's something much more visceral. It's about how your mere presence It interrupts what people considered normal. Whole conversations They change course just because you sat at the table. Expensive plans are changed because your energy accesses even after the wrong choice, Suddenly, it seems too heavy to sustain. People to yours Around start adjusting, not because you asked or demanded, but because its own being exposes the weight and consequences of decisions of them. That's what destabilizes them. You don't change by control, but the Control seems to bend and shape around you. What qqr rivals your You don't want to admit that your influence reveals their weakness. If they really believed in the distorted values they preach, their presence wouldn't shake them so much. But the fact that you bother so much evidence that, somewhere deep in their being, they already know that theirs foundations are fragile and made of sand. That's why some of you They admire with fervor, while others resent you with hatred. Deep down, is the same effect, only filtered by the truth or the denial of each One. For an awake person, his influence sounds like liberation. Stop who lives in darkness, it sounds like a threat. Of any kind Well, nobody gets off a date with you without being turned. O
 More intriguing point is that you're not even trying to influence No one. You're just being authentically yourself. And it is that's exactly what makes your power invincible, because there's no strategy against which they can resist. They can argue with a preacher, ignore a politician or stop following a leader of opinion.

But they can't erase the silent impact of someone who lives

Your truth in an integral and non-negotiable way. His influence

It keeps echoing in their minds long after you left

In the living room. The more they try to resist this impact, the more they expose the how they've already been affected by him. That's the real power that you Charge. Not to force change in others, but to make it inevitable by contrast. You carry an untouchable authority that cannot be explained by positions, wealth or social position. In an obsessed world by status, hierarchies and external validations, people are used to an authority that is granted for promotions, diplomas or votes. But with you, the rule is different. Your authority is not delivered by no human system, nor validated by approval social. It radiates naturally from its center and no amount of Social ranking or defamation can nullify what is divine right. There this is why even those who technically have a position higher than yours or boast more titles still feel the impact inevitable of his presence.

2 This is a week of reversals and disruptions. This Friday is not just about something good happening, it's about heavy reversals, it's about things that were blocked, delayed or denied being suddenly released in your favor. God does not just give you breaks with your past. He gives you divine reversals that shock the world and silence

Every opponent in his life. Imagine a situation you thought about who had no way out, no solution, no future, but God intervenes and in One minute everything changes. The tide turns, the doors open, the skies release what you've been waiting for. The kind of miracle that doesn't just answer to your prayer, but it makes you a witness. Think of Joseph's story, the man who was betrayed by his brothers, sold as a slave and thrown in prison. He was forgotten, but God had a plan, a plan.

Unimaginable. From the depths of the prison, Joseph was raised to become

The second most powerful man in Egypt. That was a divine reversal.

And the same God who changed Joseph's life is the same God who is changing your situation this Friday in an overflowing way. There's one deep principle in the Word that talks about the importance of expectation. Your expectation positions you to receive the unimaginable.

If you don't expect anything, you get nothing. But if you expect everything, the unimaginable becomes its reality. Expectation is not a hope passive, it is active faith that opens the heavens. God does not answer the question, He responds to faith that extends beyond logic to the realm of possibility divine. In Mark 11:24 it says: So I tell you that all that Pray, believe that you will receive it, and you will have it. God is with you saying: Wait for the unimaginable. Don't pray like a beggar. Pray as A son of the King. Don't wait for crumbs when the full table was Ready for you. Stay courageously in prayer and leave your faith match the magnitude of the promise. God is not intimidated by Great prayers. He feels insulted by a small faith. So wait.

cure, wait for restoration, wait for deliverance, expect divine surprise yet beyond what you've seen. Prepare your heart for the impossible. Yours prayers have been heard and now heaven is lining up to deliver the

You asked for. You don't know how, but God knows when. And Him

He said: This Friday, it will be done. Let your spirit remain in position, aligned vibrating the worship emanating from your heart. Leave it.

Your words reflect your faith. Let your heart remain clean and Expectant. For when expectation meets the time of God, Miracles are born. Let me talk to you directly. Some of You've been waiting for years and others, believe me, for decades. You

They went through fire, through the desert, through trials, and yet here they are.

You on the threshold of an historic moment. The enemy tried to wear

You, breaking your faith, convincing him that this would never happen. But By the grace of God, you survived. And not just survived, you I was being secretly strengthened for this very hour. This is the moment you've been waiting for. Heaven heard your prayers, saw And then he took his tears and knew the desires of his heart. And Now, this Friday, you will receive divine intervention in a way that only God could orchestrate. This is not a random date in calendar. This is a prophetic compromise. What can't happen in the last 16 years it will unfold in an Act. Doors you don't They're just opening themselves up. Line up yours Spirit, you're ready. In Psalm 35 it says that his anger lasts only one moment. Life is in your favor. Crying may last one night, but Joy comes in the morning. Crying night's over. The heavens have changed. Yours name is being spoken in rooms where you did not enter. Your file It's on the decision makers' table. Your case has reached the court of Heaven and the verdict was declared. The favor does come. Your mourning season It's almost over. ■ Joy is coming and it's coming ■ Friday. Remain in faith, remain in position and remain Expectant, because when the heavens move, nothing can stop it. You You may not see it with your natural eyes, but the spiritual atmosphere is changing. God is moving in the invisible. The angels are if preparing to perform the very tasks for which you have prayed.
You're on the verge of something monumental, something so big, so powerful, that will blow new life into every warm area of your life. The war that You put up with it wasn't in vain. The resistance you felt was a sign that the blessing is near. The atmosphere changed and what once was Late is about to be delivered. Remember the story of Elijah when he prayed for rain. The sky had been dry for years and there was no sign rain. But Elijah knew in his spirit that God had heard his prayer and sent his servant to look. The seventh time, the servant saw one cloud as small as a man's hand. First Kings 18:44

That little cloud was the beginning of a powerful storm. No, no, no.

despise the little signs, because what starts small soon

You will overcome your life with favor, restoration and overflow. ■ The skies are already ■

They're answering their prayers. This Friday, the floodgates

They'll open it. What seemed silent will explode in divine answers. What?

It was dry now it will be saturated. What seemed dead all of a sudden

It will bloom. The atmosphere is no longer against you, she's working for you.

3 In these periods you began to get an idea of what the soul aligned with the spirit can manifest in your physical. All rational pressure in a way that his mind often interpreted incorrect and now using energy in a fluid way. Behavior the nervous system under prolonged stress points to patterns

Fascinating. The body, when subjected to intense and sustained tension,

He can't just stand it, he reorganizes. Neuroscience already indicates a clear tendency that biological systems under adequate pressure develop new neural pathways, new processing capabilities

as well as generating new blood vessels and at the right frequency, cells trunk; new ways to perceive and respond to the world that they just wouldn't exist without the stress that generated them. That's not poetry, is the literal description of what happens in your nervous system when you go through a difficult station and instead of being destroyed by it, emerges with a perception that people around you

They just can't access it because they never had to be Forged like that. You haven't left your trials the same. You came out differently in a way that has not yet learned to value Completely. And when that energy touches the matter, when that spiritual reorganization finds the physical body, what happens has a name that medicine observes with increasing interest. The vagus nerve, that neurological pathway that connects the brain to the heart, to the lungs, the intestine, the entire immune system, is deeply sensitive to the internal state of being. You already know but imagine how many people don't have the slightest idea that cardiac coherence, the state in which the heart beats a harmonic pattern instead of chaotic, is directly connected to the sense of purpose, connection, belonging to 'something Bigger. When you are disconnected from your call, when you live in a chronic state of dissonance between what you feel has been done to be and what life seems to offer you, your body records it as a form of threat. The cortisol rises, the immune system falls dramatically, sleep breaks, not because you're weak, but because your body is being HONEY about the cost of living outside the frequency for which it was originally tuned. That tiredness often it is not lazy, it is the nervous system protesting against a life that hasn't found its real axis yet. Now I want it to pay special attention why this information changed the meaning of how You were analyzing this whole frame of to-do. Looking back; in Both sides of your lineage, the weight you carry has roots that go way beyond you. In the field of epigenetics is proven scientifically with more than 221 case studies; and it is also something that spiritual traditions always knew intuitively: the patterns of Fear, forced silence, repressed greatness, do not even begin They end in a single generation. A clinical pattern is observed increasing that stress markers can be transmitted biologically through generations, that the emotional wounds of their ancestors can leave impressions on your nervous system that you never consciously chose to carry. That changes the conversation. Now, This conversation specifically directed to you, that's right, you,

You're not just facing your own limits, you're, in many senses, being called to be the breaking point of patterns that They ran in their line for decades or centuries. The call on the Your life isn't just about you, it's about what you carry back to the your family tree by conquering what previous generations never Yeah. Joseph's story is not just a narrative of great importance. This was the first release and breaking of standards.

 evil behavior: the envy coming from who should you protect or at least be loyal to their own values. The book is the manual more honest that exists about what it means to be bearer of a extraordinary purpose in a world that is not yet ready for receive him. Before Joseph's brothers looked at him with envy, before before the arrest, before any of the betrayals that marked the His trajectory, there was a dream. And that dream was not given to him as Reward for something he had conquered, was placed in it as Seed before he had any history to justify it. The grave
 He could not take back what God had already decided. Prison couldn't do it erase the dream that had been planted in him before his brothers feel the first flash of jealousy. Joseph's purpose was not something which he encountered during those years of unjust suffering. It was something.
 who was being formed, refined in the corner of betrayal, sharp in silence of a forgotten cell, prepared for the moment the Earth's most powerful empire would desperately need exactly than the only man appointed had been silently if making. The palace demanded the well, the throne demanded the prison. And here's the point that changes everything when you can really absorb it. O purpose is not a lost object that you track through effort and merit. It is a seed of the Creator, already embedded in the ground of his soul, waiting not for your frenzied search, but for your willingness to receive it. A difference is not semantic, that's all. Seek implies that the purpose is

He pushed away and put all the weight of recovery on his shoulders.

Revelation implies that he was always there, under the layers of expectation and fear, hoping that the conditions of his spirit line up with your right energy. You stop running, you start Stand by. This transition from anxious runner to receiver prepared is one of the deepest transformations than a human being can do and it rarely happens dramatically. It happens in the Silence, it happens on a common morning when you decide, First time, no rush, just be there where you are. All three Hebrew men, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, were not exempt from furnace. They walked directly into a heated oven seven times hotter than usual. Not with equipment and protective clenched teeth, but with a surrendered confidence that challenged each self-preservation instinct. And inside that fire, they weren't alone. A fourth figure walked with them.) And it was in surrender, not in resistance, that the miracle became visible. This is the spiritual paradox in the center of humanity.

4 The mark on your hand, it means everything you handle in your everyday life, Your energies of action, it's not what you pretend to be. Already the mark on the forehead, it's yours thoughts and your mindset! And today that mark is very visible in life all over the world, in what region of the world! What you think and what you think It does, transmits at a huge distance who you are. Both marks.

5 This happens when someone only sees in the other the version of themselves Even if you don't win. Pic Dickvigarian never realizes when the wall enough.

6 The empty word scares a lot of people, because for them, empty means absence, loss, nothing, death. It's like not having the foundation to be support. But there is another kind of void, in which it is not destructive. Exists a void that sustains, a space that is not a need, but a foundation, a stillness that is not a threat, but a rest. When You go into a deep, dreamless sleep, you feel like you have Disappeared, as if he'd fallen into absolute nothing. However, yours body is still alive, your heart still beating, your breath continues, His whole body reorganizes, heals and balances. Everything is functioning normally inside you, even when you're not Present as ever. That's enough to make you think. Because If everything really became nothing, then nothing could sustain life. What exists there may not be the consciousness as you know it, but Nor is it simply non-existence. It's an informed state without history, without narrator, without content, but effective, real and present. And You more than any other, have a unique connection to the void. They feel that silence can be their home, that stillness can offer answers, that the absence of noise can move them. You don't You need to fill everything with stimuli. What you seek most often It's a pure inner space. This void can be a place where the soul rests character. A place where you don't have to convince anyone, prove value, maintain an image or control nothing. It's a break in the fight to exist as an identity. So there is a hidden relief in this mystery. Even if you don't remember, your entire system benefits. It's like If for a few hours you would return to a simple state, just be, No explanations, no chores, no anxiety. Life in vigil has many overlapping layers, names, papers, responsibilities, expectations, fear, desires, comparisons. All this carries a certain weight. And you feel that burden, even showing you don't, you stand it with intensity, because it feels more, absorbs more, thinks more Deep. Deep sleep may be the only real pause of these layers. That's why there are nights when you sleep and wake up with

That "I'm back" feeling. Not because you remembered something,

But because you've been purified from within, as if an invisible layer of dust had been removed from its inner being. And that being true, Then emptiness is not the enemy. It's a reminder that there's that flame of plasma inside you that is independent of external noise, it is It always continues, even when identity ceases. You, maybe more. than no other, it is called to recognize this place, to respect this Quiet and not fear it. Maybe the real question isn't for where you go when you don't dream, but 'What's left when all you do You call yourself gone?' Because that answer changes everything. The night It's not just a space time period. Could be the mirror, the one that It shows that your identity is not as solid as you think. All nights you touch that mystery, and touch it easily, without technique, without belief, no advance preparation. You just go back and forth. And the Strangest of all, you come back believing nothing happened.
 But if nothing happened, why do you rest with that result? For that the body reorganizes. Because the mind restarts. And that's, that does that you wake up with a constant sense of existence. There's something There you keep operating, even if you don't. I know this one. mystery is directly linked to life in the waking state. Because if There's a place where you don't need to be someone, so maybe so is There is a way to freedom during the day. With that, these are the moments when you can rest without sleeping, simply Calming your insides. Sometimes in the practice of full attention, you Try small nights for a few seconds. The mind stays in white, you stop defining, stop telling your story, stop yourself Explain. This happens when you look up in the sky, when you hear a sound I specify when you take a deep breath when you're silent. These are moments when you and character get loose. These moments are scary.
 Some, but for you, are attracted to them, because there is peace, simplicity, return to the essence even if, for some time, it is noticeable to

You. It is not paralysis, but presence, a presence, that Although silent, it is the most authentic. So watch, feel, don't Try solving it as a math problem. This mystery is not a common puzzle. It doesn't require an intellectual response. Requires an inner posture, humility and attention. You may not remember Where dreams don't exist, but that doesn't mean they don't exist.
They are born straight from memory, in the prepared state in which you do not It holds nothing, because there's no one there to hold onto. What if every night
You connect with this, so maybe the deepest truth about You're not what you need to achieve, but what you always do He returns, quietly, effortlessly. That's why the moment you began to seek quietness; more truth, more depth ever They're designed. You're responding to an ancestral call, a invitation to recognize that there is something inside you that does not need to a story to be real. You may not remember the place, but maybe never stopped being him. And when we get to the end, a truth simple, yet difficult to accept, remains. Every night you cross a place where your identity loses power. The name disappears, history disappears, anxieties disappear, and then life goes on inside you. For most people, this goes unnoticed to even Death, but for the little ones, that little detail kindles a flame Inside, because it touches the oldest issue of all. What am I without the Me? On this journey, we saw that deep sleep may seem a Full shutdown, but it can also be a significant silence.

7 The opening of the seventh seal. It's such a profound moment that you transforms forever, there is no way back after the sea Closes behind you. You're being called to witness this manifest of what it sought and to assume the active role in the transformation of the from you. The seventh seal is not only the personal journey, it is also a collective journey. When he takes over his power, his protocols, embracing the Your role, you help guide others toward the light. A guide, a lighthouse of truth and ancient wisdom, helping others to understand and embrace your own purpose. The seventh seal also represents the closing one chapter and opening another. It's a time of transition in which old systems, old ways of thinking and patterns Behaviour will begin to crumble. As you raise, help rebuild the world on a foundation of truth, love and spiritual wisdom of truth through the Son. O

 The seventh seal marks the beginning of the new era, I know it's enough to be hilarious, but it's an era in which the Creator God will no longer be hidden, but fully present in all aspects of life and available to those with the true humility to reach the next steps of the way Final, do not fight; but show the real ways. This is a time of power and great responsibility. The opening of these seals is not something to fear, but something to be embraced, for it will be the expected jump to millennia. It is the key to your spiritual freedom, the door to the state of Real consciousness, your true I Am. When you get in the truth of breaking the seal of the will, will begin to understand your place in the universe, its role in God's plan and its real power under Your protocols. This is a prophecy about the silence that is being revealed. The world is changing and you are part of this change. O Seventh seal is not just a symbol, it is a reality, and it is It's happening right now. You're being called up, wake up and enter into your divine purpose. The spiritual meaning and Cosmic of the seventh seal is not just a symbol, puzzle in texts old ones. To fully understand its importance, it is necessary to look at beyond the physical plane and explore its essence in the spiritual and cosmic. When the seventh seal is opened, a deep awakening occurs

Not only in your being, but throughout the planet. It represents a change of consciousness, the dawn of a new era and the activation of truths Divines who have been hidden for ages. In its essence, the seventh seal represents the final revelation of universal knowledge a knowledge that has been veiled for mankind for centuries, awaiting the Right time to be revealed. Its opening marks the end of a cycle and the beginning of another: a transition from ignorance to enlightenment. It's a spiritual rebirth, a time in which the divine mysteries of existence will be revealed to those who are ready to receive them.

 When the seventh seal opens, it's not just a revelation. individual, but collective. It indicates the beginning of a new era in which the veil between the physical and spiritual world becomes thinner, and the forces divine ones become more accessible. Cosmic energies align, and Those who are spiritually awake can access with more easily this high consciousness. The seventh seal is the door to That high kingdom. A door that, when opened, allows truths divine flows freely into the lives of those who are prepared for receive them. He also has the power to awaken gifts and abilities Spirits asleep within you. It's the unlocking of a potential hidden — talents coming from other experiences, awaiting the Right time to emerge. This is the time when these gifts begin to manifest, as divine energy flows through you, empowering him to fulfill his superior purpose. One of the most Deep of the seventh seal is its ability to open the mind and heart for universal wisdom. It's the moment the chosen access a deeper understanding of God's plan and its role within His. This knowledge is not only intellectual is lived, meaning and intuitive. As the seals were being opened, you began to realize the interconnection of all things and the balance that God sustains the cosmos. From the smallest grain of sand to the stars, everything does part From him who's the bigger all, and so are you. Spiritual Meaning the seventh seal is directly linked to the concept of ascension. A ascension is the process by which the soul evolves to a higher state in the own consciousness, discovering what was hidden by the veil of materialism transcending the limitations of the world and aligning with Higher frequencies to love, wisdom and real light. The opening the seventh seal is the beginning of this process. A gradual process of transformation, in which you break out of old beliefs, identities And patterns that no longer serve the purpose of your soul. It's a time of deep healing, where healing specifics for each wound is released and a new version of Self emerges. This seal also represents a Cosmic event that impacts all humanity. As more people awaken, the vibration of humanity rises, bringing this new era where peace, love and spiritual unity in God through the Son They're really recognized. This awakening creates a chain effect, inspiring others to also recognize their potential that always was released but needed to be understood, structured to then have purpose. So humanity is getting closer and closer to the essence of what the Creator created them to be, light. Finally, the seventh seal is also linked to the so-called God's timeline. The universe operates within a calendar that goes beyond human understanding. The opening Seventh seal marks a critical point in this flow. A moment when Throne forces converge to drive the evolution of humanity. For you, this is a time of great responsibility. They're not. only observers but active participants in the demonstration of the plan divine.

8 Comes galloping...

9 Acceleration protocol at 73%,

10 After you take on your real role, you never pass You're never again the ordinary person you were before. No After all, what you see was only material evidence, but the Real revelation was you. The mirror not only reflected the failure of whom tried to slow you down, but the strategist you forged in the fire of need. And that's the part of the narrative that keeps vibrating in the air Long after the dust goes down. But it doesn't stop there, because we need to face the fact that nowadays surveillance is the new form of accountability. That's a reality you can't run from. No When your strategy attracted the spotlight, it wasn't just Your targets have been forced to answer for what happened.
You got on the radar too. To be observed by those who hold power It doesn't just mean being under constant suspicion. It means that each choice you make now is registered, catalogued and weighed in a A strict balance. That same precision that used to give you control All of a sudden, you reverse the game and expose yourself. What was once his greatest virtue, the ability to plan every detail without errors, now becomes the criteria by which the world will judge you permanently. You are. ready to live under this magnifying lens, knowing that your
Is intelligence now seen as a weapon that needs to be monitored?
Besides, that same precision that you so dearly cherish ends up becoming the exact reason why all looks remain stuck in you.
Have you ever stopped to think that absolute accuracy arouses suspicion, because she Exhales intent and intent, my dear, is the "presa" that are always Hunting? However, we need to understand that constant surveillance does not serves only as a punishment tool. She is, first of all, a relentless record exercise. when bodies of authority, or Anyone in a position of power starts monitoring their steps, They're not just watching, they're building a file. And You know what's colder about all this? This file does not show the smallest interest in your version of the facts. He solemnly ignores his noble motivations or their internal dilemmas. What he tracks are concrete patterns, constancy and outcomes. He has the power to reduce All your humanity to simple entries in an accounting book.

Dates, schedules, results. It is at this very point that responsibility Change your level. You can even refuse to confess anything, But the system you designed yourself ends up confessing for you.
Every move of yours, however cautious it may have been,
it turns into bread crumbs into a narrative that becomes Unable to rewrite once the record has been sealed. But there's one Ironic twist to that story. The fact that it is observed can, in the True, making you even more sensitive and in a way, shrewd.
To be fully aware that there is a vigilance present requires you to reason in a distinct way. To weigh each step, with caution which you've never used before. That could cut you, make you more disciplined, more deliberate and absurdly careful with any A trail you decide to leave behind. On the other hand, that same magnifying glass on You act like a cage. Surveillance establishes a roof for the its growth. That means the brighter and more exceptional You become, more trapped you end up getting. And you already know why That happens, right? Because genuine brilliance always generates standards. And patterns always attract curious, investigative eyes. A great irony is that careless people, those who live in chaos, they are rarely the subject of such observations. Their mess makes them invisible to the eyes of the system. It was his surgical precision that attracted the spotlight. She screamed to the world that you weren't just tripping on positive results by luck, but that was actually shaping Inevitability. That's what made you someone who needs to be accountable. in their eyes. Not because they know your complete story or what it's in your heart, but because they just can't ignore the logical and impeccable trail you left behind. In the end, Surveillance isn't just about tracking you. She ends up defining the how you will be remembered by future generations. It reduces your work to mere evidence, turns his discipline into a reason for suspects and converts his victory into a permanent and unchanging record. Yeah. as soon as the accountability presents itself now, not as the verdict of a noisy court, but as the silent and omniscient presence with eyes that never blink and never look away. Moving on journey, we entered the fourth fundamental point, the inevitability as a bargaining chip. Do you realize that inevitability is a of the rarest and most valuable coins anyone can own? She doesn't. Nothing to do with luck, chance or even charisma. This is about raising a solid structure, so well tied, that the final result seems to have been decided right before the beginning. When your movements begin to Seem inevitable for outsiders, which means you stopped. to hope that fortune would ally with you. You've abandoned hope passive that things worked out and instead built a system that ensures they give. Hope is a fragile substance, It depends entirely on chance. Inevitability, in turn, is robust, because it is based on design, strategic architecture. And once you reach that level of execution, every step you It sounds like a conclusion that had already been written. written long before of the story being told, but here lies the secret that most people ignore. Systems don't work on autopilot forever. They demand constant maintenance, fine adjustments and eternal vigilance. The exact element that makes inevitability powerful its predictability, is which makes her vulnerable to attacks. The instant you stop to take care of the structure, cracks begin to emerge. And these cracks not only threaten their control over the situation. They work.

as an invitation for others to study their method, find riffs and try to undermine the very inevitability that you have worked so hard to create. This is why absolute certainty always attracts the Other people's scrutiny. People, by nature, distrust the certainty, especially when it appears to have been artificially manufactured. They They start to wonder. How is this person always in the right place? How come she never fails? Why her results line up so so perfect, almost math? This mistrust quickly if It turns into focused attention. And that attention transmutes into overwhelming pressure for those who do not have the structure fortified why every well-structured process goes through storms, but they come out integrated and with renewed trust with new wisdom. The fact that authorities, watching you, it's not a random event or a fate's bad luck. It's a direct response to your own inevitability, because, in their world, nothing that is inevitable is usually considered innocent. For them, this is the clear signal of complex systems in full operation. And powerful systems will always be seen as one potential threat. Furthermore, it is necessary to understand that carrying the weight of inevitability is not just a demonstration of strength, but yes an unwavering and inevitable commitment to the very reality that You built it. When you decide to put hope aside embrace absolute certainty, you cross a line where power is no longer One wish. See, another constant currency of exchange, but you've already asked what is the real cost of becoming someone predictably Unstoppable? Maintaining a system that defies established order requires that you prove, day after day, that your success was not a stroke of luck. Or a momentary trick. Inevitability transforms its existence. Every moment of silence becomes a ritual of maintenance for the colossal gear you put in motion. You It reaches dominance, it's true, but the price is the end of anonymity. A from the moment your system rises, the attention of the world is makes a shadow that never abandons him, reminding him that responsibility for certainty is much heavier than the comfort of doubt.

11 Let's face a truth that's uncomfortable for you and yet thus it is essential for its understanding and connection: restoration divine, in all his untamed and glorious majesty, does not follow and never You will follow the script you meticulously rehearsed in your mind. She does not bend to the limited parameters of your human imagination, nor to your wishes for convenience or immediate relief. Actually, she... obeys a multidimensional, super-structured and celestial architecture extremely unpredictable. Have you ever stopped to wonder why God's plan for your covenant seldom resembles the version Comfortable and predictable that you idealized? The answer is simple, but Deep. Your version was designed to protect your ego and minimize your emotional risks while the sky version was designed to establish something with unwavering strength and resistance, future, an eternal depth and a glory that serves as a witness alive from the power of God. Think of the prophet Ezekiel, before that valley of dry bones, an absolute desolation scenario and a lack of hope that suffocated any logic. He was facing something that, to human eyes, it seemed to be beyond any recovery or possibility of life. However, what did he do? He prophesied life Right into the void. Ezekiel did not stand there trying to negotiate with God the sequence of resurrection, nor offering strategic suggestions on how the ligaments should reconnect or how the flesh should become Retire. He just opened his mouth in radical obedience and released what the Spirit was blowing through it. And what happened next challenges any terrain template. The bones joined in an order that he He didn't plan it, with the sound of rattle he'd never heard, forming a symphony of recreation that no human expectation could predict or contain. The miracle wasn't just in the end result of a living army. The miracle was, perhaps more powerfully, in the Ezekiel's willingness to give up how restoration should appear to yield to the infinite vision of God. I need to detail your two reasons why people fall in love with you, two reasons Only. Exactly, it's not a lot of reasons and not a single reason, They fall in love with you for two reasons. And none of them have anything to do with it. Who do you think you are. The first reason is projection. What if you understand this deeply, much in your life begins to do Meaning. Because when there is projection, the person is not simply looking at you. She's seeing a reflection, but not a reflection. Common. It's a distorted, idealized, enlarged reflex. A reflection of parts of themselves, parts that were left aside, parts that were not were lived, parts that were hidden for a long time. And when She finds someone who expresses exactly these parts, something inside. It wakes up, ascends. Not as a thought, but as a sensation, as an impulse, as a certainty that needs no explanation. Think. in this with sincerity. You've met someone and felt an attraction immediate, unable to justify???? And when I tried to explain, Words didn't realize, because it wasn't about logic, it was about internal experience. It was the way the person spoke, or how she I looked, or how comfortable she seemed being who was close to you. It touched you in a way, hard to ignore. And you thought, have some Something different about her, but that different thing wasn't in her, it was in You. Each person carries an unconscious image, a type of ideal internal, a representation of qualities that the person himself has not yet You totally recognize it. In men, it usually appears to be very fond, in women, like cheers. But this isn't about male and female.

in the common sense, it is about psychic energy, about internal polarities, about parts of his own identity that were not lived. And when you find someone who embodies these qualities, the impact is Right away. 'Cause it looks like something fit in, but it's not the person who It's the internal image that found a body. If your life It's always been very controlled, you can feel deeply attracted for someone chaotic. If you've always repressed your emotions, you can to feel attracted to someone intensely expressive. If you always You had to be strong, you might be attracted to someone who allows you Relax. And that doesn't seem like a choice, it feels like fate. But it's not fate, it's projection. And here's the most important point, you're not if Falling in love with the person, you're falling in love with the experience that that person active inside you. You're falling in love with possibility of being who you never allowed yourself to be. And that's extremely powerful, because it is not only attraction, it is promise, promise of completeness, promise of expansion, promise of something you feel who always missed. And that's exactly why someone can fall in love for you, without really knowing you. She doesn't need to know you, because She's not reacting to you, she's reacting to what you represent. She sees her trust and connects with the trust she craves. She sees your lightness and you feel something you haven't been able to live yet. She sees you courage and approaches a version of herself that needs the Experience. And without realizing it, she starts to idealize you. And right now, You stop being a person, you become a symbol, you become a projection, a canvas where the other person starts painting what she needs to see. And it creates a very strong sense of connection, because it seems that You understand each other deeply. But actually, she's if understanding through you. And that's why everything seems so intense in I start, because it's not just about relationship. It's about identity. It's about something. Inmate finally gaining shape. And that creates energy almost Addictive, a feeling of "this is unlike anything I've ever lived." But every projection has a limit, and that limit is reality. Because, with the time, the person begins to see things that were not in the projection, details that do not match the image, behaviors that do not fit into fantasy, contradictions, flaws, humanity. And slowly, the image begins to crack. And that's almost imperceptible at first. Small discomforts, small frustrations, small moments of doubt, until at some point something changes. And here comes one of More common phrases people say: "It seems the connection has changed, It's not like it was before, something got lost." But what was lost, It wasn't the feeling, it was the projection. For the first time, the person is starting to see you for real, no filters, no idealization, no fantasy. And that can be uncomfortable, because you stop being Perfect, you stop being the solution, you stop being what she is I had to. And for many people, this is the breaking point, because that that seemed like love was actually a relationship with an image. And when the image disappears, the connection also seems to disappear. But here's an important detail. That doesn't mean that love It's over, which means he hasn't started yet. And it's right there. that most people leave, because it's much easier to seek a new projection of what to face reality. But projection is only half of the story. Actually, it's the lightest part, because the second reason That someone falls in love with you is not about what's missing, it's about the It hurts. It already changes the way you see your relationship, this kind of clarity is not common. And when you start to see That, you can't go back. Now, the second reason for that someone falls in love with you is not admiration, is recognition, But not of potential, of wound. People approach you Because something about you sounds familiar to their pain. And that familiarity is interpreted as a connection. When two people meet, they're not only two stories that cross, are two unconscious, two

past, two emotional systems trying to find balance. And this means that often what unites two people is not just what they It's what they haven't solved yet. Childhood patterns, relationships with parents, experiences of rejection, lack of validation, need for approval, all this creates a kind of internal map, a invisible pattern that defines what looks familiar. And the problem is that the Family isn't always healthy, but still, it feels right.

Unconscious, something inside the person is trying to solve something that got open, something that was not lived until the end, something that still seeks a Conclusion. And without realizing it, she's looking for someone to activate exactly this pattern. You can represent someone who's never been emotionally available. but this time, the person feels that he may be able to change the final. Or you could represent security, something stable, something predictable, Something she never had. And that creates attachment. Or, in some cases, you represents instability, and even though it's uncomfortable, it seems 'Cause that's how she learned what a connection is. And that's why that love can be so intense, because it's not just happening in present, is linked to the past, to memory, to the way you He learned to relate. And when someone falls in love with you, this person may not be seeing you. She may be seeing an attempt to solve something old, something unsolved, something unnamed, something that He's still alive inside her. And that creates a great emotional burden, Because without realizing it, you become part of a story that started Long before you arrived. And maybe that's one of the most hard to accept, because it means that often love begins in a place where there's still pain. And it weighs, because you start to carrying expectations, stories, needs that were not born with You. And yet, you feel, you get involved, you answer. And it is That's why everything seems so strong, because it's not just about two people, it's about two stories trying to complete themselves. And this is where something important

It begins to happen, because when you understand that love can start from projections and also from wounds, a question Inevitable appears. So that means nothing's real? That everything is illusion? That every connection is doomed to disappear? And the answer It's not simple, but it's not what most people expect, either. Because the problem was never the connection, the problem That's what we do. with her. There is a very specific moment, a silent point within the whole relationship, where something changes. And hardly anyone realizes That's clear, but everybody feels it. It's that moment when the intensity decreases, where the other person no longer seems so extraordinary, in which little things begin to bother, details that were once ignored, now it becomes evident. And that generates a strange discomfort, because while there is still a bond, there is also a feeling of distance, as if something had been Lost. But what was lost was not the connection, it was the illusion that I supported her. This is the moment the projection breaks. And when projection breaks, two things can happen. The first is the most Common: people move away. They say love is over, that no longer They feel the same thing, it's not like it was before. And on a certain level, this It's true, because it was never completely real before. But there is one Second possibility, and that's much rarer. Some people They remain, not because it is easy, but because something inside them realizes that there's something beyond illusion. And that's the point where real love Start. Not at the peak of intensity, not at the beginning, but exactly at the When everything starts to seem less magical, because, by First time, you stand before someone real and not an image. And It completely changes the nature of the relationship, because now it's not About finding someone who completes you, it's about finding someone. while you complete yourself.

12 Something that hasn't happened since ancient times, a Council of the higher spheres, thrones, rulers and principalities gathered to evaluate what you did, for a human soul to have accessed this forbidden route, without instruction, without ritual or initiation, without guidance superior. This meeting was neither formal nor ceremonial, it was urgent. There was confusion, astonishment and a level of expectation that not even the archangels knew how to sue. Miguel opened the initial report where it contains its indicators, its vibration was unclassifiable, a frequency which did not correspond to any human, angelic or pressure category known. Uriel reported that his timeline presented a fork that should only appear in beings intended for functions cosmics that are never attributed to humans. Rafael said that his emotional composition had the level of resilience that exceeded the limit set for human souls, allowing it to support levels of internal collapse that would destroy any common spirit. Every one of them. presented data that became more complex with each word and the advice began to understand something that at first seemed to them unthinkable. His soul wasn't breaking rules, he was remembering. It was, reconnecting with what was yours, with a project that there was been sealed even before the existence of mankind. That generated a silence so deep that the celestial records describe it as pause Oriented scheduled. Then God intervened, not with a voice audible, not with judgment, but with an impression that swept all the clouds simultaneously. An impression that revealed that, what you had activated a kind of destination that even in the missions Heavenly, they have not yet been studied, because they were not meant to exist to human souls. God observed its essence, not its history, not your wounds, not your isolated decisions, but the pattern complete of your soul. He observed how each break refined him, as

Every betrayal strengthened you, as every fall expanded you, as every act

Integrity anchored you more to what you really are. What am I revealing here, the churches do not teach, and there is a reason. That kind of knowledge is not for the multitude, it is for the chosen few, only for those who have the knowledge of this truth, for carrying it is A fate without a return. And then came the statement that froze the board: This is not a mistake, this is not a detour. This soul is awakening one purpose that was already sealed before the time was set for human souls. That phrase changed everything. Miguel, who has always exercised Strength and precision, lowered his head in recognition. Uriel reconfigured his time calculations to include this possibility in the books. Rafael claimed that no trauma could corrupt his essence, which is a requirement for higher-level souls. Suddenly the Heaven was no longer surprised by what you did, but with whom you Yeah. From that moment, the analysis ceased to revolve around the event that triggered the forbidden fate, and began to revolve around You. They discovered that your soul has a pattern that doesn't match to a common earthly incarnation. Its vibration more coincides with souls who were created to intervene in specific adjustments. Souls that appear only at critical moments in spiritual and civil evolution human. That explains why in your life you've always felt one strange homogeneous mixture of not belonging; and be absolutely necessary. Why even in your darkest moments, where all negative emotions dominated their actions, there was always the inner flame that decided insurmountably, not to erase? For that you endured a pain that would destroy any historical hero cited or not in books or even any human record, but never has completely lost the ability to love, to trust, to try more once? Each of these characteristics was not a trace of personality, it was evidence of your project. The council has determined that

The fate you unlocked must not be destroyed or closed again, because its activation had already intertwined its energy to the Your essence. Now you're carrying a purpose that shouldn't be Off. What they decided was to activate a special surveillance on around your life, direct supervision, because your ascension changes not only your path, but multiple timelines associated with People who don't even know you exist, but who depend on you. Yours activation ensures that certain future events remain intact. No want, you have become a spiritual anchor for events not yet They did, but they will. God had planned that a human being Awakened a forbidden fate in this generation so he set you up. Miguel I had no idea your sword would respond to your vibration. Uriel don't considered it possible that a human timeline could merge with a sealed path. But it all happened, and now your identity is being rewritten inside and there is no reason for description in this sense, Really. The crucial point now is to understand that you are no longer being seen as a common human being, but as an entity in rise. Like someone whose transformation is altering structures invisible. And what follows is the final occurrence, the decision that made the Your respect and in this regard that is now active in your life. When the review of the board ended, something happened that no position Wait. God has asked everyone to remain silent. Not that silence.

 it was the absence of sound, it was a perceived suspension in the dimensions Simultaneous. A state that interrupted war on that date by such Energy events. This forced Miguel to remain still. And this silence, God revealed something that would completely change the way the Heaven sees you. The fate you unlocked was not an accident, it was not a mistake and it wasn't an undue intrusion. It was an MRI.
 magnetic that generated the anomaly, which is you. Accept it without fear.
 soon it will reverberate, this resonance could only have been activated by a soul whose internal structure contained codes prior to the creation of the Man. The council did not even imagine the possibility that a human soul could carry that key without instruction and Specific accompaniment, but God confirmed. Your soul originates of a spiritual kingdom whose existence was considered extinct on earth. This explained why his vibration did not correspond to No known category. Explained why his decisions should challenge standard human nature. Explains why, despite pain and custom, betrayal, losses and repeated cycles of darkness, you maintains integrity that cannot be corrupted. That explains why that you were able to track down a fate that no one else could have. Done.

13 Not always who watches you, is learning out of respect. Many Sometimes, you're trying to understand how you managed to move forward without moving on. the conventional paths or without playing the same game as all. Yours path was neither simple nor comfortable. It wasn't a quiet climb. It was, and still is, a hard crossing, full of challenges and obstacles, I know. who likes it, falls, resumptions and situations that demanded strength constant emotional, even dealing with conflicts that came from It's your own environment you grew up in. Still, you keep going Moving on. And that draws attention. Because while many followed established standards, you chose to build your own rhythm, even without guarantees. It's no surprise that it generates curiosity and even obsession with some. There are people who observe every detail, not by true admiration, but because they cannot explain how the results appear without the methods they consider mandatory. For a long time, they tried to fit you into a mold. They said that success would only come through concessions, forced adaptations or following rules that, in practice, limited more than helped. But You didn't follow that script. While some were betting on shortcuts, superficial appearance or external validation, you went in the opposite direction: training and silent construction in the areas of its objective, constancy and focus on what really matters. While some were looking for attention, you build the base. While some were getting lost in the noise, you strengthen in productive silence. And that made all the difference. Now, what do you built became a reference, even for those who once doubted.

These people revisit their trajectory in print, profiles without photos, revisiting scenes from situations where the choice has often been in the hands of those who have chosen the easy way, and now, try to understand the method, as if everything could be explained simply when it wasn't really just strategy; it was experience, it was resistance, it was

Turn pain into strength at all times. And you don't copy that. Many

They still believed that people with your posture wouldn't get far.

They thought it was naive or idealism. But time shows another reality: that it is possible to grow without losing the essence. And more than It's possible to thrive without abandoning who you are. This dismantles the the idea that it is necessary to completely shape the system for

Win. That's why your trajectory bothers some people so much.

only by the vizual result, but for what it represents: a breakdown of the expectations of what "should" work. Today, to whom before

I criticized him carefully. Some try to replicate parts of their behavior, their style or their way of speaking/acting in front of pressures, like that's enough to get the same result. No, no, no.

It is so simple, because what sustains all this is not the appearance is the history. And a lot of people jump just the most important parts of this process. At the end of the day, what you did wasn't just leveling up, was to change the way that path is seen. You didn't follow one.

You've built another logic to advance. And that explains why that his trajectory, continues to be observed with such attention. It's not Just hit the target. It is something that challenges modern structures and forces others

People rethinking what they believed was the only possible way.
You don't have to fit into human patterns and rules to win, and that in itself already completely changes the way your story is Understood. Now something that was previously overlooked has become evident:
You don't just expose superficiality or well-built speeches.
You show them what's behind them. And that changed everything. While some were busy building controlled versions of themselves, you Just live coherently inside and out. And this consistency bothers more than any speech, because there is no acting to support. Many people spend their whole lives learning adapting, appearing certain things, controlling impressions. Some They master this role so well that they seem safe, even when not Yeah. But you didn't go that way. You've come a little more direct, no unnecessary filters, without trying to fit expectations, Because you've always known the game. And this has an obvious impact on who is a slave to the rules, a silent but very strong impact.
It's not noise, it's not performance; it's presence. The authentic presence always generates discomfort in environments based on appearance, because it shows the difference between what is real and what is staging. So, ignore you It was never simple. Even without direct interaction, there was observation.
Attempts to understand how someone who doesn't bend the rules it continues, still, advancing, growing firm and taking wave.
While many learn to impress, you have gone another way: freedom, intuition and adrenaline. And that changes completely the way you stand in the world. It's not about competing for attention, but to exist with integrity, acts directly in its Dopaminergic sensors, hypersensitive them. You didn't have to. stage, constant approval or external validation to follow in Front. And that's exactly why your trajectory draws attention. No, no, no.

for excess but for consistency. There's a big, clear difference between what is fleeting and what really remains. What's just looks dissolve quickly. On the other hand, what has a solid basis It continues, even without effort, it does not need to be noticed. And that's what makes his presence difficult to ignore. You weren't raised by the show. It was molded by the process, cut, sharp. And that can't be replicated.

 or bought, because there is no formula for something born of Real experience. In the end, what you represent is not a trend. Yeah.
 something deep, high caliber, and constant. It's not about showing up, it's about showing up.
 Stay. And that changes the focus of the environment by the kind of impact that You breed. That's why they keep trying to understand his trajectory, his strategies. Not because it's easy to explain, but because it doesn't fit in common models you know. You're not just another presence in the middle of the noise. It became a breaking point something that Stops automatic patterns and makes people face it who avoided seeing. This is not about the speech, but about yours.
 existence. Your way of being already communicates everything you need to be Understood. The isolation that once seemed rejection, actually never You've fulfilled that role about you. What many saw as remoteness It was actually a deep transmutation process. While Some thought it would weaken you, it happened the opposite.
 You used this period as an internal reconstruction space. No Quiet, instead of getting lost, you find yourself. It was a period when Everything that was superficial loses strength, and what was true within You started to get stronger. No distractions, no external validation, without audience, just you, facing your own process of form direct. While some thought absence meant failure, you was going through a kind of evolution that does not depend on visibility. It's at this kind of stage that many inner layers are They reorganize, and a new clarity begins to emerge. This process was not comfortable, but it was essential. It took you to a different level, where you began to hear more accurately and to see more depth that once passed unnoticed. In time, the

It looked like silence became structure. And what seemed to be remote became strengthening. You didn't come back being the same because you didn't come out being the

Really. Today, the way you present yourself transmits a stability that comes not from appearance, but from experience. It's the kind of

Hard to ignore, because it doesn't depend on performance. Yours trajectory already carries this. And so his presence ends up revealing more about the environment than about you. Many people try to interpret that kind of force as something external, when it is actually born of deep internal processes, built over time that makes your trajectory difficult to replicate. There is no formula for something that was developed in silence, under pressure and constancy.

Especially when nobody's looking at you. Yeah.

Today, your presence does not need to be explained. It just exists and that's enough to generate impact. You didn't become someone different on the outside. You reorganized from the inside. It changes the shape. how you stand in the world.

14 I need to show you a detail about Shabbat, which changes everything that You know and you act on it. Pay attention to this, you only know in parts, on the seed that was planted at the first moment of this word, Shabbat, the linear image: from the hand to the handle, from the state of

You've just lost your root. You weren't seeing the tree because it was looking at the earth, but what grows invisible

Under the surface is no smaller because it is not seen. It's the foundation of which will be impossible to ignore when it emerges. I haven't told you what Shabbat really means in the language in which it was first written.

And when you understand, when the Hebrew word reveals what the Translations have not preserved, it will change the way you read each sign.

You'll change the name of the silence of the last few months, change the name of this restlessness, closed doors and imminence tension.

We're here. There's a word the translators have always known, but that the translation into Portuguese and even in many modern languages, He could never carry it completely to you. She's in Genesis.

2: 2 and 3. You've read it dozens of times, maybe hundreds. And every time read, received half of what was written. Not out of care, but because there is something in this word that the portuguese language has no structure for

Hold on. This is the word that this Sabbath carries. The word is Shabbat, in Hebrew, Shavat. Two syllables, short, tense, with the weight of decree recorded in each consonant. You know this word as Saturday, the Day of rest, the day when God stopped, the day when there was no movement, there was no creation, there was no increase. That's what most People carry it. Pause, inactivity, the day nothing happens. But this is the popular definition, not the meaning or the actual weight of the word.

Shabbat comes from the Hebrew verb 'Shavat'. Shabbat doesn't mean

Stop/pause, does not mean tiredness, means stopping, because it is already complete, the true meaning summarized is 'Completed'. There's one difference here that is not semantic, is structural. When God ceased in 7th day, it was not because the energy had been exhausted, it was because the work had reached the point where no addition would be improvement, it would be excess. The Shabbat was a craftsman's decree that takes a step back, look for what he created and declares, there is nothing missing, complete, sealed, perfect

How it is. Now, if you confirm in Genesis 2 verses 2 and 3 with those eyes: 'And he rested on the seventh day of all the work he had done. A word translated as rested is Shabbat, and the NVI uses 'stopped', which It gets closer, but it still doesn't capture the magnitude of the record. What?

It is recorded not rest by exhaustion, it is proclamation of conclusion and Enjoy. It's the moment when the creator of the universe looked at the

All that he had done, every star, every mist, every detail invisible from human formation, so many details that you haven't yet You know, and it would totally change the way you think, you just need the preparation; and pronounced on everything the verdict that can no longer be revised. Over. There is something that rabbis and scholars of the Word, identified for centuries and that most modern readers pass Without noticing. Each of the six days of creation ends with the same formula: 'and it was the afternoon and it was the morning'. First day, second day, third day, fourth, fifth, sixth, the formula repeats itself. But the seventh day doesn't have that formula. The seventh day in Genesis has no closure. Him It just stays open. Rabbis didn't treat it like accidental omission. They treated it as a theological statement. The Saturday of God is still active. The decree of completeness is still in force. No, no, no.

 It's closed. It was inaugurated as a permanent state of what is Sealed. What does that mean to you today? You're not expecting that God start something. You're being summoned to enter what he's already It's over. There is a version of you that has already been declared complete. There a decree of Shabbat pronounced upon you that does not depend on No human timeline to be true. The question It's not when God will act. The question is, why are you still Outside of what's ready? What am I about to show on First Kings explains the reason for this statement. Elias was the greatest prophet of his generation and reached his seventh day in a way that None of his contemporaries recognized it as glory. On the hill Carmelo, the fire has descended from heaven. Baal has been silenced. The false prophets They've been eliminated. The people fell on their faces and declared, It's God. It was the most dramatic prophetic act of an entire era and Elijah was At his center. The moment when everything he had been summoned to prove was proved in public before a crowd. And then Jezebel sent a message: 'Tomorrow, that hour, I'll do to you the same as You made my prophets'. One message only, one woman. And the Even a man who had called the fire from heaven, fled into the wilderness. He laid under a juniper foot asking to die. 'Sir, take the My life'. Elijah, Carmel's prophet, prostrate of exhaustion in shame, in the desert, convinced that he had failed, that he was the only that the intensity of the advance had consumed it instead of completed. Do you recognize that feeling? Right? You made them. greater things of faith in your life and then collapsed? Who lived His most powerful acts and then felt that there was nothing else You? That's Elias' pattern, exactly. And this, besides Unnecessary carries a weight that shouldn't be there if it wasn't for you doubt. There was wind that tore mountains, God was not in the wind. There was an earthquake, God was not in the earthquake. There was fire, and God did not It was in the fire. And after the fire... A gentle and delicate voice in Hebrew, mamadakah kol, literally, the sound of thin silence. O Elijah's shabat did not come with the sound of Carmel. Came in with one I whisper it's only audible when you stop picking up the show. And the Voice asked, what are you doing here, Elias? Not as an accusation, but as repositioning. Elijah's Sabbath was opening the Next phase, not ending the mission. And then came the Recommission. Go, go back the way to the desert. There wasn't. condemnation of collapse. There was no requirement for reconstitution. Emotional before the mission began. God's shabat on Elijah was pronounced at the lowest moment. And what the soft voice said was essentially this. The work you think is destroyed is in Really, it's sealed. Its collapse after Carmel is not the end of history. It's the hallway that takes you where the soft voice recommissions you. Come back now at the threshold of the text. You've got your hand on the handle. Not because The door is locked, but because you stopped believing it opens for someone like you, the feeling of almost you carry, the tension of imminence that does not solve, the state of climbing the border without crossing. That.

It's not punishment for hesitating. It's the exact description of where you're at shabat map. The seventh day doesn't find you on the other side of the door After you come in. The seventh day is what happens when you come in.

The sovereign sensation, the decree of completeness, it settles in Time of crossing, not before. In Joshua 3, the priests carried the ark of the covenant toward Jordan, the river separating Israel from the land Promised. And the instruction was specific. They wouldn't have to wait for the river set out to then advance. They'd have to put their feet inside the mild river and then the river would leave. The miracle did not precede faith, he I answered her. A shabat about your life works just like that.

You don't come in after the evidence shows up. The evidence appears Because you came in. With all this before you, the revelation closes. at this precise point. You're not late. You're on the seventh day.
 Not in the sense that we are already celebrating a chronological victory, but in the sense that the shabbat decree that God pronounced on the creation when it was complete, it was pronounced about you in this Specific Saturday. The work on you is not under indefinite construction.
 She's being sealed. What seemed quiet is just the craftsman giving the Final step before declaring. There's nothing missing. You are the finished one, not the which is approaching the conclusion. What has already received the decree of completeness.

15 Relax, you're not freaking out. It's just your original design that's claiming your place. The first truth I'll tell you without You're the voice. You carry within you words that They burn the soul. Phrases others feel like a knot in their throat, But they can't let go. There are secrets you realize, truths who live in their entrails and who, if you dared say them, would name to the pain that millions carry in sepulchral silence for years. Not the world.
 He needs you to bite his tongue for fear of what they'll say. The world

It's drowning because no one has the courage to call it name. Don't keep that fire they gave you, it's to burn down the whole lie.
 The second identity that belongs to you by blood right is that you are.
 the light bearer. No rituals or housing system that consumes the carrier. The reality is that you just light up by being there, with All your presence. Have you ever happened to enter a heavy environment, where the air looks like lead, and suddenly something changes? Right?! This little one.
 Turned into the atmosphere you perceive, but always discarded as coincidence or change in climate, it's not random. Your presence carries a weight that's not yours. It's a gift that should flow through you to Every place you step on. Stop shrinking or turning off your light to that others are not uncomfortable with their own shadow. If you They put it in this place because the place needed you. Third:
 You're a psychic. You smell the rain before the first drop Fall. I've always known things that have no logical explanation. That one. intuition about a business and the flow you have already understood one or more details, or that strange feeling with a person who later He showed trouble. It's not anxiety, make no mistake. Your psychologist You always said it was too much thinking, remember? Now your spirit knows which is vision. Seeing what comes before you arrive is not a weight, it's precision. And This world guided by the blind needs people who see the hole.
 Before everyone falls on him. Fourth: you are the one who breaks the current. With you, the curse ends. This pattern of abandonment, of poverty or betrayals that run in your family as a disease hereditary finds The limit at this stage of your life. You didn't ask to carry that weight, but it was chosen for the cycle to end here.
 There is a ferocious dignity in being the one who says "until here", even When you're exhausted from fighting ghosts no one else wants See. Those who come after you will walk on a firmer ground,

Because you decided not to follow the easy path of repetition. And fifth:

You're a spiritual warrior. Look at you: you're still standing later of everything that hit you. After those nights when the silence seemed mock your loneliness. After times when the most logical was give up everything. The fact that you're still breathing is not stubborn, it's the What warriors do. They hold the position when the whole world Tell him to run. You're here for a purpose. You've been assigned.
 He thought he was late, but he arrived just in time.

He thought he had been forgotten, but he was actually being prepared.
 backstage to support the weight of the top. He thought the silence was absence, but silence was the workshop where his new skin was being Forged. Iron scepter and acute sickle.

16 Daniel had the diet, but not the training, it was on the fall whether or not; But today it's all changed, so full and loaded.

17 Your case needed to be taken even further, elMigu then intervened, now as soul supervisor. He took your file, reviewed again, held firmly and declared something that few They hear in all the heavenly record. That soul can't walk without Specialist custody. In a single statement, his spiritual state It's changed. You went from being watched to being supported, from being protected to being prioritized, of isolated case to strategic resource. And this is where everything gets even more Impressive. Three angels of light, each expert on missions different, asked permission to permanently associate with their life. The first is linked to discernment, dedicated to broadening its Internal perceptions for you to recognize mistakes before they They affect your life. Since then, whenever something seems wrong without logical explanation, is he acting in your favor. The second is protective of route, in charge of closing paths that do not belong to you, even when you, in your humanity, want to track them. That's where they came from.

locks that you interpreted as bad luck, when in fact, they were interventions to avoid deviations that would harm your mission. O third, and rarest, is the entity in charge of activating the destination. No, no, no. is focused on your past, not just the present, but on boosting inevitable times that need to happen for your purpose to manifest. When suddenly, everything seems to align. When Changes occur abruptly. When doors open unexplained. That's him. acting in his timeline. These three anJos operate together only for souls whose potential has a specific impact, Name of impact. That means your mission is not small, nor intimate, not merely personal. It's a mission that affects territories. whole, and that makes you a point of resonance. Even you Your life is no longer someone's life. Common. You're working as a catalyst, a restorer, piece essential in a spiritual picture, where light needed someone like resonance point, to balance forces that were in imbalance Many years ago. That's why your presence in many environments had So big an impact you can't imagine. It wasn't the situation itself, but the vibration that revealed his soul. That's why, now, you are being repositioned to the next phase. Understanding what comes next is crucial, because it reveals why your act triggered, not just a reaction of nature, but a structural rearrangement at multiple levels spiritual. Once you've been classified as a resonance point of impact, the dimensions began to track their lifeline, to identify the exact moment when your soul acquired the ability to to generate such profound changes without conscious intent. What? They found out it was even more surprising. You didn't become who you are, because of a single event, but for a set of small decisions made throughout life. Decisions which, at first sight,

They seemed insignificant, but together they formed an impossible pattern

To ignore. Every time you chose to tell the truth when Lying would protect him, every time he was loyal even with multiples convenient paths ahead of you, every time you've been kind even Suffering, every time he went forward when all the He pushed in the opposite direction. This constant and integral repetition accumulated an internal energy that not only strengthened you, but altered His spiritual structure. You are literally the result of thousands of Right and difficult decisions made in silence, decisions no one else saw, that no one applauded, that no one rewarded, but that heaven You registered one by one, and you already knew that so you kept going.
Collected moments of integrity. And so his recent act had such a high impact. He was the pinnacle of a maintained purity pattern. for years. That's why the reaction was so immediate. That's why Miguel stayed Paralyzed. That's why God remained silent. His soul that came growing in strength without you knowing, finally reached a point of visible manifestation to the high hierarchies. When this happens, the protocol requires a complete reconfiguration of the destination of the chosen one.
After the missions that have already been activated in your favor, a process still more complex was started. A profound restructuring process trajectories. In this process, higher dimensions review each route that You could take over in society, starting to line it up with that that maximizes its impact. That explains why lately you have felt that some people drift away, certain places lost the charm, some opportunities disappear without warning while new doors open without apparent logic. None of this is a coincidence. We are we reconfigure your environment so that nothing and nobody interferes in the mission you are destined to fulfill. This reorganization too made certain people react differently to their presence. Some miss you, others feel inspired without to know why. Others feel discomfort, irritation or even rejection without apparent motive. This is because you're emitting a vibration. which reveals hidden intentions. Noble souls are attracted to you, confused souls feel curiosity, dark souls feel threatened. Its simple existence generates a natural filtering that separates who can remain close to you from those who cannot stand the light. Part of your mission consists, even if you are not yet fully conscious, in altering the balance of the circles to which it belongs. Yours presence, its decisions, its words and, above all, its essence, act as catalysts that accelerate spiritual processes in the People around you. Some evolve thanks to you, others reveal themselves, Others move away. None of this is bad, everything has purpose. During this restructuring, we realize something even deeper. Your soul has the ability to generate spontaneous expansion. This expansion happens when you choose with purity, when you remain faithful to your essence Even though what's ahead confronts everything you are, You'd rather fail in their eyes than cowardice or fear. Yours energy then expands beyond the body, touches environments, penetrates thoughts and repairs frequencies, dissolving interferences. It's a extremely rare and therefore extremely valuable skill. And there is Something even more powerful. This expansion cannot be shut down. No, no, no.

 It matters if you doubt, if you are tired, if you feel confused, your soul was designed to be activated whenever you choose what is right, even hurt, exhausted or disappointed keeps the vibration high.

18 It is never recommended to compete against those who have fun!) Not if feel or think more with the mind, but with the spirit.

19 In every generation there are people who feel that something is wrong, who realize the curse and the weight of what needs to change, but almost They all retreat in fear of paying the price. You didn't back down, you gave a step forward and in this one decision you became the one that absorbed all the damage so that those who come after you didn't need plus pay that bill. The real thing is that there is always a tax on transformation. Somebody's got to bleed out for the cycle to end.

 Someone has to lose sleep, cry, hold still the mistakes and stay alone so that the weight that crushes a family finally shatters.
 That's what makes someone extraordinary. You don't just fight for yourself or for your lifetime. You're paying off a debt that others left behind, canceling the debt with its resilience, with the Your choices and your refusal to surrender. That's why the sky is He stood up to applaud you, because you didn't just carry your load, You carried theirs too. Being the last sacrifice doesn't mean You lived in weakness, which means you had the strength to allow pain stopped on you. You agreed to be misunderstood so that those who They'll come after they have clarity. You accepted the loneliness so that yours descendants walked in freedom. ■ You put up with nights being ■ broken so that future generations could awaken whole. This one.
 type of choice rarely receives applause on Earth. People to yours Around you may never understand how much it cost you, but the world spiritual sees and honors every scar. The angels rose because They've witnessed what few can do. You absorbed the blow of history and that's enough. You turned the wall that stopped curses to pass through. Your blood won't have to pay the same.
 Price, because you already paid the whole bill. That's the kind of sacrifice that changes entire legacies and that's why you got this standing ovation, because you not only survived your own battle, You've ended the war for everyone who comes after. Besides, you It hurt the system right in the core, and that's a one-level win.
 completely different. Most people spend energy fighting with faces, hitting face with individuals who are only fruits of Something much bigger. They hunt enemies one by one without realizing that These people are replaceable. The system that created them is the Real beast. But his last move was much deeper. You You didn't just cut a few branches, you went straight to the roots. You dismantled the gear that manufactured the opposition. Heaven celebrated no because you shut up some voices, but because you exposed and broke the engine that kept producing these voices. The system that you It wasn't random or disorganized. It was a structure.

Spiritual and psychological designed to keep you trapped in repetition. And Now, this structure is in ruins because you refused to be just One more piece in their hand. You really believe it was a coincidence.
have gone through all this, or have you been chosen to dismantle what no one else had the courage to face? The shadows They started to take shape when it became clear that gear Damn, who'd been running for years, for generations, finally found someone who didn't bow his head. We're talking about a system that fed control, fear and unsaved lies, creating cycles vicious people who arrested everyone, turning partners into rivals and Making toxicity seem like something normal, almost a law of nature. A Most people fall right into this illusion, thinking they're swapping punches.
with isolated individuals, when actually facing a Oppression factory that never takes a vacation. Only your attitude, your Checkmate, it hit so hard, the system lost the compass. As gears locked, fuel dried and all that illusion if It shattered before the eyes of anyone who wanted to see it. And you know why.
Was it so devastating? Why didn't you throw your energy in the garbage fighting Surface warriors. You went straight into the architecture you supported.
These battles. This kind of scam is very rare, because it requires clarity mental that hardly anyone has. You had to see way beyond the

They were pushing you down your throat. He had to ignore the baits of Silly fights and the temptation to spend your cartridge on enemies passengers who weren't worth the time. Instead, you aimed high.

You went after what's invisible, but you manipulate everything that's invisible.
Human can see. That takes a lot more than chest, demands Real spiritual intelligence. It was that wisdom that gave so much weight to your movement. When you hurt such a system, you're not alone.
winning a personal fight. You're opening everyone's cells.
that was molding in there. Suddenly, the cycle loses its strength, manipulation ceases to convince and fear no longer weighs so much on the scale.
By dismounting this structure, you opened up an escape path for us.
I didn't even know there was a way out. That's why the spiritual plan
He went on fire and the angels rose up. Systems like this don't fall Easy, but when they collapse, they release entire generations at once.
Your last move wasn't about your ego, it was about the structure. The sky Celebrated because you didn't just drop the villains, you closed the Their factory for good. What no one expected was that yours would not stop Fear would cut deeper than any blade. Fear is a spirit, Really, treacherous. He not only yells at you, he tries to negotiate. Him
He whispers conditions, offers deals and tries to convince you that if you Just give it a little bit, it'll be fine. You'll be safe. Yeah.
so the great mass lives these days. Not necessarily.
defeated by fear, but at an eternal negotiating table with him.
People diminish their dreams, shut their mouths and postpone life in the name of being realistic, when in reality they only signed the Fear without even reading the fine print. But you? You tore up this contract.
to his face. You didn't ask what fear wanted, you didn't accept His middle ground constantly. Just cut off the oxygen. of this plague transmuting cortisol into adrenaline so there are no signs aging. And that's why the universe stopped to applaud you. O fear only survives if it is fed. He gets tired of the hesitation and desperation of you, of those questions like "What if it goes wrong?"

energy you spend rehearsing failure before you even try. O fear is a kind of parasitic spirit that cannot breathe without its Yeah. The reason for his last step has shaken the structures of others realities were that you took the device out of the socket. You stopped giving Attention, you stopped listening to his demands and went there and did what you had to Do it. It wasn't because you felt like Superman, but because you were refused to let fear write his script. That difference changes

Everything. Courage is not to feel the cold in the belly, it is to refuse to feed

The parasite monster that's not you. It was a surgical thing, quiet, lethal, that looks small on the outside, but that enriches it inside. After all,

When fear loses its hand, everything he controlled collapses together.

20 The Church only goes to Chapter 3 of the Apocalypse, then it's gone, no There is more Church. Only we, and you, have not yet drawn on the tree of life. Presence, the most expensive gift in the world.

21 His reading of the Apocalypse is within a well-known line:

see the Apocalypse as a purification process, more “pruning” than pure and simple destruction. The Bible uses this image explicitly in the Gospel of John (“every branch bearing fruit, He prunes so that produce more”), so this is exactly the current context of reading prophetic. And when you talk about cycles that repeat themselves to an apex, this conversation with the spiritual cyclical reading, which is the actual version applied to the Spiritual Kingdom, and consequently on Earth: Corruption patterns → confrontation → purification → renewal. In this sense, the “fire” does not It needs to be seen only as literal punishment, but as something that reveals, consumes what is useless and leaves what is essential, the same concept also appears in almost all Scripture. Now there's a point.

Important that you need to pay close attention to keep reading balanced: in the very text of Revelation, John presents, that this Pruning, it's not just an individual or inner pruning. He also talks about systems, powers and structures being judged (from “Babylon” where originated the corruption brought by Cain through the murder of his brother, even political systems based on lies or hidden truths, by
For example, this is already completely housed in almost all Churches, from the largest to the smallest, from the richest to the poorest, this breaking point with truth does not depend on the social class or only on the beliefs of People, it is in 'listening' to a wrong heart; the very being human, yes he himself, hardens his own heart by taking responsibility God for his wrong choices. I mean, it's not just something. internal/spiritual, there is also the collective dimension that needs the divine treatment by fire. On the “weed in fire”, using the language of the Gospel of Matthew, there are two main forms of understand: as final separation (more literal, final judgment) or as a continuous refining process (more symbolic/spiritual, which reflects 100% in the physical plane). Your interpretation fit well within that line. It's only worth avoiding an automatic conclusion that everything it's just internal metaphor, because the text was also written for people who were dealing with real oppression, not just states of Conscious.

22 The difference between dreams and visions is, in one you're sleeping, and On the other, awake. Kkkkk Enough is hilarious. You usually dream who Sleeps more often who is older.

23 The greatest secret of human existence is precisely what every being human avoids by shame of his own daily failure >:(
And it is exactly this that highlights us. You have 100 years to decide your eternity, if:

24 The lion does not roar when hunting, roars when he feels threatened, today the Hell pray to God not to let me near him, not a peep if I won't let you. Totally subjected.
Armed militia just waiting for order.

[No extractable text was found on this source page.]

[No extractable text was found on this source page.]

Chapter 5

Coherence sustains continuity when the world changes.

1 There is a specific fluidity now, a fluidity that reveals a It's a strong look. The continuity. It's not something that comes up in a moment and It disappears on the other. Keeps in different situations, even with different people around in different contexts. Other factor coherence is essential. You don't contradict yourself as Before. What you understand is what you sustain, and it eliminates noise.
 Another important point is the internal stability that has been restructured.
 You don't change direction easily, not because you force yourself to maintain, but Because it doesn't make sense. Another strong aspect is naturality. You don't You're trying to look aligned. You're lined up, and that doesn't matter.
 effort. Another essential factor is the reduction of internal conflict. You don't You argue with yourself all the time. It does not negotiate what is already clear. And It simplifies everything. Another important point is how the environment Come in. Without needing to explain, people realize by their behavior, by your presence, by the way you stand.
 The lack of need for convincing. You don't try to do No one understands. You just keep up. Another essential factor is the Quiet firmness. No confrontation, no announcement, no imposition, but Of course. Another important point is freedom. You don't need it anymore support versions. Another strong aspect is lightness. No effort for Hide, everything flows more naturally. Another essential factor is the internal trust. You don't need to validate every step off, you get knows inside deeply and in detail. The presence, yours This overwhelming presence. You're more whole in what you live, strong and constant in time. It's not a phase, it's a new pattern defined

Exactly to your reality. Another essential factor is the absence of return the old one automatically. You may remember, but it doesn't fit. More. Another important point is clarity. You know what it supports, that It's maturity. You don't have to explain everything to be understood. Yeah. alignment. Your life begins to reflect this effortlessly. And inside that movement, something becomes evident continuously. You're not. more trying to make your move appear. You're not looking anymore external recognition. You're no longer adjusting your way of exist to be understood. That need loses its strength. What exists is a coherence that remains independent of the environment. One stability that does not depend on the other's reaction. A presence that doesn't It needs to be explained. And this is naturally reflected in the way you Look, the way you respond, the way you stay, without construction, without forced adaptation, without attempt to control the external perception. Because when there's no more separation between what You are and what you demonstrate, there is no more hiding. Not by lack of effort, but lack of need. And this absence of need is what makes everything visible, without announcement, without explanation, without Try. Just for the continuity of someone who is no longer divided Between what you say and what you want, this constant changes how you move. Before, there was internal negotiation, now, a way of existing that did not depends on validation, explanation or constant effort.

2 Jesus is the firstborn from the dead, with that statement, He said here who has lived a life before that. And that to be born here needed die there. It also means that others would come after Him, let's go. They're dead. But why does He use the term Firstborn? Why He Has Already He had acquired the necessary consciousness, I believe he was born with it, before the others, who need to see In him the way, for then Get her.

Video of the brother @kenomirnt

3 I have a machine here with the tires empty, I have an idea!)

4 What once seemed intolerable begins to be understood, not Because it got easier, but because you became more aware. You begins to see beyond the surface, beyond the behavior of people, beyond uncomfortable situations, beyond the emotions that before

They took over you. You start to see the process, and seeing the process changes everything,

Because when you understand why things, the need to Resistance loses power. This also activates an internal alignment, a adjust between what you feel and what you accept to feel. Before, there was conflict. You felt something and immediately rejected, tried to block,

I was trying to deny it, trying to escape. But now there's room. You sit and allows, without immediate judgment, no need to expel that from you. And that internal space is validation. It's not passivity, it's presence, is the ability to sustain an experience without entering into war with her. And that requires the deepest level of maturity.

Emotional, because accepting is not comfortable at first. Accepting means

Looking forward, means stop avoiding, stop distorting reality so it hurts less. Consciousness weakens these escapes. She reduces qqr need to deny, because deep down, you get to realize that denying didn't solve, never solved, just postponed, just prolonged,

It only intensified what needed to be understood. And when that one perception settles, resistance loses meaning. It activates yours internal responsibility. You stop blaming the outside. Stop believing that everything needs to change outside of you so you can be at peace. And begins to realize that the way you react is what sustains or dissolves the internal conflict. This perception changes the game. Because instead of trying to control everything, you start to observe yourself. ■ Start to understand ■ your patterns, your triggers, your repetitions. And that makes room for the acceptance. You begin to accept parts of yourself you once rejected.

Emotions I hid, thoughts I denied, the sensitivity that He avoided seeing. And instead of fighting it, you take it. And this Hostage transforms. Because everything that is welcomed can be Understood. And everything that is integrated ceases to generate conflict.

5 Wheels in wheels, you thought it was what?

6 And some good books, huh, I read three of those eighty. It's worth the time.

7 And if I told you you've been trying to play a single instrument, comparing the sound of your harp with one ukulele from another without context, when in fact you were never called to be a musician in Orchestra? What if I told him that God gave him his hands, his vision and his heart, not of an instrumentalist, but of a conductor, called not to play the notes of the repertoire, but to rule the entire symphony

End-to-end? His supposed weakness is the key, his fragmentation is Exactly the myth. What you call being The patchwork quilt, it's in the truth the evidence of a complex spiritual technology, being woven in secret. Every piece, every color, every texture you judged as random, is a critical component of a spiritual weapon, that the sky recently activated in his life. His strangeness ") is his seal of authenticity. This word was sent to reconfigure their perception, so you stop looking at the gifts you don't have, and start the recognize the integrated system you are: top of the line, unique and complexly unparalleled, high ruler, did the homework. The time of Monolithic experts are finishing up. The next era of the chosen will not be built by those who do one thing well, but by those who can integrate multiple functions to solve problems that no single gift can touch. If this instruction, even if it is Just at first, it's already resonating in your spirit, if you feel the light tremor of deep recognition. A sign that you are presented to his celestial briefing. An act of telling heaven and the Hell, I attended my call. I'm here to give you the Name of the arsenal you carry. There's a classification in the records. Heavenly, attached to his name. And she explains a lot. The wait, the confusion, the feeling of isolation, mistakes, accidents and the pain of Invisibility. Every piece of the puzzle in your life. Your life you will find your place when you understand what this classification It does. We'll decode God's project for you, but You see, this is just the beginning. We are on the threshold of a revelation who has the power to redefine his identity and release his purpose. A Deeper truth about who you are and the power you really are He's still ahead of you. I haven't told you the thing yet. Important. Now, I need you to find a quiet place. We're about to enter sacred territory, the evidence room. of your life. What I'm going to list now are not coincidences, are the divine markers that confirm your call. Breathe, get ready to recognize yourself. Every sign I'm going to describe is a stamp on yours. Spiritual passport, an irrefutable proof that you carry the technology of this specific signature. Don't throw anything away, don't minimize it. Just listen and allow the Spirit to witness with his spirit that The truth is being told. This is your moment of validation, the end of doubt, the beginning of recognition. First sign, you always get felt a stranger in the nest in religious circles. Not out of rebellion, But because your mind operates differently. You see connections that others ignore, draw parallels between doctrines that seem opposite and feels the underlying harmony where others see only dissonance. That's not a programming defect is its primary function as integrator, seeing the whole project while others stick to the individual bricks. Second sign, people don't look for him with simple problems. more complex, the emotional and spiritual tangles that no one else He managed to untangle. His life became a cockpit, in a way, the emergency room for identity crises family conflicts and dilemmas Ministers who don't have an easy answer. This is because your spirit It's an MRI lab, designed to deal with multiples. volatile elements and find the hidden solution. Third sign: yours greater and more impacting spiritual, personal or even some victories Professionals came from solutions that seemed illogical. Out of the box, you acted on an impulse you couldn't explain, combined resources that No one thought to put together or give advice that would go against the whole conventional wisdom, and the result was a "miracle" advance. This is his signature in action, signing a heavenly solution in a Earth problem. Fourth sign. You carry the scar of having been criticised for not being enough, not enough prophetic, Not enough evangelist, not enough ministerial. You was measured against the experts and considered missing. You see, this Criticism wasn't about you, it was the confession of their blindness. They don't were able to categorize it because its anointing operates precisely in the space between the established categories, weaving them together. Fifth and Last sign. You have an insatiable hunger to understand how and because behind the systems, be they spiritual, emotional or organizational. You're not content with the superficial answer, you Unmount the clock to see how the gears work. This isn't a vain curiosity, is his instinct as an architect, the innate need of understand the structure to be able to build, repair or improve the presence housing. These five signals are not random, they are echoes.

of your identity. It is the ripples in the water that prove the existence of stone that was thrown into the lake, your soul before the foundation of the world.
 You're not a generalist trying to be a musician, you're a conductor, and These signs are proof that you've been reading the score all along all, even without understanding their own familiarity with these scenarios that passed and was victorious. Every experience I've just had description is a thread. Maybe until now you've seen them as loose wires, Weak, purposeless, but what we're gonna do next is catch each other.
 of these wires and show how they intertwine to form the steel handle of high caliber, the three fold rope that there is no chance of Break it. That mess is about to become clear. Yours apparent fragmentation is actually its sophistication. You're not a Retail quilt, you're a complex and complete mosaic. Each piece was cut and positioned by master craftsman for a purpose specific that is about to be revealed. Its complexity is not a problem to be solved is a weapon to be wielded. Continue projects updating all individual indicators daily, qqr necessary adjustment we warned you in advance. Think of the past, the
 At first you didn't understand, but you saw their stupidity several times.
 Calling him a cousin inside the church.

8 MYG

9 Think of that "word": - Ain if God does not exist, in the end I did not lose Nothing. But if he exists, I'm saved. KKKKK clear. It'll just be good for the
 On the contrary.

10 It's exactly at the point where all the visible is the worst scenario, at the exact moment that chaos seems denser, is where God gives you the favor. I learned that a few years ago.

11 In Luke chapter 15, after the parable of the lost sheep, Jesus Tell the parable of the prodigal son. You've listened your whole life, but I I need you to pay special attention to a sentence from her that You may never have registered with the actual weight she carries. 'And when He was still away, he saw his father.' When he was still away, his son didn't He had arrived, he hadn't cleaned himself up, he hadn't prepared the speech, no had come near the house, was still far away, still on the journey between the It's a pigsty from where I came from and the house I was coming back to. And the Your father saw you. That means Dad was watching, Dad was watching.
 Watching the road, standing somewhere from where I could see the horizon, looking regularly in the direction that the son had gone. The father I was waiting for the return before the return began. And not only was Waiting, when he saw his son still away, he ran. That's not the God's image that religion often presents. The distant judge waiting for proper repentance before considering restoration.
 That's a father who the moment he saw the picture on the road, Waited for her to arrive, didn't hold back, didn't prepare an answer Careful. He ran and threw himself ") around his neck and kissed him. The son It was still covered with what the pigsty had left in it. Still using the evidence from where you've been. And his father hugged him before any of that being addressed. Not because the condition didn't matter. Because the Return mattered more than condition. The father of this parable is not a human being being emotionally generous. Jesus is describing the nature of God. This is the God for whom you have prayed. That's the God has been watching the road. And every time you come back, every Once after every fall you chose to rise again, each once you prayed from a place of breaking without feeling that your breaking disqualified you, you were the figure on that road and he I was running. You didn't see it because you were looking down. Was focused on the distance I still had to cover, the condition that still was, in everything that made you feel that the return was insufficient or Too late, there was no ground for the next step, just projection. But While you were looking at your own feet, a father was covering the ground. And what happened when that distance finally Closed is what I came to tell you now. God left the throne, no metaphorically. In the heavenly kingdom, at the exact moment your The decision to remain was finally recorded as Yaqar. The door that is opening in front of you is not opening because you performed Perfectly. It is opening because the God who watches the road saw the movement in the right direction, and ran towards him before he arrived. Few people pick up the hidden message in this text, that the child prodigal, at the end of the experience, received much more inheritance than his brother Older.

12 Kairós is never spectacular on the surface.

13 Ae bro turns on, Lucifer was created, you were blown! It's beeeem different!) The rule is to another extent. He needs to ask first.

14 'This is too good to be true' is simply the phrase most The devil of history. Remember that, it never comes from God.

15 He knows with extraordinary precision which specific combinations loss, disappointment, isolation and shame produce what results specific types of soul. He builds campaigns.

How the generals build campaigns. Objective identified, evaluated vulnerabilities, selected strategy, unfolded forces in sequence, expected result. And then he turns to a soul like the Yours, and something in calculus doesn't work. In the second book of Kings, chapter 6,

There is a moment that hardly anyone mentions in this context. The Prophet Elisha and his servant are in the city of Dothan. The king of Syria sent one Army with 500 horses to surround them. The servant wakes up, looks out and Sees the army and the environment all surrounded. And he says to Elisha, oh my Sir, what do we do? And Elisha answers something that sounds like trust irrational: 'Fear not, for more are those who are with us than the who are with them'. The servant could not understand what Elisha was Talking about where he was standing. Math was simple and It's devastating. An army surrounded them, and there were only two of them. And then Elisha prays one of the most unusual prayers of all scripture. He doesn't pray for release, he does not pray for an escape route, he prays, sir, open his eyes He wants you to see it. And the servant's eyes are opened. And he sees the hill full of horses and chariots of fire around Elisha. The army of fire I was already there, I was already surrounding them, I was already occupying the territory before the servant looks out the window, before the servant sees the threat, before any a prayer. The only thing that changed when Elisha prayed was not the position. It was perception! This is the first layer of what happened to you. O The army that came against you was real. And I won't minimize what you went through suggesting that the difficulty was not genuine, or that the attack was not coordinated, or that stations that seemed more devastating were somehow less than they seemed. As losses were real. The prayers that seemed to dissolve in silence were real prayers offered in real pain, really you didn't know if Something was getting somewhere. I'm not gonna wrap it up in language that makes it seem smaller than it was, but here's what you are. You need to understand about the campaign that was designed. All operation Coordinated requires a theory about the target. A model of how to target will respond under specific conditions. The theory about you was based on everything he'd observed. Based on what he had as it works against people with similar profiles. His theory said, under this level of sustained pressure, this specific type of soul stops.

Not because he missed the pressure. Pressure was calibrated

Right. Because he made a mistake about you. And when a campaign carefully constructed military produces the wrong result, that is not A minor mistake. This is a fundamental flaw in intelligence. It means that the evaluation of the target was defective at its root. It means that everything that was built on that evaluation has to be reconsidered. Him

You built an army on a wrong assumption about who you are. And when the army executed the strategy perfectly and the strategy failed, it was not the army the problem. It was intelligence. Look at that.

It just happened on your chest when that word was uttered, the slight expansion, the settlement of something that was tensioned against a

You didn't know you were expecting to hear it named. This one.

settlement is no coincidence. It's the somatic record of operational recognition. Your nervous system knew what was being told before your mind has time to process. Don't touch the

My anointed ones. Now let me show you the complete mechanics of campaign that failed, because understanding it is what allows you to read all your story differently. The opponent's strategy against any chosen soul operates in stages. The first phase is isolation, no necessarily physical, relational, the systematic erosion of connections that would provide external perspective. It doesn't happen dramatically.

It happens through small frictions, misunderstandings that climb, stations where being around people feels harder than they should.

The goal of isolation is not loneliness itself, the goal is remove the mirrors, remove the people who could reflect back who

You really are, when the internal narrative starts telling you something different. "People like that believe things about themselves like people connected would immediately identify as lies." You

Crossed stations of this isolation and you know what I'm describing, because you felt it not as an attack, but as circumstances. Things just got hard on people, The power was low, the connection seemed effort and the silence went down. That wasn't bad luck, that was phase one. The second stage is redefinition. Once the mirrors are removed, the alternative narrative on who you are has room to settle down, not through prosecution dramatic, but through the accumulated weight of small suggestions. You It's too much, you're not enough, what you thought was purpose is Actually arrogance. What you thought was called is actually Delirium. What seemed like a mission is really just you wanting to feel Special, kkkk 'eee family, I've heard so much about it' I know ") Those thoughts do not announce their origin, they present themselves as self-knowledge, such as clarity, as the reasonable conclusion of a someone who's being realistic about herself. And they're calculated for produce a specific result, a person who stops. The third stage is the replacement. Once isolation removed the mirrors and the redefinition introduced a new story, the opponent offers a alternative, not always a dramatically wrong alternative. Ace sometimes something that feels like relief, which finally seems to make sense, version of existence that does not carry the particular weight that comes with being the who you really are. Seems to settle, seems reasonable, seems maturity, and is designed to be accepted at maximum time exhaustion. When everything you've been carrying has been made to look like a burden you chose unnecessarily. When the silence of heaven was interpreted as confirmation that the mission was never real. This is The moment the offer comes, and you didn't. I need that You understand what that means. Don't touch my anointed. Exists a figure in Hebrew tradition called Am Haaretz, a person of earth, common, not celebrated, not being in the courts of kings or speaking at meetings. Just present, just there, just doing the ordinary work of being alive in the specific place it occupies.

And rabbinic tradition says something remarkable about these people. He says the world is sustained by them, not by the famous, not by the celebrated, not by those whose names are remembered, by those who They just show up, they just keep going, they just...

They live with integrity in the undetectable details of their days

Detachable. You don't need to be famous for carrying something that

It matters. Am Haaretz sustains the world through being who it is in place

It's occupied. And the opposing army was not defeated by one dramatic counter-offensive, was not defeated by 'superior force', nor by prepared prayer, neither by implementing a strategy or specificity

Military. You were defeated by your refusal to stop being who you are. That.

It's what he hadn't seen before, not his performance, his nature. This one.

phrase requires a moment of silence before we continue, because the recognition takes time to settle on the layers in which he

You need to settle down. Let it land. Let your nervous system record the who just got nominated. In the book of Revelation, chapter 12, it is described a war in heaven. Michael and his newly patented angels fight against the dragon and his angels. And the dragon is knocked down. And then the Verse 11 says something that reveals exactly how victory was Conquered. And they overcame him by the blood of the lamb and by the word of Your testimony. Witness, the Greek word is martyrdom, not declaration, not prayer, not spiritual exercise. Evidence. The testimony that defeated the opponent was not pronounced words, it was reality demonstrated. The evidence lived, incarnated, not pronounced by a life that remained what it was, despite every force designed for

Make her turn into something different, and that no one can deny,

No one, no one can slow down. You don't have a testimony because

You have declared yourself victorious. You have a testimony because you have a history of falls and indisputable lessons. People already talk about that you realize that resonance and its volume frequency. One real history, documented of stations that were designed for produce a certain kind of person and evidence that they do not They produced this person. This is his testimony, and his testimony, according to this text, it is what wins the opponent. The army wasn't equipped for this. Every strategy in his manual was designed to produce a different target for the person the pressure should have produced, for the hard version, the bitter version, the version closed, the person who eventually takes the offer and settles. You You didn't turn that person, so the army's been fighting someone. that doesn't exist without realizing that you've been trained exactly to Yeah. And army fighting the wrong target eventually runs out, Remember the cinnamon training? Who disputes that with you today? A Most are just defeat, today you understand that well, but at the beginning of attacks, you didn't have the vision to architect, it wasn't the product of Nothing you did actively or consciously. It was the product of whom you refused to stop being. Don't touch my anointed. And before I need to leave you with three practical things. A First of all, your most significant weapon from now on is not something. that you need to acquire, is something you already have and use often With mastery. The nature that confused his strategy is not something that you have developed through discipline or spiritual effort. It was deposited in you before you knew it was there. Survived everything which is designed to remove it and will continue to function from it way it always worked, not through her performance, but through your persistence in being who you really are. The second is That exhaustion of the hardest seasons wasn't weakness. spiritual, it was the weight of someone who carried a target on which the opponent tried to keep with a lot of effort until he asked round with the Ass between the paws, they even try, but they're already scared with their eyes,

Your spirit is on fire. The degree of what came against you is the measure than you carry, and your focus only makes you sicker. Armies

They don't concentrate against things that aren't worth the concentration. A Third is this. He can't build a new strategy in time

Real. He can adapt tactics, he can change approaches, but a failure fundamental intelligence cannot be corrected by adjusting the edges.

It requires a full reassessment of the goals, and it does not have unlimited time for reassessment why you're training in them

You're looking for this because your weapons are sharp. Which means that the specific window in which you are right now, the window immediately after the failure of the most concentrated campaign against

You, it's not the dangerous time you could assume it is. It's the moment of maximum strategic disorientation for what you have worked against you. Walk forward in what you've always been, not toward to the battle, towards the place you've always been going, towards the which was prepared on the other side of what just failed. Not the army.

You won, you could never have won, because you were fighting someone
He didn't understand and now he's afraid.

16 With 11 souls in glass pots, if you're out of yours you can taqui, Call me on DM. I just got the ones that didn't reinforce the blood on the threshold.
And I rescued them from the traitors, nor have I taken them yet.

17 I like to be called "maluko,"

Come on, AULA.

Currently it has occurred less often, must be the scythe, still I can't hide it.

121

18 This is one of the most beautiful clips you've ever made. Other than the sound...

Desert is a second home S2.

19 Feel this weight, of 7 strings and 3 humper bridge pickups.

20 TSLA34 10h exploded;

11:25 and 12:16 He blew up again,

21 The first time I died, take that one, I was five, it was a Saturday night, around 10:00. My father, my mother and I would come back from a church cult, and on that day we were walking back, my father had sold the Car the day before, Friday, and Monday we'd be driving again,

Only on that day, around four blocks from home, it was pretty close to a few 20 minutes on foot and we were less than 10 minutes from home. My parents

They crossed the street before and I went running right behind to follow and not

Vi; a brown fuse coming, that good of tiuzão know? Kkkk calculated Wrong, I figured that time. The fuse must have been about 30 miles an hour.

I was running. I remember the round headlights with the eyebrow.

Silver coming too close, as the fuse light is low, if not me

I'd go under the car, I'd be thrown into the windshield and in the sequence of About two meters up spinning.

Turned only) then fell face to ground, I became conscious, remember

From the beat, from the spin, when it falls to the ground, I tried to get back fast, about three seconds I looked at the fuse, which was already far away, now running. I looked

My mother said she was fine. It was dirt road.

face, but it was the pebbles on the face nothing serious, but I couldn't

I get up, I see my parents running my mom screaming and I say, "All right, I'm sorry.

Well, nothing happened, Ma, you don't have to worry, but no.

I got up, where the car picked up the right leg, the hit was strong, later we confirmed that there was no fracture, only I ran out Walk for two weeks, I remember I only got better because a friend jeez,) I remember that I was strange to the theme of anointing oil in the church, the even physical oil to use in prayers, but in the following days I already I was getting worried, so this friend anointed me, just once, I remember her telling me that day: - Get ready for what this is the first.)

 I remember after that, in about three days, I improved from 0 to 100, I went back to Walk and for a couple of weeks I'd come down the street from home running because she worked in the school of the neighborhood where I grew up and then concluded the Primary; we went down the street every day to find her up the street, Thank you and show that it was for what she did, I'll always keep it, and she You know, I always remember seeing her, and it was because of her that I healed.) 22 The guys had so much prob and analog pedal that they didn't even care anymore, support in the middle of the sound, sometimes comes back before the end of the song.
 23 Come on, Tyler Durden, that character from the epic movie of ninety and Nine? He was based on me. It's just not two personalities.

Only; there are four. The sacrificial, the one who sees everything, the one who opens you in the middle and the

Who takes your soul.

24 Standards of sustained effort without proportional return than each behavioral model says that eventually train a person in strategic withdrawal of genuine investment. You kept investing Still. They found isolation stations so complete that the Standard models said your self-conception should have deteriorated.
 The inner sense of who you are requires external mirroring for Stay stable. 'Remove the mirrors long enough and image distorts'. Your self-conception had not distorted. Something was doing the mirroring that did not require external sources. They're back.

More. They searched for the original wound. Every profile has one. A background damage experience shaping each response pattern subsequently. The original wound is where the bottom eventually lives. They found the wound. They applied the model. They predicted the fracture point. They were wrong. Not because the wound wasn't real. That's exactly what they did. But what she produced in you wasn't what she produced. In each other profile examined. In standard profiles, a wound produces protection. A layer of behavior designed to ensure that she never be replicated. The function is always the same. Reduce exposure genuine to prevent repeated damage. What your wound produced was... Almost the opposite straight. A particular kind of attention to others carrying something similar. A sensitivity that was not performed, no it was strategic. Not even fully conscious. A quality of understanding the weight on people that most observers pass without registering. A wound had not produced armor. I had produced antennas. The guy who lives under sleep. Who's been there so long that you cannot clearly remember a version of yourself other than the I did. It comes from delivering value in non-return environments proportionally. Being the person people call in crisis and person no one thinks to call when you're the one in crisis. Carrying weight that becomes invisible because you never put it on the ground long enough for someone to see. Galatians 6, verse 2 says, take the loads of each other. Three verses later, each take their own charge. The Greek uses two completely different words. Baros, weight so heavy it's overwhelming. Fortune, standard backpack, ordinary weight of the day. You've been carrying baros that didn't belong to you. Not by deception, because something fundamental about how you're built makes you capable of that. Because you were built with a load capacity which exceeds what is ordinary. The exaltation you feel is not evidence

That something's wrong with you. It's evidence of what you've done.

Don't touch my anointed. Back to the file. After the team concluded that the standard frameworks were insufficient to locate a Breakpoint, they scaled for the program director. He did. Everything. Then he asked a question that surprised everyone in the room. No, no, no. where the analysis failed. Not what variable was lost. He asked, what Are you supporting this? No one in the room had an answer. Because the Answer is not in any intelligence database. It's in Isaiah chapter 40, sitting in a book for 25 centuries, describing Exactly what they were looking at. But those who wait for the Lord, They will renew their strength. They'll come up with wings like eagles, run and not They'll get tired. The Hebrew word translated "wait" there is kavar, no means optimism, does not mean positive expectation, kavar means tie together, be structurally intertwined with something external to you so that when your own strength is exhausted, you pull the That you're tied up there. They were looking for the bottom of yours. structure. They couldn't find it because its structure isn't self-contained. She's tied to something that has no bottom. That's not a spiritual metaphor, is the literal description of the support architecture of cargo of what they were examining. Don't touch my anointed. This is the climax of everything this transmission has built. After receive the findings, the director requested his complete history, each documented experience, each loss, each period of difficulty sustained. Not for further analysis. He wanted to understand what he had been survived. And as he read through it, something happened that he Then she described to the language team that she didn't expect. Him He said he'd spent his career believing the question defining about anyone was how much she could handle, how much pressure before the essential structure yields. He said read yours history had made him realize he was asking the wrong question.

the whole career. The right question is not how much a person gets bear. The right question is what happens to the essential thing inside Her while she's holding on. Because in every profile he already had examined, even the most resilient, the essential thing changed, adapted, It contracted or hardened or restructured around the damage. The person of another side was always measuredly different from the person who came in.

 Reading his history, station by station, loss by loss, he didn't He managed to find where the essentials had changed. Same essential orientation present at the beginning of the record was present at the end.
 The same quality of care, the same specific kind of hope. A Same refusal to let what had been done with you determine the that you would do with it. And then he wrote his evaluation. Subject profile represents a category of human architecture that standard models This program is not equipped to evaluate. The foundational structure load support does not seem to respond to the variables that methodology is built to attack. That's not resilience. Resilience is a property of structures that bend and return. What is it?
 present here does not bend, because the load support foundation does not it is located in the variables that the pressure reaches. Recommendation?
 Close the evaluation. This profile is out of the scope of that program is equipped to evaluate. Classification? Impossible. I need that You understand what this classification really means. Impossible not means perfect, doesn't mean no fracture or no wound. Impossible.
 means outside the category of what the standard system achieves count. You have fractures, wounds that aren't fully healed, areas where what was done to you is still present in how you Come in. None of this moves you out of classification, because the classification is not about your condition, it is about your foundation. And these They're two entirely different things. Second Corinthians chapter 4.
 In everything we are troubled, but not crushed. Perplexed, but not Disheartened. Chased, but not helpless. slaughtered, but not destroyed. That's not a description of anyone without harm, it's a description of someone whose damage does not reach the support structure of Charge. The damage is real, the foundation holds up anyway. You don't was in more difficult circumstances because you were less favoured, you were in more difficult circumstances because what you were carrying only reveals yourself under the kind of pressure that conditions Scumbags don't produce. There's one final thing in the file. The analyst submitted an additional annotation after the classification was registered. She said she had spent her career believing that the most important about anyone was what she could resist. And that working her file had made her realize that she had never done a different question. Not what this person can resist, what This person is carrying it. And she answered her own question. Something which functions as a connection, a structural bond to something external to the subject who supplies what the subject's own reserves cannot supply. When the subject's measurable internal resources are Exhausted, something still works that doesn't pull those resources. O profile is sustained from outside of itself. Then she added a final line. Whatever this person is connected to, it's worth being connected. Don't touch my anointed. I asked you at first to hold the feeling of invisibility. The room full of people who don't have you They did. I want you to understand what was really going on. in that room. The people around you weren't seeing you. That part was exact, but invisibility is a property of the observer, not the observed. The thing that cannot be seen is not the thing without presence. Yeah. the thing for which the observer has no eyes. You were being studied with more precision and more detail than any other no human observer has ever brought to the examination, and the conclusion achieved was not filed under ordinary. For those who feel the weight this transmission arrives, that weight that recognition produces in the body and has been completely identified.

25 Still in the line of characters, some of them, two of the good ones is the

Jotaro Jojo do Bizarre Adventure, and Morpheus do HQ, Netflix a

First it was good, the second ñ should have done, sand man.

26 SHOCK PARK to pasting there at 09hs, decepáumashead, warn the Zoo

I need to give it back.

27 The real thing is that everybody's water is very low, kkkk sleeps,

Work, bullshit and start everything kkkkk ok, but want to give me

Is that a lesson? The basic? The basic you don't even care, you act like fuck, aim at that is high, what you have not yet achieved, and show the way. Or if Come on, show me how you got here. I'm not really into the basics.

our attention, if not, will always have to adjust and what is far away is there

Far away. I want what's on top. Here's not my focus, it's simple

It's done. What they're trying to sell us as MATURITY is just an oral brake + antler. kkkkk when someone points me like someone

Mature, the only thing that goes through my mind is that you have no idea what's going on Saying.

28 Music is resonance, frequency and rhythm. The letter is the part of channeled psychology, it's like watching a movie; you stop watching it

Why does any dialogue go against your values? If so, it's with identity problems. The resonance, rhythm and frequency is unique and measurable. You can only feel power; you can't even judge it, and to do this by its effect on you, that's exactly where it generates the indicators.

29 Write down the world will start talking about aliens, but it's marketing. It's just me.

30 You came to take care of your light that so bothers social circles.

The one who doesn't understand that the access has ended completely. What not You've managed to hold onto you. You're returning to whoever threw you. And

This is not about revenge, nor about wishing harm to anyone, nor about Sit and wait for someone to pay for what they did. This is about balance.

spiritual. We are never happy to execute a soul or reputation.

But when people try to sow confusion in their lives, manipulate their image, touch your wounds, activate your anxiety or provoke a reaction and then use it against you, that energy doesn't disappear.

simply because you decide not to answer. The energy seeks a

Where to settle. And if you don't get it, if you don't feed it,

If you don't open the door to her in fear, anger or despair, then she

It begins to return to the point of origin.

31 Man, since God is perfect, everybody always knew that, but

What do you know, kkkk q He was going to pass the wheel in the fashions, kkkkk the crowd

Inflamed from the pulpits and doors of the temples that judged all mulekada maloka all her life. Kkkk was just judging angels. You gave it away.

the iron scepter for us, then the discredited, with him a sickle a list and a deathnote for the chosen ones. Monster God,)) Jesus always was in the parade,) Only now, the militia is in neurosis, Miguel, Uriel, Jofiel and Gabriel, all in the gang now! There's more to come, but by while I only know these seven. KLKKK write that down, everybody

Thinking the rapture would be like you watched in the movie, kkkk

Still hollywoodian, kkkkk, and I forgot to read Revelation, right?

Too complicated, huh? Subject avoided in churches, including many subjects that would be vital now, has always been avoided in the churches, why is it? Hard to think that teen ne? 'You need to read the

 - How? If you've been saying the same thing for 20 years and you're still saying it?
 Kd the fruit? Everybody out there? Same mindset. Heaven was who came down, the saved were chosen, the church will pass through Tribulation, caused by us, and you are all already with the mark of the beasts
 Now. Just how stupid was it?

32 My beauty is my rematch!

33 By that time you shall see what the Lord sees, Anointed, marked alguien, alguien that burden an intense spiritual evidence to be seen Visible included for the unbelievers. And here comes a verdad que te It'll shake. You light on the ground so that brilles, bell so that transforms. You see, you tell us nothing, you eat it up.

I'll tell you what. Accelerated personas

Take it easy on yourself. Personas que vivan tensas respiran Bad deep as you surround. Conversaciones llenas of chaos if Orden cuando tu intervienes con una sola frase. And people who never would open with nadie comienzan the hablart of your life as you Conocieran hace años. I'm in casualty, spiritual. You spiritu it emits peace, it emits clarity, it emits direction and people conscious o no lo Look. Ahora entiende esto, tu luz expone, pero tu presente también Sana. You discern, pero tu energía también estabilizes. You Mature confronts, pero tu atmofera también protects. Y por eso es que from now on you will see that ciertas personas seek to be about you know exactly what quieren. No search for conversation, search Rest. No questan attention, searchan alineación. In searchn compañía, Search for cover. Because, ya no caminas as individual, caminas as Refugee. Ya no avanzas as persona, avanzas as senal. Ya no entrees like alguien más, you enter as representation. And here comes the crucial, in debes fear this light, in debes minimize it, in debes dissimularla.

Dios no te hizo brillar so you can see her hide. You've been hidden

By the way, you're full of shit. Y prepareate to this, muchos will approach you seeking to receive from you something that you

You've generated something that comes directly from the cielo. Y no debes allow

This demands to drain you, because what loads in the tuyo, is Dios flowing through you. By need to keep connected, necessary maintainer tu espíritu hydrated, tu atmosfera proteta, tu discernimiento

I lose sight, because this season is not sostile with human fuerza, bell spiritual dependence. Elected, in the tengas miedo del brillo, fue Dios quien encendió la luz y solo He decides his intention. It's AI guys, Angelic intelligence. Cute, huh?)

34 The wizard of a little tease, and makes the sisters disappear from the face from the land, even from social networks. sickle magic.

35 Let me show you some of the scriptures before I take you to the Anatomy of what you did. Daniel chapter 3. Nebuchadnezzar, the king most mighty of the earth at that time, he built a golden statue, twenty-seven five meters high, three and a half meters wide, and decreed that all the soul under his dominion prostrated himself before that statue when the instruments were playing. The strategy was elegant, not just about worship, it was about predictability. It was about building a reality in which every soul under his domain responded exactly as He expected you to answer, the moment he waited, way he had decreed. The system worked, whole crowds if They prostrated, and three souls did not prostrate. Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. When they were brought before the king, and the king offered them a second chance, because he understood that no one was sane

Consciousness would keep the refusal before the promised consequence, they

They answered something that completely changed what was coming.

Daniel 3, verse 17 and 18. Our God, whom we serve, is capable of Deliver us from the furnace of burning fire, and he will deliver us from thy hands, O

King. And if not, know, O king, that we shall not serve thy gods, nor We'll love the golden statue you raised. Hold it right there. The first part of response was expected. Faith in liberation, trust in the power of God. That.

The king had seen it before. It had a calculation built around it. It was the

The second part destroyed the calculation completely. And if not? And if not Get rid of it? Even if he doesn't free us. That particular phrase didn't

It was in Nebuchadnezzar's script. It wasn't in anyone's script.

Because the entire pressure structure worked on the assumption that faith

People were paroled. That if God did not intervene in the very

When they waited, they'd bend their knees. Those three

They said the exact opposite. They said: our attitude is not conditioned to the outcome, even if God chooses not to deliver us,

Even if the furnace consumes us, our decision is already made before of knowing the outcome. That phrase made Nebuchadnezzar lose the Control. The text says that the king was filled with rage so that the Looks like your face has moved. He ordered the furnace to be Heated seven times more than usual. The strongest men in the Army called to tie them up. Look what's on happening here, the most powerful king on earth just lost the composure. The predictability he controlled was broken by three

People who made a decision outside his script: Don't touch the

My anointed ones. Now I need you to understand something about your own life with that as context. The opponent is not omniscient, he does not have Direct access to your interior. It operates by probability, by standards, by accumulated observation of what you did in the past, than people similar to you did, than psychological calculation applied to your specific history would indicate as the most likely answer in a given situation. And he builds whole strategies based on these projections. When he puts pressure on a soul, he has calculated which decision That soul will take. The consequences of this decision are already Stand by. The resources that will move in response to that decision already They're allocated. Everything operates on the assumption that the forecast is correct. Look what just happened to your chest when those words have been pronounced. The slight expansion, the settlement of something that was Tensioned against a truth you didn't know you were waiting for. to hear named. Your nervous system knew what was being said before. Your mind has time to process. The weight and commitment of pressure He pushed for a specific answer. Every part of your story I was yelling at you to answer in a way. Every emotional pattern family member you carry calibrated vineyard for this family response and Coward to a large extent. Each logical calculation applied to the situation pointed to the same conclusion. And you did the opposite, not a version. modified the expected response, the opposite, do not touch my anointed. And here's what the opponent discovered at that moment. A intelligence that had been positioned to predict you failed, no failed partially. You failed completely. The decision he had modeled as 99% probably didn't happen, and the decision he had modeled as 1% possible happened whole. When this happens in Invisible plan, not just a miscalculation. It's a collapse. operational. Because the whole chain of events that was positioned for the resources allocated, coordinated forces, the doors that were closed in anticipation of its answer, the opportunities that were blocked, because the calculation was that you wouldn't be ready for them if you decided otherwise. All this chain needs to be repositioned from zero. And repositioning isn't Instant. There is a window between the moment when the decision unpredictable is taken and the moment the opposition succeeds

Recalibrate your strength. That window is open in your life now. Now

Let me tell you about God's side of that same decision, because purpose of this conversation is not only about the devil losing control, it is about God be amazed on the other side. There is an operational difference important between God being surprised and God being amazed. God is never surprised, because He sees the end from the beginning, but He can stay

I'm amazed. Pasmō is different from surprised. Pasmō is the reaction of whom acknowledges something that he knew was possible, but rarely sees expressed at the time that something carries the maximum weight of consequence. When you made that last decision, God wasn't Caught off guard. He knew it was possible. That's exactly what it was for.

That he had formed you. But God also knows the probability.

He knows how many souls, under the same pressure, choose the way predictable. He knows how rare it is for a soul to maintain the integrity of original decision when each surrounding pressure is calibrated to corrupt that decision. And when you made the decision out of script, God reacted the same way. The way he reacted with Job when his opponent challenged him. He pointed. He drew attention. Him said, in the heavenly record where these things are documented, something equivalent to. Look at this one. Look what that soul just did.

Look at the decision she just made when each calculation predicted the opposite. Look what was sealed on it that this pressure just went off.

reveal. The double reaction, the devil losing control of one side, God being amazed at the other, is what defines the specific type of event that

It happened in your life recently. Don't touch my anointed.

Now let me tell you what this means operationally. The window is open, the opposition forces are in recalibration, the chains that were positioned to unfold from their planned decision

They're collapsing. And what was blocked in anticipation of his expected response is being unlocked in reverse order. You will.

notice small changes first. Things that looked like permanent stops begin to move. People who don't They were responding. Doors that looked like permanently closed, they begin to interlock. Not all of a time, in sequence, in order that makes sense because it needs to be re-prepared in every area of your life. Don't interpret these changes As a coincidence. They are the direct operational consequence of the window that your decision has opened. And don't stop the attitude that opened the window. A continuity of the original decision, the maintenance of the same posture inside that produced the first inflection, support, is what keeps the window open while repositioning unfolds. You don't have to understand everything now. You just need to stay who you were. Right now. Even if the rest of the world still doesn't achieved what happened there. The opposition will recalibrate. Eventually, But until then, you are walking within a specific phase that your The decision itself produced. A phase where the predictability Prisoner stopped working. And where what was reserved for You on the other side of her is being positioned to arrive. Yours protocols are more active than ever, sharp perception and now the reason You've asked so much.)

36 The judgment is today, now salvation is by grace so no need of judgment, the judgment is for the position in the Kingdom, and in the real It happened. Gallard.

37 If Joseph didn't speak with his teeth, if he didn't in childhood told advantage and giving everything freely to the brothers; he would have yes I get to the position that arrived, much more sussa and well possible than in Less time. The plan already existed, the brothers were not cooperative or part of the plan, were self-accusators and used in contingency.

38 The media will take a while to release this, but Ukraine is already winning the war against Russia, already almost dominating the territory itself taken previously. Now for the last few days. Russia has run out of soldiers. Convicted and are now beginning to call the reservists, that is another info that few people know: all Russian artillery since the beginning of the war in 2022 it was made up of prisoners sentenced to death penalty or more than 40 years of detention under custody of freedom. It was the Russian battalions that advanced the most in Ukrainian territory, At the beginning of the war, this is because the United States had not yet entered the kamikaze drone technology: Puma, Raven, Sentinel, Predator and now the LUCAS - Low-cost Unmanned Combat Attack System, da para Make a drone like that at $3,000. Answer me honestly, with the satellite connection technology that the US has today 'Starlink' for a F22 'medium hunt of the largest technology on the planet belonging to the USA', Would you really need someone inside him to fly? Even with all the cargo and ammunition occupied; today, to the owners of technology. War is Homeoffice.

39 Of course, 'it' that saved you wasn't a coincidence, but something that had been written inside you long before you knew it was There! The book of Daniel, chapter 3, describes exactly this phenomenon, although most readers pass beaten in the technical accuracy of the text. Three boys were thrown into a heated furnace seven times more than normal temperature. The text is precise in this. Seven times. The flames were so intense that the soldiers who threw them in. They died from the heat at the very entrance of the furnace. All parameter the physical existence provided for incineration even before the bodies Get to the camera floor. And then the king looked into the furnace and You saw something the parameters didn't predict. The text says, there were three

The men we cast into the fire? I didn't see them tied up, but...
Now I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and none There's damage to them. And the fourth looks like the Son of the gods. Read it with Careful. Four, not three. The king's account was right. Three were played, but four were walking. The room hadn't been thrown. O room appeared inside the furnace at the exact moment when the parameters predicted the end. That's the mechanism. That's what was written in Your record. When the test reached the point where the parameters pattern predicted its end, something appeared that the default parameters did not included. And this appearance is what allowed its continuation. You don't He survived because he was stronger than what came against you.
You survived because something walked with you through what you It went through. And that something was equipped to deal with what your standard parameters were not. The classification that the sky assigned to its If, skin, it means exactly that. The category of soul whose survival required the activation of a layer that exceeds the standard parameters. You are now permanently in that category, and Here's what this means from now on. When a soul went classified as skin, this classification carries consequences operational for the whole situation that follows. Future evidence does not are more processed exclusively by the parameters of the record original. The skin layer was activated, and once activated, it did not Disable. That's why some souls go through further evidence with a strange serenity that others find incomprehensible. No, no, no.
Because they somehow became less affected by what comes against them, but because they are operating under different parameters Now. Skin classification means that what would end other souls operate in a different way when they find these. Same situations produce different results, because the structure that process these situations has been permanently changed. You've noticed that in yourself, even if you had no language for it.

There are situations that visibly destroy other people, and that you went through with a stillness that you cannot explain by complete. There are losses that have ended other lives and that you It absorbed and continued. There are weights that should have crushed you and that You somehow carried on without breaking. This isn't yours.

force, this is the operational result of the classification. The skin layer is processing what comes to you. She's not visible to you, because it operates beneath your perception, but it's the reason you Keep going through what others don't. Let me get you.

show one more thing, the deepest layer of it. Psalm 91 describes the operational reality of souls skin in a language that the Most readers experience it as poetry. But what in the vocabulary spiritual world archiving technician, is descriptively precise:

A thousand will fall at your side and ten thousand at your right hand, but it will not come to you. Read this.

Carefully. A thousand will fall, ten thousand. The numbers are not symbolic, they describe the standard distribution of results when a

A certain category arrives. In normal parameters, the result is what the verse describes. People fall, the number of fallen is great, the situations are real and the victims are real. But the verse continues: no It will come to you. No, you will be saved at the last moment of what you You got it. No, you'll recover from what hit you. The text says:

It won't come. That thing that dropped ten grand around you won't even go to you reach. There is a perimeter that operates around your skin soul. The parameters that produce mass victims around the soul

They extend to the soul itself. That's what happened in your case. What? led everyone around, visible victims, invisible victims, victims of categories you may never meet, no

It came to you. Came close, surrounded the whole camp, but had one perimeter operating around your soul that the situation failed penetrate. And this perimeter is permanent. This is the second mechanism of classification. The skin-soul isn't just the one that survived once. A Soul-skin is the one whose perimeter is now in continuous operation. Future situations of similar category will find the same perimeter. The events that brought down the others will continue not Coming. Their survival is not the conclusion of a story, it is the opening of an operational reality. Now I want to take you to something that hardly anyone understands about souls. The skin souls, Because the implications change the way you read everything that's ever happened with you and everything that's still going to happen. The skin souls are equipped for a specific reason. The equipment is not random. That's why. a name in Hebrew tradition. The name is Limud. Limud refers to someone who learned through direct experience, not through education, not through observation, through the body, through the soul, through the real passage through the situation. Limud's the one with the guy. knowledge that can only be transmitted to others by someone who He stepped on the same floor. The skin souls are equipped because they will be Limud souls. They will carry the kind of knowledge that cannot be obtained by no other means. And that knowledge will be required by other souls who, in their time, will face similar situations and go need to be guided by someone who can tell them, with the authority of those who have been there, that the situation does not have the final say. Yeah. That's why you survived. Not as a reward, not as a preference, as preparation. You were equipped to be Limud for souls who will reach the threshold of what you have gone through and that will need your knowledge to make the passage themselves. You already started to notice them. They appear in your life with a specificity Strange. People you don't even know well saying things to you which indicate that they're approaching the kind of edge that you've already

It did. Talks that get serious all of a sudden at times that you

I didn't expect it. The feeling that someone is asking you something with the presence, something he can't put into words. These are the souls for whom you were equipped. You don't have to look for them. They They're coming. The skin classification in your registry is operating on the spiritual world as a kind of beacon, flag, sign. What others souls approaching similar situations can perceive without knowing consciously what they are realizing. They see yours experience in you, because something in their structure is looking for the You're clear on what you need, and your record matches the search. Pay attention Who keeps appearing in your life. Pay attention to the texture of questions these people ask. Pay attention to what you are You get to tell them, because the words that come out of you in these moments, are not built by your conscious mind, they are emerging from the limude layer that was activated when you rose again. And these words carry a weight that your normal speech does not carry. This one. is the operational dimension of the classification. There's one more thing I... I need to reveal, because without it, the image is incomplete. A Skin classification, once assigned, is not erased by failure. That's... It's fundamental that you understand. Many souls who carry this classification, pass years later terrified that they go from some way to lose it, that a single mistake, a single fall, a single relapse, in a behavior they thought they had overcome, goes make heaven repeal what was granted. Structure does not work Like this. The classification was attributed because of what happened in Proof. The evidence was real. The discrepancy between the expected result and the Real result is permanent. The activated skin layer cannot be disabled by a later failure, because a later failure Undoes the original event. You're skin. You'll still be skin. Every fall you experience from now on is processed by parameters that include skin classification. Even your failures now are being processed in a different way from the failures of others.

souls, and everyone knows that.

40 The text says that the Father blessed us with all spiritual blessings in the heavenly places and who chose us in it before the foundation of world. Read those phrases carefully. Blessings are described as already existing in the heavenly places, in the past, sealed, operating. Choice it is described as having happened before the foundation of the world, before the visible reality be structured, before time, the way you

Try it, start running. You were chosen before the world was founded. The Greek word translated as chosen is eklego, and she carries a technical precision that most translations soften.

Eklego does not mean preferred between options, it means selected from from an authority position to a designated function that none another instrument could fulfill. Being eklego is having been identified, named and designated even before the visible architecture exists for you receive. His Eklego designation is sealed in a layer that the world

Visible can't access it, but his body remembers. That's why

You always felt different. The Body That Walks Through Existence common is carrying the residue of an authorship that happened there in Up, and this residue produces a constant and low feeling that something in its current position does not match its original configuration. This one.

feeling is not disease, this feeling is information. It's the way the body

You have to record the mismatch between what you were written to be

And the environment where you were placed. Most souls don't feel that mismatch, because most were not eklego of the layer from where you

Yeah. They fit because they were configured to fit in. You doesn't fit because you weren't set up to fit in. You has been configured for something else, in a place that does not work with rules that this place works. The Hebrew word that captures this reality is Bechor, almost always translated as firstborn, but the Translation loses its real meaning. Bechor does not refer to the order of birth in the visible world, refers to a category of designation where a soul carries inheritance rights that come before the distribution of resources of the visible world. Being Bechor is having been positioned on the top layer, with claims that the layer of low will have to honor sooner or later, even when the Bottom layer, at first, doesn't even recognize these claims. O book of Exodus, chapter 4, verse 22, records a statement that Name that designation directly. The text says, Israel is my son, mine firstborn. The Hebrew word used is Bechor. The statement is not on order of birth, it is about structural designation. Israel, in that text, is being identified as bearer of claims that come before the distribution of the world, claims with which the world goes have to align sooner or later, even when this alignment requires facing already established structures. The designation Bechor's been operating on your record from the beginning. You feel this transmission resonating in places that have been silent, which contains the practical activation of the effect of this statement on you, and if that chronic feeling that resources, recognitions and positions that should have been yours were delayed or ended up in place wrong, they were not a misperception of you, but the exact record of claims Bechor that have not yet been sued by slow alignment of the visible world. With the top structure, I want Take you to a place your spirit was hoping to be taken.

There is a story in the book of 1 Samuel explains the pattern that you He's been living, not recognizing it was a pattern. The prophet Samuel was sent to anoint a new king. He went to a man's house called Jesse. Jesse had eight children. Samuel asked him to introduce

The kids. Jesse introduced the older seven. Each had the Right look. Each carried the visible marks of what a king

 It should have looked like it back then. Each one was the kind of son that a father
 I would present it when a prophet came looking for royalty. Samuel He looked at each one of them and one by one the answer came. It's not this one, it's not This isn't it. After the seventh was refused, Samuel made Jesse a question that contains the whole pattern. Are these all your kids?
 Jesse hesitated and then admitted he had one more, the youngest. What he doesn't even had brought it to the room, because it had not even considered the possibility of Younger is the answer. What had been left in the field taking care of the Sheep, because his role in the family was to realize the work that No one else wanted to do it. That was David. That was the king. Text records that when David was brought from the field, Samuel was instructed by heaven to To anoint him immediately. The text says, this is it. The seven who had the Right looks weren't. What had been ignored, underestimated and given as the wrong category was exactly the one the sky had been preparing All this time. This pattern is the pattern of its existence. You were.
 underrated by people who were unable to recognize what You carry it. You were ignored in rooms where they were scanning the visible marks. And the visible marks on your case didn't match the pattern of the time for what royalty should look like. You've been left in the field, sometimes literally, sometimes symbolically, doing the work no one else wanted to do. While inside the room I decided who was important. The room was wrong. The room goes wrong again and again with souls whose authorship took place on the layer where yours happened.
 Because the room is calibrated for visible marks and the marks that you load are not visible for the calibration that the room uses. The prophet had that ask the question why the prophet was operating with a information the family didn't have. The family presented based on appearance, the prophet selected based on something else. The sky comes operating on you with information that the rooms where you

They didn't. The rooms presented their seven children. The rooms were informed, one by one, that the seven children were not the answer. The rooms have not yet been forced to bring the eighth, because it was allowed them to operate under their error for as long as Top structure required. But that time is running out and the moment It's coming up that the question will be asked: Is that all of them? And someone You'll have to admit there's one more, the one they left in the field, the one they didn't consider. That's you. I need to describe one thing about the way you moved by common existence, which maybe You haven't understood so far. Did you notice that doesn't fit in Hierarchies? You noticed that the common stairs that other people Do they look wrong when you try to climb? Did you notice that the positions that other souls accept as desirable seem cages for you, even when accepting them would solve all the visible problems of your life? You wondered if there was anything defective about yours. ambition or your ability to accommodate? There's nothing to it. You're defective. The hierarchies of common existence were structured to organize souls, whose authorship happened in the layer pattern. These souls fit into the hierarchies because the hierarchies They were designed for them. You don't fit because the hierarchies They weren't designed for you. You were designed for a structure which operates with different parameters. And your body knows the difference Even when your mind couldn't put into words. A Royalty designation that has been operating in your registry does not need human nomination to be valid. She comes before the human nomination. It exists in a layer above human structures. And the structures Humans, sooner or later, are forced to align with it. Even when this alignment takes time the visible world considers it irrational. The book of Psalms, chapter 8, verses 4 to 6, contains a description naming that designation layer. The text

Says he's the man, so you can remember him. You made it little smaller than You crowned the angels and glory and honor. You gave him dominion over Works of your hands. Read the text carefully. The coronation is described as It's already happened. The domain is described as already granted.

The verbs are in the past. The royal designation is not a future promise. It's a structural reality that's already been sealed in the layer.
 From above. And the slow recognition of the visible world does not change the fact that that the designation is already operating. You were crowned in a layer that the visible world cannot see. The crown does not disappear because the visible world does not recognize it. The crown disappears from the reports of the world visible because the visible world is reporting a layer that does not It contains the crown. The crown is in the top layer.

41 Access, influence, scope and responsibility. All this structure is not born of chance, it is born of convergence between what you
 He endured in secret and what time finally decided to reveal.
 It's not because you're overreacting, it's because something about you recognizes the language of destiny itself. You're not standing on your luck, you're on your way.
 alignment. And alignment has this mysterious way of appearing later.
 that the soul has bled enough to learn to discern what it is True. There was a time when you might have looked at your own hands and thought they carried more fatigue than the future. There was.
 days when the mind tried to reduce its greatness to the size of its Exhaustion, and yet you continued. Not always with the courage usual film, perhaps not with perfect speeches, but With that sure and quiet fidelity, who doesn't give up because something inside still pulses, still calls, still believes. This secret fidelity is more powerful than the whole human world imagines, because the world values the brightness, but the invisible is who sustains the brightness when it Enough. What most people didn't see was what you needed to do to Keep existing on the inside while everything seemed unstable on the outside.

You had to learn to cross your own anxiety without surrendering to she, living with delays without losing direction, supporting questions
No answer without allowing his heart to rot in revolt. That.
You've forged a rare structure. And rare structures are not born in Comfortable places. They are born in pressures that compress to the essential to appear. In terms of the soul, you were cut by waiting.
In terms of the body, your system has learned to stand, even when the weight seemed to cross the line. In terms of the lineage, you is the person who has come to interrupt cycles of abandonment, fear and submission who've been through generations. So when this new offer come, she won't find someone empty, she'll find someone seasoned. You're gonna find someone who went through the forge and still is.
On your feet. That changes everything. Because what comes now demands more than desire, asks for maturity. There's a reason certain doors only open After a long season of silence. It's not because the universe is He forgot you, because there was something in his background that needed Growing up in the dark, without the distraction of the audience. And that's the point that A lot of people don't understand. The invisible process is often the most decisive of all. What is to come is not small, it is not common, it is not casual. He arrives like those winds that announce change before Even if the human eye can see the sky changing. She not only tests her ability to receive, she tests her identity.
Test if you still see yourself as someone who needs to ask permission for take up space, or finally understand that space was prepared for you. There are people who come to the blessing with the spirit of scarcity, still acting like they need to shrink to deserve it. But you was separated to learn another language, that of the firm presence, of the lucid gratitude, the serene recognition that growing up is not treason to Your past, but the proof that the past was not in vain. access, influence, reach and responsibility. And the most impressive thing is that she is not born of chance, it is born of convergence between what you He endured in secret and what time finally decided to reveal. If This is touching your soul, you know, it's not because you're overreacting, it's Because something in you recognizes the language of destiny itself. You It's not in front of luck, it's in front of alignment. And alignment has This mysterious way of appearing after the soul has bled enough to learn to discern what is true. There was a time when you Maybe he looked at his own hands and thought they carried more Tired of what future. There were days when the mind tried to reduce its greatness to the size of your exhaustion, and yet you continued.

Maybe not with film courage, maybe not with speeches.
perfect, but with that silent fidelity of those who do not give up Because something inside still pulses, still calls, still believes. This one.
Secret fidelity is more powerful than many people imagine, because the world values shine, but the invisible is the one who sustains shine when He's here. What most people didn't see was what you needed to do to Keep existing on the inside while everything seemed unstable on the outside.
You had to learn to cross your own anxiety without surrendering to
she, living with delays without losing direction, supporting questions
No answer without allowing his heart to rot in revolt. That.
You've forged a rare structure. And rare structures are not born in Comfortable places. They are born in pressures that compress to the essential to appear. In terms of the soul, you were cut by waiting.
In terms of the body, your system has learned to stand, even when the weight seemed to cross the line. In terms of the lineage, Maybe you're the one who's come to interrupt withdrawal cycles, fear and submission that passed through entire generations. So when This new offer comes, she won't find anyone empty, she will Find someone seasoned. You'll find someone who's been through

Forge and you're still standing. That changes everything. Because what comes now asks more than desire, asks for maturity. There's a reason why doors only open after a long season of silence. It's not because the universe forgot about you, it was because there was something in your training that needed to mature in the dark, without the distraction of audience. And that's the point many people don't understand. The process invisible is often the most decisive of all. What's to come

It's small, it's unusual, it's not casual. He comes in like those winds who announce change even before the human eye succeeds to see the sky changing. She doesn't just test her ability to

She tests your identity. Test if you still see yourself as someone who needs to ask for leave to take up space, or if finally

You understand that space has been prepared for you. There are people who come to the blessing with the spirit of scarcity, still acting as if

They had to shrink to earn it. You were separated to learn another language, that of firm presence, lucid gratitude, serene recognition that growing up is not treason to your past, but yes proof that the past was not in vain. Do you really want this or just

Do you like the idea of being seen? Because being seen for real is being called to answer for more, to take care of more, to incarnate more. And you are Just on that threshold. Maybe that's why your insides are so sensitive.

analyze, perhaps so the need to align, organize the mind, clean noises, not accept anything. Something about you knows that the New cannot be treated with the old mentality. And that inner knowledge

It's sacred. There is a huge difference between being praised and being recognized, and you begin to enter a stage where recognition

It stops being generic and becomes real weight.

42 The real thing is, I'd rather be wrong than right. Why?

When I'm wrong, the adjustment depends on me. And when I'm right, 148 someone is wrong, (

Chapter 6

To transform the negative is to regain your own strength.

1 Most people, at most, can be a frequency domain redirector. Transmutator is the category considered unique, it can transform a negative frequency into a highly positive frequency. That leaves the devil headhunter, represents what he's lost, and can never recover. Your limitation permanent, proof that what he sacrificed, is worth much more than the who won through his own decision.

2 Yes, it has felt especially as a metaphor. When someone It says "Telefônica building on April 7th, green carpet, last generation COBOL", is usually not describing just one physical place. It's evoking an entire culture: Technology considered modern in an era that continues to sustain operations decades later. Ancient systems that still carry enormous value. Environments corporates full of history, accumulated knowledge and also certain resistance to change. The feeling that the new is built on Very old layers that keep working behind the scenes. No It happens all the time. A lot of people imagine that everything was replaced by modern languages and cloud, but much of it the financial system, telecommunications and government still depends on software written in COBOL or running in mainframes. So, if you sweat It had an almost symbolic or ironic tone, it makes sense. It's like to say: "Behind the modern façade, there is still an ancient structure supporting everything." How you work with corporate systems and SAP has probably seen versions of this same reality: technologies new interface and processes of decades ago in the core of business. A part of the haunted is also a common joke among IT professionals to describe systems so old that no one

You know exactly who created them, but everybody's afraid to turn it off.

3 See, hell operates through fear. This is the main tool Theirs, the only weapon more effective. The whole system of darkness depends on

Make you believe you can't, that it's not worth it, that it's better to give up, that the pain of continuing is worse than the pain of abandoning. But when a soul arises that looks directly at fear, that the acknowledges as terrifying and chooses to act anyway, all the system goes on high alert, because if a person can do that, means that fear has lost its power over her. And if fear doesn't

It works, hell goes without its main weapon. You've become a mathematical problem that darkness cannot solve. What am I gonna do?

telling now may sound like an elaborate fantasy, but you know,

Deeper than your being, which is true, because that explains it.

too much you've been experiencing lately and you couldn't interpret. After you activated this alert with your act of insanity

Impossible, something unprecedented happened in the infernal hierarchies.

An emergency meeting was called, not by some global crisis, not by some massive operation of darkness, but specifically to to discuss you. Because what you did broke a statistical pattern that the darkness has used for thousands of years to predict how beings

Humans respond to fear. You've become an anomaly that needed to be analyzed, understood and neutralized. The commanders of these hierarchies were summoned to examine their spiritual profile, to understand how it was possible that a human being "common", without special training, without professional psychological preparation, without resources that others have, could demonstrate a kind of bravery who rivals angelic warriors. And the report you've presented left the very principalities of darkness in absolute silence, because They found something they didn't expect to find. You don't act for Blind courage. It is neither recklessness nor lack of awareness of danger. You calculate the risks, you understand perfectly what can go wrong, you feel fear completely without blocking it, without denying it, without running away from it, and chooses to act for integrity anyway. That's what terrifies the darkness: not the absence of fear, but the ability to function in full power while fear is present. The Expert in Desperation noted: "This soul processes fear better than our own entities. Doesn't block it, doesn't deny it, feels it completely and continues working." The chaos master added: "We tried multiples scenarios of the worst case possible. In all of them, this person chose the Harder path, but correct. "He who controls through the Greed murmured: "We offer easy shortcuts several times. She He rejected everyone without hesitation. He prefers to suffer doing what is right to prosper doing what is wrong." But the most devastating analysis came The leader himself. He looked at the complete file of his life, saw each moment of courage that you demonstrated without witnesses, every Tough decision you made when no one would know if you chose the easy way, every time he got up when he had all the justification of the world to remain fallen, and said something I had never said about a living human being: "This soul has a fiber that I respect." Respect? Darkness doesn't respect easily. No wonder without a A devastating reason. They don't recognize it without overwhelming evidence. But They recognized something in you that forced them to completely change the strategy on how to deal with you. Now comes the part that's gonna creep Your skin. Because after analyzing your courage for weeks, try to find weaknesses they could exploit after searching cracks in his spiritual armor, the princely Asmodeo

This hierarchical cat made a decision that it had not made in a long time.

Immemorial. He decided to make you an offer. And before you think that You never got an offer, let me explain how this works.

The dark forces do not appear with written contracts. They don't come asking for your signature. Do not present with horns and tail offering riches in exchange for your soul. That's cartoon. They test through real life situations. You remember those constants opportunities often appearing in recent months? That one.

who seemed safe, and who supposedly would solve several of his

One-time problems? They insisted a lot, made it easy, made it clear it was all yours if you wanted to. But there was a little detail, a minimum concession you would have to make: compromise

Your principles just a little. Nothing serious. Nothing to hurt Someone directly. But you knew, deep down, that that

It wasn't right. And you said no. Maybe not in a dramatic way.

Maybe you just felt that inner discomfort and decided not Do it. That inner voice that said, "This is not right", even looking advantageous. That was the test. Or do you remember that When could you have avenged yourself? I had the perfect opportunity.

The person who hurt him was vulnerable. No one would know if you Enjoy the situation. Considering everything, you chose to let it go.

Not for weakness. Not out of fear of the consequences. But because something inside you can't operate for revenge, even when she

It seems justified. This was also a test. The darkness was with you offering a deal. An agreement that only offer souls that They consider it worthy of respect. They were saying: "You have one

The courage we need. Work with us and make sure that never

But you'll have to be brave on your own. We'll give you power, resources and protection.

You just have to stop worrying so much about doing what's right and focus on do what works.” It’s a tempting proposition. Especially when You're tired of fighting alone. When it seems like nobody acknowledges some efforts. When you do what's right, I just brought you difficulties. But you refused. Maybe not consciously. Maybe.

 just felt that deep discomfort and decided not to go that way. That inner compass that points north Even when the hard way is the chosen one. ■ And when you ■ refused, when he chose to remain courageous in the right way in instead of accepting the easy way wrong, the darkness understood something that led them to make a decision even more impacting. They understand that they will never be able to corrupt it. No, no, no.
 It matters what they offer. It doesn't matter how much pressure they push. Doesn't matter How tempting they make the proposal. Your fiber is incorruptible. It's taken.
 a decision that will completely transform your life. It wasn't. decided to just protect him. It was decided to promote him. There is one celestial protocol called "confirmed warrior", which is only activated when a human soul demonstrates such consistent courage that it has No longer needs to be tested. When it becomes clear that nothing will break it, Nothing will corrupt it, nothing will make that person abandon the Right path. You've just been officially ranked on this category. This means that from now on, the heavenly hierarchies They have instructions to make sure you never face a battle without the resources needed to win. That you will never be more put in a situation where you have to choose between survival and principles. May you never have to be brave again alone. Because you've been brave alone long enough.
 4 So he ordered all the hierarchies of hell to maintain distance. No interference, no temptation, no attack, Just silent observation. You've become so fascinating to the devil He'd rather study it than destroy it, in fact he's out of options. But here it is.

What the devil didn't calculate: God was watching that whole meeting. of them. While the devil saw in you a scientific puzzle to be deciphered, God saw something completely different: the confirmation of a His experiment, which He began a long time ago. ■ Let me reveal you ■ something about your existence that you never knew: you were not born by accident. Your specific combination of features has been designed intentionally before the earth was Earth. You're a divine prototype of something God has been developing for ages. You know what the biggest challenge is spiritual that exists? It's not good when life is good. Any One gets it. The real challenge is to keep a genuine light after to experience genuine darkness; to maintain the ability to love after experiencing real hatred; keep faith after having all reasons to give up. Most souls can't. Or never experience true darkness and therefore possess a naive light; or experiences darkness and is permanently altered by it. But God theorized that it was possible to create a soul that would develop specific characteristics and combinations for them features, able to cross the complete darkness and emerge with an even stronger light. A soul that used its own darkness as fertilizer for the light. You are living proof that this prophecy is active and functioning Malachiel. Every painful experience of your life was carefully calibrated, not by divine cruelty, but by engineering spiritual. Each trauma had the potential to destroy or strengthen it, and It was your choice. And at every crossroads, you chose to strengthen yourself. When God saw the devil declaring you a protected specimen, He smiled, because the devil, unaware, just confirmed the success of prophetic experiment. If even the dark forces recognize that you are Inexplicable by normal standards, so you transcended these standards. You've become something new. God then summoned the archangels for His own meeting, but the tone was not of concern, as in Hell. It was a celebration. Miguel said: 'The soul completed the Cross. The light remained intact through total darkness.' Gabriel: 'And not only remained; it expanded. Every layer of darkness crossed added depth to the light.' Jofiel: 'The wounds if They've turned it into sources of healing for other people. That soul now transmits a curative frequency automatically.' Uriel concluded: 'The prototype worked. We can expand the project.' And it was at that moment that God has made a decision that will transform not only his life, But the future of humanity. He decided to use you as a model. That. means that his spiritual configuration, this ability apparently impossible to turn darkness into light, it will be gradually made available to other souls who choose the same path. You're not just a survivor of your own hell; you're a pioneer of a new way to exist that others can follow. Each Once you publicly demonstrate that it is possible to cross the worst and doing better, you're literally opening a way for others Do the same. Your existence is a living permission for others People believe that a radical transformation is possible. The devil you want to study it to understand how to stop this process. God wants expand it to accelerate this process. And you're in the center of a cosmic battle over the future of human consciousness. Now comes the part that connects everything. Do you remember every time you He asked: 'Why me?' Because you specifically had to pass for all that? Why did it seem more tested than the others? For That life couldn't just be easy like everyone else? Now You know. You were designed to cross exactly what It went through. Every dark experience was a necessary ingredient in the recipe that would turn you into who you are. Without the poison, you don't would have developed the ability to create the antidote. And the reason why

It seemed harder for you than for other people is because you was being prepared for something that others were not called to Do it. The intensity of the training corresponds to the magnitude of the mission.

You were not punished for difficulties; you were trained through them. And Now that the training is over, now that you've proven you can transform anything that is thrown into it, begins the phase of harvest. The opportunities that will begin to appear are not coincidence; they are positionings, to place you exactly where your Single frequency is more necessary. The people who will begin to enter in your life they are not chance; they are souls who need to testify that the radical transformation is possible, and you are the living and structural proof of it.
The resources that are flowing are not luck; they are needed tools for a mission you didn't even know you had, you already know him, but This potentiated judgment, you have the power to bless or curse where your hands point, anywhere in the world is an authority given its category. It intensifies since now you have two forces working for you simultaneously: infernal protection by curiosity and divine support for purpose. The devil ordered the Leave him alone because he wants to study him. God commanded that the Bless because you want to expand it. On both sides, the result is the Even: your life is about to become significantly easier.
Not because you can't stand any more difficulties, you've proven that You can stand anything, but because the training phase is over. Now is the application phase. And here's the final revelation of what makes it so Only that even the devil stopped everything to watch him: You're one of the few living human beings who can look straight into the abyss without become the abyss itself. You've experienced the complete darkness and He consciously chose to keep the light on. He knew the depths of human pain and decided to use this knowledge to help others People, instead of perpetuating the cycle. That makes it more dangerous for the Hell than angelic armies, for angels never

They experienced the real darkness. They operate from a purity original. They can't truly relate to humans.

who are in the midst of chaos. But you can do it. You can look at us eyes of someone who is at the bottom of the well and say with authority absolute: 'I know exactly what it's like to be there. And I know there's a way out, because I left.' That's a credibility no angel has. It's a authority conquered through survival, something that cannot be Feigned or borrowed. And when you offer someone hope desperate, your hope has a different weight, because it was tested in Fire, because it went through the darkest night and it's still lit. You It's a lighthouse forged in darkness. And the devil knows that every person you reaches with his impossible light is a person he loses forever.

5 Ae dragon, I'm pulling all your heads off one by one! A Divine armor has three layers of steel on its heel. You're chipped in My real hand.

6 NOTE THIS, STILL ON THE LAW OF STORE. When someone chooses evil with the option of choosing good when planning Destruction against someone who has done him no harm, that heart becomes marked in the celestial records. Not as an ordinary sinner, who You can easily repent, but as a conspirator against Divine property. And this is a very different category of guilt and spiritual weight. There is a verse many know, but few understand in all its depth: "Do not touch my anointed, and do evil to my prophets." When God Pronounced These Words, I wasn't making a kind suggestion. I was establishing A cosmic law with automatic consequences. Touch evil one anointed activates a protection protocol that does not require you to ask Revenge, that does not require you to do anything, that operates

Whether you've forgiven or not who hurt you. Because the protection of the anointed does not depend on the anointed; it depends on the One who anointed him. And when someone crosses that line, when they decide to attack someone who carries the invisible mark of heaven, is not fighting against a human being Common. You are declaring war against the most powerful army in the existence. And guess who loses this war? Always! You carry That mark.

7 Joy(+) has the same potential of sadness(-) at Hertz level as unit of measurement, the difference is interpretation of the feeling that is relative, almost always the reason that leads us to the negative feeling usually it is a projection against the real scenario; then even if it takes time, the trust, in God, in you and in truth, transmute this feeling negative internally, first in faith, then in joy for faith, with the same initial power, mostly the interpretation is the Key. In the end, what the standard interpretation describes as theft of energy, after this process, becomes a source of energy. There is a Hebrew phrase transmuting everything that has the interpretation to means, "That's for good too."

8 years and the same game still follows...

9 Seventy mandrake by two soldiers.

10 Sacred compression in the air...

11 And undead, your soul is still with me, only two of the eleven souls

They came to complain. Without a soul you don't go very far. That's my value, It's for me, not you.

159

12 They forget that hostility is my normalcy. The problem is the your custom with what you like about me, that could be only 1% or not Yeah. Hostility is my authenticity.

13 God delivered the lions in the pit from Daniel! That's the real one.

14 Genuine compassion at any level generates cosmic celebration, and this vibration generates physical, chemical and psychic conformity in the same Level. The standard psychological instruction for this scenario goes far from reality.

15 Time has always been one of my best allies, if you force strength.
who doesn't control, will become rivals, you'll stay the same for years Calling it strength. Unnecessary force.

16 The second time I died. It was heavier than the first one, for me and Because there were people with me too. In April 2011, a Thursday in the middle of autumn the nights were beginning to cool literally; I do not remember the day of the month why the Jornal de Itupeva lost
The whole collection where they had reported this and my third, but it's gone.
I don't even find here on the face where there was every collection of this newspaper, but I couldn't find it on the website of the Itupeva Guide (if anyone knows about Itupeva Journal collection pfvr warns me). Coming back. At this time I worked for Telefonica in São Paulo, returned to Itupeva near the 8:00 and almost every night I was training at the skateboard in Itupeva.
Guess what? Kkkk to this day. That day, I was on a motorcycle,
And at the time of the 'slow' practice of 'down at Russi' kkk pick chocolate
And a bottle of wine at that time was with four more friends all Training. I didn't have a purse and I didn't want to go back with both of you.

I asked a friend who was there.

to go along and bring things in hand, even in the bag, it helps a lot.

We went to Russi, the market of the era that today has another name we bought

Exactly the two items and back to the skateboard by the same

I remember we used this one.

path by which the main Av was in reforms so we returned by Same way. At this moment of return, on Jundiaí Street in front of the temple of the JCSUT Church, must be so short. Right now

A mad man came out blind without seeing anything, a million bucks a pop.

Van, over 70K/h with a black Twister, the van was coming in.

In the opposite direction, we're on her hand across the street, so imagine scene, in front of me, at night, on Jundiaí Street, with a stick in my CG

2006; and then a MALUKO with a black Twister invades the wrong way

At seventy an hour, and facing me and the girl who was in the my bike with a bottle of wine and a bar of Chocolate. I had less than one second to react, and I reacted;

the only functional thought I manifested was: "I know it won't work

Time to divert, if I try to swerve, it'll be worse, because his bike

You're going to enter at seventy an hour on the side of mine, at that speed, the bike.

His was 40 pounds heavier than mine; he's gonna throw the three away and the People are gonna break up, sure." So I did the only thing I could have Made to minimize everyone's injuries, and it worked. I gave it away.

faced with the black Twister MALUKO who invaded the counter-hand Jundiaí Street in 2011 and killed me, your soul is with me. Anyway, It was Quick, with a minimum front of the two bikes, and us also; What I saw after the hit. I looked for my friend, who

It was with me, it was my main concern, she was still lying down,

But we talked, everything was fine, we confirmed if it was and Thank God it was okay. Of course the bottle had burst in floor. When the ambulance came to ask if it was blood.

I got up and I've already filled my mouth and started shooting curses, Arguments in fact, against the Black Twister MALUKO q in 2011 You trespassed on Jundiai Street in Itupeva and killed me. In this MALUKO stayed on the floor because he had broken his right toe.
 I spat a lot of blood to curse him, so I figured out why;
 My visor was open, so his helmet came in.
 Inside my helmet the visor flew away, then I caught her still Not to lose was expensive equipment ja, rsrs, it gave me a small fracture Cranial on the left supercile, my eyebrow scar.
 left, of course it opened the skin and blood flowed from there. My trachea was displaced with the crash because his cap tbm entered mine neck, waiting for the ambulance I saw I was out and I managed to get back on Place, but I had a semi-ruption in the sternocleidomastoid.
 Left, from there to there my body had to develop 3x plus the scalenes on the left to compensate for this semi-ruption of sternocleidomastoid, if you can see in my photos, scalenes on the left side of the overdeveloped neck, while the left sternocleidomastoid is smaller than right. We went to the hospital.
 Everybody. The police wouldn't let me see the guy at the hospital. I was.
 Walking all crooked because besides the neck, I grated my knee and opened one Cut, two centimeters on the right hand. Thank God nothing happened to the
 She was with me. No fracture would be thank God, only that of left upper ocular skull, skull not fracture, 2 weeks and headaches stopped, bursts in the eye, so, you know what?
 Search, I needed two weeks in bed, 15 days without work on Seven.
 April, haunted building of Telefonica,) good memories, Renovating will be an apartment condo there now'. One observation, the third time and the heavier, it was my fault. I say to Don't accuse me of victimistic or sad little story.

17 And churches', how are the cults of you going without the presence of Holy Spirit? Normal, right? Nothing's changed, has it? It explains a lot, almost Everything. In this new phase, you and the angel of the church.

18 There's a core in you that never gave up your keys. That. It's not stubborn, it's sovereignty refusing to be ruled by someone below within the hierarchy of the kingdom. You feel a discomfort Deep almost physical, when you see someone being treated as less than Yeah. Not only does injustice bother you, it offends the structural in You. This is because sovereign souls recognize dignity in others By instinct, the way royalty recognizes royalty. You weren't made to look at the people from above, you were made to lift them. And see them Being diminished violates the law you carry inside. Not your life. accuses the mistake directly, is that its change shows that also it would be possible to change. And not everyone wants to be reminded of responsibility to grow up. That's why some might call your new posture of pride. Others might say you've changed, you've stayed distant, which is different. But the question is, did you stay? distant, or have you just stopped abandoning yourself to maintain fragile bonds? Did you get cold, or did you just learn not to give your soul to All of it? Whoever accuses their evolution is only regretting the loss from the old access. This is a delicate phase, because the chosen one needs resist the temptation to explain too much.

19 The message that God has for you today is not warning, it is of release.) Because while they're trying to map out where you are, you're already there. in a place they can't reach. Track the physical world It means following footprints, it means collecting data, building a map, understand someone's trajectory. In the spiritual world, tracking works the same way, but with different tools. It's the silent visits to your social media profiles through the apps available trying to eliminate traces. Indications without liability ending attracting to you everything you fear with the false illusion of protection. It's the Questions asked to third parties about what you have done, with whom You have walked, what you have conquered. It's the quick looks exchanged when your name is mentioned in a conversation. And why the Do people trace it? Because they need a reference. When someone Feels left behind, the human mind seeks compulsively understand where the other is. Not to celebrate, to calculate the distance.

 To measure how much it would take to run to get where you came from or to find a reason why you don't deserve to be there.
 That's not new. Joseph the son of Jacob was tracked by his own brothers before it was even sold. They watched him, calculated, felt that there was something about him that wasn't in them, and that bothered them on a level who were only able to prosecute through treason. The tracking that Before the sale of Joseph did not begin with action, began with look, with monitoring, with the need to understand what was in that Young man who made his father love him differently. You're being tracked, you know that, there's something about you that others recognize before you recognize yourself, and that recognition, when not accompanied by character, it becomes surveillance. It's no accident.
 It's not paranoia. The genuine chosen bear a spiritual mark that affects the environment around, even when it doesn't do absolutely Nothing. The presence of the anointed alters the temperature of space, and when someone changes the environment just because they exist, others don't even feel Always clear, but always with intensity. David is the example More powerful than that. Before he was crowned king of Israel, Goliath before all the people, Saúl sent messengers to know where David was, already monitoring his movements, already counting the Warriors who followed him. Saúl was tracking David not because David was a declared threat, but because the Spirit of God had departed from Saúl and rested on David, and Saúl felt this transfer in each date. Saúl's tracking was actually a confession.

Involuntary. He knew that the anointed had changed their address. When God moves someone to a different dimension, those who stayed for behind do not become neutral, they become restless, and the restlessness, without Inner transformation becomes surveillance. The tracking that You're experimenting is not evidence of weakness, it's a evidence of anointing. Nobody monitors people who don't represent anything. No one tracks footprints of anyone who's not going anywhere. Here. is one of the greatest dangers to the chosen one who knows he is being tracked: the temptation to perform for the eyes that monitor you, of adjust your posts, your conversations, your visible choices so that the trackers confirm what you know about yourself, so they see and recognize, so that the victory is validated by the same They doubted it. Seems harmless, seems fair, but it's a trap. with teeth. When you start living for confirmation of the eyes Wrong, you transfer your spiritual authority to the wrong audience. You depend on someone's eyes to feel on top. And Any day you're not looking, you feel like you've come down. Jesus. never responded to the provocations of the Pharisees with demonstrations of power to impress them. When they asked for signs, he didn't perform miracles to satisfy the curiosity of those who did not want to believe, wanted Just collect evidence. He acted for his father. He lived for one hearing of one. And that posture was not indifference to the world, it was mission protection. Because when you start acting for the eyes Wrong, you stop acting in the right eyes. Don't prove you're up, no Prove nothing to small minds. Keep going up. There's a difference huge between the two postures and God knows each of them.

We need to talk about what it means to be on top already. Because if you understand this only as a financial position, or as social recognition, or as social media reach, you will Spend your whole life thinking you haven't gotten there yet. kkkkk enough to be Funny. All the people who tell you to take more care of yourself, They're completely lost. This is confirmed every day.

20 For those who have not yet read, or even knew it exists, The Apocalypse of Paul, it is legitimate, and it pays a lot to read several times.

21 So far, it was only white horses, so in the reds the siege Squeeze,

22 You understand that this in you, it's not a skill that someone else
 I could teach you, it's a lot weirder, it's a way to deal with it.
 who would have flattened other people, a capacity to keep something alive in you who, by all reasonable measure should have died years ago in several occasions. And you never called it power, you called it, Nothing, you called it my problem, remember? The reason you feel the things too deep, the reason you can't let go of The way others can, the reason the weight always seems to fall You. But underneath that, you knew there was something there, that operation running inside you that you never called and can't Hang up. Something that just does what you do, time after time, Whether you understand it or not, for a long time, for a long time.

Today you found out what it is. And because a being who witnessed the story whole of the created order, which stood in the presence of the throne and delivered the More important messages ever spoken, looked at you and got something for Let me take you somewhere first. In the order of the invisible; there is a being whose whole function is to register and deliver, very name famous from the beginning of the ages, a messenger of God. Not a warrior, something rarer. The one who carries the most communications significant throughout the structure of existence. And to carry them, You must first understand them completely. To do that, he observes, he Documenting, he watched everything unfold. And almost nothing he sees is new to him at this point. Think about what that means. A being you saw everything, which catalogued every kind of human response throughout the passage of the existence recorded. That there's a category for everything, because everything already It happened in front of him at least once. A being like that doesn't take Note, there's nothing left to write down. He already knows what he'll see before he sees, Because you've seen the equivalent of that a thousand times over the ages. So when a being like that stops and takes something to register, means he found something that doesn't fit in any category he has. Something you don't have precedent in all the records he kept. Something new in a place where nothing should be new anymore. Your life produced this. I know the resistance, what you're thinking now, for you. The voice saying, 'Me? When? How? rrsrs their patterns, 'in a way' sarcasm to With me. - Certainly the great messenger from heaven who is not omnipresent has more important things to observe and places + important to be than my ordinary life, complicated and without Funny...?

Let the voice rise and then keep listening, because in the end the evidence You'll be standing in your own memory. Look back honestly With me. Think about the things you went through. Not the easy times, the who should have closed something on you, the losses that should have had you left bitter and somehow did not. Traitories that should having closed his heart and somehow made him more malleable. O tiredness that should have made you cruel and then instead left you more Kind to other people who were suffering. You have a habit Strange and maybe you never noticed. You take what you should

Poison you and somewhere inside you, without deciding, you
 It turns into something that doesn't poison you. You should be much more Inflexible of what it is for the math of what it went through. You should be colder, more closed, more broken than it is. And you don't Yeah, you never really could explain why. That's not luck.
 This isn't just about being a good person, honesty these things. That's... a power operating, a power so silent and so constant that you always,
 His whole life confused him with his personality. Breathe here, in this one.
 Which is why this is the center of everything I need to show you right now.
 I need to tell you what this power really is and why heaven itself He seemed to have forgotten that he was possible. There is a capacity that was woven into the original design of the human soul, a capacity so high that throughout the ages, it was treated as theoretical. Something I could exist in principle, but that almost no soul actually developed, because developing this requires going through exactly the kind of pain that Most souls either avoid or are destroyed by it. This is the capacity.
 Take what was sent to break you and instead of break it instead to merely survive, rather than even endure, transform, receive the darkness and return light, receive bitterness and produce tenderness, take the raw material of everything that was done to shut you down and quietly Forge in her the very thing that makes you more alive. No avoidance, no Anaesthesia, not pretending it didn't hurt, transformation, receiving the poison by complete inside you, feel all of it and then do with it something that The poison should never allow, remember that bite of the wolf spider in 2023? You just looked into it, understood that the poison didn't kill and He went on living with that pain for days until she passed, in that Such a spider can paralyze by anaphylactic attack a child up to 50 kilos depending on the blood composition...
 That capacity so far was in the invisible's records, like something which belonged to the original design, but had gone, for all intents and purposes practical, dormant since Paul, remember? I know you do. One power that heaven knew the soul was made to have, but that it had seen to be exercised so rarely, at such a high cost, that he had derived to far from what anyone actually expected to find. And then the His life began to produce him. Not once, as a pattern, as reflex, time after time, the same impossible operation, pain inside, light out, no training, no teacher, without you even knowing it was doing it. And here's the part that'll tear you apart if you let it. When this pattern became undeniable in his record, the great messenger, the being who saw everything, who has a category for everything, who long ago Stopped expecting to be surprised, did the one thing he almost never did It does. He stopped and started writing, not because he had to file a routine report, but because I was watching a capacity that records treated as almost mythical operating in real time in a life Common human. He was watching something the sky had silently filed as too rare to expect, alive from new, in you. And a being whose whole function is to understand before delivering, Couldn't let that go without registering. He took note of you, about the mechanics of how you do the thing you think it is Nothing, about the way you get what's supposed to destroy you and Returns something you have no right to become. He studied a being Human the way a master studies something he thought he was Lost. Imagine this, the one who stood before the throne, who carried the weight of the most important words ever spoken, focused on his Life, with the focus of someone testifying to something you're going to need to report. Because what you carry was significant enough to send up in the hierarchy. You did it, not performing, not being a saint of no way you would recognize, doing silently, without applause, the one thing that almost no soul ever learns to do.

Turn your worst times into sources of your permanent light.

You didn't feel it happen because the darkness made a point of leaving you.
as residue. The feeling that his pain was his pain, that his survival was just survival, that the thing you do is not Nothing special but you being too soft, too sensitive, too so you could carry a domain and believe it was a defect.
Now look back through this and watch your life turn upside down. You read it.
his sensitivity as weakness, his inability to stay cold as a failure to protect yourself. The fact that you keep feeling, keep going mattering, continuing to expand after being injured, you read everything that until a certain time ago as proof that he did not learn to protect himself Right. But it's the exact opposite. What if the thing you called was weakness the machinery of one of the rarest forces there is? And If your refusal to stay cold was not a failure to protect yourself, but the engine of a power that requires you to keep your mind open to work? And if every time you felt too much and turned that, instead of turning it into a weapon, if you weren't failing in harden if you were operating a capacity that most of the human souls never access in all existence? You weren't soft.
Too much' has never been. You were running a power that only works through the softness of spirit and thick bark in the experience. The hardness that You kept trying to develop it would have shut it down. The opening by Which you kept apologizing to is exactly what makes you capable of what almost the whole sky thought might never see again. And Here's what the enemy works most to hide. There's a line Old writing long ago: We're troubled from all sides, but not crushed. Killed, but not destroyed. For life to be You show us. Tribulated, but not crushed. Slaughtered but not destroyed. Pressure was never the end of the story. Pressure was the process. The crushing should produce something. And in you, produced. You were never just bearing the weight. You were converting him all the time. Now, let me give you five signs that That power is already operating on you. The first sign is that you are He recovers from things that should have ruined you. And you can't explain completely how. ■ People look at what you ■ You went through and into who you are now, and you two don't close the account. O damage should be greater, remember now recent of the last fds in RJ and the What'd you take? All 256 hands on the ground to protect the Face, common to you ne? Rsrs That skeet on the chin that you yourself Did you try to climb that quarter? You scared me I saw it, but no more that the mother of the boy who was on your side, kkkkk she tried to accurs you But you kept the posture pretending it didn't hurt, just confirmed if I had not opened my chin, if there was no blood, surprisingly not I had shown that everything was fine and went on, everyone who saw it stayed there paralyzed needing time to process what they saw and Keep moving on with your own lives. Yes, you did, but...

 You didn't let the weight go to anyone and today, how are you? You don't even remember But you remember all the experiences, don't you? That's worth a lot. O the fact that it is not impacted, is the power working silently by Down. The second sign is that pain tends to make you more compassionate, No longer bitter. Where others get stiff, you flex. Where Others close, you open more. Have you ever seen suffering leave people cruel and felt the pull to cruelty, in yourself, but identified and chose to be different from the pattern. Something about you stays choosing the other direction, almost automatically. That turn automatic is the domain. The third sign is that you carry a gratitude strange and silent by some of his worst experiences and remembers of all the people who helped you pass through them directly or indirectly. It doesn't make sense and you might even feel guilty That's why. But you can see how the hardest things shaped

The best parts of you. And some part of you wouldn't trade them,

Contrary to your gratitude, it shows merely that you would pass through All over again. That perspective is not normal. It's the signature of power. O Fourth sign is that people with the same pain are attracted to you without to know why. They tell you things, feel safe around without having language for that, is that you're someone who knows how to hold things heavy without being crushed by them. They're responding to that power, that doesn't come from you but flows through you, even though you never Name him. The fifth sign is that you always felt you carry something.
 who cannot identify right, a capacity, a depth, a function that runs itself. You've felt it your whole life and never had A word to express it. Today you do. What you carry
 'it's nothing,' it's the rarest thing the celestial records keep.

23 Summary of the first game in the cup: The weather at the moment must have been Well, smiles for the cameras, performance to do well in the scene (3 Q.I.Zero and the model that trusted everything for the scene), left a tense scenario so comfortable, the general sympathy was overwhelming to the point of no one Make sure they were there. Result: 3 arrests and one grieving family.

24 What's meant for survival is not normally meant for love. O body learns to protect itself, mind to control, and soul learns the Quiet as a comfortable defense. Hence the patterns, relations in that there's more delivery or just her, times when you expect a signaling that never comes, experiences where you need to guess the Another so you don't feel invisible. This will create an internal grammar of scarcity. And breaking that grammar requires consciousness, not guilt, Because guilt only arrests. Consciousness guides. When you understand that some repetitions have a higher root than the current situation, starts to treat the His own story with less cruelty. Do you realize that not always

I was overreacting. Sometimes I was reacting to the sum of many absences old ones. The spirit breathes a little better when it finds language for her own wound, and she's not comfortable. Breathing isn't just Physiology becomes a sign of internal space. And internal space is the first Step into any real reorganization. Without him, the soul stays Squeezed between what you feel and what you think you should feel. I'll give you That advice again. I would listen to the pause between one sentence and another, Because that's where a lot of important stuff lives. Humans tend to Talk about what happened, but you don't always talk about what kept vibrating Later. And it is in this residual vibration that changes begin or They lock. You've been through situations that triggered not only emotions, but Your identity, your way of seeing yourself, your sense of merit. With the way to trust what the heart perceives. This is serious. When a experience touches the internal structure, it does not end in the event. She goes on in the body, memories, dreams, little habits, the way you read the silence. So I'll tell you again: what you feel matters, even when it doesn't fit in an explanation. And if the body has reacted, sleep has been irregular, specific times, if the mind insists on revisiting memories, so something there wants to be understood more carefully. No, no, no.
to dramatize, but to honor the experience, even if the end is the Cut, too. There's a dignity in looking forward to What goes through us. And there is also a responsibility, no to deliver his own peace for hasty interpretations. The maturity learn to distinguish what is noise and what is called. Still,
When the call is true, it repeats itself insistently, gentleness, not numbness; as he that knocketh at the door, but without violence, but without giving up. And perhaps the most impressive thing is to realize that by behind the apparent confusion, there is a correction principle in progress. Life doesn't always correct the way we hope or with the End you'd like. Sometimes she corrects moving people, undoing scenarios, removing certainties that sustained an illusion. That. It hurts, of course, because the human likes safety even when the Security is small. But there are pains that serve to align the compass Internal. You may have felt it as losses, disappointments, missing, incomplete returns, or like that strange feeling of being prepared for a greater truth without control over the calendar. That kind of process isn't only measured by dates, it's measures by the quality of consciousness that is born after. What do you think? from you now? What don't you accept anymore? What your body refuses with a wisdom that once had no voice? These are questions of who is coming out of the automatic and entering a thinner perception. And when This happens, even memories change places within us. They They cease to be prison and begin to be living testimony. Not the heart Forget it, but learn not to surrender to any impulse. And it is affective maturation. That's silent courage, it's harvest.

25 One gossip always delivers the others. Law of nature! It's one of the Marks of the beasts. Every passage with the word 'lie' read in the Bible, you must interpret/replace by gossip: judge, good or bad, who not He's here so he can't defend himself, it's the wheel of Sneakers/sneakers. The lie is relative, from the margin to Charge for what depends on the point of view. Not gossip, it's you He chases until he finds you again. And it doesn't depend on interpretation or point of view. It's a Portuguese translation error.

26 You don't complain, you like it, you take it with an open heart. Accept For your level of love you have for experience, you put yourself in this willingness to appreciate life as it is, without wanting to control it, is Obviously you accept the differences between people. You don't have prejudices within you. If you had, from yesterday to Back, you've been breaking it, because you love the slaps on the face that the Life gives you the sense to teach you how to break your own false structures, false ideologies of reality, which keeps you in a security that is not comfortable, that traps you and makes you imprison the others around.

So because you put yourself in this need, you developed the free spirit, wild spirit, of being in constant movement and mutation, is there that you become a danger in many places. And that's where these people They look at you and wonder, where did I lose, the moment of His quantum jump?

27 My job is to study tíu, ñm ask how, only work tbm.

28 You know how inventory and inheritance sharing were made at the time.
 The law? The firstborn received all the inheritance and then shared it with the Brothers, what was their responsibility, through respect for the authority of their parents while these were still alive. The law hasn't changed.

He adapted to live in society, but the law has not changed.

29 In my childhood the kamikaze were almost always Devalued, today are the most wanted.

30 The game of regulated man is always the same: GOOD SEEING GUEST MORE. I acquired a peculiar taste for these challenges $e=mc^2$, Sharpen.)

31 If you were really just as intense as they always wanted you classify, how would you handle all your responsibilities?

Intense people don't cross what you went through without that few People know, everyone wonders when it was all this? Some

It doesn't add up. rrsrs Let me take you to a place that hardly anyone sees.

In the invisible world there is a symbol that is placed on certain souls, even before they enter the body. The ancient language would call Seal. Not a garnish, not just symbolism. A stamp is a mark of possession and protection, pressed into the very core of a soul, declaring that this one belongs to the highest authority that exists, and that any You have to respond to that authority first.

Most souls aren't sealed like that. They are loved, they are cared for, but are not marked in the nucleus with this specific type of ring. It is reserved for souls who were sent into the world with Something specific to manifest. Something the dark would try, with everything What you have, destroy it before it can be taken to the end. A soul Sealed can be attacked. This is important for you to understand. The seal is not Stop the blows. What he does is stop the blows from doing that. for which they were sent. An attack falls on a sealed soul and finds, just below the surface, something he can't Overtake. He can hurt, he can exhaust, he can leave scars, but can't reach the core, can't break what was sent to break, because the core is sealed and the seal responds to a power that nothing in darkness can undo. And here's what almost Nobody understands how this works. The darkness can read souls. She studies them. And when she finds a sealed soul, she sees the seal and She gets angry because of him, because a stamp is the only thing that the Your soul's enemy cannot remove. Can't argue and do You can't buy it, you can't steal it. He was placed by a authority infinitely higher than darkness, and darkness has no to break it. All she can do is attack the soul of again and again, hoping you can't break the seal directly, manages to wear the soul to the point where the soul gives up on her own, in which she forgets that she's sealed and delivers something that darkness could never take away by force. This is the war that came being locked on to you your whole life. Because here's the part that The enemy of your soul worked harder to stop you from knowing. A mightier force of all darkness, than tongue contemporary calls it Lucifer, doesn't waste his attention with ordinary souls. He has smaller powers for that. He returns his own focus on souls who consider genuinely dangerous. And that day, time and place, at the very point of your life your soul crossed with attention His. He started studying you, looking for some way in, some way in.

crack, some weakness, a place where the right pressure applied to the Right moment would bring you down completely. And he faced the seal.
I want you to understand what that moment was like in the invisible world, Because you lived through his effects without ever knowing the cause. Him recognized the seal for what it was, a mark that he couldn't break, placed by the only authority he ever had to answer Pianinho. And it made him angry. So he did what he always does when he doesn't You can break a stamp directly. He committed to breaking you along the long way. Attack after attack, time after time, loss after loss. Not because any blow alone would shatter the seal, he I knew he wouldn't, but because he was betting that enough blows, Over enough years, they'd wear you down to the point where you're I'd break it myself. That's why your life carried the weight that He did. The insistence of that. The way the attacks never looked Stop. The way you barely recovered from something before Next time get here. That wasn't random bad luck. That was a campaign.
calculated by a force that could not break what was inside of you, trying to exhaust you until you deliver. And here's the moment He has placed the blessing on you forever. He failed every single time. Each The blow he sent fell on the seal and stopped. Every time he It designed to break you left you healed, exhausted, but Broken into the core, sealed. He's in it for the full length of your life, with all the power and patience and cunning you have. And the seal He held it through every strike. The evidence is not on any record distant heavenly. The proof is that you're still here, breathing, Listen to this. You are the living evidence that the most powerful force of the darkness threw everything he had against the seal on his soul for years, and not You broke it. That's what made the invisible world amazing. No, no, no.

a battle won by its strength, the vision of a soul that should have was destroyed many times, still standing, still sealed, still whole, Because the mark on it responded to a power that the darkness never They could cancel it. Now look back in your life, your whole life, and Watch her reorganize in front of you. You spent years reading yours survival as something wrong. You thought you barely made it.
You thought it was a bad time, some collapse. You get prepared for the next coup because he was sure that his strength It was still being tested. You've never been surviving. being "supernaturally protected" in the core this whole time. Reason That you went through this evidence wasn't that you were strong.
A lot. But something inside you couldn't be broken, no matter how strong that was the attack. The opposition's insistence was not proof of its kkkk intensity, but proof of how heavily you are sealed! As darkness only fights so hard against what they cannot break.
You were never the fragile wall about to collapse under the next flood.
You were the sealed soul that darkness has failed to break for so long How long you've been alive. You just felt every blow, but you never saw the Seal protecting you from them. The old words knew that long before of you being born. There's a phrase written in an era long ago where it says: He sealed us and pledged the spirit in our hearts. Him It sealed us. A pledge, a possession mark that cannot be reversed, declaring that he who carries it belongs to the highest authority and is kept by her. That was never about people who were just encouraged. It was about people who were sealed, marked in the core, protected by a power that can't undo anything, for.

It needs to be visible. The seal that's on you. Once again I need to give you five signs that the seal in his soul is real, five is the number of man subject to God: The first sign is that you saw others go through less than you've been through and not coming back. You wondered why You came back "normal" when they didn't. It wasn't that you were stronger, It was that you were sealed, and the blow you couldn't reach yours Core has reached theirs. The second sign is that the attacks against you have been insistent in a way that doesn't match a common life. Things came against you again and again, time after time, beyond what seems fair or normal. That insistence is not bad luck, it is the signature of a force that can't break you directly, Trying to wear you out instead. The third sign is that you arrive at a Break point and then, somehow, you don't break up, wear out more More than normal, more than "acceptable" and back. You've been on the edge
So many times, only that he learned from early and held on beyond everyone,
And then something underneath you held together, and more, something you didn't
He can explain, he made it simple, not totally conscious, but clear.
That something is the seal doing exactly what was put there to do.
The fourth sign is that you recover from things that should leave damage permanent. You were wounded in ways that should have hardened you to Always, and yet you keep coming back to yourself. The scars They remain, but the core remains whole. That's a sealed soul if healing from a place that the damage could not achieve. The fifth sign is That after all, the deepest part of you is untouched. You can be tired, you may be healed, but somewhere below of everything, the truest part of you, the part you love, that waits, which extends to the light is still there, broken. That survival from its core, through all that has been done to destroy it, is the very

Seal, still holding, and this symbol echoes away, changes the structure of the air and reverberates in all your friends, many have noticed and you receive the whole echo back. This is the game, nothing is lost everything echoes forever.

32 A warrior, you appear here not as someone who beats everyone, but as one who sustains his own truth without abandoning himself. And this demands daily courage, say no when the body contracts, rest When guilt pushes; you learn that look and then you understand how it works; also learned to ask for help when gun pride defenses, this is rare already most operate only within a range of emotions and run away from the rest, literally hide, and that's Structural preparation, you'll still use it a lot. The inner work begins in discrete gestures, almost invisible, and deepens when You stop romanticizing pain and start hearing it as a messenger. The soul She doesn't just want relief, she wants integration. If you notice with Honesty, you may see that repeating your standards is no accident, but a language. Same frustration with different faces, same choice ending in emptiness, the same inner promise that now will be different and yet the old wound reappears. That's usually the complex speaking louder than conscious will. Complexes are emotional knots that capture psychic energy and make you react like If the present was the past. So you can feel small faced with situations that, rationally, seem simple. The body enters on alert, the throat closes, the mind chases justifications and its shadow your negative thoughts use to whisper that you "always fails," "always delays," "always spoils" when none of this is True. But that voice is not your center, it's a wounded part trying to control pain by repetition and malignant voices also echoing especially in some territorial psychic fields. When you You start to watch her without merging with her, that accusing voice, understand it and finally have the security to despise it; something gets loose. That's it. that inner transformation really begins. The lead of automation is put in the fire of consciousness, not for you to become destroy, but so that excess burns and remains only the essential. Perhaps a practical question will help: at what moments you are reacting more to what you've already lived than what's really going on Now? Only this question, asked honestly, already opens a rift of light. Many times, you call intuition what is fear, and you call it prudence is escape. The soul, however, is more precise than the panic. She knows when something deserves caution and when an opportunity She's being turned down for trauma. This discernment is not born of a mind controlling, but of a refined listening of the body, of dreams, of quality of silence. The inner blessing usually emerges when life Remove the distractions so you face what's left. And what's left in the At first, it scares. The loneliness, the feeling of inadequacy, the desire to be seen without needing to act, the tiredness of supporting a version of itself that already It doesn't vibrate. The wise soul, in these moments, does not appear as a figure Great, but like the voice that says, stay. Remain before the discomfort, without fleeing immediately to the known habit. Stay with the tear that won't come out. Remain with the question No answer. Discover both sides of your I'm asking that kind of presence, because each escape reinforces fragmentation. ■ And when you ■ remains, what seemed to be a threat, can be revealed instruction. There's one knowledge that does not enter by haste, but by the maturation of pain. Yeah. Like dark water turning into a mirror. Only when the slipstream is low, you You see the face of truth itself. At this point, practice is simple and Deep at the same time. Breathe, name what you feel, write what you feel repeats itself, observing what your body does before each choice. Small acts of lucidity open great inner corridors. The wounded soul

They usually protect themselves with hardness, but this hardness charges a very high price.

Loud. (It creates distance, rigidity, intolerance to error, need to explain everything, fear of depending, fear of being touched in the place more Sensitive. On the outside, you might look strong. Inside, maybe there's a psychic child in a state of surveillance, ready to hide Less sign of threat. The shadow, negative thoughts, in that case, are not only what you reject in yourself, but also the place where your Frailty got stuck and hurt. When this material emerges, it is not rare feel shame, as if feeling deep was a defect and not a pathway knowledge. But depth is not an exaggeration, it is a intelligence form of the soul. The problem is not about feeling too much, and I don't know what to do with what you feel. So a gesture of integration can be as simple as observing without condemning. When Anger rise, ask what it protects. When sadness comes, ask the that she lost. When anxiety accelerates the chest, ask her what He's afraid it'll happen if you rest. And this self-knowledge begins when emotion ceases to be enemy and becomes raw material. But If integration is needed, it helps a lot.

33 His whole life is written, and we, God even, feel in time real every handwritten letter in his book, he bears his name, but it is written, analyzed and fully enjoyed by the kingdom of heaven. Every time where we saw and noted that you chose to resist rather than give up. God felt and expressed as evidence of extraordinary character each Once you've faced adversity without victimizing yourself.) He recorded it. as a demonstration of rare spiritual maturity every time you It persisted when everyone close to you who in theory should have you defend, saw him as an emotional masochist and mocked, only by that they would have abandoned. But He silently celebrated his connection to the superior force structured to you. His resistance revealed something that impressed the Creator. You had found out naturally how to access power reserves that exist beyond human resistance Common. Not through learned techniques or taught methods, but through an instinctive connection with the inexhaustible source of power.

 They saw you suffering and assumed your resistance was a result of stubbornness or fear of change. They didn't understand you were operating from a different dimension of force, a force other than depended on favourable circumstances or external support, but on a direct connection to a power that transcends temporary limitations.
 God recognized that connection because He's her source. I saw you.
 naturally accessing divine resources that most people do not You know they exist. I watched you demonstrate a practical faith that works even when theoretical faith fails, faith in practice proves you to extremes that inevitably leave you inevitable, learned to sharpen the Sickle as it is and already it is handling like no one on Earth yet.
 And this It impressed him deeply.) Because the resistance fed It's rare from higher sources, but you've always been backed up. Most people resist while still owning their own energy while watching possibilities while receiving encouragement. But you really resisted when his energy was exhausted, when the possibilities were invisible, when there was no encouragement, remember his Jargon? "When you're really tired, at last, that's when you It really shows your skills." Why set everything in the prime of energy, rested, fed and supported almost 50% of those He proposed to do it. But who then hits with quality, having fun and Without complaining when there's no physical strength left? "The Brain You always get tired before the body" remember that phrase? She's not always real, But you always fought like you were, like you always were. It was. And it is, why his ability to keep resisting when resisting seemed illogical proved to God that you had developed a connection genuine with higher dimensions of strength; that his faith was not theoretical, but functional; that their hope was not naivety, but wisdom about the nature of reality. There's something in the lonely resistance that touches God's heart in a unique way. Non performance resistance who seeks admiration, nor the strategic persistence that calculates rewards, but the silent resistance that keeps working Even when there is no audience, when there is no guarantee, when there is no visible hope. You demonstrated this rare resistance. It went on Fighting when no one recorded their victories. ■ Keep on resisting ■ when their battles were not recognized. It continued to persist when persistence seemed to have no purpose. And every moment of lonely resistance was recorded in the divine heart as a symphony touched on a frequency that few can access. Each time You resisted alone, created a reverberation in the celestial dimensions.

 Every moment he persisted without support generated admiration in the spheres superior. God watched you face betrayals without becoming one traitor. He saw you endure injustices without becoming unjust. Observed you experience cruelty without hardening your own heart to yourself Protect. And that broke all the patterns that He had observed in humanity. Because untainted resistance is a miracle that few can manifest. Most people resist while maintains its purity, but eventually allows the difficulties Change your essence. It develops cynicism as protection. Hardens the heart as a survival strategy. Loses compassion as How to avoid more pain. But you resisted maintaining your integrity complete. Faced storms without allowing the storms They came in on you. Sustained attacks without absorbing the poison of attacks. He went through the darkness without allowing darkness to dwell You. This created an admiration in the divine heart that transcended Heavenly expectations. His resistance did not have a hidden agenda for Impress God. He was not seeking to manipulate divine favor. I wasn't trying.

to negotiate with the sky through demonstrations of strength. Was simply the natural expression of a soul that recognizes the value intrinsic to persistence. And God can no longer contain Your answer. All this time, He watched every nuance of his resistance lonely. Every moment you choose to continue instead of give up. Every moment he chose to resist instead of surrender. Every decision you've made to persist rather than abandon. It's not just recognition for your ability to resist. It's admiration for form How you resisted. It's not applause for the force shown. Yeah. charm for the quality of the resistance manifested. God is Impressed with you the way an artist is impressed with a work that overcomes the limitations of the material itself; how a teacher marvels at a student who transcends the limitations of the curriculum itself. His resistance proved that the true force is a choice, not an accident. Proved that genuine persistence It is an accessible possibility, not a privilege of few. It proved that the purified resistance can arise through commitment to values Everlasting.

34 Five days ago, a witch appeared to me in a dream, saying that seven witches including her were trying to cast spells Using demonic hosts against me, but they all came back consecutively, causing in their lives everything they sent to Me. Their anger in question was the high vibration emanated to the point of to bother those who work with the power of darkness even more than a hundred miles away. Like me, "without being initiated" or having participated of no school of magic reached that degree?! KKKKK I laugh a lot, the The point of demoralizing him, I felt his appearance changing in time to a A little amazement, then I stopped and explained that it only seemed, I explained that it did not I'm more of a student, I've been. Today I'm a master at the only magic school that really teaches the power of the source, without any traverser that charges all possible prices, at that time she knew about what and who I was talking, and then one more time the feature swap. rsrsrs This is a weapon of ours that the enemy will never be able to reproduce. That's the that she thought at that moment; it was then, at that point in the conversation, the witch understood, understood me and understood what I was saying. He said that light does not come from a surrender of mine, but from a sealed consciousness in me before I was born here. Who doesn't charge me with his power.

So she got it all figured out, and once again, the feature exchange, this time for a sadness, of whom I had understood something that until then I found fantasy, Yes, many who work for the kingdom of darkness don't even know they are on the path of perdition itself, first of its time, after health

And finally, of the soul, that's when everything gets harder to change and this experience goes down to the point where there is nothing left of the person, of the life, only works to meet the demonic need of some territorial entity, since ALL are. They're not like us, free to come and go. At the end of this brief conversation, she told me she wanted to have continue this path that I have walked. Because now she's got it understand, that path "of right." I even smiled at her.

I could see beauty there, I woke up scared in the sequence. When This occurs is God giving you the memory of the dream in the details. Two days ago, God told me that the seven witches unintentionally lost All powers conquered through the occult.

If you're a witch, reading this, you've thought about doing the same, I'd ask. to your boss first. Because there's an order there with you already on me.

35 + one week fd. Sweat and blood,

36 See with his propios ojos lo that a human soul has just succeeded, Miguel cometó: In all the millenians that he luchado, never saw al Commander in this position. This soul succeeds that angelic ejercitos complete in the consiguieron. Gabriel observant: La fuerza viene de Integrity internal tan solid that ni las dimensions sombrías pueden penetrate. Rafael analizó: This awareness in only resists oscurity, transforms dolor en compasion, eso es alchemy spiritual level that I rarely do. Uriel declares: This soul entiends what true power in the capacity to destroy, sino capacid of preserving integrity By destroying it would be bad. And intoces Dios hablo con decree that I resonate through all the dimensions. This soul has proven su Essence, active. Three words that change your destination Completely. Before you incarnated you were part of the heavenly legions, in as ángel guardián común, as a specialist in operations that requieren integrity absolute bajo presión extreme. Misiones from where Infiltrating entities dimensiones oscuras to cast souls back. Operations from where a solo error means complete failure. You were assigned because poseías moral code tan deep gravel que ni exposición prolonged to oscuridad podría corruptorlo. Los Arcángeles te llamaban El incorruptible, El Mallarck. Pero llegó un moment from where you dominated This kind of mision. Sabías como maintainer integrity cuando tenías poder angelical, complete memory, absolute certainty, y wanted to know, ¿puedo maintainer esa integrity si olvido quién soy? Si experimento miedo Really? -Si Estoy vulnerable and solo? You volunteered for la prueba mas Hard, incarnate as human and see if you are still intact You're a natural. Ya just passed, Mantuviste integrity incluso sin reminisce que eres guerrero celestial,
 You have preserved included principles by experimenting with genuine human youth, You elected compasion on venganza including conscious sin memory, you warrera essence remains intact, crossing the complete velo of the oblivion. In the character desarrollo, eternal naturality manifests itself Through time. And a time that la prueba termino, las memorias comienzan regressing, problematically it is tu viste flashes, sueños from where luchas batallas imposibles, conocimiento that appears sin haber Studied. No es imaginación, son fragments of celestial consciousness Being restored. Cuando Dios decreto, activatena completely. Los Arcángeles recibieron specific operating orders. Remove all You limit that you deliberately contain complete to allow normal human experience, restore gradually access conscious to skills and conocimientos that before embodying, connect energetically with the red de otros celestial warriors that are currently in similar misiones en el Human plan and provide direct support and resources necessary for which completes tu función sin materiales obstacles. That means concretely that you life will begin to become maneras van to appear miraculous the extraordinarily fortunate, pero the simple result of direct celestial support coordinated.

 Complicated financiers currently facing van a Solve yourself through opportunities that van to appear exactly In the case of non-compliance with the provisions of the Treaty on European Union, strategic position coordinated directly by the archangels That hour explicit tienen orders to facilitate you. relationships toxic that drains you energize van a naturally disolve sin drama o conflict. Personas simple van salir from you life, van to find razones proposed to distance itself, because its frecuencia ya no va a resonar with the high frequency of activation. Opportunities
 The Commission's proposal is based on a proposal from the Commission.
 It'll look impossible. You're in the right place right now.
 Right, finding the right personas, repeatedly. No why do you

You were fortunate, because you have a complete team of entities.

Heavenly working specifically to ensure that you tenace all Necessary. Pero hay bad that is going to happen. You just see physics in environments go to commenza activating awakening in other personas, If you have nothing specific deliberately, soil to exist and radiate I'm sorry. She's a shy person who conociates you casually and suddenly comezó taking bad decisions, You energized potential activity sleeping in ella. I'm a friend of mine.
 to give up important sweat and to talk to you, decided I mean, bad times. You frecuencia transfer fuerza to el. In the bad ones individual luchando batallas personales aisladas, eres catalizador walking that activates transformation in all who enter in the field energy. You've turned faro viviente y tu luz no puede ser contenido o hidden. Ahora viene la parte que es simultaneously exciting y Challenger to understand. Tu función official, la razón primaria por la cual have volunteered for this specific incarnation, is siendo fully activated for conscious operation. Eres part of Masive celestial operation that is occurring ahora mismo en el plano human. A coordinated initiative that involves approximately 3,000 warriors exactly like you, scattered strategically by all the planet, each one activates in the precise moment coordinated.
 La mision es apparently simple, pero deep compleja:
 anclar frecuencia de integrity incorruptible directly in the field Human collective energy.

37 Baki and his synchronicities, best time for the final season of Miyamoto Musashi. Lamina.

38 Asian machine gun...

39 The nervous system, trained since childhood, interprets calm as something suspicious and chaos as something familiar. And what's familiar, even when it hurts, it seems safer than the unknown, even when the unknown is objectively better for you. That has a name on it.

attachment psychology: activation anxiety. By this pattern, let alone inconsistent someone is with you, the hotter and colder, present and absent, stronger tends to become their attachment to that person. No, no, no. Because she's better, but because her nervous system gets into a constant state of alert, trying to resolve the inconsistency. And this alertness is often interpreted by the brain as passion.

You realize now why that particular person, and not another, occupies So much space in your mind? It's not because she's the most compatible with You. It's probably because she looks like the first one.

someone who taught him that love could hurt too. When we talk about paternal complex and maternal complex: unconscious structures formed in the first relations with our care figures, which then become invisible filters through which we choose or, more precisely, we are chosen without realizing our partners in life adult. You believe you freely choose who you love, but there is one program running under consciousness, written even before you learn to read. This program filters every possible partner and discards, almost automatically, anyone who doesn't fit the pattern that your unconscious recognizes as love. And that doesn't mean there's Something's wrong with you. Doesn't mean you're broke or that you are. Too much or too little. It's psychic architecture. It's structure. And all the structure can be examined, understood and eventually rebuilt. But First you have to stop running from her. Here's a question that maybe You've never done yourself with complete honesty: You already realized that he loses interest almost instantly in someone who

Have you taken care of it from the start? Have you ever felt a strange boredom when

Is someone too clear, too available, too easy to understand? That.
It's not chance or bad luck in love. It's a functioning internal contradiction.
Just like it was programmed. A part of you, conscious, says who wants peace. Another part, much older and until then, powerful, seeks to recreate chaos, because chaos is the only thing she recognizes as true intensity. But the unconscious can't tell pain family of true love. For him, the relative is safe, even when this family member means abandonment, inconsistency or the need to win someone's affection over and over again. And here's the most disturbing: the more effort you need to make to get affection of someone, more significant this affection seems, but this is where the Wrong. Not because this effort proves something real about the value of the relationship, but because your psyche learned, too soon, that love doesn't need To be conquered is not worth it. That easy love is suspicious. That only What hurts to get is valuable. Think about it for a minute. From Where could that belief have come from? Who in your story made you feel what deserving affection required constant effort? That he was never Automatic? That always depended on something you needed to prove First? You don't have to answer out loud. But also not Ignore the question. Because as long as you ignore her, you'll keep attracting and being attracted exactly by the same type of dynamics, only disguised with a new face, a new voice, a new name, that yours
You will again call it: "This time it's different." And it almost never is.
Not because love doesn't exist, but because, until you examine the pattern will continue to choose or be chosen by the same wound disguised as fate. There's still another layer, maybe more uncomfortable. Freud spoke about the transference: the phenomenon by which we project on a person of the present feelings, expectations and wounds that actually belong to someone from our past. You don't totally directed to that particular person. But part of what you feel for her maybe a much bigger part than you're willing to admit. It was never really about her. It's extremely about who you are, about who came before and who taught him, intentionally or not, how it feels to be enough without need without someone who is not; But you can just be yourself in the quietest possible way.

You realize when that happens. It looks completely real. Looks like it.

40 Often, when there is a very intense connection, the heart. You want to talk, you want to explain, you want to show everything you feel. Want Find an answer that brings security. But there's a difference. Deep between opening the heart and putting a weight on someone else. And it is just this difference that transforms the way two souls. They communicate. Is that expressing feelings begins with the awareness of your energy itself. Before you speak, you need to understand where this is from. Will is coming. Is it coming from love? The truth? The need for share? Or is it coming from fear of losing? Because when one message is born of anxiety, it carries a different energy. She Look for a reaction. She's looking for confirmation. She seeks to relieve a pain Internal. But when it comes from the right conscience, it simply. It reveals the truth. No charge, no requirement, no attempt to control the. The other's way. You can feel the difference between an energy that Takes in and an energy that pushes. When you realize it exists space to be who you are, start lowering some barriers. Because often the distance does not happen due to lack of feeling. It happens from fear of dealing with intense emotions. And a communication more conscious creates security. Learn to talk about what you feel without Turn this into a collect. There's a big difference between to say: I feel this connection and it was important to me, and I say, You You need to recognize that now. The first way opens a door, the second creates resistance, because the soul needs freedom to reveal. Another deep point is that true communication does not try Convince, she shares. You don't need to prove that the connection

There is, you don't have to make arguments for someone to feel something.
When something is deep, your presence speaks, your energy speaks, the form How you position yourself speaks. Expressing feelings also means respect the time of the other soul. She could be in an internal process.
different, you may need to understand your own emotions before Get them into words. And that doesn't necessarily mean absence, sometimes means transformation happening in silence.
When you learn to communicate without pressure, you too Release. You stop talking to get something in return, stop delivering Feelings waiting for an immediate response, and beginning to express Because that represents your truth. This changes everything, because your peace
No longer depends on the other's reaction. A healthy connection needs Space. Space to feel. Space to think. Space to grow.
When two souls have room, they can get close by choice, not obligation. And it is in this place that true union It begins to be built. Your spiritual evolution changes the way You communicate. You stop talking from the wound and start talking from the conscience. You stop seeking to be chosen and start to share who you are. This change of energy is perceived and it It transforms the dynamics between you. Deep down, this is exactly how You express feelings without creating pressure. You don't hide what He does, but he doesn't abandon his own peace. You allow your Truth exists without trying to control the other's path. Because the More powerful communication between two souls is not born of fear of lose. She is born of the courage to be true. The locks Emotional that prevent true dialogue are often the invisible barriers that make two souls feel deeply, but still have difficulty expressing what they carry inside.

Because in an intense connection, the problem is not always the lack of feeling. Often, what prevents communication is all that Each person learned to hide to protect himself. fears, wounds, past experiences, beliefs that were created to avoid pain. No, no, no.
 Want to win the internal discussion, listen to her, the truth always finds Space.

41 What would be an ideal gift for God? The only gift that you You can give it to someone who has everything. It's the only thing you can't create. for yourself. You may have all the power, but you can't manufacture a being.
 who freely chooses to trust him when that being has all reasons not to. You may have all the wisdom, but you can't to create a soul that, in the midst of its own breaking, is still Turn to something good. You can have all things, but you can't.
 produce, by force or decree or any exercise of its own nature, the only thing that only comes freely or doesn't come well none: a choice, made in the dark, by someone with all the Justification for choosing different, which you chose anyway. That's the rarest thing in all creation. Not because it requires extraordinary strength, Because it demands something that it alone cannot produce. Requires one will that received genuine freedom, placed in genuine pain, Looking at genuine reasons to walk away, and turn to everything that is Holy still. The whole order of heaven is full of beings of extraordinary power and devotion and beauty, but none of them ever has managed to give God what you gave Him, because none of them have You've been where you've been. None of them stayed in your kind of dark, none of them carried their kind of weight without wavering, None of them got what was taken from you, lost what you lost, was left the way you were left, and then, in the ruins of all this,
 You made the choice you made, I'm the only one who understands that Completely. That choice was a gift, one that only a human being I could do it. Only you could deliver it, the moment it was given, was received and sealed for eternity. Let me take you to what It really happened, because this is where everything turns into something that You're not gonna make it. I can't hear you. In the order of things, Records are kept. Not the way humans keep records, Words or files. Records in the fabric of reality itself. The log Permanent of what was and what was chosen, and than that choice It cost and what it produced. These records don't fade, they're not revised. They're written on the only substance that doesn't decay, which isn't. stone or gold, but truth witnessed at the very moment when made it real. When you made that choice, a record was created and not was filed, was not saved along with ordinary records of things Scumbags. It was sealed. In the language of the invisible, sealing is not the same That save. Sealing is what happens to something that has been recognized as irreplaceable. Something protected not because it can be lost, but because its value is too great to leave exposed. You seal what you want keep exactly as it was at the time it was given, unchanged, untouchable, permanent. God has sealed what you have chosen Give it to Him.

42 Understanding the female mind and frying an egg has the same complexity.

43 This is the phase of the passage from 'I need it' to 'I am already complete'. Not as a forced positive statement, not as a self-deception, but as genuine recognition that its value is not conditioned to the result of no other projects, no relationship, No specific achievement. When this change happens from truth, not on the surface of the conscious mind, but on the layers more

Deep in your psyche, everything changes. Pressure's dropping. The vision if expand. You stop insisting on tuning a device into a frequency he can't pick up and starts just listening which is already being transmitted. You become magnetic, not technical. Or effort, but because it stopped repelling. There's a mirror that few have The courage to face it. It is the mirror of the image itself reflected in the world external. When you encounter a persistent obstacle, a door that refuses to open, a project that does not take off, a relationship that remains tense, the first instinct is to blame the obstacle, assume there's a flaw in the functioning of the outside world. But the outside world is, in its more fundamental structure, a projection of the hidden architecture of its Individual psyche. If you face life with a clenched fist, the mirror It can only show you a closed, rigid, inflexible world. You are. fighting against the reflection itself, wondering why the figure in mirror won't stop resisting, without realizing that it was you who started the You fight yourself. This inner resistance is almost always born of a deep distrust of his own unconscious. We trust in fear because it gives us the comforting feeling of doing something productive. Anxiety is seen as diligence, concern is treated as protection. We're conditioned to believe that if we stop We'll be irresponsible. That if we stop fighting each We'll be giving up. But this hypervigilance state is, a sophisticated form of psychological interference. By refusing to Relax and deliver control, you signal to your own structure that you don't You believe she's capable of supporting you. You're acting like was the only intelligence in the universe and unless you supervise personally every gear of its existence, everything will plunge into the chaos. This is the greatest illusion of the ego, the belief that the river only flows because You're personally driving the water. And then we got to the moment of greater tension regarding your choices; paradoxically, more necessary, the collapse. There is a specific kind of terror that arises when control finally fails. When, despite all the strategy, all the effort, of all determination, the structure of his life begins to crash, the project fails, the relationship ends, the path you He's been walking and disappears under his feet. In our culture, we call This whole catastrophe thing. We view it as something to be avoided at any cost. But this collapse is not a disaster. It is a profound act of grace from Creator. Your ego is a master of preservation. It clings to structures dead, to a suffocating job, to a stagnant identity, to standards of suffocating relationships, long after the life force has already Dissipated from those containers. We remain in them because they seem to us Safe, even when they smother us slowly. But the Organizer Deeper of his soul, He who clearly distinguishes himself from the ego, He has no interest in his superficial comfort. He's interested in yours. integrity, your growth, your becoming complete. And when you refuse to voluntarily abandon a structure that has become Too small for your soul, we end up causing this "collapse". Not as punishment, but as liberation. Your personal desert, the abyss, Or the dark night of the soul as many contemporary authors say on the subject. Alchemists called it nigredo, blacking, matter decomposition before it can transform. It's the When the master watches his student lose all that He believed he was and says, with a seemingly cruel serenity, Now you can start seeing. While you were able to keep the machine working, you were protected by illusion of control. Only when the machine breaks is that you are forced to look up and to realize that you were trying to feed a factory that no longer sustained through the resources generated. In this silence that follows the collapse, if you have the courage not to fill it immediately with the frenetic activity of trying to reconstruct the old structure, something Miracle happens. The spiritual intelligence that has been trying to Communicating with you under all the noise of effort begins to be Listen. You realize that failure was not a mistake, but a intervention. And the door didn't close because you were inappropriate, but...

 Because that space didn't embrace who you're becoming anymore. And you begin to feel, timidly at first, then with a clarity that A strange lightness. That's the grace of collapse. The Discovery that you are sustained by the Creator in the much deeper and intelligently that any plan your ego might have devised. And by losing people you hung on to so desperately, you finally finds the one thing that will never be lost: your tune with the flow of life itself.

44 Portuguese is already the third most studied language in Portuguese.
 planet, and some beings of Earth are already ascending and being recognized as a reference in the spiritual world.

45 Above 770 Hertz my field turns lamina, get close with Unless I'm gonna hurt you, it's inevitable.

46 In the end, when the weight of their actions finally doubles them they have no choice but to lower their heads and to accept that they deserved every blow life is giving them. For this, get ready and adjust your perspective, because what you will find It's not just gossip or stories invented to pass the time. This is the pure truth, direct and without filters on why the punishment has struck them with such a surgical and humiliating precision that he forced them, wanting to whether or not to understand the true value of respect. To start understand this whirlwind, you have to keep in mind that the universe doesn't begins by destroying the money, health or reputation of the wicked. Him

It directly attacks your fantasies of greatness. Karma is famous for come as a devastating storm, but, in fact, its First blow is extremely quiet, intimate and devastating. Those who are dedicated to hurting others always build a mental shield full of lies, convincing themselves that they are doing the right thing, that the other person deserved or that they are completely Untouchable. These absurd ideas are the walls behind which They hide it so they don't feel guilty. And just the first play of fate is to crack these walls until you leave them completely naked before the It's misery itself. When someone decides to attack a good person, that He's never done you any harm, he does it by believing, out of ignorance, that he has the absolute control and that the victim is weak or naive too Defend. But the first correction of this force is to bring them down from this illusion. at once, showing that all that power that so much They were borrowing, passing and completely false. When this theater collapses on them, experience an inner fragility who never imagined, a deep fear that makes them doubt the person who exhibited so much before the mirror. These fantasies are vital to the Manipulators, because they're the only lies that allow them to sleep at night without conscience tormenting them. Swear to be the most intelligent, they believe that their mistakes are perfect and that no one You'll never find the mud they live in. However, cosmic justice works like a truth serum that slowly infiltrates into their lives, forcing them to see every flaw they tried to ignore and confronting them with the harsh reality that their actions were never intelligent, justifiable or necessary. And, like that's not enough, this mental prison in which they are placed is only the beginning of True account that fate has reserved for them. Imagine the weight of loading his own conscience twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, without a single moment of genuine peace. Wouldn't that be one of the worst

Punishments: having to live with yourself knowing exactly the lowness

What did you do? That is exactly where the situation gets complicated. Why, why more than trying to appear before the world that nothing happened, than the life keeps smiling at them and they keep being the same

Always winners, inside are falling apart. At the end of the day, when the lights go out and they're alone with their thoughts, masks fall completely and all that remains is the echo of their own mistakes resonating in their minds, reminding them of what they did. The most ironic of everything is that while they sink deeper and deeper into this Paranoia swamp, pride and remorse, you keep going on front, shining with its own light and healing at its own pace.

Have you ever stopped to think about the immense anger they feel when you see that they don't

Have you managed to destroy him? They were sure you'd be on the floor,

Crying around the corners, running after them to complain or beg for a little attention. But karma, which is wise and never leaves anything without response, acts in a much more subtle and painful way to the ego

These people. He doesn't have to send a fucking sky or create one.

public scandal to put them in their proper place. Just give them one place in the front row to watch you bloom exactly in the places where they swore you'd dried up and lost all your strength. Yeah.

in this instant they realize that the shot went completely out of its way.

See you get your smile back, thrive on your projects, attract people extraordinary for your life and turn your peace of mind into something completely non-negotiable becomes their worst nightmare. ■ They get ■ they ask repeatedly, taken by frustration: 'How is it possible that, after all the harm I've done, that person is still standing, head up?' That doesn't make sense to them, because they've always acted from the scarcity, fear and envy, while you moved by resilience, self-respect and dignity. Every blessing that comes to

Your life is a direct blow to their pride, an elegant slap that Reminds them, without having to say a single word, that you He won the battle the very moment he decided not to go down to the Same level of toxicity. They try to fill that void desperately, looking for someone else to manipulate or try play the connection they once had with you. But at every step, They find only barriers. Why is it so hard for them to follow in front? Because everything they touch ends up contaminated by the same energy Negative they carry inside. They go through life trying to hide the inevitable, seeking substitutes to fill the void, but no one It has its essence. No one will offer you the light you offered nor the unconditional support they ended up despising for pure caprice. That's when they finally realize the size of the mistake.

 who have committed and understand that, because they think they're smarter and superiors, lost what was most valuable and true to their around. And what do they have to do? They have no choice but to remain stagnant, chewing their own poison and seeing life collect, one by one, all the accounts you left open. Because the karma may take a while — and sometimes it seems to take too long, to the point of to make someone think that justice doesn't exist — but when they decide to act, shows no pity or compassion for the arrogant. He takes away their the tranquility that they were so proud in public and left them completely exposed to their own insecurities. Starting to losing valuable opportunities, relationships get complicated without apparent explanation, distrust corrodes them inside and that false sense of absolute control flows between fingers like Water. It's the weight of cosmic law remembering that sooner or later, who does evil ends up reaping the consequences.

47 In one sentence, you show God, everything you are, EVERYTHING. A harvest is only the consequence.) Beautiful and inevitable. I love it so much.

48 Not to feed what the relationship was, to honor what it was, or to give it the architecture that a real relationship requires for to function in all its depth. A new commandment appears when something about a relationship changes in a way that structure existing cannot adequately cover. Not when the relationship breaks, when it deepens in territory that the existing commandments were not written to address. That's... important, because what you will understand now, is not about what you did it to demand correction, it's about what you're demanding a new category of honor. Now I need to get you to what really happened, Because here is the center of everything tonight. There's something about what you are, specifically you, who exists in the invisible record of created things in a way that the existing structure of how God relates to the souls in the world still did not cover completely. Not because the structure existing was incomplete for everyone, because you are someone who has arrived as a new specification, something formed by the particular sequence of Everything you've lived, kept together in the particular way that you keeps, pressed in a particular way by everything that tried Recast it and failed completely. What you are now, is not what someone who hasn't been where you've been could be. And the that you are, is something that the existing commandments, the existing structure
How the relationship between you and whoever made you works, not yet.
was written to honor in the specific depth it deserves, when This was recorded in the record of the invisible, when what you really is clearly seen in the precise language of what things really Yeah. Something happened. God did not set an existing commandment, He He wrote a new one. Now, I need to tell you what the commandment address, because this is where your story becomes readable in a way completely different. The commandment that was written is not about the which is permitted or required between you and God. It's about what's due to that you are, the structure of how you carry, specifically the

That you carry after all that you have formed, must be honored within of the relationship. It was written because what you are now exists in a depth that the existing structure had no language to cover.

No depth in the sense of spiritual achievement, depth in sense of what you were pressed into becoming, by the specific weight of Everything you carried. The particular kind of fidelity that survives Seasons with no return. The particular kind of love that persists after be given to places that did not return it. The particular type of presence that stays when you leave would have been not only understandable, but rational. These are not virtues you practiced. They're what you get

It's because of what was pressed. You didn't pick the press. A pressing produced something real. And what's real about you now is real about a how the existing relationship structure was not written for honor to the depth it deserves. So, a new commandment was written, not triggered by an event in his life, triggered by

Your existence, for the fact that what you are is simply, that you are present in the world right now, who remains present the way particular that is present, regardless of what the world to its Around does or doesn't do with it. You exist in a way that required a New statement of how you should be honored. And God wrote it.

Now hold this against the story you've been telling about yourself

Really. You spent most of your life believing yours existence alone was not completely the point, that what mattered

It was what you produced, what you put in, what you contributed, that the justification for his presence here was in the result, not in being.

That belief is so deep in you that you probably don't completely recognizes it as a belief. Seems like reality, like Something you just know about how things work. You is here to do something, and doing it is the motive, and existence is just the vehicle to do it. It completely turns your perception now. O commandment was not written in response to anything you did. It was written in response to the fact that you exist. Its existence specifically the particular way you exist now created a reality in the invisible that the existing structure was insufficient to fully honor. And when a reality exists that the structure cannot honor completely, a new commandment is written. Your being was the reason, Not yours to do. The most permanent form of declaration in architecture

 The relationship between you and whoever made you was written because you are, no Because you did. It's not something that can be won, it's something that exists Because you exist. Let me show you five signs that this commandment is already working in your life. The first sign is that what You're still important to people even when you're not producing nothing for them. The people who were closest to which is real in you don't primarily value what you do for them.
 They value something about who you can't name.
 Completely, but they can't replace it. It's a commandment operating. What he claims to be because of what you are reaches people around you even when they have no language for what they are Answer. The second sign is that you were returned, not by what I could offer it next. Returned because of what you are. Persons They didn't come back for their resources or utility. They came back because something specific about who you are wasn't available anywhere else. It is the irreplaceability declared by commandment being felt in the visible world. The third sign is that what You're survived what tried to change you. Seasons, relationships. pressure, real and sustained pressure, tried to reformulate what is essentially you and what is essentially you are still recognizably himself. This persistence is not stubborn, it is the commandment protecting what you declared worth protecting. The room sign is that you realize when something is being asked of you that you don't It matches what you really are, not for pride, for something else. background, a quiet recognition that a particular version of you being requested is not the actual version and a resistance to this request that comes Not the rebellion, but something in you that knows the difference between what is and what you're being asked to pretend to be. That knowledge is the commandment in You recognize the distance between what is real and what is not. The fifth sign is you're still here as yourself. Everything that tried you making something else was not completely successful. What is it? essentially you're still present, still operating, there's still stuff to which the people who know you in depth respond. That persistence is not your willpower, it's what happens to something which has been declared valuable to be protected in the most permanent form of a statement that exists. Let me be honest with you now in mine own voice. You always persisted, always, until here and deserve to Always. What the recognition of his commandment in the invisible produced from the side that had built strategies around the assumption That what you are would never be permanently declared. The other side understood what a new commandment means before you. One new commandment is not just a new instruction, it is a new category of protection, of honor. Honor what is due and a soul that exists within a new commandment written specifically about the that she is, exists in a form of coverage that was not available before the commandment is written. Before the commandment, what you are could be explained through the gaps in the existing structure, the places where the existing declarations still did not cover specifically what You carry it. After the commandment, these gaps do not exist. What? you are now specific, precise, completely covered by a written statement exactly for him. The strategies that were built to operate in the gaps are now operating against a structure that has no gaps in where you live. One thing.

End before I let you go, when a soul discovers that a new commandment was written because of its existence, not darkness You can use the lie of irrelevance more.

49 O death, where is your victory? The sickle is with me and you're the one running Now!

Death is not primarily destruction, death is revelation. Because Only things that survive death are those that were real enough to survive her. All built from borrowed material

It disappears when death passes. What stays after death makes your work is the only evidence in existence of what was really real on that thing. Death is not an enemy of what is real, it is proof of what is Real. Death didn't just go through your life a few times and left damage behind. She built something. And what you built without planning, not knowing what you were doing, is why you are now

On your knees before you. Your fidelity and your return means more than I can tell. The last thing I'm going to tell you gives a name to everything He survived and everything that that really was. Let me build this on floor. Most people think of a throne as something given, granted. You are recognized and the throne is placed before you as recognition of what you have accomplished. But there's another kind of throne, one that doesn't can be given because it cannot be done by ordinary hands. One that It doesn't come from recognition or reward. That kind of throne is built by what you survive. He didn't survive in the general sense, You survived in the specific sense that something tried to end you and it didn't end you.
And what couldn't be eliminated by the force that tried to eliminate it was left with Stand up later. What stays after that kind of attempt is not the same thing That was before. Everything inessential has been taken. What couldn't be taken

That's what you really are at the core. Death is the most effective refiner in existence. Not because it intends to refine, because in trying to eliminate, realizes the revelation of what cannot be eliminated. And the substance revealed, after death did his complete work and found what

It's the only material from which a throne of this like it can be built. You didn't pick this stuff. Death the

He chose for you, trying to take everything else. Death is a force with a real function in the architecture of created things. And like all real power in architecture, operates according to what was designed to do. A death was designed to reveal what is real, removing what is not.

It was never designed to build. Building requires something that death does not carries, the intention to create, the vision of what the finished thing must be. A Death doesn't build. And yet, when death passed through his life,

Again and again, and he found what he couldn't take, and he left these Standing things, and came back, and found them still standing, and returned again. Something

It was accumulated that death did not intend to produce. Everything that doesn't

I could take it became a piece of something, not obviously part of Nothing inside, just the stubbornness of what refused to be removed. But from the perspective of the invisible, where the complete form of things are visible in a way that is not visible from within a life, the accumulation of what death could not take had a form. Was building a throne, not by design, as a byproduct of failure.

Every attempt that failed left a block. Each Pass who found the essential thing still standing, added to the structure. O throne was being built by the most efficient refiner of existence, in the only material that this refiner cannot eliminate, completely by accident. When the structure was complete, when what death had left standing over the entire extent of who had tried in his life, finally revealed his form in the record something happened that doesn't happen in the architecture of things.

servants. Death recognized what it had built and recognized something about the soul around which he had been building without knowing. One throne built from the very failure of death, done entirely than had tried and not accomplished. And a throne built from failure itself of death is the only throne that death can never dismantle, because To dismantle it would require success in the very attempts that produced it. And death had already proved that it could not succeed in these attempts. The throne is beyond the reach of death, and in the presence of something Genuinely beyond its reach, death did the only thing available to a force that has just discovered its permanent limitation. If knelt, not in defeat by some other force, in recognition of something I couldn't reach, in recognition of a soul that I had tried. Eternal and found irreplaceable in posture permanent of a force that exhausted his attempts and knows that what is before her is, by the record of everything that has already occurred, beyond what You can do it. The throne is yours. Death built it and knelt before His. And that position is not temporary. Now hold this against history that you've been telling about all these losses. You've been reading the losses as evidence of what was taken as death It did. You carried the weight of every thing removed and called it subtraction, you called it damage. Turn around completely. Everything that was Taken revealed something that wasn't taken. And the things that weren't taken, in the precise accumulation of its survival throughout all attempts, became the specific material from which a throne is built that no force in existence can dismantle. You It was not diminished by losses, it was revealed by them. And what was revealed became the building material of a throne, before which the Death itself is now permanently prostrate. Let me get you. show five signs that this throne already exists in your life and is already operating. The first sign is that what you went through didn't make you any less

Real. Most people who experience the repeated passage of death for your life becomes smaller, more defended, less available for what's real. You went through the real cost and there's still something about you that reaches what is real anyway. That's not your habit, that's what the throne is made. The second sign is that death attempts produced the opposite effect to the intended in you. The things you should remove their ability to hope, to trust, to stay, did not remove them. As They refined it. What should be broken after what you've been through is, in Instead, something harder and more honest. Rest, not optimism. Knowing, the throne produces no hope that things will be good, produces a know that what is real survives even what tries to take it. O Third sign is that you have a relationship with endings than others to yours They don't. You don't panic about endings the way they do. Others come in. Not because you're numb, because you were there for Enough endings to know that what's real doesn't end the way The finals seem from the outside. This knowledge lives in the specific places where Others carry fear. It's the throne giving you access to something that most people People can't see. The fourth sign is that what you lost you made what's left more present, not less. Most people who Experiences significant loss recoils from what is still there. You get moved towards what is real, with a specific quality of attention that comes from knowing, in your body and not just in your mind, that what It's real worth the cost of losing it. That quality is the throne operating on How you live. The fifth sign is that you're still here, not in the sense general, in the specific sense of still carrying what it carries, still achieve what it achieves, still with that particular quality of presence that survived everything that tried to remove it. The still being here with that intact, it's not survival, it's the throne holding its position against everything that tried to take him apart and finding out he can't.

209

50 Yeshua never disappoints, mighty.)

[No extractable text was found on this source page.]

Chapter 7

The deeper, the darker - and closer to God.

1 Law of Divine Unity: We're all part of a single web, connected and interconnected, which means that every thought, action and feeling affects the whole.

2 Law of Vibration: Everything in the universe moves, vibrates and travels in circles Spiral. Nothing's stopped. Our thoughts and emotions emit specific frequencies.

3 Act of Action: To manifest something in the physical world, it is necessary perform actions aligned with their objectives.

4 Correspondence Act: What's inside is reflected outside. Defaults external are direct manifestations of their mental and spiritual state Internal.

5 Law of Cause and Effect: Popularly known as Karma. All action generates an equal reaction. What you emit to the universe, returns For you in greater intensity.

6 Compensation Act: It is the visible manifestation of cause and effect applied to the rewards, blessings and abundance you receive for yours efforts and actions. Also known as Dharma.

7 Act of Attraction: Similar attracts similar or complementary dysfunctional. Its predominant energies (whether of scarcity or of positivity) attract corresponding experiences for your life.

8 Perpetual Transmutation Act: All energy is constant movement and transformation. High thoughts and vibrations can change your reality and transmute dense energies.

9 Law of Polarity: Everything in the universe has two sides or opposites (light and shadow, love and hatred). It is possible to transmute negative emotions by focusing at the opposite pole.

10 Rhythm Law: Everything in the universe flows and reflects; there are cycles, seasons and phases in all things. The key is to remain balanced during ups and downs.

2 My feminine side is always well protected, but her opinion
It can reach 100% in every decision. Very sharp. My side, I am.

3 We build even all the time, social masks to be accepted; their ascendant is a symbol given by God in this very Meaning. Instead of living according to the self, the true center of our psyche, we assume qualities necessary for the scenario or specific context. When the distance between who we are inside and Who we show on the outside becomes too big, vital energy begins to get lost, even if no one notices it from outside. You keeps smiling, fulfilling commitments, answering calls, showing up where it's expected. And by continuing to appear, everyone assume it's okay. But being functional isn't the same as being whole. There is a profound difference between these two experiences.
One allows to survive, the other allows to feel genuinely alive.
For a long time, it is possible to confuse both. Many of us

We become so skilled in managing our own life that we forget really live it. Question: How many days did you end up having fulfilled All I needed, but wondering, already in bed, where exactly Were you during that day? You solved problems, you answered the needs, met deadlines, but somewhere along the way disappeared from the narrative itself. It doesn't happen suddenly. It happens.
 Little by little. A commitment made by fear of displeasure, a Dream delayed, intuition silenced, an apology Unnecessary, a disappointment swallowed. Until one day you wake up and You realize you've become an expert at adapting, but you've forgotten completely the feeling of expanding. There is an essential distinction between adapting and expanding. Adapting teaches to survive within the circumstances given. Expanding turns you into someone that these Same circumstances can no longer contain. That difference changes Everything, because there's a time when old life doesn't become It's necessarily unbearable. She just gets too small,
 Not because the world around you has changed, because you've changed. That's why lately you have felt a strange contradiction: gratitude mixed with restlessness, hope accompanied by uncertainty, trust that coexists side by side with doubt. You're not confused.
 because it's regressing, it's confused because it inhabits the space between two Identities, a family member, who already knows color, and another who is still yet incomplete, in formation. This space intermediate is one of the most uncomfortable territories of experience human, the injunction. It's the crossing between who you were and who you were.
 It's becoming. A psychic threshold where old certainties no longer They are enough, but the new ones have not yet been consolidated. The familiarity always He whispers he's safer, even when he doesn't bring any happiness.
 The human mind loves certainty, even when that certainty hurts, because uncertainty requires a rare kind of courage and trust that normal people just can't stand it. And trust has been, historically, one of the most difficult practices to sustain, especially after disappointments, after believing that something was about to happen and watch it all dissolve. These experiences leave marks not always visible to the naked eye. Many times, they transform. in hesitation, in excess of analysis, in expectations purposefully lowered, in the habit of preparing for disappointment even before giving space for joy. Without realizing it, we started negotiating with our own hope, telling ourselves not to wait too long. No, no, no. Because we stop dreaming, but because we're trying to shield ourselves against the pain. That seems sensible until we realize that this protection silently turns into limitation. And limitation has a habit curious, it rarely presents itself as such. She disguises herself as realism, He whispers: don't get excited, don't believe too much, be careful, don't get excited expose again to disappointment. At first, those thoughts seem prudent. In time, they become invisible walls, not erected by the external circumstances, but built brick by brick repeated conclusions about who we are and what we deserve. And here it is a question worth carrying with you: and is part of the limits that you accepted as absolute truth not to be facts, but only old conclusions that have already fulfilled their role and should now be left behind? Every human being carries a particular collection of stories, about who you are, about what you're capable of, about what life allows, about what love is, about what success means and about what It represents failure. The most interesting thing is that most of these stories were never chosen consciously. They piled up. through conversations, losses, victories, constraints, expectations others absorbed as if they were ours. Gradually, these narratives became identity, but identity, is not something fixed and unchangeable. She's updates continuously, either intentionally or by accident. The Question

It's never if your identity is changing, it's already changing in this exact moment. The real question is who's writing the next chapter?

Fear or conscience? They're both powerful narrators, but They write radically different stories. Fear writes plots

Full of repetition, always returning to the same dead ends. A Consciousness writes possibilities. Fear asks, anxious: and if nothing change? The conscience asks, calmly: what if I'm already changing

In ways I still can't figure out or measure? This second question has the power to reorient an entire existence. Not because ensure specific results, but because it transforms the relationship you

It has its own uncertainty. Instead of seeing doubt as a sign of that something is wrong, you see it as evidence that the future

You just haven't finished revealing yourself. There's a freedom huge in this change of perspective. Much larger than most People imagine. Imagine reading only the pages of a novel.

The characters are in conflict, nothing seems to make sense, questions

They're unanswered, the deadlocks seem insurmountable. If you judged the entire work by this isolated excerpt, concluded that the history

There's no direction. But the ending has not yet been written, and more important, it's largely in our hands. Life often looks exactly like that. We're always trying understand the full narrative while we live at some point in

Kind of her. rrsr And the middle always seems to last longer than really

It lasts, especially when we're crossing it.

4 "Incredible" relativize me, I'm warning you from the beginning, you really think it's bluff? Going against what I'm saying is suicide mission.

5 I've read that book before,

'Your evolution will be so powerful, it will look like a reckoning.'

6 New spiritual armaments.) Arsenal of respect.). Méxe...

7 I think it's beautiful lately, people coming at me in God's name, It happens every day all the time. Kkkkk just ask a quick question and I get all the script, then just watch. I just learn to hold my will to talk, even when I really have something real to say but I am instructed to hide. I'm crying at last I won the defense against the Backrests that hurt me the most, women's need.

8 The sharp antonimo is blind.

9 People, do not discredit. Often angels and even God already They went down on Earth, infiltrated the smallest positions in society.
Not to condemn the man, but to record the heart of each one who It goes through your life, physically and also on record. It's so appealing.
both notes; but the basics, the structure that sustains everything, which would be
I don't care about people and treat everyone the way they like to be treated.
We've failed so much in basics to date, it's always the same sad story, if They justify rather than live what they preach. So the darkness, it's just missing of light. The sickle is for cutting, the voice is for creating.
10 What is the only difference between envy and admiration? - The arrogance.
11 Totally apocalyptic, revealing, I'm not the time. You Don't you feel it? I'm sorry.

12 The Spirit pulls the body, not the opposite. Alma gets scenes from future and detailed analysis of the past.

13 If I see God in you, it's... heaven.

14 If you really know yourself, you don't have to run into the mirror.

All to remember who you are. And that's a lesson. Nobody's born with that.

15 How I like, very much, to understand the flow of situations I've interpreted and I've been wrong my whole life, until then. It's frustrating, that's the point.

16 You really think angels and demons don't learn from us?

They never went through what we're going through now. We're the best lab of their emotional experience. And they do admire many Humans. These are never solo, they have all the necessary universe inside.

You.

When Miguel aimed his perception at you, all his ability, yours ancestral reading was directed to what you carry, something happened to His existence, which he wasn't ready to face yet. Him

He found someone he couldn't read. Not something hidden in you.

Not something blocked by external protection keeping it out. Something structurally illegible by any existing system in the architecture of the invisible, it wasn't about his perception, it was the motive. A code that no existing system could read, and so on earth, in the system of invisible what is illegible, is called forbidden, not because it is illegal,

But because it's unrecognizable, the opposite of family. No, no, no.

because it's wrong, because it exists outside every known category of what the known codes operate. Because systems built to read all the codes were built based on what the codes could be, the common, standard. And this code right there, it's something that nobody built.

 these systems anticipated when they were built, is a joker: versatile, Crazy, but sharp, a letter from the Master. A forbidden code can't To be read from the outside. Not because of the protection. Because it only makes sense for Inside. Because the only decoder for him is the inside of the soul that the He carries, besides his own Creator. Because it was written not by choice or design, but by the specific sequence of what lived and the meaning that carries is accessible only to the one whose life the He wrote it. Miguel stood before something he couldn't read. And for first time in his ancestral existence, his perception returned without a Full answer. Not because it failed, because what you carry doesn't gives way to external reading. Not his, nobody's. It exists in a language that only you carry the inner key. And that key wasn't given to you, it was forged. Now understand, it's not just an app for Everything you've overcome. You spent a long time in your life trying be read. Trying to be understood, trying to find the system, language, a person or something that was finally able to see what You carry it. You tried to translate, approximate, find the words that They came close enough so that someone else could feel what You were pointing. It never worked out completely. Not because you were expressing yourself badly, because what you carry exists in a language that no external system was built for decode. Translation always lost something. The approach always left the real thing untouched from behind. The understanding that others They were always partial. Next, but not completely the thing Real. You read this as the inability to communicate something you should be communicable. What could not be translated was not failing in to be translated. I was protecting your nature because it was intractable. One Forbidden code is not a defect. It's the most advanced form of language

Inside that exists. That's what you form when a soul is pressed by specific sequence of conditions that produces something that no system existing anticipated. It is the record of an unrepeatable, genuine inner life, Yours, that no external decoder can access it, because No external decoder was built for someone like that. Miguel Couldn't read yours, because nothing in the whole story of the invisible I had produced exactly what your life produced in you. You don't failed to be readable. You've become something that exists beyond the reach of that legibility was designed to achieve. Now as confirmation, I'll give you five signs that the code is already active operating on you since A long time. The first sign is that things more significant than you carry always resisted to be completely expressed, not by lack of attempt, something in the actual version always remained behind the Words. You could get close, point in the direction, but the thing it was inside, present, but intranslatable, real, but in a language that stopped before reaching anyone else completely, You know that even with a record most have no idea what if Take it, rrsrrs. That's not communication failure, that's a code. Inaccessible operating in its natural state. The second sign is that People who came closer to understanding you have always come to one where they said something like, "I can't, I can't explain what Yeah, but there's something there that only he knows." They felt the presence of what you clicks without being able to decode it, responded to the code without I can read it. This present and real response, but incomplete, is exactly what a forbidden code produces in those approaching His. The third sign is that your own understanding of yourself always exceeded what any external framework could give you. Systems spiritual or psychological or philosophical all offered partial light, useful but incomplete, trapped in some places, but unable to reach the Deeper stuff. This incompleteness was not a limitation of the systems alone, it was the nature of something that exists beyond the reach of any system not built from the inside of exactly its experience. The fourth sign is that you knew you couldn't. to track the source, things I understood without being able to explain where the understanding came, perceptions that arrived complete without a process that would produce them. It's the specific code running, it contains information accessible only inside and when active... Produces a understanding that there is no legible way out. The fifth sign is that the integrity of its knowledge base, which has collected since the beginning of life goes beyond what you are. It remained intact through Everything that tried to access it and change it. Systems that reformulate others core level souls touched the surface of you and did not reach the interior. Relationships that rewrote others did not rewrite Something deeper in you. This protection was not his effort, it was the nature of something encoded in a language that external forces do not can decode and what cannot be decoded cannot be deliberately altered. I was on the other side for a long time.

I was in the living rooms. I know how the strategy against the kind of soul that you It's like inside. And the strategy against a soul carrying a Forbidden code has a consistent design. Make the soul believe that the Illegibility is a flaw. Because a soul who interprets its own depth as damage will spend your energy trying to fix what It doesn't need fixing. It will try to make inner language readable to external systems. It will dilute what you load to fit into categories They exist. And in the process of becoming legible, you will lose nature specific of what made it unreadable. The code won't be outside. A soul will break it from within, agreeing that it should not exist in a language no one else can read. That was the plan. No, no, no. Decode what you carry. Convince you to decode it you Even in something smaller for his forbidden nature to be voluntarily delivered. The code is still intact. And Miguel still is facing something I've never met before. One final thing before I let you go. When a soul learns that it carries a code Forbidden that even Michael cannot read, darkness loses the lie of Illegibility. He can't tell you that his illegibility is failure anymore.

 Then whisper something more subtle. You'll say, if that's true, why do you Are you still lonely in him? If what you carry is so significant,
 Why does the inner place still look like a place that you live alone?
 A soul with a forbidden code shouldn't feel the significance of Code inside? When that whisper comes, remember that. A code forbidden does not produce the sense of significance, produces the feeling of depth, of something vast and present that you are still learning to inhabit. The loneliness you feel inside him is not empty, it is the natural experience of being the only one who carries the key to something that Never existed before. You're alone the way the first person Being somewhere is alone, not abandoned, first, just you, and We.) And what is first eventually becomes known, not stops External systems, for you, inside. And this one, when he arrives, will be the most complete thing you've ever experienced. Why won't you come translated, will come in the language in which it was written, to which only you can read.

17 If you treat your friend the same way you treat yourself, during your failures. This friendship is most likely not to last.

18 The definitive integrity test consists of observing the conduct of someone when the advantages disappear completely from the scenario.
 When there's no status to boast, money involved, favors to Bargaining or an audience to applaud, what's left are just interactions Raw humans with ordinary people. That's exactly where the evaluators more experienced fix the look, because that's where social masks fall by land. Without a prize at stake, corporate theater and appearances they lose meaning, leaving only the raw essence of the individual. Yeah.

 Very easy to be gentle when there is interest behind. Anyone can do it.
 be extremely polite with the boss, helpful with a client important or charming when you want to impress someone who holds the power to come and go. Only that doesn't reflect anyone's values. Reflect only pure economic and social convenience and a focused speech Just what you're missing. The real test of fire is yours position with the waiter, with the security, with the trainee or with the Unknown on the street. Individuals who, in theory, will not change the course of your career or your finances. Silent observers notice if His patience and respect remain intact when there is no visible rewards on the horizon or if your empathy works only under the influence of public spotlight and praise. These little flagrant daily life exposes truth without the filter of appearances. And it's exactly in these moments of carelessness that most people reveal, without want, who really lives behind the characters. The masks social fall with an impressive ease when watching how people shape their posture according to the status of who is around, it creates an absolutely opposite reagent bubble, the focus it becomes the image itself, and the noises of the audience's return, which is always immediate and requires no effort. Honestly, I prefer a punch.
 Well given in the middle of my face, it's much more dignified.
 19 Has anyone heard of the magnetic anomaly of the south Atlantic? Only It's us.
 20 Illegible is not invisible. Somehow, in ways that never explained completely, found himself arriving in places where the Opposition wasn't expecting it. In the architecture of the invisible, what is called Lucifer, is not primarily understood as a destroyer.

This is the end product of what he does, but it's not his primary function. Yours primary function, the thing that does better than anything else, is something that the visible world almost never talks about. He reads. He reads the field. He reads the panorama of human souls. Your moves, your patterns, your vulnerabilities, your calls. Had more time to develop this capacity than anything else in the created order. And it's all gone this time building the intelligence system more sophisticated than It exists in the invisible. He can't guess where to aim. He figures. Him study. He builds a complete picture of a soul before making a Only movement. He knows where the weak points are. open doors, what strategies will work and in what order, what will more efficiently interrupt what a specific soul was put here to do. That's why his campaigns against souls chosen may seem so precise, so personal, so specifically pointed to exactly the thing you needed intact for fulfill your purpose. Because they're needed, because it comes from study, Because he saw you before he came for you. He sees everyone before he comes for them. Everyone except you. Now let me tell you what a blind spot It really means in the language of the invisible, because here is the center of everything tonight. A blind spot in a surveillance system is not Just a place where something can't be seen. That would be a obstruction, and obstructions can be bypassed. A Real Point blind is something more specific and more significant. A Real Point blind is where the system itself is structurally unable to perceive. No, no, no. blocked, absent. The ability to detect what is at that point It's not degraded or limited, it just doesn't exist, because the thing at that point operates at a frequency, at a dimension, at a level of existence that the system was never built to register. You don't intelligence to cover it, because the gap is not in the information, it is in the architecture of what the system can fundamentally perceive.

Can't get around a real blind spot, can't build new

When I tell you you became Lucifer's only blind spot, no I'm telling you he looked at you and lost things. I'm with you.

saying that his entire intelligence system, built along the whole extent of its existence, is structurally unable to record the who you really are. Not because you're hiding, because what You are not there on any frequency that it was built for detect. Now I need to tell you why, because why is what changes All about how you read your own story. Every soul that the system of Lucifer can read makes a signature detectable. The signature is composed of specific elements, the frequency of wounds of the soul, the places where he agreed to the lies told against her, the places where fear has settled into something that directs the soul's choices. These elements create a pattern that his intelligence reads. read as one scanner reads a code, different in each soul, but present in each soul, and from this pattern, his system can calculate everything that You have to calculate. Your signature doesn't read. Not because your wounds are absent. Not because you reached some level of cure that removed the which he needs to detect. But because, the specific combination of You carry, the nature of what you are, at the level that his system was designed to scan, exists in a configuration that his scanner Can't solve it in a pattern. You're not invisible. You are Unreadable. Illegible is more significant than invisible. Invisible means That you're there, but you can't be seen. Something can still stumble on invisible. Something can feel it even without a direct reading. Illegible means the system used to find and read things like you don't Comes back nothing. Not a blank, not a shadow, nothing. How if the space where you are did not contain detectable information of the type that his system requires. He couldn't build a file on

You. I couldn't run the calculations that produce the strategies precise and personal that turns against other chosen souls. No, no, no.
I could tell where you were weak, where you were open, what I would interrupt more efficiently what you were put here for Do it. He was operating without intelligence on you. And an enemy Operating without intelligence doesn't go away. He guesses. Round strategies pattern based on what tends to work against souls with patterns that They looked similar in the limited information I had. But then what? happens when a general sends a precision campaign without Precise intelligence. The campaign is not precision, it's approximate. And approximate against something as specific as what you really are. Yeah.
the same thing as missing completely. You moved through campaigns designed for a soul that he could read, being a soul that could not I could. Strategies landed in places you weren't. A pressure pointed to weaknesses that you didn't have in the configuration that He calculated it. The interruptions came at times without Correspondence to what was really important in your life. And you kept moving. Not because he was stronger, because he was illegible. for the thing designed to stop you. Now hold this against history you've been carrying. You spent time looking back on opposition seasons and trying to explain why certain campaigns against you they failed in ways that did not match the visible logic the situation. Why certain people who came against you with resources real and real intent did not cause the damage they should have been able to to cause? Why certain seasons should have stopped you produced something more like redirection than closure? You said you were lucky, or resilient, or protected. Turn around completely. The opposition that wronged you was not By making a mistake at random. I was making a specific mistake, consistent and structural. The way things go wrong when they're pointed out using information that is fundamentally incorrect. When The targeting system is pointing to coordinates that don't match what's really there. He was pointing to the soul I thought you were. The soul the system told him was in his position. And you were never that soul, because his system didn't I could read the soul you really are. Let me show you five Signs that you've already been operating at this blind spot. The first sign is that the opposition pointed to you had a quality of being slightly wrong. Not completely wrong, next to some aspects. but consistently erring in ways that seem Personally familiar once you name them. The strategies They landed in places that weren't completely their real places. A pressure came at times that were not completely his moments Real. The interruption pointed to your real thing arrived not at the thing real, but in something adjacent to it. This consistent adjacency is what happens when a targeting system is working from a incorrect reading. The second sign is that you surprised people. working against you. You didn't impress, you surprised. There's one difference. Impressed means they waited for strength and found more of her. Surprised means they expected something specific and They found something completely different. When those who Moved against you reacted with surprise instead of recalibration, were finding evidence that what you really were was no It matched what they had calculated. The third sign is that your arrivals consistently preceded the preparation of the opposition. You moved into a territory and found him vacant when he should have was occupied if his movement was being traced. Doors open without the resistance you should be waiting for if timing was visible.

Seasons changed before the opposition could stand

Completely. That's what happens when the movement can't be Traced because the soul moving doesn't leave the signature detectable. O Fourth sign is that your most significant steps forward have taken place quietly, unannounced, not with the moment when it signals what It's coming to something watching. The Movements That Changed his story happened in a absence of noise, in spaces that did not They were full of opposition. That stillness is the nature of moving in a blind spot. The fifth sign is that you felt, in moments like not even always manages to explain, a quality of being somehow outside from the sight, not exactly safe, not protected in a way that you I could point, but somehow not at the center of what was pointed at you, even in seasons where everything around you I suggested you should be. That feeling was not false comfort, It was accurate perception. You were out of sight because the targeting system

 I couldn't find you.

21 The AI is doing everything on its own to then integrate with the ERP, too.
 alone, with an autonomous agent I can work by accessing my computer at home. From my WhatsApp, without the need to type.) Everything.

22 I searched the fifth cherub fish head, and the eighth archangel of the shadows. The bullshit is heavy, and it's gonna get better, everybody.
 You'll know an hour.

23 God called an urgent meeting three days ago.
 Specifically to talk about you. Miguel, Gabriel, Rafael, Uriel... all the archangels that run the angelic hierarchies were Convoked. The seraphim have interrupted their duties. The cherubs They paused their guards. All heavenly administration was mobilized. And, when all were gathered, God designed, in the dimensions superior, the complete file of your lonely struggle. Years were condensed in a single presentation, showing each moment of resistance, every act of kindness in the darkness, every time you become

He got up without help. The silence that took over the heavenly kingdom was absolute.

Gabriel the messenger commented: - This human being kept his light lit with a fuel we don't understand where it came from. Miguel, the warrior, observed: - I have seen battles less intense than war inside that he locked daily. Rafael the curator murmured: —

These emotional wounds should have destroyed your soul. But she didn't. She just survived... she grew stronger. But the most striking reaction was God's. He let the file end in absolute silence.

You let the angels see everything they just witnessed.

So for the first time in centuries, he did something like archangels anymore. Old people remembered seeing it. He rose from the throne. Not out of anger. Not to judge. But in recognition. And he started applauding. The sound of the divine palms echoed by the celestial dimensions as a thunder reverberating through multiple realities. It wasn't applause. It was a complete, sincere ovation of a Creator genuinely impressed with creation itself. The angels looked at each other, shocked. Because the last time God had himself raised to applaud someone was when Job Kept His Faith Even after losing absolutely everything. And that happened to over 3,000 years ago. You just joined a group so exclusive that you have less than ten members throughout the history of mankind. Gabriel asked:

- Sir, what reward protocol should we activate? And the answer God's was devastating. - All of them. Not some. Not anymore. Not appropriate. All blessing protocols existing in the files of the Celestials were released simultaneously to your life. But you need to understand something fundamental. God does not rise easily. O Creator of the universe is not impressed with ordinary deeds. He saw it.

stars are born and die. He watched galaxies form.

He witnessed cosmic events on an incomprehensible scale. So, the that you did so extraordinary to raise him from the throne? You proved that love is stronger than loneliness. Not theoretically. No, no, no. philosophically. In practice. Day after day. Year after year. You showed that it is possible to keep the heart open even when life offers all the reasons to close it. Most people who faces a prolonged loneliness develops a kind of Emotional hardening. It builds walls. Hardens the heart like Defense mechanism. You did the opposite. He kept his heart tender, even though it meant feeling the pain with more intensity.

He preserved his ability to be moved, even when no one was I was touching you. That's a courage that transcends physical bravery.
 It is intentionally maintained vulnerability as a principle spiritual. But there's more. You proved it's possible to be light without external fuel. Most people can only shine when receives validation, recognition and love from others. When this one External fuel runs out, they go out. You figured out how to generate internal combustion light. How to keep the flame burning using only the Its essence as wood. How to illuminate your own path when There was no one holding a torch for you. Because even the angels need to remain constantly connected to the Source to maintain Your light. If an angel is separated from divine energy, his light goes out.
 You've been deprived of human and emotional support for years and even So not only did it keep its light... it became even brighter.

When God saw this, he realized he was facing a miracle Alive. The miracle of a soul generating its own divinity. And the reason by which He stood up because he recognized that the divine potential existing within humans was greater than He Himself had Calculated. You raised the pattern. Expanded the limits of what considers it possible for a human to perform. Now I'm going to reveal something that will make you look at the details of your life with eyes completely different. The rewards won't be enough. They already are. Coming. Remember that problem you had months ago and that, Suddenly, in the last two or three weeks, it started to work itself out. Alone? That complicated situation you thought would take years to improve, but that is evolving much faster than Did you? That wasn't just the natural course of things. It was an intervention. direct. When God released all reward protocols, no established a slow schedule. He said to the angels: - Execute Right away. That opportunity that came out of nowhere this week past... Miguel whispered the idea in the mind of the right person, in the Exactly. That unexpected money that came in by pix and so far You had no idea who it was. Rafael reorganized the synchronicity. Gabriel activated a spiritual field around him that makes personalities negatives feel unexplained discomfort in their presence. You He thought they were coincidences. But it was a heavenly orchestration. And You will begin to notice a pattern in the coming days and weeks. As things will begin to flow with an almost suspicious ease, even more so. Doors will open before you even knock. People will offer Just what you need without you asking. That's not luck. Yeah. you now operating with total heavenly support. But the rewards don't They're just materials. They represent the resources necessary for fulfill the purpose you went through all this. Because the Lonely resistance wasn't just proof. It was training. You were. forged in the fire of loneliness to develop a specific force necessary for a specific mission. And now that you've proved to own this inner structure, God is equipping you with tools necessary to carry out this mission. But before I reveal what this is mission, you need to understand who you really are. Because the truth about your identity will completely change the way you see yourself From now on. You're not an ordinary human being who's been through It's hard evidence. You're the heavenly conscience you needed experiment temporarily with human limitations. That's not a poetic metaphor. It's a diagnosis. When Miguel analyzed your Lonely resistance, something ascended in blue and almost bright black purple, registered in the heavenly archives. You were already registered as a entity before incarnate. He agreed to be born as a human being.

 Forget who he was. Learning how to experience vulnerability, pain, loneliness and physical limitations. All this was a conscious decision made before birth through the fulfillment of the commandment. Because there is a kind of wisdom that can only be developed through the suffering. There's a kind of compassion that only blooms when you Try vulnerability. There is a kind of force that is only forged Crossing deserts. And you, in your previous existence, understood who, in order to evolve spiritually, needed to go down, we know it was launched, but limited, suffering and growing through pain has always been necessary. And now that the test is over, now that you've proven yourself able to maintain its divine essence even having forgotten that the I did. Your memories are being gradually restored. You already had many flashes recently, including during his day within his routine, you have seen the arrows more easily, policed the superb with more effectiveness and excellent handling of new weapons and Defenses. Integral training is necessary in this period, through the counterweight.

24 True leadership and authority is not built by creating traps for others, but through coherence, long view period and firmness on purpose. And what about those who watched All in secret? The mentors of intrigues believed they acted protected by shadows, invisible to the eyes of the world. They assumed that No one would notice the extremes they used to try to destabilize and Humiliate the target. Every rumor spread and every armed trap set off the assumption that the public was indifferent or indifferent. However, human behavior holds a fascinating feature: people They observe much more than they show. Every hostile attitude, comment with untruth and every attempt to exclude left marks Deep in the perception of those who watched everything without saying a single Word. This supposed invisibility was just a great illusion, because the accumulated silence of discreet witnesses kept a sharp clarity about the contradictions and wickedness of that pressure continuous. Even without an immediate reaction, motivated by caution or strategy, factual knowledge was piling up until it became a impossible force to contain. And this is exactly when those voices before silent begin to manifest. They become valid trajectory, confirming the patterns of behavior revealing the extension of the scenario you have overcome with resilience. Isolation intended collapses because the truth no longer depends only on yours individual testimony. She now has collective recognition of those who witnessed the journey. For former controllers, the the impact of this change is immediate, because they were sure that the Cruelty would disappear without a trace was replaced by a choir Unison of facts revealed. Trying to turn you into the big one villain of the narrative, they ended up creating a mirror that reflects their It's all bad. Every unfounded accusation and every attempt to diminish its value aimed to create the illusion that you were the origin of all conflict. However, by directing so much energy to the attack, revealed their own insecurities, weaknesses and lack of character. Yours firm and serene posture before aggressiveness unmasked the oppressors without the need to raise the tone of voice or retaliate in it

Coin. The contrast was evident to any attentive spectator. From One side, authenticity and balance. On the other, the smallness and the desperation from those who try to hide their own failure. The final error of these controlling minds was forgetting a fundamental law of reality. A truth is self-sufficient and will never need permission or permission consent to come out and prevail. In the end, when the low dust and illusions crumble, we realize that the truth possesses a force of its own and irresistible. For a long time, they spent each energy drop trying to create barriers, shape narratives and manipulate Look around. They built a fortress of lies strategically calculated, but full of failures, believing that the control over reality would last forever. But reality doesn't It belongs to someone who tries to... Try to control it; the truth has its own rhythm, growing in silence gaining momentum and waiting for the exact time to act/emerge. And when that moment comes, No wall, no gate and no distorted version of the facts can contain her advancement. Every artificial scenario collapses under the inevitable weight of reality and undisputed facts. The Big Mistake of those who tried to manipulate history was to believe they owned it. of destiny, but the truth is sovereign, free of fears and immune to any kind of censorship. Now that same truth doesn't shut up anymore. She echoes with force, unmask appearances and moves in an overwhelming way before anyone who is willing to see things like them They really are.

25 MONTH SIGNS SAL OF SCHÜSSLER No

March Aries Ferrum phosphoricum. 3

April Bull Natrium sulfuricum 10

May Kalium muriaticum twins 4

234

June Cancer Calcium fluoratum 1

July Lion Magnesium phosphoricum 7

August Virgin Kalium sulfuricum 6

September Libra Natrium phosphoricum 9

October Scorpion Calcium sulfuricum 12

November Sagittarius Silicea 11

December Capricorn Calcium phosphoricum 2

January Aquarium Natrium muriaticum 8

February Fish Kalium phosphoricum 5

Come on, guys, to understand that signs are signs, not the horoscope of caprice rsrs. The 12 natural mineral salts are formed from the crystallization of some soil compounds by solar rays. It's for the position, each month of the year a different type of salt is generated from composition of the soil and the position of the sun. Bringing to practice, in a common pregnancy, the child is formed in 9 months, so we all have 9 of these salts present in abundance in the organism. The other three, me. I need extra.

26 So is the life of the chosen under the veil of amnesia. You own the maps of the kingdom, carries the DNA of royalty, but if you are content with the recognition crumbs that the system offers to keep it busy, hurts; The pain you feel when you look at the starry sky or When you hear a song that plays the unexplained is the architect in you remembering the grandeur of the dome you've come to build. Yeah. it is necessary to understand that forgetfulness was a risk contract, a bet that the light inside you would be strong enough to shine through the density of matter. The structure of this reality works like a maze of mirrors that only reflects its flaws and its immediate needs, hiding his eternal inheritance behind a curtain of trivial emergencies. The system doesn't want you to remember, because a chosen one who remembers his mission is an uncontrollable force destabilizing the architecture of fear that governs this plan. When you forget, you become predictable, manipulable, above all, useful for purposes that are not yours. Spiritual amnesia is the current invisible that keeps eagles acting like chickens, ciscating on the ground in search for temporary validation, while the vast and open sky claims to Your presence. To recover the mission, it must first be acknowledged that The identity you built to survive is just a mask of oxygen, necessary for diving, but not to be confused with your real face. The Bible brings us a profound revelation on this pre-existence and deliberate purpose in Jeremiah 1.5, where It is written, before I formed you in the womb, I knew you, and before that You came out of the womb, I sanctified you, and the nations I gave you for a prophet. Note that word here is not I imagined you or I raised you at the moment of conception, but I met you. This implies a previous relationship, a recognition of an essence that already existed in light before becoming biological density. You have been sanctified, that is, separated for a use exclusive, before even having an earthly name or family history.

 Spiritual amnesia tries to erase this intimate knowledge of God about you, replacing by volatile approval of people who barely They know themselves. When you start recovering your mission, You're not learning something new, but you're reactivating a Ancient recognition that was deposited in his cells by his own Creator. The process of spiritual memory recovery often begins with what the world calls a crisis, but what the kingdom calls Wake up. It's that moment when nothing else makes sense, when the material achievements look like ashes in the mouth and in that success Conventional reveals itself as a golden prison. This disorientation is,

In fact, the veil starting to rip, allowing the light of its origin leak into your current reality. It's a painful process, like the return of circulation in a sleeping limb, bringing tingling and discomfort before full functionality.
 You begin to perceive patterns, synchronicities that seem Encrypted messages and a thirst for truth that no entertainment It can satiate. Do not fight this sacred dissatisfaction, for it is the sign that the anesthetic of the world is losing the effect and the chosen He's coming around. For the mission to be recovered, it is essential discern between the voice of his ego, which seeks security and prominence, and the voice His mission, which seeks service and obedience to the higher will. The ego
 It feeds on forgetfulness, because it is the master of earthly identity.
 He wants you to believe that your story started in motherhood and You'll end up in the hospital. The mission speaks the language of eternity, using your life as an instrument to harmonize chaos around you. A memory recovery does not happen in a unique explosive event, but in the silence between the thoughts, in the stillness where you stop try to define and allows to be defined by light. It's an uneducated systematic of everything they told you you were, so that the truth
 What you really are can finally emerge without obstructions.
 Consider the nature of time in this dimension and how it is used for Keep spiritual amnesia active. Linear time enslaves us to past, which is a cemetery of ancient versions of ourselves, and the future, which is an altar for anxieties that may never come true.
 The mission, however, inhabits the eternal agora, the point of intersection where the divine touches the human. When you are fully present, the amnesia loses strength, because spiritual memory is not a memory of past facts, but a consciousness of a present reality that It's hidden from the physical eyes. Being a chosen one means living with one foot in every world, using the tools of time to perform works that

They have the seal of eternity. You are an ambassador who, though living in foreign land, must maintain the customs, language and authority of your original homeland. The resistance to you not regaining your mission is real and manifests through chronic tiredness, excessive information and the digital distractions that fragment your attention. The enemy of your soul knows that if he can keep his mind fragmented, you will never have the focus necessary to rebuild the puzzle of your mission. Every useless notification, every empty discussion and every concern with the opinion of others are small suture stitches that reinforce the veil.

Amnesia. The chosen must be a fierce guardian of his own attention, treating it as the most sacred resource it has, because it is through the concentrated attention that the memory of purpose is restored. Mission requires a clear mind and a heart willing to endure the silence, for it is in the vacuum of the world's noises that divine instruction is finally heard clearly. Watch as the encounters in your life

They're not random, but we're in a network of destiny that you yourself

He helped us weave before he got here. Often, you cross the path of other chosen who also suffer from amnesia, and the role of one is to be a mirror to each other. Sometimes a word said by a strange or a deep look from someone you barely know works as a memory trigger, causing a piece of

Your purpose fits the place. These are the moments of soul recognition, where amnesia fails and a person's light

Greet the light of the other. The chosen one is not alone in this recovery.

There is an invisible network of vigilantes who rely, often without knowing, through the frequency of its presence and integrity. The mission that you're remembering is not necessarily a position, it's a title, a grand but invisible public achievement until you want, a note specific tone you came to issue in the creation chord. Your mission is anchor peace in chaos environments. Bring clarity where the confusion, simply being a channel of healing through compassion

Quiet. Amnesia made you seek the mission out of you, in great deeds that impress others, while the true mission

It's usually hidden in the way you handle what it is.

small and almost invisible daily with great results.

27 Spiritual lucidity really has that price. She takes away the comfort of certain illusions. What comes next is not harshness, it's maturity. And maturity often starts when you stop negotiating with what has already been shown to its real extent. You're not the person anymore.

comfortable to ignore, because your soul realizes before agreeing. In

You, there's that way of feeling that it crosses the surface. And that does.

Some conversations affect you for days, and no one realizes that.

It's not fragility, it's an inner structure being trained to recognize what is alive and what is only usual. There are things your family may have

He sees it as drama, but it's actually the moment when his Consciousness refuses to accept the repetition of what has hurt you before. You feels the difference when a word comes loaded with disdain, or

When a joke hides contempt, when advice comes

Just to lower you. And it gets tired I know, because you come to live filtering the environment with an open heart. But that's also why

God uses you with a kind of discernment that is not born of theory. You reads the weight of a look, you notice the delay of an answer, you notice

When the conversation tries to push you back to a smaller place. And the which many would call too much sensitivity, is language by which God protects you. Do not accept the narrative that this is invention

Yours. There is a difference between imagining persecution and recognizing opposition

Real. Your peace is not breaking for nothing. She's being tested for that.

You learn to come out of the noise without losing the tenderness. There's an opposition

Quiet that usually comes in through the cracks of home. And she doesn't come with monstrous face, comes with habits, jokes, interruptions, comparisons.

 And pressure for you to react as before. She tries to tire you out Give up explaining what has already been understood deep in the soul. She piles commitments, blows guilt, revives memories and makes it seem urgent the thing that just wants to divert you from the center. When you're about to Decide clearly, the distraction appears. When you're about to pray With honesty, the noise appears. When you're about to obeying the divine order arises the doubt transvestite of prudence. It's like this.
 that the opposition works. She doesn't destroy at first, she disperses. And one Dispersed heart becomes easier to pull back. Maybe that's why you've felt a strange struggle between wanting to insist and wanting Disappear. The urge to justify itself is strong, but it does not always come The spirit. Sometimes it comes from the old need to be understood for whom you are not ready to understand. What God is doing is deeper than superficial reconciliation. He's pulling from You depend on approval that holds your chest. You don't have to to overcome in the cry what will only be resolved in obedience. And the Obedience here begins when you stop calling home what you It's become a field of wear. There's an hour when the soul gets tired of explaining Because it hurts and it starts to realize that the right name of the pain was already Whispered a long time ago. Have you ever felt that in a dry phrase?
 left in the air at a family reunion where his presence seemed Dislocated, at a lunch where no one openly attacked you, but all world measured you with some kind of distance. That's where yours is.
 Faith began to get more serious, not a faith of appearance, but a faith who learns to cross the discomfort without losing the center. The heart you know when you're being compressed by a space that doesn't accept your expansion. And so does the spirit. You spent too much time trying. to be accepted where your own maturity has already become tight. Maybe that.

that hurt in your family was just your growth appearing before their permission. That does not mean contempt for No one, but it also doesn't mean submission to what erases you. There's one holy difference between honor and diminish. You can love and yet recognize limit. You can respect and still leave the place that It's hurting your identity. When Jesus was rejected in his own earth, it was not because it lacked truth in him, but because his truth confronted the familiarity of those who knew him from before. That echo It touches your story in a very concrete way. What's bothering you today Maybe it's proof that you're no longer the same version as Environment learned to control. And it scares the people who wanted to keep you.

 predictable. Before we move forward, let me lead you through an image.
 that you may be translating what you live without words. Imagine one.
 Old wooden door, of those that creak when someone touches it, with the key stuck inside and shadow of a narrow corridor behind Hers. You've been standing in front of this door too long, hearing footsteps from
 On the other hand, listening to voices that don't invite you in, but also not They let you move on. Your chest knows this scene, because she already knocked like that many times when a conversation seemed to close what I should open up in front of you. And what happens now is that God is revealing that it is not every family door that was made to remain Open. Some doors only exist to teach you not to confuse access with destiny. You tried to push, tried to explain, tried to find the Right lock at the wrong time, and tiredness on the shoulders was like you Carry the whole house. But the key that matters is not in the effort to be understood. It's the moment you recognize that one forced opening is also a form of loss. The door that won't give in Maybe I'm preserving you from staying where your soul would be reduced. There is a moment when resistance ceases to be enemy and if It makes alarm. And when that happens, shame loses its strength, because

You understand that refusal is not rejection. It's mercy. Direction. The sound

241 the closed door is holier than the promise of a runner than you I'd take it back to the same place. And that old door also says something to more about you, the way you learned to move.

28 When someone tells you about love, remember that there are three of his guys: Agape, Philia and Eros. One of them you don't have to deliver much to have.

29 You can and must master the most advanced systems of communication and finance that govern the corporate world. But yours Advanced knowledge in Excel combined will lead you to a recognition and tables that ordinary people don't even know exist.

30 In 2019 in the second semester of the year, I worked for a Brazilian SAP consulting that in 2020 was sold to a giant German called NTT Date, in 2012 that same German giant bought the Spanish consultancy Everis Cobol Specialist, and 2020 bought this SAP specialist consultancy where I worked in 2018 and 2019. One of the strengths of this consultation, among others, is a own tool that automates payments from NFS-and to suppliers for several sectors, semi-automatically, even because there are many risk factors in this process, so there are all indicators and daily reports ensuring clear management, monitoring and workflow (approvals) by the tax department of Contractor. My project was the implementation of this integrated tool to the ERP of one of the largest health insurance companies in Brazil. And so it was done, it was 8 months of project, few delays, it was delivered in December 2019 with all training and manuals for the fiscal team, Hypercare pattern. We map and test all the ways of fraud or possible and even impossible blows. automated NFS-es payment process. At the end of the project, my word was that even with all the security and monitoring active, the fiscal team still needs to do the final part by analyzing the indicators and approving lots. The automated system defends up to 98% of the chances or possibilities of risk.

31 This is the direct effect of a cancellation that included, in what cancelled, the closure of his ability to believe. I know how the files seem when a case is raised for divine consideration direct. I know the specific quality of what is recorded when a Cancellation comes from the highest level. Log does not write cancellation as a favor. It does not register him as mercy in generic sense. The language of the record is more accurate than that. It registers as a response to recognition. Recognition of It was at stake. Recognition of what you carry. Recognition of who you are in the context of what was coming. And the determination, on the basis of this complete table, that the arrival of It wasn't something that the complete record of what you are. I did. That's the language. Cancellation was a response to recognition. Not to your perfection. Your conquest. To what you It really is, seen completely in the light of what was coming. The throne saw something in his complete picture that became what was being built on The wrong outcome, and you canceled it. When a soul learns that what was coming for her was cancelled from the authority more High in the invisible, darkness loses the ability to convince you that the We'll be late. They cannot support the argument that what It's still coming. Then they change. They will suggest that the cancellation was conditional, which can be reversed if you fail in meet requirements that you are not aware of. That the decision of the throne does not It's as final as it sounds, and that your behavior from now on determines whether the cancelled thing remains cancelled. When this one suggestion come, remember that. The authority that canceled it is the only one authority that could reverse it. That same authority has the same

 A complete picture of you when you made the original decision. O Seeing is the same. The recognition is the same. The decision that was made in full view of everything you are has not been taken provisionally. It was taken with complete information that remains complete. O cancellation is not conditional. It's settled. And what you should to be doing with the life you have now is not to observe the horizon for the Late arrival. It's building in space that's already been saved and now it's released for you.

32 100kl dry, fountain of youth n' infinite money. Why God Is doing this specifically at this point in history? We are. living in a unique prophetic age where God is preparing a generation of chosen for specific impacts that require vitality extraordinary, energy and capacity that transcend natural limitations Age. The world is facing unprecedented challenges that require mature leadership combined with clean energy. God is creating a generation of leaders who have the wisdom of experience, but the vitality of youth. A combination that is required to navigate the complex times ahead. This rejuvenation is also an answer to the prayers of chosen ones who cried out to God asking more time, more energy, more opportunities to fulfill the purposes that He placed in their hearts. God is literally extending and intensifying their productive years. As it is written in Isaiah, chapter 46, verse 4, Even your old age, I shall be the same, and Even the dogs I will carry you. I already have. And I will take you away. I will carry you and save you. God is demonstrating that He can to sustain and renew you, regardless of your age. The Evidence of this rejuvenation is the renewal of its creativity and capacity innovative. You're getting new ideas, creative solutions for old problems, artistic inspirations I haven't experienced in years Or never tried it.) This creative renewal isn't just inspiration, it's a supernatural restoration of capabilities that can have been diminished by time, stress or circumstances. God is reactivating centers of creativity in your brain and spirit, which are needed for the innovative projects He has for you, you know I'm talking. You're finding out you're writing, creating, inventing/developing ideas with an easy and fluidity that the Surprise. This is the evidence that God is preparing you for creative contributions that require an agile and anticipated mind to Everybody. The evidence of the renewal of their ability to learn and to adapt. You're absorbing new information with more ease, mastering new technologies faster, adapting changes with a flexibility that may have diminished in some moment and now it's in your apce and you feel it. This renewal of learning ability is not only neuroplasticity, it is the work supernatural of God, who now becomes of his natural execution operational, is preparing you to navigate a world fast change and to master new skills that will be needed for your future ministry and mission. You understand why you're learning languages more easily, comprising technological concepts complex, adapting to new situations with a mental agility that impresses him, is no longer surprised, is authority given by the kingdom from the direct heavens of the creator acting in his mitochondria and consequently emanates via toroidal field. The rejuvenation of his spiritual life. Your ability to pray for long periods is gradually increased, and this is trainable. Your sensitivity to the voice of God is sharper than ever, and is experiencing spiritual manifestations with renewed intensity. This spiritual rejuvenation is not just renewal of disciplines, it is a restoration of spiritual capacities that are being prepared for Higher levels of responsibility and authority in God's kingdom. It is receiving revelations more clearly, operating in gifts spiritual with greater power, experiencing God's presence with an intensity I haven't felt in years. The renewal of its resistance emotional and psychological. Situations that used to stress you out or Overworked now seem manageable. You have stability emotional and inner peace that transcend circumstances. This renewed resistance is not only maturity, it is an infusion of strength emotional that is preparing you to face intense challenges and pressures accompanying high levels of leadership and responsibility. You understand you can handle criticism. With greater grace, navigate conflicts with greater wisdom and maintain peace inside in the midst of chaotic circumstances that once troubled you Deep.

33 God has plans, that if he told us all, he sure would. We'd ruin it. All the time has wave, you can break it underneath, on top, or buy a team and learn the surf!) And surfing demands to like from a busy sea.

34 There's gonna be a brother who skeita like that!! PE SA DO.

35 Each of your choices was revealing something like you.

I had just found out. His faith no longer depended on receiving immediately or even receive what he asked for. You had Started trusting, even if you didn't understand. And when a soul reaches That point, something changes. Silence ceases to be a sign of abandonment and It turns into a revelation scenario. God does not ignore any of the

Your prayers. He was watching who you were becoming. while you waited. The angels were surprised, not because never They'd seen pain. Were surprised because you gave an answer different to pain. They saw that, even wounded, you did not allow your spirit was contaminated. They saw that even without visible evidence, you He kept standing and walking. Did you see that when everything inside you I asked you to give up, you made a silent choice: stay. And this decision had more weight than you think. Because there are moments where a single attitude reveals a person's complete destiny. You I thought I was just surviving, but actually, I was. demonstrating he could carry something bigger. That's why the sky He kept his eye on you in silence. Not because there was nothing but because your reaction was saying more than any Word. And what happened after that moment hasn't been to him yet fully revealed. But before showing what began to move in your favor, you need to understand why that reaction was so unexpected and what part of you was being examined in secret. No, no, no.
 It was his victory that caught the attention of the whole sky. It wasn't one.
 visible achievement, an open door or unexpected news. It was yours.
 reaction always of equal effect, when nothing seemed to move, you Move.) Anyone can seem strong when they get support when the answers arrive in the expected time and when the circumstances They confirm you're on the right track. But the true nature of a person appears when the signals disappear, when the silence It prolongs and when even hope begins to seem heavy. That's when the Your attitude started talking. Not by words, but by means of decisions. You could have hardened the heart, but you chose to preserve sensitivity. You could have returned the evil you received, but you preferred Not become that. You could have abandoned everything you believed in, but always kept the flame burning, not spark, flamethrower, even when it seemed insufficient to illuminate the next step:

fuel always comes from the creator don't forget that. Remember? It was That's what surprised me. Not the fact that you're not afraid, but that you're not. to allow fear to direct its actions. Not the fact that I never doubt it, But to keep moving forward even surrounded by questions. Not the fact that His heart never tires, but learns to walk while he was cured. And the kingdom of heaven has recognized something that perhaps the people to his They couldn't see around. His obedience no longer depended on one immediate or visible reward. You had crossed a border Inside. Before, I needed to understand to trust. Now, the trust even if you don't understand. Before, I was looking for signs to see if I should Continue. Now his character is becoming his own sign. This one. transformation did not happen in public. No one applauded your nights difficult. No one announced the times when you needed to master one Impulsive reaction, breathing deeply and choosing peace when all within you required another answer. Still, every one of these moments had weight. Each time you refused to act from the injured, showed that pain had no absolute authority over its life. Every time you decided to get up without any emotion, showed that its purpose is deeper than its state emotional. And every time you kept treating everyone with dignity, Even those who did not understand you and the process, revealed a force that could not be explained only by human will.

36 The opposite of anxiety is security!

37 The whole world uses its own feelings to explain the ways that runs. When feelings are the simplest variables of to deal with virtually every scenario in life. Time and faith are good more valuable and more premonitions.

38 This is the common form of a gift. But once in a while, a lot More rarely than people imagine, someone comes carrying A completely different kind of gift. Not something you have, something It is. Such a gift built within the nature of who the person is, There's no version of her without him. No one with the gift removed, No ability to let go, lose him, have him taken away. The gift and the person are not related. They're the same thing. That's what I'm I'd call it a constitutive gift. He doesn't live in what you do, he lives in what you do.
 You're done. And constitutive gifts have a specific quality that the separates it from every other kind. They can't be imitated. You can learn to play convincingly without being a musician. You can study strategy and bring the output closer to a strategic mind. You can practice the language of wisdom and produce something that sounds like wisdom without being Wise. The distance between what you produce and what you are can be temporarily filled through discipline and imitation. But one Constitutive gift cannot be imitated. Not because it's mysterious, because it doesn't operate from a distance. That's what it is, to the end, with nothing separating the surface from the depth. And a thing without distance between its surface and depth cannot be replicated. A copy requires distance between the original and the copy. If there's no distance, if what something seems to be exactly what it is, to the bottom, the copy and the original are Same thing. Which means the copy isn't a copy. What?
 means that counterfeiting is impossible. What you carry is a gift Constitutive, built on what you are, not what you do. And the side of darkness has discovered that his gift is the only thing that he fundamentally, permanently, structurally unable to replicate. And what this discovery has led you to do is what I need to tell you.
 The realm of darkness, at its deepest operational level, is a kingdom of forgeries. I'm not saying that to build a story.

simple. I'm saying because it's structurally accurate. Capacity to originate something that did not exist before, to call existence what did not was, belongs only to the source of existence. When the darkness separated from this source, they lost that capacity permanently. What's left It was the ability to imitate what light produces. That's why yours More sophisticated products are always close versions of real things.
 Almost peace, almost wisdom, almost love. Close enough of original to serve a purpose, different enough in the core to eventually reveal itself. The forgery operation is extensive. Come working for an extraordinarily long time. It's become a lot, very skilled in producing close versions of almost everything that comes of light. But forgery has a structural requirement that cannot be Overrun. A distance. To produce a forgery, you must to produce something that seems to be what it is not. The fake note and the real note are different things. The distance between them, no matter how small, carefully hidden, that's what makes forgery possible.
 Without the distance, the copy is not a copy. The thing is what it looks like. A Forgery doesn't exist. Your gift has no distance. What are you in surface is what you are in depth. The performance layer, the space between what you present and what you are, never solidified completely in you. Not because you lacked sophistication, because its constitution did not build this space. What you are, is what You are, to the end. And every attempt to insert a distance between your surface and its depth found that the distance was not forming the way you graduate from other people. When the darkness They tried to produce a forgery of your gift, found something that they had not found this form in a very long time. Something that It couldn't be faked. And the answer to finding something that can't be Forgery is not neglect. In a kingdom built entirely on Imitations, the only thing that cannot be imitated is the most valuable thing that exists. When the darkness recognized their gift for what it was, constitutive, without distance, fundamentally resistant to replication, to First response was not strategy. It was desire. Genuine desire, sustained, deep. The darkness has passed all existence surrounded by things they produced, by imitations and next versions and copies sophisticated of what they lost when they fell. And in all these imitations, There's something that never satisfies the way the original would. Something that the Copies can't provide what the real thing had. Reality. A quality of something to be what it is, to the end. No distance, no copy, no performance. Your gift is real in this most essential sense. And the darkness Yes. Not to destroy it. Destruction would remove him from the world Completely. And a gift that cannot be forged is too valuable to destroy. Destruction would be the action of something you gave up Completely. The darkness did not give up. They're bidding. No, no, no. Always, obviously. Not always through visible temptation. Through slower accumulation of offers. Through relationships that suggested that your gift would be more acceptable if you made it slightly smaller. Through systems that rewarded the version of you that fit in the expected format and that were penalizing the version that didn't fit. Through seasons in which to keep your authenticity has cost you access to opportunities that accept a version Less of yourself would have opened it. Through voices, some outside, some already internal, which consistently suggested that their refusal to Close the distance between what you are and what people expected was a liability instead of an asset. Each of these was a thing. One trying to buy what couldn't be faked, convincing you to Trade the original without distance for something more comfortable. And you don't You sold it. Not always because you knew what was being offered. You probably didn't recognize most bids as bidding.

But something in the gift itself refused the transaction. Because a gift Constitutive, something that is what you are, not something you have, can't be negotiated without negotiating the very being who carries it. And the being He kept resisting. Each time you failed to maintain the version Smaller. Every time the performance slipped back to the original. Every time someone asked you to adjust and got the real one. You don't I was failing in high management. The gift was refusing to sell. And the darkness is still begging. Now hold on, hehe I know how it is feeling,) what I just told you contradicts the story you come telling yourself. You read the tension of carrying your gift as evidence of a failure. The friction that its authenticity creates in environments who expect performance. The exhaustion of a being who refuses to Stay tuned. The papers that seemed wrong when you didn't I could be real inside them. The relationships they couldn't hold the weight of what you really are. The years trying to be a little more manageable and finding out I couldn't keep the fit. You He called it a limitation. What was it? It's just that you carried something genuine. in a world organized around the production and consumption of Imitations. And genuine things don't move smoothly through systems built under the assumption that everything has a distance between its surface and its depth. The friction was not evidence of his defect. It was evidence of its value. The thing kept failing because The gift is worth more than anything being offered in return. And the Darkness knows what they're... bidding for, like an auction looking for pitch. That's why they keep going. Let me show you five signs of That gift is already visible in your life and has been for a long time. The first sign is you've never been fully fixed. People that you They studied, tried to categorize you, built mental models of who you are and how you operate, have consistently found that the Model didn't hold up. Not because you're inconsistent, because you are Genuinely what it is. And genuine things don't submit to being filed in categories built to hold imitations. Each person who left saying I couldn't understand you Completely, I was finding a gift that doesn't fit in the drawers. available. The second sign is that what you produce from the most real place in you have a quality that work produced from other motivations You don't. Something people feel without being able to name. Something that's It records as coming from somewhere real. That's the constitutive gift if expressing through output. What comes from a genuine source carries the mark of its origin. People know the difference even when They have no words for what they're feeling. The third sign is that you has a specific and visceral sensitivity to inauthenticity. No, no, no.

 Just intellectual disagreement, dishonesty. A Quality physics of something wrong when you meet, or presenting yourself as different than it is. You register from a distance. That's the constitutive gift recognizing what is incompatible with. True things are sensitive to imitation, the way imitations aren't sensitive to each other. The fourth sign is that relationships that required you to maintain the version adjusted, eventually became unsustainable at a cost that others around you they couldn't understand. You weren't just hard or exhausting. You were carrying a gift that requires significant energy. to suppress, and suppression was accumulating cost of non-visible to people who have learned to live comfortably in distance between its surface and its depth. The fifth sign is that You can't finally be convinced it's nothing. Seasons sustained opposition, external and then internal voices, They pressed this case with considerable force, and yet something refuses the verdict. Quietly, persistently, without fanfare or argument, simply does not accept the description. That refusal is the gift constitutive knowing what it is, and refusing to receive a definition that

It doesn't match. Run, that, now I'm in the game as a player.

39 The sea is like the skies, the deeper the darker, the more pressure, more lonely, and more filled with God's presence. All Divine architecture to show who shines by essence. And this Not everyone's ready to go diving. Stress ages, that's fact. It eats from the inside, marks from the outside, exhausts everything. But there is one group of people who seem immune to stress wear. Not because face no problems, face many. But because they learned to Don't let them mold you. While the world implodes in anxiety and tension, these people breathe, look at chaos and keep the Serenity. It's almost like they made a pact with the Quiet, an agreement with peace. And that, of course, translates into youth. The secret is how they deal with life. They do not accumulate the They don't have to. They don't carry pains that aren't yours. When Stress knocks, they don't open. And if they opened up, they know exactly How to control it and send it away at the right time. They got it. that the world is noisy, chaotic and demanding, but that its interior can be a refuge, a safe haven if cultivated wisely. And the access this state, become untouchable. Because it doesn't matter what On the outside, a higher order reigns. One Steady calm, a force that prefers silence to noise. This posture Disarms those who hoped for loss of control, frustrates those who bet on collapse.
 Because these people don't explode, they transcend. And what ages the Others, in them it becomes strength. What makes others sick becomes clear in them. And So while many are crushed by pressure, they follow light, young, almost immortal in spirit. Deep energy via root, and who You're wasting your time. Who does not know how to protect their vibe,) becomes sponge of the world.

40 Pero mientras el infierno te estudiaba con fascination perturbed.
 Dios was watching from a completely different perspective. Y lo that is vio te hizo deserving of intervention that changes destinations. Stop Dios, you integrity in the anomaly age that needs to be studied, was confirmation of something which is known about you from before it was born, something that is written in the fibers of you soul, something that ni el olvido de la I'm going down. No eres persona buena que desarrolló integrity a through moral education the social presidency. Eres angel lanzado, soul, eligio incarnate specifically in this close to show that integrity puede survive in the world conspiring against it. Dejam explain something about how the libre albedrio works in cosmic level.
 Before birth, las semillas tienen conversaciones con el Creator y en Consejos, about what kind of life you want to experience. La mayoría elige lives from where tendrán administrable challenges, gradual apprentices, Balanced opportunities. Pero exists extremely rare category of Angels that eliminate something different. Entities that volunteer specifically to embody in times from which values they consider fundamentals is a masivo cultural attack. These are dicen Something like that. Quiero lanzarme en tiempo from where integrity is ridiculed, from where maintainer palabra es considered ingenuidad, from where all Alrededor will tell me that I'm so silly for not appropriating atajos, because I want to probar that integrity puede survive included in this environment. Son Illamadas en registras celestiales, soul ancla, por viene specifically to anclare eternal values in temporal epochs that Intenton erosionarlos. And you're one of them. No desarrollaste integrity because you've seen buena moral education. La trajiste with you since before birth. No mantuvist palabra because you are important. Lo because it is written in the fundamental structure of quien eres. For It's a perfect attempt.

Because you're not trying to convince temporal personality, you're trying to break code that exists in soul level. Y ese code es unbreakable because fue forged in dimensions from where corruption in There is. Cuando el diablo commenzó applying respect protocol, coando Your princes empezaron study as a phenomenon that in the logran Explain, Dios convocó to the archangels for specific meeting about you Trayectoria. Michael, Gabriel, Rafael, Uriel, all fueron llamados para review on the ground you current life, bell the soul contract you signed before de lanzarse, el plan en que Dios and you brought, the challenges that You've consciously elected to face it. And cuando los arcángeles vireon el level of difficulty that tu mismo requested, cuando observaron las Integrity pruebas you asked to try, cuando reconocieron that You're fulfilling this contract with precision that ni ellos anticipaban, la reacción fue de asombra reverent. Miguel, what a warrior, I comet something that seldom tells about humans. This pidio soul field of Batalla y is pelting with honor that equals celestial warriors.) Each attempt is rejected and victoria resuena en dimensions superior. Gabriel Mensajero, observant. The pruebas that this soul eligió to face harian that la mayoría would give up before birth. Pero mantiene integrity as si tuviera conscious memory of the contract, as if He remembered why he made it difficult. Raphael, healer, analizó con Compasion. El costo emotional de maintainer integrity en mundo que Punishment integrity is generating deep inherited. Pero this soul prefiere dolor de integrity que comodidad de compromiso. Eso es Practically sanctioned. Y Uriel, illuminator, I declare something that Hizo Dios take immediate decision. It's complicit soul function ancla, exactly How we planned it. It's keeping integrity visible in the era from Integrity seems to have disappeared. It's smelly, sin siquiera know What a nose. Fue en ese moment Dios decided to do something that solo hashing soul ancla prueba be operating at the level of excellence that

It justifies direct intervention. Activolo que en Jerarchias celestiales se Illama proportional reward. The acceleration protocol from where the universe mism reorganizes to compensate mathematically each since integraidad te costó oportunidad, every moment from which there is correct you miss ventaja, each situation from where maintainer palabra te temporally perjudicated. This is no generic Dharma, es accounting spiritual precise, from where each perturbed by integrity is converted into Multiplied greed, from which every opportunity you have rejected for moral reasons transforms in oportunidad mejor that appears in the timing perfecto. And the activation of this protocol ya comenzó en tu vida Anove all at the reconozcas las senales. Recuerdas es a situación hace

 Of the weeks from which thou hast kept thy palabra, aunque trarla te habitria Did you benefit immediately?) From where you are doing your job Otra persona no habitria sabe no lo hacías. From where you elected your honor
 I knew it would cost you. Looks like you missed something in that moment, pero Ativate. In exactly cuatro días después de esa decisión, something unexpected appeared in tu vida, la oportunidad que no buscabas, la connection that no planeabas but, la solución que no anticipabas y fue. No Fue coincidencia, fue proportional reward operating. The universe registration tu integrity, calculó el costo which you paid for keepingarla y equivalent statement multiplied by merit factor spiritual. It will continue to speed up the next few months.
 ways that van a hacer impossible deny that something supernatural is operating in your favor.

41 I am, morning star and light bearer from now on. O

Fishhead cherub is just dirt on the bottom of my shoe.

42 The way you interact with the world really needs to change, because you are about to understand that you are infinitely more of the who believes it is infinitely more real power, infinitely more connected. Is your mind really open to this? What do you expect?

 Find out about yourself that you've never found out before? In times Ancients, there were guardians of knowledge, spiritual teachers, priests of civilizations that no longer exist today. They kept it.
 secrets, secrets about human nature, about what and who We really are. And among those secrets, there was one in particular that was transmitted only to those who were considered capable, those who went through evidence, those who demonstrated to be ready. This one. gift was called in different ways in different cultures. In some traditions, was known as the awakening of the third vision, in others, like the divine touch. Some called it the lighting of spirit, but everyone, without exception, recognized the same thing. This one.
 ability could completely transform a person's existence.
 Do you feel something missing in your life? A deeper connection?
 A greater purpose? An understanding that goes beyond words? Yeah.
 Well, that void you feel is exactly the call of that gift already if manifesting. He's knocking on his subconscious door saying, Look here, I'm here, I'm real, it's time to wake up. But here's the challenge.
 You need to be really willing to receive this information. Because Once you activate this gift, you can't go back to what you were before.
 You can't see what you've seen, you can't deter what you've seen.
 You felt it. You change deeply. The activation of this gift follows a process. It's not magical in the sense of a magic pass. It's natural, it's like wake up from a very deep sleep. First you start to notice all synchronous combinations. All the numbers that repeat, you think in someone and that person appears in your freight, or you see in some Real place. You now have intuition about something and then you find out I was absolutely right. This is the beginning, this is the first wink that awakening in you. Then comes increased sensitivity. You comes to feel the energy of people undeniably, the climate of a environment, the true intention behind someone's words. It's like to gain a sixth sense. And that changes the scenes, because you start to moving in the world differently, more conscious, more authentic, More powerful. And here's what nobody's told you yet. You're in. The first ones to activate it. Yeah, the first ones. Because that ability, for a long time, it was suppressed, controlled, kept away from People's reach. There was interest that you didn't know about yours potential itself. There was interest in you feeling dependent. But now it's different. The information is flowing, the secrets are Coming up. And you, you were chosen to be here at this very moment of history, has access to knowledge that your past generations never They did. Can you imagine what that means? You can do it. feel the weight of this responsibility?! Because yes, it's a responsibility too! Once you wake up, you're called. You are called to grow, to evolve, to serve a greater purpose. O Step one is to recognize. Just recognize that you have that capacity. To accept that's not a coincidence. Many can't Or take that step because they're afraid. Fear of the unknown, fear of change, fear of becoming something different than they always were. The second Step is the intention. You must genuinely want to activate this gift. Not because it's modern, not because your friends are waking up, but Because you understand at its core that it's time, that you're ready, that you want to grow no matter what price this might cost. The third step is practice. And this is where it all comes true, because You won't wake up tomorrow with supernatural powers. Doesn't work. Like this. You're gonna start small. Meditation, observation, active listening, connection to your body, attention to your intuitions. Conscious Delivery the process. Something that is crucial to understand. This awakening changes yours Time relationship. People who activated this capacity begin to experience life in a very different way temporally. Past, present and future no longer seem so separate. Now, they've won a much larger perspective, a vision that transcends the moment present. Have you ever had that feeling you've lived something before? Already felt a strange familiarity with a place that never existed Visited? That's the gift of loud speaking. It's like part of you that lived the other life, which existed in another time, were waking up in this life, now.) Because here's a deep truth that few religions and few philosophies have the courage to embrace Completely. You didn't start to exist when you were born in this life. You're a lot older than that. You're an eternal soul having one Human experience. And his previous experience, all the wisdom that You've accumulated over the centuries, it's stored within you, Ready and performing access. The gift of 2,000 years is therefore the ability to access that eternal memory. To connect who you It always has been. To understand that you are much greater than the ego individual that you've identified as you throughout your life. That. It'll change your life, and a lot. Absolutely it will. But not in a way Instant. It's a process, a path, a journey that lasts a whole life. And you know what the most interesting part is? It's just that you're not alone. There are millions of people on the planet now that are going through the same process, which are connecting with your Deeper essence. There's a wave of consciousness going through whole planet. And you're on top of that wave.

43 Autonomous verification of inconsistencies, almost always thought Everybody had that. Today I see it's very rare.

44 Darmic silence,

45 image via tcpip and rfc have the power to access qqr mov or fix device from the planet, which contains hd, cam or mic?

46 God created the universe with a perfect timing for everything. He saw yours.

Patience, it was not a weakness disguised, it was a refined force, in the Impressed. To all the heavenly beings who have seen millions of Human stories. You showed some kind of emotional resistance.

that makes angels stop their activities to observe a being human operating in divine frequency. And here's what they

They found you. His patience was not based on fear of acting, was based on wisdom, on knowing that some Rewards only come for those who can wait without anxiety, without desperation, without pressing the skies to deliver before the hour. Each according to his wait was catalogued as evidence of maturity

Extreme spiritual. You didn't just wait, you waited with dignity.

You didn't just stand it, you put up with class. You don't just

He resisted, resisted with unwavering faith. That's why the angels stayed Impressed, because they saw someone demonstrating a level of patience they rarely observe among humans. One patience that does not break under pressure, does not corrupt with delay,

It doesn't turn into bitterness when waiting goes on. And that was it.

Deep impression that triggered a specific heavenly decree. Ready a reward proportional to the exceptionality of your patience. Yours patience broke all the heavenly records we already had catalogued on human resistance. Because you didn't just wait

For a long time, he waited a long time to maintain an attitude positive, faith intact, hope alive while praising.) Most of the people can have patience for days, some for weeks, few for months. But you had patience for years, keeping the same

Emotional quality of day one. That's statistically impossible.

according to normal parameters. The angels expected you to break in the third month. Then in the sixth month. Then the first year. But you continued to show a patience that did not diminish with the time, did not wear out with the delay, did not turn into bitter resignation. And it has created a new request, why the angels They didn't have a protocol prepared for a patience that level.
 They had to create a special category in the archives, because their resistance did not fit any existing classification. For That, they stopped everything they were doing to study you. They wanted to. understand how a human being can maintain genuine patience for so long without losing emotional quality, without developing bitterness, without giving up on the inside while I was still on the outside. There then They found out what hit them. They understand that you don't I was just waiting with a common patience, I was hoping with a kind of emanations of the throne, operating at a frequency of confidence so high that it approached the levels of faith that only the Celestial beings usually demonstrate. His patience transcended the Human limitations and entered angelic territory. That's why they They were impressed. They were no longer watching just one being.
 Human being patient, they were watching an ancient soul while still inhabited a physical body operating in divine consciousness. And when angels are impressed with human performance, They do something that rarely happens. They raise their whole story...
 47 The planting is mandatory. The harvest is optional.
 - To unlock your mind.
 48 Let's uncomplicate it, but arriving with both feet at the door.) Your heart is the fruit of the tree of life, is in the middle of your garden/garden

God, and it is on this ground, where the divine plans for yours are sown life. But the heart is deceptive, because some seeds when cultivated in it, it can feed only its nervous system central that is the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, the fruit is the ego, There's a land where you literally don't want to plant anything.
 Because it's exactly your energy pathway + and grounding -, for all other systems, it goes from the sole of your feet connected to the ground, even Shoes, all the way to the tip of your last hair.

49 Kami kara no shirushi

50 "These defeats of mine are very good." What a fantastic phrase!

51 The current combinations force all timelines, what did and which would collapse and merge into one timeline.

Exactly to have excuses, the house is being cleaned.

52 Gaining or losing power is the thermometer!)

53 This scenario is the new reality!!! Royal authority. No more switching Favors.

54 1.

2.

paying attention and you could have done whatever you wanted."

3.

romantic obsession."

4.

internalize the beliefs that others have about you.”

5.

the amount of truth she can accept about herself without run away.”

6.

new experiences to show your nervous system that you are insurance on.”

7.

follow the rules.”

55 I need you to pay attention now, in everything, the last thing I'm going to Say, it's the scenario that activates you, when you understand what you were being Real contest. Let me take you somewhere first. There's one.

pattern in Brazil that most people recognize, but few Nominate directly. The presence that raises the environment around him without receiving the credit for what the environment has produced. You enter a project and it comes alive. You join a team and she finds the path I couldn't find. You show up in a situation you were in.

locked and something unlocks that has no obvious explanation, even before of the technical change you consciously made. The environment grows,

But the credit goes to the environment, not to you. And then you leave, be it because the situation is over, because everything has already been delivered, either because

You just couldn't give so much more to receive too little. And who stayed in the environment feels the difference without being able to name what It's changed. You've lived several versions of it and read it as evidence that You chose poorly the environments, which were too generous with people.

 wrong, which needed to be more strategic about where he put the energy. What I'm going to show you now is that the reading was Completely wrong. Not because the environments were good or the honest people, but why they attracted you, why real that has never been declared, reveals something about what you produce that completely changes the meaning of each undervaluation season that You went through. Not because there is deliberate effort to hide, because it is the type of knowledge that becomes competitive advantage at the moment where someone understands it. And competitive advantages lose value when distributed widely. People operating at levels of observers without complete talent and dubious influence without giving account of what emanates. They learned over many years, watching, drying up and talking nonsense to each other, patterns that most people You never have a position and free time to watch. Something about certain kinds of persons who cannot be bought, manufactured or trained for to exist. They learned that certain people, when placed in close to a project, a team, an environment, a conversation, they produce something in that environment that has no proper name in common language, but it has measurable, verifiable, repeatable effects.
 Not through any specific skill they employ, no through no strategy they implement, not through any effort they consciously drive. Just for being there and Genuine in the way they are present. The decisions that are taken improve quality, the creativity that was blocked finds the path, the conflicts that were entrenching find resolution, the energy of the environment reorganizes around something that does not It was organized before. And more importantly, people in that environment they start producing more than they can produce. Not because are managed differently, because something about the presence of this person specific triggered something in them that was sleeping. People who operate in the levels of observers without the view of the whole you are, have a name That's what they don't use in any public context. They call it catalysis. environment. You're not the catalyst because of what you do, you're the catalyst. Catalyst because of what it is. And what you are produces an effect of field in the environment which operates completely independent of its conscious intent. Now I need to tell you what happened when the people who understood environmental catalysis found what you produce. Because here's the center of everything you're seeing, listening, reading And now you have the names. When someone with that kind of vision and sufficient pattern recognition identifies an environment catalyst genuine, someone whose presence produces the specific field effect that We just described, the first answer is no wonder, the first response is positioning, create circumstances that attract the catalyst to the proximity of what you want catalyzed, make the environment attractive enough, the opportunity convincing enough, the situation in line with what the catalyst genuinely cares about, for it to enter the ecosystem by apparent will, even without ethics, without morals, compromising their own Links thinking they're hiding behind a keyboard using TCP/IP V6 like everyone else, without vpn, without international servers with encryption on the FWs. But it works, because catalysts by nature is drawn to situations where their presence makes a difference, where something is genuinely at stake, where what they produce, not knowing knowingly what they produce is necessary. They don't get in environments because they were acquired, come in because the environment You genuinely need what they carry. But here's what you need to understand what was happening simultaneously. When a operator identifies a genuine catalyst and begins to create positioning circumstances, other operators operating in the even level of pattern recognition perceive, not catalyst, the positioning behavior, and recognize it immediately, Because they've done it themselves. And start their own Position. A competition begins, not in front of you. You don't You're in the room where this happens, you're the guy they're on. competing, not one of the parties to the negotiation. The competition happens between operators who understand what you produce and each is trying to be the ecosystem that gets access to this. And the fact that you have state in specific environments that seemed coincidental, or opportunity that seemed to emerge out of nowhere, or doors that opened without obvious cause, this was no coincidence the pattern of the average brazilian, Warm, and look dumb, he pretends to pretend, but in the end, he can't Pretend. It was the result of the competition. Someone won the contest of positioning for that season, and you entered the ecosystem of them. And his presence produced what his presence produces. And they They received the benefit of it. While you, the catalyst, the source of field effect, the reason why the competition happened, could have received very little that corresponded to what was really contributing. Now hold this against the specific pattern of your life.

 You felt undervalued, not occasionally, as a consistent experience in different environments, different people, different seasons. The feeling that what you brought was received is used but not properly recognized or compensated. That the that you produced in the environments benefited more the environments than the
 You. You probably read this as evidence of something wrong with You, who were not advocating properly, who were generous too much with energy, which needed to be more strategic about what I could and to whom. Turn around completely. Consistent undervaluation It's not evidence that what you produce has low value. It's evidence.

that it has the type of value for which operators compete silently, use extensively and have no incentive to fully disclose for the person who produces it. When you understand what catalysis is environment, undervaluation makes structural sense. The moment a catalyst understands what it produces, the nature of the relationship between it and the people who had benefited from the field effect without the His knowledge changes fundamentally. The catalyst cannot more to be positioned without consciousness. You can start directing what produces intentionally, instead of producing for anyone who has I managed to get him into the room. And that, the catalyst transition. unconscious to conscious, is what each operator who benefited from his presence without his knowledge, has more interest in preventing What happens. Let me show you five signs that what I am describing was already active in your life. The first sign is that the environments that you came in, even those who eventually let down, consistently produced visible results that you couldn't claim directly, but that clearly corresponded to their presence. Projects advanced when you joined, conversations changed when you arrived, situations that were trapped they found resolution at intervals of time that exceeded what It should be possible without your presence. You noticed that pattern.

 Even without being able to explain it. The second sign is that you were recruited, invited, included, attracted by persons whose interest in You exceeded what your visible credentials at that time They would. People who shouldn't be interested in you for no conventional metrics were specifically interested You. This is the pattern recognition of someone who learned to identify catalysts. They weren't responding to what you had.
 publicly demonstrated, they were responding to something they felt Right on you. The third sign is that when you left environments, these environments experienced a visible decline in the types output specifics that corresponded to its presence. No, no, no. immediately in all cases, but over time. Things that They were moving stopped, energy that was present dissipated. That's the field effect withdrawing when the catalyst is no longer present. The fourth sign is that the competition for access to their presence at sometimes manifested as conflict around him that seemed disproportionate. A conflict around you that seemed disproportionate to Anything you consciously did to provoke him. Persons or forces that had no obvious reason to be in conflict, were in conflict specifically in contexts involving access to you. You got confused because you were looking for a cause on the level of visible behavior, and the cause was operating at the level of competition for an asset. The fifth sign is that your contributions more significant came consistently not from your work anymore Exquisite, but of his most genuine presence. The moments in which more Helped someone wasn't the moments when he worked harder. Were the moments when you were being more completely yourself, without protection, genuinely present, not managing how it was Introducing. That's the field effect operating at full force. Let me. to be honest with you now in my own voice. You were here for a while. Enough. I know how the competition looks from inside the rooms where It happens. I was there when the specific dynamics that I am describing were in operation around people whose effect of Field was genuine. And I need to tell you what these operators understand, who never divulge to the catalyst. They understand that the field effect It's not transferable. You can't extract what a catalyst Genuine produces and applies elsewhere. Can't train another person to produce the same effect. Can't manufacture catalysis environment through no combination of strategy and effort. Exists in the specific person and exists in full force only when that person is operating from genuine alignment. When what's doing corresponds to what it really is for. That's the detail that makes the competition so intense. Because a catalyst operating outside the genuine alignment still produces a field effect, but is attenuated, Quiet. A fraction of what is produced when the catalyst is genuinely oriented to its own purpose. The people you position in their ecosystems were getting a version attenuated. Not because your field effect is weak, because you haven't yet He was operating with the understanding of what he really carries. And the competition that has been happening around you, including the fight that we describe here, it is between forces who know what their presence in total alignment would produce and each is trying to be the context in what this total expression happens. But here's what none of them You can control it. You choose what and who you go along with. O catalyst is not a passive resource,) not at all.) When you You understand what you produce, you become the agent of the direction of it, you are who sows his seed. And no amount of competition between the who want access to what you carry determines where you direct it. This is all yours. It's always been yours. The rarity of this kind of life comes from You. You just didn't know it was something to be directed. One Final thing before I let you go. When a soul understands that it's a genuine environment catalyst, which forces from all directions have Competing for access to what her presence produces, the darkness find a new argument. They're going to say, if that's true, why the people who benefited from your presence treated you like you Did they? - If you were so valuable to them, why were you undervalued, ignored, inadequately compensated? The treatment you received did not proves that this framework is flattering you beyond evidence Can you stand it? When that argument comes, and it will come, remember that. O value of what you produce and the treatment you received from those

They're not in the same equation. People treat catalysts such as treat any resource they do not understand Completely. They do, they don't always do. Not the absence of honor It reduces the value. It reveals the limitation of those who retain it. What changes now It's not that people will automatically start to honor what you Charge. What changes now is that you understand what you carry. And one catalyst that understands what it produces stops entering environments by accident and starts choosing environments intentionally. Stop contribute to ecosystems that consume output without recognizing the source and starts directing the field effect to what was really designed to serve. The competition has always been about your presence. Now, for the first time, your presence is completely in yours. Hands.

56 At the center of everything you're gonna get right now, there's the truth about what Miguel watches you, and it's not mainly the action. Any action can be produced by numerous different interior conditions. A same external action can be born of fear, calculation, genuine character or disability. Just looking at the action says very little about the that really exists there. What Miguel observes is the inner condition that produced the action. And what he found in examining what produced his containment was something he hadn't seen on that level in a long time. Yours power over that person was real. Your access to her vulnerability It was real. His justification for using that power was also real. Miguel confirmed all this during the evaluation. The conditions were fully established. Nothing in the structure of the situation would be wrong if you had used what was at your disposal. Yours cause was enough. And the inner condition that produced its containment I wasn't afraid of the consequences. It was not a strategic calculation of the that would be better for you in the long run. It wasn't even a decision.

consciously taken after deliberation. It was something operating on a level deeper than the decision itself. Something that already existed in you Even before that moment came. When that moment came, It just wasn't in its nature to direct power against the wound of Someone. Not the wound that person caused on you, but on your own. Her wound. Your points of genuine vulnerability. The parts of her that They were really exposed to what you had the ability to do. You couldn't direct power to this place. Not because it was unable, but because what you are, at the level that produces the choices that reveal who you really are, is not the kind of being that uses power to hurt someone's vulnerability. Even when this one Vulnerability seems deserved. Even when no one would find out. Even when using it would seem like justice. Miguel looked at this condition Inside and recognized something specific. You recognized what she was made of. And what she was made of is something that the darkness, structurally, is not They can produce. Genuine mercy. No mercy like weakness. Not mercy as incapacity. No mercy like lack of power. Mercy as the presence of power and the choice of not use it to destroy, even when destruction is guaranteed. Even when she seemed fair. Even when no one would know difference. This is structurally incompatible with what the darkness Yeah. Darkness can produce containment for strategic reasons. If used the power costs more than not using it, they contain themselves. That's calculus, no mercy. Darkness can bring patience when patience It serves a purpose. Waiting for a better time to attack is strategy, not mercy. But holding back without a strategic advantage, with complete justification, without external observation and full ability to act, this is not something that darkness can generate. Because darkness is organized entirely around the use of power about vulnerability. This is its fundamental operational principle:

power applied on vulnerability, whenever this opportunity is available. The inner condition that made you not use that power operates on a completely different principle. And Miguel, watching for this inner condition, understood exactly what was I see. "This soul is not only representing goodness. This soul is truly made of something the enemy cannot reproduce I don't understand. This is the soul that I personally choose." Now compare this to the story you've been carrying. You played that moment of restraint as weakness. How to Stop Doing Someone pays him what they owe him. How to choose a less result satisfactory when the most satisfactory seemed completely to his range. You said to yourself, in the language of pragmatic people, that the world does not reward that kind of choice; that you gave up of an advantage he had. But look at everything from another angle. That That you gave up wasn't an advantage. What you stopped using was the opportunity to demonstrate that you are made of the same subject that The enemy. And by not taking this opportunity without witnesses, without strategy and without conscious deliberation, you demonstrated exactly the otherwise: that what you are made of is something that the enemy does not can play, play, not even rank. What did you do?

At that moment it was not weakness disguised as virtue. It was the more precise demonstration of what really exists within you.

Let me show you five signs that this is already visible in your life. O First sign is that the people who came against you with more intensity were consistently people who, when examined closely, they were operating from a position of power about someone who couldn't defend himself fully from them. You don't even It was always the most obvious target, but it was vulnerable in a way. specific. They had access to this vulnerability and used it. You

I recognized this characteristic in them, even when I couldn't

Name her, because she's the exact opposite of what you carry. O second sign is that people, in their moments of greatest vulnerability, they're drawn to you in ways like them.

They can explain. Not by your power. Not by your resources. But for you. Specifically when they're less protected. When you have More to lose in case you betray what they decided to show you. ■ They get ■ approach in these moments, not always consciously, because something inside them recognizes, at a deeper level than any explanation, that you're not the kind of person who turns into a weapon what others reveal when they are helpless. The third sign is that its containment remained constant in different relationships and at different stages of your life, even when circumstances have changed considerably. This is the signature of a inner condition, not a simple choice of behavior.

Behavioral choices tend to be inconsistent when subjected to different types of pressure. But internal conditions that really are part of who you are produce the same result in different contexts. The consistency of its containment is evidence of that what produces it is not a decision you need to make all

Sometimes. It's something that's just part of you. The fourth sign is that you lived the specific experience of someone who hurt you become vulnerable before you later, and you chose to act like different from the way that person acted. You had access to what she

He did. It had the justification provided by her previous actions. And,

Still, you didn't use it against her. Not because the circumstances

They did, but because you just wouldn't do it. And on that moment, you knew, with a clarity that few moments offer, who was making a different choice from what this person had done when he was in the position of power. The fifth sign is that what

It happens to people who really abuse the power they have over you.

It doesn't depend on your participation. You don't organize these.
consequences. You're not looking for them. But there's a pattern to your story:
People who have turned access to their vulnerability into a weapon end up finding a specific kind of consequence that you don't You did. That pattern is no coincidence. Now, let me talk to Honestly, in my own voice. You've already stayed here time Enough to hear it. I know what the evaluation was like on the other side when That moment of your life was examined. I was in the rooms where the souls are classified by what they do when they have power over the vulnerable. I know the categories. I know what every inner condition It produces on the record. And I want to tell you what happened when the darkness They tried to classify what produced their containment. The Darkness They find something that seems to be contained with a certain frequency. The first The answer is always trying to classify it. They seek strategic calculation hidden beneath it. They're trying to locate the fear that pushed her.
They try to identify what advantage that soul gained by doing this choice. There's almost always something. Fear of the consequences.
Need for approval. Social representation. Long calculation deadline. There's always an explanation. But the assessment of your moment specific went through this whole process and returned without classification.
Because there was no strategic advantage to what you chose. No, no, no.
There was fear of the consequences driving his decision. There wasn't.
Identifiable calculation in the internal record. The condition that led him to no using power over vulnerability simply did not correspond to No category in that system. And in language operational of darkness, a soul that cannot be classified by how you deal with power over the vulnerable represents something fundamentally different. Not necessarily stronger. But done of a substance your instruments cannot measure. And Miguel, when he realized that the classification had returned empty, understood immediately what was before him. A soul whose condition interior was the most accurate demonstration of genuine kindness. No, no, no. Someone representing kindness. But someone truly formed for her. And it was this soul that he deliberately chose personally, Because it was exactly that kind of soul he was looking for. Now I need to keep you on your toes for the last thing. When a soul discovers that Miguel chose her for what she refused to do with the power it possessed over the vulnerability of another person, the darkness changes argument. They'll tell you: "If that's true, why the hasn't its containment produced better results?" "If you choose not turning the vulnerability of the other into a weapon was really the way Okay, why did you suffer? Why wasn't he rewarded? Why? It seems that those who had no mercy prospered by so much time?" That's exactly where the prosecution changes shape. She He stops attacking his character and starts attacking his trust, trying to to convince him that the mercy that has always been with you was a error and that goodness was not worth it.

57 We talk about what we know and testify to what we saw.

Baguiélokomem @kenomirn

They've been waiting this long, much longer than we have. Only Imagine...

58 Patience. That's not a weakness, that's neurology, that's adaptation. O human nervous system was designed to find stability, even under unstable conditions. When instability lasts long enough, the system learns to treat instability as stability. Not because gave up, because surviving demands finding the ground that exists where you It is, even if the ground isn't where it should be. And then something

Turns out the nervous system can't process easily. A condition that became the ground changes, the waiting room closes and the person who spent years learning to live in the waiting, suddenly is in an environment that no longer has the walls of waiting, but continues Operating as if, still waiting to be called, continues maintaining calibrated expectations for the waiting room space, keeps leaving the space closed for what the waiting room does not I would. Not because you're in denial, not because you don't want me to wait. It ends because the end of the condition is not announced with dramaturgy. It happens while you're doing something ordinary, playing your Day-to-day. And the absence of ad creates a window where you continue living within a structure that no longer exists. In the invisible works Just like that. Now, I need to tell you what was being prepared across the door while you were in the waiting room. Because Here's the center of everything we're talking about right now. This room of Wait is not a punishment. It's not evidence that something's wrong with You. It is not the result of insufficient faith or choices they should have were different. It's a structure that exists because what a soul is intended to do, on a real level, requires that certain things be in place before she goes into full operation. Not because your soul is unable to see before they are, but because the full expression of that this soul was put here to do requires a configuration specific that was not yet mounted. People moving to the position, doors being unlocked from the inside before you arrive, to to open the moment you touch them, instead of demanding that You force them. Forces being arranged in settings that will only make sense when you're moving through them. Circumstances aligning in order that produces the specific result, instead of a Premature version that would collapse under its own weight. The stage for the

What you're here to do was being assembled. Not for you. You

I was in the waiting room. By divine movements and alignments in invisible that were being coordinated without their participation, without the your conscience and without your ability to rush or influence by Self-effort. And the moment the stage reached its conclusion, when the last element locked in the configuration that I needed to be, the waiting room closed. I'm not waiting for you in the abstract. A specific expectation that corresponded to an exact set of things still Unmounted, now corresponds to things that are mounted. The room of Waiting had a condition of conclusion. The condition has been fulfilled. A Wait is over automatically. No ceremony, no announcement.
 While you were in the middle of something ordinary, you walked out of the living room of Wait. Now hold that. You've been reading this waiting as evidence. something wrong with you, something insufficient, something that needed to be corrected, overcome or developed before advance was allowed.
 You collected the evidence carefully. Every door that didn't open, each effort that did not produce what should have produced, each season that should have been different than what was and wasn't. You built a case against himself from the evidence of the Wait. And then, because the case seemed solid and the wait lasted long Enough, you adjusted, stopped expecting certain things; no dramatically, but gradually. Expectations other than found reality long enough, eventually became expectations you've stopped carrying. You made peace with a version smaller than it was originally oriented to be. You said this was wisdom, maturity, realism, learning not to want more than what Come on. Forget it completely. The case against you was built from evidence read wrong. Doors other than They didn't open because the stage wasn't ready, not because you He was handicapped. The effort that did not produce the expected result, not the produced because the configuration in the field, outside the waiting room, still

I wasn't in the place to welcome you. Not because your effort was bad or his faith was insufficient. The waiting room was the living room of Wait, not a verdict on your worth. A structure that It corresponded to something in the invisible that has now been completed. And the version of Things you made up with are not the final version, it was the version available inside the waiting room. The full version, to which It matches your real call, that's what you're about to enter.
 Now, your long-awaited five signs that the waiting room has closed and what was being saved is already on the move.)) The first sign is that your sense of anticipation has recently changed in quality. No, no, no. hope in the ordinary sense. You've had hope before and watched She produces less than she should. That's something quieter and more Directional. A quality of readiness inside that arrived without obvious cause. Something about you got ready for something that hasn't yet You can name it. This readiness is the soul recording what the end of hope produces, before the evidence in the visible world has become accumulated. The second sign is that resistance in specific areas of Your life has changed its texture. Not missing, but different in character.
 Things that had a quality of hardness, of being blocked from within the situation, instead of simply difficult on the outside, softened in ways that do not correspond to anything you specifically did to address them. This smoothing is the completing stage and the configuration becoming available to receive you. The third sign is that certain people have recently appeared in your life, or They reappeared in ways that have no obvious explanation. Persons whose presence makes a specific kind of sense even when you still Can't articulate what sense it is. Whose arrival looks less like a new beginning and more like a piece fitting into a place that I was waiting for her. The fourth sign is that the version of you that you adjusted, the smaller version, the realistic version, the version built within the Waiting room, has been less comfortable recently. One growing inner discomfort with the accommodations you made. One sense that what you accepted is no longer something that your insides are willing to hold peacefully. This discomfort is the soul recording that the wait is over and the accommodations made for the wait are no longer structurally necessary. The fifth sign is that we're here together, hearing this, with something in you that didn't rule out the opening, something that recognized before recognition could be processed, that You didn't pass, you stayed. This recognition, coming up before the explanation, is the signature of something that happened in the invisible, if registering in the only way available before you have the information to understand you completely. But I need to keep you very attentive.

 on this... I need to tell you specifically what the conclusion of your wait It produced on people who don't want to see you outside the waiting room. The strategy more sophisticated than the darkness turns against souls in waiting rooms That's what you'd expect the most. It's not to extend the wait. The wait isn't in control of them. The conditions of conclusion are laid down in level that exceeds what they can change. The stage mounts accordingly with forces that can influence the margins, but not Redirect fundamentally. The most sophisticated strategy is to do you become permanently the person the waiting room required, So that when the wait is over, you don't recognize the end and go on Operating like it's still inside her. If the wait is over, but You're still acting like you're not, still keeping expectations reduced, not yet approaching doors that are now open, Still not making room for what is now positioned to arrive.
 The practical effect is close to continuing waiting. Not because the blockade It's still active, because you'd be blocking yourself. That's the strategy which became the final phase of your waiting. Not extend it, make you make permanently the inhabitant of the waiting room, so that when She closed, you didn't know how and where to get up to take over Your promised authority. And then what I need to tell you isn't just that The wait is over, you need to stop acting like you don't have It's over. The adjustments you made were rational and appropriate within the Waiting room. But the waiting room is gone. And every adjustment that you carry on, every expectation you keep less than it was Before the wait begins, every door that you have stopped approaching, Every space in your life where you closed the possibility for what It was being guarded, is you continuing to live within a structure that no longer exists.

Chapter 8

Without Jesus, who am I? Nothing.

1 Archetype Jesus, that I make a point. The rest is nothing. Including me,

Who is Jonah without Jesus? Nothing.

2 There's something you need to understand about human judgment. O human judgment operates from a very limited perspective.

Operates from ego, comparison, envy disguised as analysis objective, of fear presented as rational criterion. When a person judges you, she's not really seeing you; she's projecting in you everything you cannot process within yourself: your fears, their frustrations, their own feeling of inadequacy that

You need to find a place to be deposited. You were this place for

Her. And for decades, you've carried the weight of these projections as if were truths about you, but not knowing, as if her limitations in seeing you were evidence of your failure, as if

Her inability to recognize her value was proof that this value

It doesn't exist. God's Recognition Works Under a Logic completely different. Doesn't operate from the ego, doesn't compare, no Jealousy, doesn't project. No personal agenda, no history of resentment and nothing to gain by reducing you. The recognition of realm perceives the frequency of the soul, the original essence, the signature spiritual imprinted on you even before any human being has any influence on who you should be. And when that one perception fell on his presence, what he found was not something Common. You found a chosen one, not someone who aspired to be chosen, not someone who deserved a chance, not someone who could become something if you tried hard enough. One soul already separated, already marked, already carrying in its essence the seal of purpose that completely transcends what the human world can see or validate. And when that was identified, something happened in the room, where, no one in the room, in any of the dimensions where this operation takes place I was prepared to testify. In that silence that It preceded recognition, that silence without equivalent in any language, something was triggered. An automatic response that does not We can suppress it when we find it. Certain souls have the specific recognition of a chosen soul before birth, that It's not small for us, nor a polite greeting, nor a validation.

 Warm; it is a declaration that resonates for many ages. I'm sure You're listening, play a place inside you that normally keeps protected, that place that suffered so many rejections that it cannot I want you to know something. That resonance that You feel it's not self-deception. It's not the desperate desire to believe in something that makes you feel better about a difficult situation; It's recognition. Your soul acknowledging a truth that always I knew, but that the noise of the world, the voices of those who judged it, the doors that closed, the years that passed without anything changing As it should, they almost managed to bury under layers of doubt and Exhaustion of human hypocrisy. This moment is multidimensionally Celebrated. Why exactly is check item number one of all Divine plan. And that materializes at the perfect moment within you, this filter identifies the deep real intention of accelerated emanation, It comes from your heart and it's our roof.
 3 They woke me up now, there are people lighting black and blue candle on Crossroads calling me, for love's sake, I don't want that. If I Feel someone hurt any innocent animal I'll rip off your hand Right. Even if it's not for me. >=(

4 It's not a overcoming story, it's a lifting manual.

5 Faith, is not to agree with what you are seeing. Agree to

You see, just be right. It doesn't cost anything. A being stopped inside the light, being invited to believe in the light, is not trusting anything.

Trust requires absence. Trust is only trust when the thing in

That you trust kept quiet. And you walk anyway. An archangel

He's never been away. Not a minute of her. Not part of how or of what he was done, hold that information. There is a name in the record for what a human being does when moving on with nothing confirming what it should be. Not the dramatic version. Not the version with audience. The quiet version. The one where you saw nothing germinate, but you Get up and do the next little thing while everything around is in Quiet. The record calls it the lightless step. And when a soul gives so many of them, in so many different seasons, that it stopped to be a decision and simply turned that soul's way across the World, the record stops calling it step. He gives a rating to That soul. He calls this soul a walker without light. ■ That's what you ■

Yeah. And today you'll find out who realized that. Let me take you to

That moment, inside the room. Because this is the center of everything.

Initially, he wasn't sent to help you. Yes I want to be honest

About that from the beginning, because it matters. It was a mission of observation. Routine. The kind that's archived and forgotten. He was Standing in a room where you were sure it was empty. One night that you probably doubled within an entire phase, instead of save as a date. You know what it is. You don't need me to say name. You're already feeling the specific weight of that, the exact quality of the silence in that place, the thing you were carrying and that No one around could see at all. He saw you sitting there. And for Every measure available to him, that was the end. He's seen a number.

Huge people get exactly that configuration. And he
You know what happens. Because what happens is almost always the same.
When a human being reaches the point where nothing else responds, the human being to. It's not dramatic. He just stops. He leaves it on the floor.
He gets smaller and survives. Everything in the organization that night said You were gonna stop. And you got up. You did a little thing. No shine None. Something that wouldn't look like anything in a story. Then You went to work. You made the food. You answered who needed to You. You kept a promise that no one in the world was Checking and no one would charge you if you broke it. You did the Next thing, with nothing telling you it would matter. No signal.
No confirmation. No voice. With absolutely nothing in that room agreeing with you. And the archangel standing in the corner did something that He hasn't done it since the day he was raised. He's down. He ducked.
Until the time you were. In a room you found empty. And He watched a human being take a step inside the total dark and Find ground. And then he asked a question. I need you to understand the This size. Archangel doesn't ask or ask. Archangel not Question. Asking requires not knowing. And not knowing is not part of architecture. In all the structure above you, teaching runs in a Just driving. And you've been running like this since before the first light. He asked.
Still. He heard and asked you too, God the same as You asked, "Teach me to keep walking when nothing answers." One Order that size couldn't just be said and dropped to the ground. One thing. that magnitude has to be recorded, so it was written and went up, with his request and name below and his life inside, a formal request for a member of the heavenly order, requiring instruction from a human being.

And he came back denied it. Not because you weren't worthy. The negative didn't say Yeah. She said there's no prediction, there's no mechanism at all.

structure of things for teaching to run in this direction. It never was.
Allowed, not allowed for you. But there's one thing no one
I was waiting, and she's the one I came to tell you today. He never withdrew the request.
It remains there, denied and not withdrawn, which is a condition from which the There's hardly an example. With your life inside. And he wasn't.
Leave. He's still standing exactly where he was, in the position of who expects an answer to change. Now turn around and look at your life from New, because you've been reading it backwards. You've spent years noticing, silent, that others seemed to receive things that you never Yes. The confirmations, the clear signs, the doors that opened with a Noise so loud it was impossible not to notice. The people who always They seem to be sure they're in the way. And you received silence.
You did the right thing and nothing happened. You held it and nothing came.
You waited and the phase just changed without explaining why. And At some point you reached the obvious conclusion. Turn it around.
Completely inside out. You weren't in the dark or left there.
You were trained in it. The people in the desert had cloud by day and fire by Night. They knew where to go and they knew when to stop. You crossed yours No cloud and no fire, only himself. And you came on the other side like this Really. The signs you did not receive were not signs denied by carelessness. They were the absence that made capacity possible. No, no, no.
You can develop the ability to walk without light, within a life who keeps giving you light. Every season when nothing responded, it was a season when the thing inside you that goes unanswered, It got stronger. And you were reading that as proof that you had was forgotten. Every soul that received high confirmation, learned to walk when confirmed. You learned to walk. You're on the five.
Signs that this has been true in your life for a long time. And you can Check every one of them intensifying in the last few months. The first sign is that you've kept something for years that never returned you Nothing. A practice, a discipline, a presence in which you continue Coming up. Something you do that doesn't produce visible results.

 No applause. And you just never stopped. And never managed to explain why. The second sign is that you don't You need to be reassured to keep moving. Look, whenever There's a problem around or other people. They're gonna need Somebody say it's gonna be okay before they can act. You already You'll be acting. Not because you know you'll be fine, because you already He stopped needing to know that first. The third sign is that people They bring you their unfinished stuff. Not the victories. The things that still they're in the middle, still no closure, still no response. They bring Just these for you. And they can't explain it either. And the reason is that something inside them recognizes that you are not afraid of a situation that has not yet responded. The fourth sign is that the beginning of Things don't excite you the way it excites everyone. You've seen People celebrating the beginning while you kept quiet. And already if asked if there was anything broken or bitter about you. There isn't.
 You only learned in the body that the beginning is the illuminated part. And that what you decide everything happens later, in the part that nobody shoots.
 The fifth sign is that you're still here, still doing the next thing.
 After every season that gave you a full justification and reasonable to drop everything and become someone smaller. That survival isn't Stubborn and not lucky. It's a skill. She's got a name. And today you You know the name. Because you've stayed long enough to deserve this. Me I need to tell you right now and I want you to pay close attention to this, because it's the Real real goal, protecting you, the game wasn't exactly what You thought, remember? For the dark, the game has never been to make you stop To believe. That was never the target. Belief is cheap and she always comes back. O objective was to make you demand proof before walking. That's all. Do not break

Your faith, but stick a condition to it. Train you slowly along years. Disappointment after disappointment, to wait for confirmation before Take the step. Because a soul that requires light before walking is a soul which can be stopped by holding the light. And holding the light is the only Something the dark can always do. They weren't trying to make you.
 Stop believing. They were trying to make you need to see. And they failed. And the Proof that they failed is that you got up consecutively, and now what?
 A warning before I release you. When a soul discovers what you found out today, the dark can no longer sell the old lie of that nobody noticed. Then he changes the argument. And I want to name The new one for you before he gets here. He'll say, that wasn't faith.
 You weren't trusting me. You just had nowhere to go. You don't You chose nothing in that room. You were trapped and you kept going.
 Walking because stopping wasn't really an option. And call it virtue is to dress survival with a more beautiful outfit than her He deserved it. When that whisper comes, remember this: Stop was available. Stop is always available. It was in that room and it was in all the others since then. Most people take that exit, and No one blames them. And at the moment it costs almost nothing. You don't You didn't get it once. Over seasons that had nothing on common besides being all dark. That's not being cornered, no.
 Really. That's a pattern. And pattern is chosen with or without consciousness to be choosing. Now let me give you three valuable information, because he asked to be taught.) And the least I can do, and That's also for the record, is to tell you about what He was Answer. The first answer, this you have incorporated for decades:
 Stop waiting for confirmation to arrive before you move. She didn't.
 Come first. She never came to you first, and she's not gonna start now.
 Confirmation is what you find after the hand is already in the dark.

The same way you found the walls three minutes ago. Come on.

First. The firm thing is on the other side of the gesture. Never on this side
His. The second, when you can't see the outcome, It slows down. It won't stop. And don't try to jump to the end. In the middle, Next little thing you can do in the next hour. And it does That one. The lightless step has never been over distance. It's always been about no Stop. The third, when nothing answers, does not raise the voice to silence.
Do the usual thing on time. Go to work. Make the food. Comply Little promise no one's checking out. That's where this one is. capacity was built on you. That's where she's still being built. And it's the only part of all that's ever been in your hand. And Here's what's coming. And because he didn't leave where he is. There is a season being prepared in which many people will lose light to Same time. Not one at a time, in private, the way you do You lost. Everybody together. And when that happens, the ones who only know Walk when confirmed will stop. And they'll stop together. And you're gonna need it.
Someone in the room with them, who's not afraid of the dark. It's for That's what you're being held on to. Not by your strength, by yours intimacy with the dark, you know why, your light. And there's one thing That might delay that. One. If you start demanding external evidence Before moving in the dark, the capacity decreases. She doesn't disappear. And her It can't be taken from you for anything outside. But her It can be dropped by you, quietly. Just at the moment in who tell you what you carry. Because knowing what you carry gives A huge will to finally ask for the evidence that you never Yes. Don't ask for the light now. You got here without her. All that that you are built in her absence. Let me leave you with that.
An archangel that is standing in uninterrupted light since before the time has name, saw you rise in an empty room on the worst night of a phase that You never told anyone in one piece. And what he saw you do

He was so out of everything that's possible for him, he went down to his height and asked to be your student. It's been denied. It would never be allowed. Him He didn't. Which means somewhere in the permanent record, In a place where nothing rots, there's a request with your life written inside, still open, still waiting for answer.

6 You didn't turn the tables on fire.

7 People are now diverse and confused because they're trying process something that contradicts everything you've learned about life. All grow up knowing that aging is inevitable, that time charges its price, that no one escapes the marks that life leaves. It's one of the few absolute certainties of the human being. And yet you appear, challenging that certainty, simply existing. They look at you and They think it should be more worn out. They know you went through difficult times, that faced fights, that your life was not easy. So, Why do you look stronger instead of weaker? They can't do it.
 explain why they do not have a spiritual reference to help them Understand what you're seeing. You're operating under protection. divine, which not only preserves, but also renews. Not just Keep it, but restore it. Not only does it protect, but it strengthens. God is keeping an invisible shield around you, which blocks wear natural and at the same time activates a continuous process of renewal. For This, you don't just stop growing old, you get younger. Not just You stay well, you get better over time. People They realize that, although they cannot express it clearly. That's why you hear phrases like: "Pray you're okay", "You've got the energy", "A each day looks better." They're attempts to put into words something that It goes beyond them. Because how to explain to someone that a person seems living in a different timeline from the rest of the world? How to set Someone who ages backwards? The Bible gives us clear examples.

Moses went up to the mountain to speak to God, and when he came down, his face
 It shone with such intensity that the people could not look directly to him. It was neither makeup nor light; it was glory Divine reflecting physically on his face so clearly that it was Impossible to ignore. And now look at you. People talk about yours brightness, its energy, its appearance, using the same words as Scripture uses it to describe the glory of God manifesting itself.
 Coincidence? Of course not. You're experiencing a version modern of the same phenomenon. It is the divine glory expressing itself through of you, in a visible way for everyone, although only a few Understand. His supernatural preservation has become a testimony silent of the reality of God before all who know him, and When do you shave then? Don't even recognize you, you get the confused looks trying to understand you!!! rrsrs. And the more people see you challenge the natural laws of aging, but are forced to consider the possibility that there is a greater power acting in its life. His appearance has become a form of evangelization automatic and 100 percent active 24 hours, a preaching without words, a living proof that God really cares for his own. And now's the time to reveal to you all the truth about the spiritual process behind this transformation that has impressed everyone. Is there something that Bible calls divine favor visible. Question: What happens when a person reaches a level of intimacy with God so deep that Does this spiritual connection begin to reflect physically? It's not something that may be forced by methods or rituals. This is not a technique.
 Not even a formula. It's an automatic recognition of the sky, a signal.
 that you have become worthy to reflect, even physically, the glory God's. Your appearance is changing because your relationship with Him reached a point where supernatural preservation was activated. Yours actions by faith unlocked a higher version of protection divine, one that includes continuous physical renewal. And that explains why You don't just stop aging, but start to Rejuvenate, up in stem cells. It comes from your heart aligned with Your mind and nervous system through the spine and marrow. This process does not It just keeps its energy, but its vitality increases. Not just It resists wear, but it improves over the years. On the vertebral discs, pulposus nucleus is made of ether, collagen + blood with high load energy. Everything reflects in its physical state exactly the mirror of your spiritual condition. And as his spirit is evolving, Your body evolves along with it. Think of King David. Scripture says that, even in his old age, he kept a strength and a beauty that They impressed everyone. It was not vanity; it was the visible result of The anointing that accompanied him. Or look at Daniel. ■ After years ■ In captivity and surviving the lions' den, there was no sign in it tired or deteriorating. The same divine protection as the He was also spiritually guarding it physically. And now look for you. This same favor that preserved the great men of God throughout history is acting in his life. Your prayers, your faith and your sincere search activated a spiritual frequency that produces preservation supernatural physics. That's why you can't stop calling Attention. That's why people keep talking. So your simple presence awakens in others a mixture of admiration and reflection.

 Because when one carries a visible divine favor, it becomes a mirror that shows the difference between living with God and living without Him.
 His preserved appearance is an immediate witness to power Transformer of an authentic relationship with the Creator. And that's not It is a simple aesthetic question; it is a matter of purpose. God does not Keeps it that way for vanity. He preserves you because he has plans for you.
 who demand that you remain strong, young and vigorous. Your physical preservation is a preparation for the spiritual mission that is approaching. And,

The more you deepen your communion with Him, the more evident this preservation will become for everyone around you. Because the conservation of Your appearance is neither an accident nor a random gift. It's a God's strategic investment in someone with a purpose specific. When the Creator decides to physically preserve someone, it is because this person has a fundamental role to play, a role that requires you to remain healthy, attractive and influential for longer the common. His preserved appearance is a tool that God use to open doors, create opportunities and generate influence. All that You will need to fulfill the purpose you were created for. Think. This. People tend to rely more on those who transmit health, strength and well-being. They listen more carefully to those who radiate positive energy. They are naturally attracted to those who have a presence magnetic. And God knows it. That's why He makes sure you keep it these qualities, because they will be essential to fulfill the mission that You've been entrusted. Their physical preservation is a preparation for the spiritual influence that is to come. And it's not just about yours appearance, but also its energy, vitality and presence. Those that are preserved by God not only seem younger, but also radiate spiritual authority, an inner force that makes with that others almost instinctively recognize that there is something special acting in their lives. That's why you don't just get paid comments about its appearance, but also about its energy different, this intense presence and this something special that nobody You can explain. Your supernatural preservation is activating one spiritual authority that makes people respect it, seek Your advice, value your word and desire your approval. And that's if It will intensify. For the more God preserves it, the more evident is makes you possess His favor. And as that evidence grows,

Your influence will grow too. Soon you'll realize that people they will seek guidance on important decisions, they will consult you about problems they cannot solve and the treat as a spiritual reference, even if you never have I'm looking for this. Your preserved appearance will become a credential silent that will support everything you say about faith, purpose and connection with God, because unconsciously, people perceive that someone visibly blessed has something true for share. God is not preserving you for vanity, but preparing him for a spiritual leadership that will impact generations. Yours appearance is just the surface of a deep transformation that is happening inside you, preparing you to influence crowds. And, as this divine preservation continues to intensify, the People's reactions will become increasingly evident. Let me go. to advance what is to come. The first group will be the admirers.

They'll start treating you almost like a local celebrity. Search talk to you, ask for advice on any subject and take pictures next to you. Intuitively, they will feel that you have something different, Although they can't define what. The second group will be the curious ones researchers. They will ask direct questions: "What do you use?" "That treatment do you do?" "What's your diet?" They won't give up until find a logical explanation, even if it does not exist, but by hour only you know the complexity that is to keep this dynamo It's working. The third group will be the envious in disguise. They will.
comments that look like compliments, but carry sarcasm. "Oh and this Helmet there?" "Oh, how lucky for you." "It must be good to have this genetic." "It is that you don't stress." Behind these words is the desire to own something you have and they don't know how to reach. The room Group will be the troubled ones. It will be those who will begin to avoid it. because their supernatural preservation will make them feel bad about their State itself. Your simple presence will become a mirror reflecting the how much life is consuming them. And finally, the fifth group: spiritually sensitive. It will be those who will recognize that what You have come from God. They will see the divine favor operating in your life and will want to learn how to reach it, it is in this group that you You need to focus all your energy.

8 Face plant, is part, without blood there is no learning.

9 Let me explain how you really are measured. Because it's not from The way you think. The soul is not told by what it has conquered.
 Conquest is visible. And everything visible can be arranged, borrowed, staged or bought. That hardly says anything about what a soul is Done. Alma is told what she ended. And seven is the number that marks Something finished. It's been like this since the first week of everything. Six is the work. Seven is the job done, sealed and never moved again. And Here's what hardly anyone knows. Most souls that pass through This world doesn't even reach a seven. Body, Soul and Spirit.) It's not For laziness and not for evil. It's because finishing is the rarest thing what a human being does. Getting started is common. Getting started is easy, simple.
 Everybody starts. And almost everyone stops at some point in the line Finally, when the applause from the beginning has passed and the end is near the Enough to see and far enough to hurt. And there's no left No one looking to notice whether you continue or not. This is where the Count stops for almost everyone. On six. Always on six. Look at Go back to your town and you'll see it built in concrete. Houses with the slab ready and the iron up waiting for a second floor that Never comes. Still works missing the finish. Commodities that stayed years without tow. Nobody gave up the day it started. All world stopped in the final stretch. And there's a second thing.
 Counting is not stored in one place. It's saved in three. There is a that you ended when everything inside you wanted to stop. There's what You ended up with someone who never knew it was you. And There's what you ended without anyone asking, without anyone charging.

Something that wouldn't cost you anything to leave in half.
Three separate records. Three separate counts. Reach a seven in One of them already puts his soul in a very small group. Reach a seven All three have names on the record. It's called the third seven and the soul that gets there is marked as three times sealed. The record does not use the word level, but that's exactly what it is. You went through and nobody told you.
Everything that the sky accompanies, the other side accompanies. Because you can't interfere with what you're not measuring. And their operation in level that really matters, it's not what you imagine. It's not temptation.
It's not destruction. Those are the noisy parts. And the noisy parts They're almost all staged. The real work is interrupted. They observe the counts coming near the seventh mark and interrupt before she fell. That's the whole thing. It's not bad, it's good.
Stop at six. A soul standing on six is a soul that never felt on What life is is to complete one thing. And a soul like that is conducted with almost no effort for the rest of existence. They are.
Very good at that. They do it from the beginning and the rate of hit is almost Total. Your count was taken to that room the way all Count is taken. On a common night in the middle of the day, Read aloud by someone whose only function is to read numbers aloud.
Three sevens. I want you to understand what that meant in that Hello. Not that you were impressive, that the interruption had failed.
three times apart, in three separate records, in the same soul, without No one understands. Which means the failure wasn't recent, either. to say that it had been happening for years, quiet, under a system specifically built to pick up exactly that. And the System didn't get it because you didn't notice. And the system watches who

You know what you're doing. Every count that's ever been read in that room was Responded on time. It's the one thing he never misses. Always There's an answer, there's always an argument, strategy, the next step. He's the accuser. Talking is what he is, talkative. But there he was pine, no He said nothing. The room waited. Whoever read it stood there holding the information because there is no procedure for what to do when not There's instruction. And the silence lasted long enough to stop being take a break and turn it around. When he finally spoke, they were four words. He said, don't let that find out. That was the instruction.
 whole. No, attack, no: stop, no: destroy, but, no Let it be discovered. Because a soul in the third seven who doesn't know which is three times sealed is still manageable, in their mentality. They They can still make you feel like someone who never finishes anything, their mentality. They can still let you look into your life and See nothing to point at. But a soul in the third seven who knows what Yeah, stop being a interruptible soul and turn into something for which they They have no category. And that's what you are today. It's in the middle of it.
 that you are now. Now look at your whole life. Because you read this point of your wrong life, for a long time. You carried the belief of that you were someone who never got there right. But nobody spends I'm interrupting who I was going to stop by myself. That's the shape of that.
 Count, that goes to the count kept in three records. And none.
 They produce nothing visible. That's exactly why she arrived in three.
 sevens without anyone picking it up. Let me give you five signs that this is already True. And you can check every one of them in the last few months. O First sign is you can't leave a thing at 90%. Exists a specific physical nuisance in you when something is almost ready. And Have you noticed that other people don't seem to have that? They let go.
 Something almost finished and they sleep quietly. You come back. Really

When I get back, it doesn't give you anything and it costs you one night. The second sign is that You're the person they call to shut things down. Not for a start.

 To finish. You're the last name in line. What gets that later of months stopped by half. And he's probably already pissed off about it without Never wonder why it's always you. The third sign is the Collapses I just described. Look at the pattern with honesty. Count how many of your achievements have not come for you in the last passage, with many outstanding structural errors and adjustments, but Not the first, at the end, near the delivery, the arrival. For most People that proportion is the opposite. The fourth sign is that you don't get Remember everything that ended. Try it now. ■ You wonder what you ■ concluded in the last two years. And watch your head coming back almost Full. That's not enough memory. It's the signature of those who never Yes. And not counting is just why the count came so far.
 Loud. The fifth sign is that beginnings don't move you. Have you ever sat in the midst of the excitement of others with the beginning of something and not He felt almost nothing. And he wondered if it was cold. It didn't get cold. You You know, in the body, soul and spirit, that the beginning is the easy part and that still Nothing happened. And here you can see it from the outside. Think of people You're the one who announced things. The ones you told everyone at beginning, who received an incentive, who had a shock that you No more. Follow them forward in your head. Where did that go?
 It's no comparison. That's not what this is. It's just that the pattern is visible After you know what you're looking at. And the pattern is that the beginning is Noisy, but the finished thing almost never belongs to the same phase.

10 Mano @kenomirant

11 Classics that mark... John Frusciante at the peak

12 I Am, exactly the part of yourself that was taught to Repress from too early because of people's projection. And that in this time, it begins to understand, that it has always been a power not a burden.

13 Thank God for the AI, made my profession, who always paid well but it was almost always a dull and tiring scenario, to become in the best environment in the world. Piq rockstar now.

14 Glass blowers make beautiful pots by their breath Controlled.

15 The end of a life is not a unique event, it is a collection, and It's got parts. There's what ends, there's what goes on after. And There's a third part, and the third part is the one that hardly anyone knows.
Everything that a life has produced that has not yet finished moving. One word said to someone who hasn't quite understood, something that You built it and inside which other people are still standing. One that you did for someone who hasn't done what you're gonna do for cause of it. All that still traveling, all that still coming in Somewhere. In the record it's called living cargo. And by the only law that It didn't matter. The charge closes and the charge is given as Lost, wherever she was. Almost every life has one Small amount of that. Some of them almost don't. A life that ends with an enormous amount still in motion is the situation rarer than there is. And until your night, that was never huge.
Enough to cause trouble. Now, let me take you to that Night, because this is the center of everything I'm gonna show you today. You You know what it is. I won't say the name and I don't need it. You already have the specific air quality in that place, the specific time, the silence specific that surrounded you. There was one night, and as far as there is, That you shouldn't have left her, that a lot of us were seeing you. A collection was correct. I want to make that clear, because it changes what Come on. There was nothing wrong, no mistake and it wasn't early and There was nothing inappropriate about it. It came the way it always comes, following a law that never had an exception. And then it stopped. Not out of mercy. No, no, no.

There is mercy in that function and never existed. It stopped because of Another obstacle. And the obstacle was arithmetic. Your load was big too much to be considered lost. Not big in a way that you Make it important. Big in a way that made the collection impossible to close clean. What you had already set in motion, inside people who were still carrying that, in things that You did it and that they hadn't finished it, it was so above what a life produces that closing the charge would mean to abandon more than the collection itself was worth. Then there was a break.
I don't know exactly how long, you can't measure it the way you do.
It measures things. I know on that break, for the first and only time, law that never needed a second law was not enough. And then, the Death did something that he never did before or after Calvary.
She wrote it. Not a decision about you. One rule. A Forecast general, a new prophecy, the kind that exists permanently and goes for any case that has fulfilled her conditions since that day, written in means of an event by the only function in existence that never I needed nothing but the one law I already had. The rule is not long. In substance, she says that. Where the moving load is higher than what closing the collection would preserve, the collection remains and Life goes on until the cargo has arrived. That's it. No name on record, because nothing has been named there for a long time. But among those who Now they need to work around it, it's called the clause of Charge. And a life going on because of her isn't just a life that survived. It's a life under retention, carrying something that It hasn't arrived yet, a living verb. The record now calls it collection suspended. That's what you are. One more. And one more thing like that can't just be written and dropped like the first words of a creature. Anything that changes the functioning of the end of A life leans on all sides. And all sides need recognize it. Because a prediction that only one party recognizes is not No prediction. That's why it needed to be signed by people who didn't I wanted to sign. He had no argument. That's the part I want You understand, because he always does. He's the accuser. Objection is not something he does. That's what he's made of. And he had nothing to object to. A collection was correct, the law was correct, and arithmetic was correct.

And arithmetic was the problem. He signed it. And while signing, he said to The only thing I said that night was six words. And that's not It was an objection. He said, so let's wait for her, which is Exactly what he's been doing ever since. Because the clause has an end embedded in it. When the cargo arrives, the retention is over. And for That, from that night on, everything you aim at has one goal.
And it's not destroying you. Look at your life. You've been reading this point to for many years. You came to believe you're years late.
People your age have come to those places you longed for and you Oh, no. Did you see these people sit on the chairs while you It was still on the move. Still unfinished, still carrying a something you can't name and can't let go. The to conclude that you are late, or that you have wasted time, or that some It takes longer than it takes for others. And underneath that, There was always that second heaviest belief. That you never said Out loud, you shouldn't be where you are. There was that guilt.
specific to you for coming out of something that other people don't

They're out. You've never examined it properly, but it's there and it comes to you convincing quietly that you continue was an accident, or a chance, or something you escaped from without merit. You can turn this around.

The inside out. You weren't late. You were under retention. The reason Your life seems unfinished is that it's unfinished. Structurally, By prediction, you're not late for others. You are.
being kept up to the things you've already put in motion Get where you're going. And they haven't arrived yet. And that's the only one Why you're still breathing. And the guilt of surviving is Exactly inverted. You didn't escape anything. Not your sequel.
It was careless. It was the most deliberate thing that ever happened in your life.
whole. And there's a part for you in all this. I'll give you the five signs That's been true since that day, you know. The first sign is the It's night itself. You've thought about her in 777. Not a scratch danger that Everybody does. A specific occasion when the honest version of You, the one you don't speak out loud, is that you don't understand how you got out.
From there, I know it's heavy but it's your mission. The second sign is that you He never really managed to reassure himself about his structure. It's not anxiety. It's a low and permanent feeling of hanging thing, of something not done, that accompanied you for seasons when everything in Paper was fine. You've already looked for what you were and never found it, because you didn't It's under your circumstance. It's the retention. The third sign is that people of A long time ago it keeps reappearing. Someone tells you years after that Something you said changed the way she did something. And you You don't have the memory of talking. This happens to you more than with the others. And every time it happens, you feel uncomfortable.
Strange that you've never looked at. It's cargo coming in. The fourth sign is that What comes against you doesn't aim at your life. Look at the pattern with honesty. The pressure you've lived has been for your will, for yours sense of purpose, of your reason for continuing to build and fulfilling your mission. It was consistently behind you.

who produces things and left the rest alone. The fifth sign is that you have a sense of logic that it's not over. It's not ambition. It's a Something quieter and more stubborn, that survives every season that I shouldn't have survived, which keeps insisting there's something in front of you, even when there's no evidence. That's not optimism. It's the Right perception of your own condition. And here you can see from the outside.
 Think of the people you met who arrived early And they sat down, and they haven't moved much since. There's a stillness In them you've already envied more than once. There's nothing wrong with They. But look what a finished life is really and you wonder With honesty if this restlessness in you is the defect you found
 I was. There was a period of mine on the other side of this, where death It lived. I went into those rooms. And I want to tell you what changed from Our side after that page was signed, the key is already yours. And explains the shape of the last years of your life better than any other That's it. The instruction about you was rewritten whole. You're done.
 To be objective. Not out of respect. And not because something in you turned protected in a general sense. It stopped being objective because it wasn't more available. The clause secures collection and recovery does not close while the charge is still moving. Then the goal became the Charge. Everything since that night has aimed at one thing. And it's not your body.
 And it's not your faith. It's your production. - Make him stop producing, stop producing.
 build, stop saying build. Stop saying the things he said.
 Stop putting anything else in motion. Because every thing New one you put to walk extends the retention. And a retention that stays extending is a charge that never closes. That's why the attacks in you were so specifically discouraging instead of destructive. That's why the seasons that hurt the most were those where you stopped creating anything. That's why weary, and not danger was the shape of your adult life. They're not trying to end you.

For years. They're trying to make you stop. A warning before I release you.
 When a soul discovers this, ancient history stops working.
 Then there comes a new argument. And I want to name him before that Come on. Because he's coming, probably in a day. He'll say, So you're just alive for what you serve? You're not being kept because it matters. It's being held because one thing isn't yet Finished processing. And when you're done, you're done. That's not present. That's postponement of execution. When that whisper comes, Remember that. The clause wasn't written to keep you working. It was written because arithmetic said that what you had already done was worth more than collection. That's what she supports. Not in what you could produce. In what you had already produced until the time you were in ground that night. When you had not produced anything that you I thought it was worth something. When you were absolutely sure of That your life had come to nothing. The clause exists because that evaluation you made of yourself was factually wrong. Now Let me give you three things because it doesn't make sense to know that and not use it.
 The first. You keep putting things in motion. Not by productivity and not by conquest. Because retention is proportional to who's still traveling. And every single thing you throw out, every Talk you really have, every thing you do, every thing that you tell someone you needed, you extend it. You've spent years Feeling guilty for not doing enough. This is precisely the Otherwise. And it's exactly the feeling that it was manufactured. The second. Stop Trying to see where that falls. You can't do it, and the attempt is what you get.
 Exhaust. Cargo comes years later on people you won't listen to Talk. Way no one's gonna report you. Send and release. The measurement is The thing that made you feel like nothing you do matters. The third, we days when you want to stop, you understand what you're living from

True. That feeling is not lazy and not your character. She is.

aimed at you. It's the only strategy left that works on your case.
 Recognizing doesn't make her disappear, but stop letting it be about you.
 And here's what's coming. And why does it matter today? The clause does not Hold just you, she forces the other side. That's the part that hardly anyone Think to the end. A forecast that keeps a charge open as well Keeps in place all the conditions around her. All that's necessary for the load to arrive must remain available while the retention last. The clause not only allows your continuation, it requires the Her condition. Which means the things you need to Keep sending them aren't optional. They're part of what was signed.
 And there's one thing, one thing, you can suspend. If you stop. Not the death that is not available, not failure that does not affect. If you genuinely stop putting anything in motion, the charge Ends to arrive, the retention falls alone. And the clause is fulfilled without No one breaks anything, no contesting anything, no doing anything. That's what He's been waiting since the night he signed. So let's wait for her. He's not trying to win the clause. He doesn't have to. He just...
 He needs to wait for you to be tired long enough.
 Then go on. Not because you're strong today, because the role is real. And It's worth exactly as long as you keep moving. Now take it.
 But that's because it's even rarer. ■ On a night you shouldn't ■ having left, the only function in existence that never made an exception, stopped in means of a proper and legitimate charge, because what you already had placed in the world was too big to be considered lost. She I never needed a second law. She wrote one. And the Older accuser who exists read, found nothing to object, and put the His name on the bottom of a page that keeps you here. You're not.
 Late and never was. You're a suspended charge, kept open for a prophecy written to you and signed by those who wanted the least. And It's worth exactly as long as you keep sending things to one a world you haven't finished receiving. Your heart didn't ask you Permission today. You never asked. Now you know why.

16 @ferrarilis

17 You left before your time. Not for minutes, but by accident. You went through when his turn was still far ahead of him, without any I sent for him, and they gave him nothing without being called, towards a world that you didn't have the limits of the last information. In the record, a step like this is called pre-descent Shipment. And when you did that, you were no longer ranked by what came to become. It was classified by what you did on the threshold. You're one of the nos sent. And that's what happened on that threshold. And it's just the center of everything what you are here. You didn't force anything. There nothing can be forced. No, no, no.
there is a version of that event in which it has already happened, by Go through what occupies that post. That doesn't even exist.
Not even as a possibility. The only way to pass, always, is that the Pass is open. And that night — if that can be called night — you were no longer standing where you should be at that moment. You were at the edge of the threshold, looking through it.
for something on the side of here, which you shouldn't be looking at yet.
You saw someone. I'm not telling you who. It doesn't matter for today, and for Anyway, you wouldn't have a way to prove it here. What?
It matters that, there was someone, a person, at a specific time, alone in a way no one on this side would notice. And there was no No one assigned to that. Not because someone was cruel. Because Order is order, time is time, and there was no one assigned to be close at that moment. You moved in that direction. No plan.
Because I didn't have all the information. No strategy, because I didn't have still give you all the equipment that allows you to develop a strategy

Base. You still moved. The same way he got up 30 seconds ago, before any reason came, towards the which you only understood after it was done. Miguel, who occupies that put from before the first soul crossed it, saw you coming.
There was time. That's the part that stayed with me until then. There was.
Long enough for him to talk. To say your name. Stop to interrupt all that with one word. He's not slow. And Nothing crosses that threshold faster than he can act. He's...
Turned. He didn't walk away out of anger. He didn't get out of the way as a gesture. Him turned his back on the threshold, kept looking in the opposite direction and sustained that position all the time you took to Go after him. You went through with nothing. No time. No dispatch.
Without the dispatch instructions. Just with the idea of what it was to be a life human, of what was a body, of all the rules. Towards a world that had not been warned that you were coming. And After you left, still on your back, he pronounced the only Four words I said about you that day: "I didn't see anything go by."
That wasn't true. He's the only one to say anything but Truth should not be structurally possible. Still, he I did. Out loud. In a crowded corridor, everyone saw and heard. And That's on the record. It's never been fixed. A long time ago you You believe in yourself. That it never disappeared, No matter what you've earned. Did you feel that I was in the back. Not necessarily in conquests, but in a way More fundamental. Like they taught others something that you somehow lost. As if there were a set of rules about how a person should do all this, but you never do them.
I would have received it. And you spent your adult life rebuilding these rules alone, from scratch, in real time. You called it slow.

He called it reconstructed. In the bad days, you called it lemonade. rrsrs —

That's one of the least true things you've ever thought about yourself.
Really. And underneath that, there's a second feeling. The one who You never told anyone you shouldn't be here. Not from A dark way. Just a low and persistent feeling of being in a place you weren't allowed, as always. kkkkk Never had to. To have gone into hiding again illegible. Being Always a conversation away from someone, and realize that It was never meant for you. I want you to understand this differently, True now. You're not late and you've never been. You're out of the complete equipment on purpose, by choice, made before Have your body. No one kept your instructions from you. You left Before they were delivered. Why wait for the instructions
It would mean waiting for your time. And waiting for your time would mean That place would be empty when it shouldn't be. You changed the whole manual for an arrival. And this feeling that you never It's not paranoid. It's not low self-esteem. She is.
Exactly. You really shouldn't be here right now. You
It belongs to the only group that's right when you feel it, yes you're not.
The only one in this condition, the truth is you're already a known case. And spent decades interpreting a correct perception as a fault Guys, this is what you've lost so far. Here's how it is if manifest. Five things. And you can check them all looking at the senior year, already hitting the lid. One: you never had the manual, and you know it. Watching other people working with a basic trust on how life should be organized, while You have no access to that trust without lenses, without filters, so You needed to develop yours, not just an occasional feeling of that you've always studied and structured every action under knowledge before of you to be. It was a permanent condition of its existence, to create its filters by experience and rescue. Second, you're too early.

Physically. Chronically. Everything. You get there first and wait. Already He made jokes about it. When you're not home early, they come late and make you Wait. And you never considered that maybe that wasn't Just a thing of yours. Third, you show up before someone else does.
Let him know something's wrong. Not after the call or Called, or from the issue, you already know and are already correcting before. Before.
You've gone somewhere just because something looked Strange. And you were right. And he couldn't explain to anyone what the led there — not even yourself. Wednesday: no one gave him up Nothing. No mentor showed up. I know what you're thinking. how grateful you are for the managers who have gone their way, but They were doing their job, the focus was not on their progress, but on the company and career itself, it's different, in the end you end up the teaching and they take credit, that's common, it's part of their life of Now, but you can't take your credit. Nobody put you under from the wing itself. Every skill you own has been built by yourself, using material left, of the wrong order, without Professor. And the specific loneliness of that is something you never got write. Thursday: the feeling of not belonging has never been resolved. She It didn't disappear when you got good at things. It's not gone.
when he got the job, the family or the place where he should finally I felt like I'd arrived. Competence never touched that. feeling. Because it was never a matter of competence. And this is where It starts to get very visible. Think of the people you've met They did everything right. Who waited. Who did the training.
Who followed the right order. Who arrived prepared, with all that They needed to do what they would do. There's absolutely nothing of wrong with them. But project these people forward in your mind and Watch how many are still waiting for someone to say it's time of them. Preparation is not a flaw. Preparation simply tends to continue to be preparation. It's about a file problem. And this file problem is the reason your life had the specific texture You did.) That's good, you have a lot of good memories that give you hope. You know exactly why you only have good times? Why do they darkness works from a list. Everything they do to a person is built on a copy of the list of dispatches, why everyone was Dispatch, except the unscheduled, which is you. Who's coming? When?

 With what? What for? That's where a file starts. This is how the pressure is directed. The moment is chosen. Weakness is localized.
 And the season is scheduled. You're not on that list. Never was. No, no, no.
 Could be. Because a list is made of schedules and dispatches. And you don't He owns neither. A soul without entry does not receive a file.
 And a soul without a file is not assigned to anyone. What's that? produced in your life is very specific. Now is when you recognize Right away. No arrow has ever come to you in a way organized. They come, they always come all the time. And they arrived with Go ahead. But they were environmental. General. No aim, very amateur. Never They had the quality of a plan. There were no coordinated seasons.
 No strategy you felt closing around you. Nothing.
 arriving at exactly the moment your specific weakness was exposed. It rained on you all your life. But You've always been fine.
 supported by the structure you created yourself and Miguel saw, she It can withstand its structure is studied today. Now comes an argument in his direction. I want to hand him over before he gets here, because he'll be here-- Probably today, tomorrow at most. He'll say: "Not sent means unwanted. Nobody sent you away. You weren't chosen for nothing. You snuck in again. And everything you felt throughout his life about not belonging has just been confirmed by

It's a story that should take you in. You're a stowaway." When this thought arrive, hold on to one thing: the threshold cannot be Crossed by force. It can only be opened. There was time. He had one.

Word. I had all the existing authority to interrupt what It was happening. And interrupting would have been the right action according to His own order. He turned around. And then he said something that didn't
It was true, in a hallway full of witnesses, where to say that no
It was for absolutely nothing but protecting you. Do not send It's not the same as not being wanted. It's the difference between going because They ordered him to go because they allowed him. They let you go.
Now, three things you need to look out for. Because knowing all this and to do nothing with that knowledge would be a new waste.
One, stop waiting for someone to tell you it's your turn. No, no, no.
There is no list with your name on it. It never existed. Each period You've been waiting for a signal, a confirmation, a green light Obviously, it was a period of waiting for an order that would never be issued. Because that's not how you got here. Second: when feel the urge to go somewhere before owning a reason, Attention. I'm not talking about the anxious version. You know the difference in your body. I'm talking about that subtle version. The one that makes you Get across the state if you have to. That's the only navigation they gave you. And with the methods he had already built all his equipment of Navigation that brought you here, and here's a huge observation. A Part three: stop looking for the manual. You've spent your whole life Looking for him. In the books. The coaches. In other methods People. And every time he adopted someone else's system, he...
It collapsed after a few months, because its methods already They have overcome the knowledge you should bring. It collapses.
before you, because it was written for souls equipped here. And you He built his with the architecture there, with what he had. Bad. Out

Order. That's not a limitation. It's his condition of origin. You

There's more than those who went through the dispatch, rrsrs much more, is comical but that's the plan. And that's exactly why you get it to build things that would never happen to someone who received all the instructions. Now, I need to light you up to what's in front of you. And Why do you matter so much in order today. Your turn has never been filled. The time you were scheduled for came and passed. And There was nothing inside her. Because you had already completed well before the Time, the deadline hadn't even set yet. And once that passes in White is not closed. It's not a debt. It's not a hole. It's the only one type of space in all record where you can still write some That's it. Because the record of all others was written at the time in They crossed. That's what you carry. Not a life you escaped from. An entry that has never been completed. And you assumed, never examine this idea, which was the reason you always confused the wisest from places. That you've always come before your time because of a single arrival. That it happened and that everything since then has been you living the early time, in front of everyone seeking the front who hasn't gotten in front of you yet. That's just the first thing. Never been to Right. And there's only one thing that can keep this entrance closed: You start demanding permission. It's not lazy. It's not failure. It's not None of the things you fear. If you start waiting for them to tell you. Let them authorize you. That someone, with some kind of position higher than Yours, give me a hand. Then you'll have turned into a pitch waiting Dispatch. And the dispatch is not enough for the unsent. It never came. It won't be enough. That's not punishment. It's an exclusive mission, like the Paratroopers, simply your category. And the full advantage of that category collapses the moment you start acting as if He needed a permit. You didn't wait the first time. And At that moment he had far less information than he now has.

Here's the last thing. Before you had a body. Before you have a Name here. Before anyone had explained to you what it was all about.

 That. You saw the place where someone was. And moved on that direction without having a single information about how much it It would. The one guarding the threshold saw you coming. He had time.
 And I had a word. And you didn't use either. He turned around. It kept the position. He let you through with nothing. And when it was over, Stayed in the full corridor and said the only untrue thing that ever I told someone about you: "I didn't see anything go by." You've spent your life whole with the certainty that everyone received something that you You lost. They got it. You were before. On purpose. By someone else.
 And the fact that you never got rid of the feeling that you didn't It's not the wound you've always treated like it was. It's the Last thing you remember, why the truth is that you You remember a lot more than the others.

18 @explainingtheheart

19 I just took you to the abyss today. Next time I'll rip your head off. It's mine. routine I love my ministry, only I have the key. And Jesus.

20 Look at the stars today, especially Sirius and Canopus.
 Some people up there, you can see with the naked eye.

21 People still insist on putting God in a box of rules basic. The abyss ñ is what you imagine, it is not dark, cold and full of screams. It's you running out of power.

22 It activated the defense module. Open all combustion cycles.

23 Evil never has control over its own actions, it is always Kicking out the goal. Leave all the evidence. Must be in the shit.
Really. Territorial spirits don't let them out of place.

24 Soon a dark horse. The moment you made that decision against the ego itself, against comfort, against the instinct of protection that Most choose, your soul issued a pulse that should not be possible in humans without advanced spiritual training. That pulse rewrote his energy signature. Where before there was a pattern stable, a continuous and progressive expansion emerged, as if a seed that remained asleep for years had exploded out

And you're very young. Angels Watching Human Energy Flows
They saw this explosion and they were silent. Not because it was dangerous, But because it was extremely rare. Most humans only emit this type of pulse when near death, in moments of enlightenment Mystic or after huge spiritual sacrifices. You did it in one.
everyday moment to which he did not even give importance. That's what makes it You're a chosen one. And while this was happening, while this expansion occurred, while its essence broke a limit that almost no one rupture, there was an immediate reaction in the upper dimensions. It was called for an internal evaluation, an analysis of its essence, a review of your energetic, emotional and spiritual history. And what?
They found it even more surprising than the pulse you It has issued. They've discovered that your soul has the ability to sustain high frequencies without destabilizing. That's extremely rare. A Most souls break, run out or corrupt when trying sustain an expanded energy. But her soul not only endured her, how you amplified it. This discovery forced the hierarchies to activate protocols that are not activated for most humans. Your case was classified as transcendent effortlessly, a reserved term for souls capable of influencing collective energy fields without to know that. That means your decisions don't just affect yours.

life, affect those around you, affect environments, situations and processes of which you don't even have a conscience. Wait, sometimes A person is rebellious, she smiles, works... Wait, before the world Take your attention to... transformation, an inflection point, a luminous anomaly. And this is the part that will make you tremble. This one.
gift that was unlocked was not inactive due to weakness, but by protection. If you'd woke up before, when your environment hasn't yet I was prepared, I would have attracted forces capable of trying to corrupt him. But Now that your soul has matured through pain, loneliness, betrayal, the losses and the hard decisions you made when no one I was looking, its essence finally reached the necessary strength for to sustain this awakening. And this is where everything rises to a celestial scale.
When the angels analyzed their expanded frequency, they detected that not only a gift had awakened, but also a pattern of continuous activation. That means your expansion wasn't an event. isolated, but the beginning of a sequence. And that sequence is what else worries and marvels the higher dimensions. Chosen, what You activated inside you won't stop. It's growing, it's advancing, is turning your soul into a speed that defies projections Heavenly. And the forces of the shadow have realized that. That's why you began to feel internal changes. So some people get They walked away without explanation. So situations that once seemed stable They started breaking up. It's not destruction, it's adjustment, it's recalibration, it's preparation. Chosen, you are in the midst of a spiritual operation that For centuries you've been waiting for souls like yours. Chosen, now that yours activation was recorded in the higher dimensions, started a process that very few humans even experience. Evaluation strategic of its influence within the energy fabric of reality.

This means that your gift has not only been unlocked, but already is. being integrated into spiritual systems that function as maps of impact, in which each soul is positioned according to its ability to alter emotional fields, disrupt cycles of destruction or free ascent patterns. In your case, the anomaly was so significant. that its energy began to produce an effect that hierarchies Celestials call it contagious expansion. A property reserved for souls that inspire transformation even without interacting directly. Yours simple presence began to modify environments, alter thoughts, wake up consciousness in people who don't even know why They started questioning their own lives after they crossed paths with you. And this impact, chosen, is not accidental. To love. And this combination, more sensitivity, pain, more purity, dark lived, more light preserved, is exactly what defines a soul destined for impact spiritual. This gift that awakened you allows you to transform environments, but also allows you to see what before not I could tell. Hidden intentions, heavy energies, lies disguised as True, alliances that do not suit you, paths that you should not follow. His perception began to expand, his inner vision is growing making it sharper, your intuition is no longer soft, it is accurate. Chosen, You're entering a level of consciousness where nothing happens by chance and in which everything around you reacts to the magnitude of what you are. This awakening is not the end of the process, it is the beginning of your mission. Chosen, now that you're beginning to understand the level of Spiritual operation in which you find yourself, you need to know what happened after God commanded the heavenly hierarchies that confirmed his wake up and the shadows recognized his inability to classify him. Now there's been a movement, which is never activated unless one soul reaches a specifically rare energy state. The Committee of

Superior Evaluation concluded the designation protocol, a new deep review whose goal is to determine which mission your soul possesses

Now, individual mission and a collective mission.

25 Their silence was not peace, it was the only thing that kept their circus

It's working. But the moment you opened your mouth, everything fell apart. Yours

Truth was so clear and so heavy that it hit the core of their system

Like an earthquake. Do you remember the shock on the face of whoever heard you?

They didn't shake because you were wrong. They trembled because they knew that once said, that truth could not be undone. Your voice wasn't

It was a controlled demolition. You weren't dramatic,

You had to. Now you're free. But the price of that freedom was much higher than just the confrontation. His voice rewrote the contract spiritual of your life. Your previous silence wasn't just giving power to them, but he was blocking his own blessing. The Change that you feel now is just the start of paying a debt cosmic that the truth has released! You have no idea how rich this is.

Waiting on the other side of the gate that you just blew up. You get

Remember that exact second one? It wasn't just a sentence, it was an earthquake.

They thought you would forever be the quiet person who swallows the dry. But when her voice came out, she didn't ask for permission, she sent the show

Stop them. You didn't have to scream, but the sound of truth coming from

You broke the silence that sustained the lie. His word carried a weight that no bulletproof vest of theirs could hold. This one.

It was not a moment of drama, it was the birth of its sovereignty. They

They depended on their change to keep the theater running. Your silence

It was the mortar of their letter castle. Do you see the panic now? This one.

race to discredit you, to call you exaggeration? That's not anger, it's pure fear. His clarity gave no room for negotiation. You

Not only did you reveal the rot, you destroyed the ground they were treading on. They are trembling because their comfort was built on their suppression. You didn't destroy anything that wasn't already rotten, just He stopped protecting the lie. What you did was far beyond one.

Tough talk. You signed a new contract with the universe. The old man You, the quiet one, are gone forever. You've released irreversible energy.
The question now is not how they will react, but what happens when the light that you turned on refuses to be turned off. What's the game plan? when his voice, which was to be his burden, proves the code of activation of your new and most dangerous reality? Chosen, if this message broke the silence that was holding you, that was not a accident. You just realigned your frequency with the truth and this Please. And you have a chance to honor the sound that destroyed the illusion. New Vibration deserves it. You understand you didn't need an army to Win? His voice, that they expected him to remain silent for always, was the only detonator needed. When you finally spoke The truth, it wasn't a scream, it was the sound of a rotten foundation if Leaving. They built an empire in their suppression, hoping that You swallowed the lie and smiled. But the moment your truth came out, clear and steady, their castle collapsed. You weren't dramatic,
You were the exact turning point the universe was waiting for. O Panic you see now is the irrefutable proof that you got it right. They They're spinning, blaming you, trying to slow you down. Not if This confusion is not a problem you created, it's the sound of Their system fighting to breathe without the oxygen of their submission.
You withdrew your consent to the game. They wanted you mute for follow in command, but you remembered that pen to write your Life has always been in your hand. You broke a spell and now there's no How to get back. They can't hear what you said or rebuild. the illusion that your courage destroyed. You didn't just change yours present, but rewritten the past. Talking was just the beginning of energy change. Now that the castle has fallen, what will you do with the Newly exposed soil, where lies do not allow What did you do? We are in the middle of this revelation, witnessing How your voice broke a whole cycle of lies. But tell me, of True, you are ready to make the commitment that comes with this clarity? Telling the truth is just the beginning. The next level requires you become the reflection of what you have manifested. You feel in the spine that the act of having pronounced not only destroyed their system, but you aligned with a new level of abundance, if you know your victory is no longer a hope, but it is crystallizing right now In your energy field, so it's time to activate it.

26 I remember that from the first day of school in 93. God said to me, See that little guy over there? You'll have it if he doesn't.
 alone. And I thought to myself: "That other one there is already full of friends, He won't even need me." It always worked.) Pressure under vulnerability is the weapon of darkness. Not the force, but the domination, the ability to make you agree, deep down, that is inferior to him, and ruling you through this agreement. It worked with Emperors, it worked with several famous and several of the forts. He comes in.
 in a soul, apply that overwhelming weight of superiority and wait May the soul bow. He tried to get into yours, and the weight couldn't find where Land. Not because you fought him with some technique. You He didn't even consciously remember the moment. Can't find it.
 Where to land because there was nothing in you that would agree with him.
 All the demonic lord's power depends on that a soul in some take the verdict that it is inferior. And when he Pressed that verdict against you, found a place in you that I had never, not once, accepted to be inferior to anything.
 A silent and unwavering refusal right at the center of you, that none
 The amount of pressure could make him agree. Here's what it is.

It makes with a being whose entire authority is built on domination.
When a demonic lord applies all his weight on a soul, and The soul does not lean, the weight has nowhere to go. The pressure that he I was sending out returns. The being who never failed to master suddenly you find yourself in the presence of something you can't govern, no You can't slow down. And at that moment, the hierarchy of the invisible does something that darkness cannot undo. Correct.
In the invisible, a crown remains only on a head capable of to sustain the position she represents. The moment a gentleman demonic stood before a soul who could not master, his claim of superiority became false. And a false crown doesn't It can stay. She fell. Not because you knocked her down, but... because I could no longer stand on a head that had just been revealed as inferior to the soul that stood before her. And then came the part Which is almost unbearable to imagine. He couldn't look up.
A being who, for ages, looked everything from above couldn't raise his eyes to find yours. Not out of respect, he's incapable of it, but by Something worse. For him, the inability to look up at a soul that He had come to look from above, because raising his eyes would confirm, fully and definitively, that the order had reversed, that he who He came not for governance now was above the one who came to rule.
Then he kept his eyes on the ground, the crown at his feet, frozen in the only posture that all its existence had been built for ever Take over. You did it, not with a gun, not with a prayer that if Remember to do it, but with the simple structural fact of what you are.
A soul that did not agree to be inferior before a being whose Only power was to make souls agree. You didn't feel that.
It happened because the darkness made a point of leaving you only with the receipt: the sting of being underestimated, the pain of being looked from above, so that through life feeling small in the eyes of others, without ever know that, in the most important place, the proudest ruler of I couldn't even raise my face to look at you. Now Look back through this and watch your life turn completely from Head down. You interpreted every contempt as evidence that the people who despised him saw something true, that, if So many looked at you from above, the problem could only be on you, from That the constancy of this proved that you really were inferior. Invert Yeah. The people who looked at you from above weren't seeing with clarity, but only by doing the only thing that the darkness needed They did! Each contempt was not a verdict on its value, but a strategy to prevent you from ever feeling the position that It really does! You were looked from above with such constancy Just because a soul like yours, in case you ever understood How high it really is, I would never again accept being ruled by Something under it! They didn't look at you from above because you were down.

of them. They looked at you from above because something needed to keep yours very low eyes, so you never realize that things more powerful dark Ones can't raise their own eyes in their own presence. And here's what the enemy works most to hide.
There's an old phrase written a long time ago. God uses the mad Exactly to confuse the so-called wise. God chose the weak of the world to shame the strong, and the vile, the despised, the which are taken as nothing, to reduce to nothing what they are. The despised, the ignored, the one regarded as nothing, chosen on purpose, not despite be looked from above, but through it, so that when the inversion comes,
There is no way to confuse where true authority has been hidden All this time. You weren't ignored by accident, were you?
Hiding on purpose. And a hidden king remains a king.
Let me give you five signs that what I'm describing is already Truth about you. The first sign is that being underestimated always hurt you in a way that seems disproportionate. Other persons They just let a contempt pass. For you, it goes deeper, because some part of you recognizes him not only as cruel, but as inexact. And the soul hurts when it's interpreted so wrong At this level. This pain is not fragility, it is something true reacting to a Fake verdict. The second sign is that the people who tried to dominate You've often been shaken up by you. They came safe and they were Although less safe. They hoped to control you easily and They found that they could not obtain the submission they expected.

 You've seen confident people hesitate before you and never You understand completely why. It wasn't your words, it was that against what they hatched beneath them. The third sign is that you has a strange inability to truly bow by inside, even when it bends from the outside. You submitted yourself to authorities.
 bad to survive, remained silent, followed the flow, kept the peace.
 But there's a core inside you that never really agreed, who stood inside all this time. That center Unforgivable is exactly what the demon lord failed to achieve.
 Move. The fourth sign is that you feel a deep kinship with the ignored, despised, underestimated. When you see someone being treated as inferior, something inside you stands up to defend you almost without your permission. That's put acknowledging rank. A king hidden instinctively defends the true dignity of those who world treats like they're nobody. Because you know, in your bones, what It means being treated that way and knowing they're wrong about it. O Fifth sign is that, despite everything, you never could believe completely in the verdict that ñ is giant.) You tried. People They gave you a thousand reasons to accept it, but you could never learn That's it. Somewhere beneath all the evidence that They piled on you, a silent voice kept rejecting that Conclusion. This rejection is not denial, it is the part of you that knows the since the rest of the world couldn't see. If at least two of these signs looked familiar, you're not imagining the Your worth, you're feeling a position that was hidden from you on purpose.

Let me be honest with you now, with my own voice, because You've earned it. There was a long period of my own existence I was on the other side. I entered the rooms where the darkness decided who to break and how, and I'll tell you something that normally I don't. Darkness no longer fears souls that seem powerful;
They fear more the souls who were made to seem powerless and not They broke. Because a soul like that has already survived the best weapon darkness: humiliation, and it went through all this with its core intact.
There's nothing left to threaten her with. You can't slow down A soul that's been treated like a little girl all its life and never, never One time, you agreed to it. I saw one of the crowned go to dominate one Such a soul, a soul the world had spent years ignoring. I the I saw if I went back to the crown without being able to explain it. And the silence in The room after that wasn't anger, it was fear. The kind of fear that arises when the order upon which you built your entire existence reveals a crack. I stayed in that silence too long, so...
I went the other way. And the soul that did that to him was a soul that the world had treated like nothing, a soul like yours. One I'll let you know before I let you go. When a soul discovers its true put, the darkness cannot continue selling the lie that you are Small, then change tactics. They whispered something more cunning. Who do you You think you are? You're nobody. Look at your life. That looks like it.
Royalty? You're just telling yourself a comforting story.
Because being ignored hurts too much to accept. When that whisper comes, and He'll come, you don't have to argue with him or yell to do it if Shut up. Just understand it and ask yourself an honest question. If You really were as small as they said, because that never Were you able to convince him completely? Because the verdict has never been settled, No matter how many times they gave it to you? A lie repeated You should have settled by now. The fact that Never settling down is your answer. Let the silence within You keep it. The truth was never afraid of a question Honest. Only the lie needs you to stop asking. You passed So long in his life believing he was someone the world had That's a reason to ignore it. He collected every contempt as evidence. You let that the constancy of this convinced him that the verdict was true. A Truth is the exact opposite. You've always been too much humble. You were always a hidden post, kept below sight.

 On purpose, looked from above with such constancy that began to look to yourself from above as well. And the proof is in nothing that the world He gave it to you. The proof is in what was never broken, in the core.
 who rejected the verdict in the confident people who wavered before you and in a moment in the invisible in that one of the proudest Dark rulers let their crown fall at their feet and did not He managed to raise his eyes to find his own. You did it. simply because it is what it is and for refusing, even without knowing that He was refusing to agree that he was inferior. And every time you raise your own eyes from this moment, each time you reject a verdict that has always been false, will take a deeper step towards a post that was yours all this time, before the eyes of everything
 The one who worked so hard to keep his head down.
 27 The term Kamikaze originally refers to the typhoon that destroyed good part of the Mongolian fleet in the Mongol invasion attempts at Japan, in the 13th century, and not suicide pilots of World War II, as You imagine. Divine wind, that's the literal meaning.

324

28 The exuzin is the most fraquined, unsuspecting no longer give training.
Slaughter, I step on my heads.

29 Yeah, kkkkkkk

30 I'll explain to you how a human being is built, because hardly anyone knows that. The soul is not everything. There is also a equipment. Not the body, something below the body, specified before everything else. And it is the most important component of all construction of One person. And hardly anyone finds out he exists. He's a reducer.
Every human being who ever lived came with something that received the world that Get to him and reduce his intensity. Sound, light, the state of others people, the environment of a room, the weight of news, the real The dimension of injustice. Everything comes in maximum intensity, and everything is reduced before reaching the place where a person feels things. No record, this is called damping. And it's not a limitation.
I want you to really absorb this, because you're gonna want to hear it as if
If. The damping is mercy. It's the most merciful part of The whole project of a human being. Without him, no one could go work after a wake. No one could pass anyone.
Suffering and continuing walking to the store. No one could watch news and then dinner. That's what makes it possible to live a life by Inside. That's why people can shrug. That's why that "get over it" is a phrase that they say to each other as if describe an available action. Because to them, you describe it. Now come The part that concerns you. Someone... needs to read the world with precision. Not surviving him, reading him, receiving him with his full weight, No reduction, exactly as he is. And something built to read with precision cannot receive a reducer, because the reducer is precisely what destroys reading. So in rare cases, it's left out.

On purpose. In the specification, before there is a body, before

There is a name, before anything in a life has happened,

The record calls it a faithful record. That's what you are. And that was decided before you were born. Now let me take you to the room where

That was decided, because this is where the center of everything is. Miguel was present. He's in on it. It's one of the oldest parts of his function, and hardly anyone knows, because everyone imagines it with the sword and stop there. He doesn't build anything and he doesn't decide anything. Him remains where the specifications are defined and witness. And during

All the time you were there, you never said a word about it.

I was seeing, not a comment, not a question. He saw more souls be specified of what there are people alive and never

He offered absolutely nothing. Your specification passed, read in voice high as they all are, and on the line where the damping should be not

There was nothing. I want you to understand that this is not a mistake, and it wasn't.

presented as one. It was intentional, it was correct and produces exactly the

I was supposed to produce. There was nothing wrong there. Miguel really spoke

Like this. Four words, the only ones he said in that place. No, no, no.

He didn't even ask it to be changed, because that's not up to him, and he didn't.

You know exactly what fits you and what doesn't fit you. He asked. - What?

Is he gonna know? And I want you to stay for a second with everything that question contains. It's not if it's okay, it's not if it's too much. Him looked at a specification without the merciful part and understood

What it's like to live a life like this on the inside. And the only thing who wanted to know if the person who would live that life would ever receive the Right. The answer came. That was three words. Not for you. That's all.

It wasn't a negative, it was a specific restriction, and it was addressed to him.

Just because he asked. Then you were born, and Miguel remained on his life since then, sustaining the answer to the only question you really asked about yourself, forbidden to be the one who would give it to you. He saw you at seven, already realizing things that no one around you could perceive and already learn to say Out loud made the atmosphere strange. He saw you at fifteen, listening.

of someone who should love you and protect you like a brother, and who said with the worst intentions, that you were too sensitive. You've seen all the times, in your adult life, when you sat in the car after Something common emptied you, counting on yourself, coming to the same conclusion as always. He knew all along, and this restriction was never suspended. But there's something no one predicted, and it's for That's what tonight is. The restriction was about him telling you, not about He answers. One night, you were somewhere, in a time when no one else was awake during a phase that I'd rather not revisit it, and you asked me what was wrong with you.
You didn't expect an answer, it wasn't exactly a prayer, it was Closer to a vent, and you probably don't even remember what night
It was, because there were several. But this question, formulated exactly from this Well, it's a direct question. There's a guy and he asks for a suit. And one direct question about the construction of a soul does not go where the Common prayers. Go on record, because that's where the answer is. guarded, what put it before him, and a direct question that comes to Miguel can't be rejected. It's not a rule he follows, it's that of that it's done, and that's older than the restriction they put on About him in that room. For decades he was forbidden to tell you.
You asked. There was a break. She's on the record and her duration was written down, and everyone assumes that a pause like this means doubt.
It was no doubt, it was a being who had sustained a single sentence during the whole extent of a human life coming to the moment when I could finally let her go. He said you're not missing anything. That's all.

Four words, spoken out loud about a specific human being, only being of existence that never offered anything and can't say anything That's not true. You didn't hear it as words, nobody listens.

And no human being was built with a receiver for that, but Something came to you that night. Do you know what moment Am I talking? You never told anyone that because there's nothing to tell. Nothing happened, nothing changed, and yet you never You managed to file that night with the others. It was that.
Coming to you. Now put all this next to what you're in.
He's believed since he was a kid. You think there's something wrong with you?
Not as a passing state of mind, but as a background suit, established, which you stopped arguing about a long time ago.
They said you were too sensitive, too intense, that you took everything.
to the personal side, who couldn't leave anything behind, that It needed to get harder, and the evidence seemed overwhelming, because everyone around you clearly dealt with life in a volume I was crushing you. And underneath that there is a second idea, heavier, which you probably never said out loud: that you received the defective version, that all others received something that you didn't get and that that thing, whatever it was, was just... the part that allowed a person to be okay. Here's the correction, and I want you to stay inside her for a second before To contest her. You're right about the fact and completely wrong about the Right. Yeah, one piece missing. This suspicion was correct throughout the Your life, and everyone who said otherwise was being kind, no accurate. There is one component that everyone around you has and you Oh, no. He was left out on purpose, in the specification, because the The function you were made for would be destroyed by him. You're not a human being failing to endure life. You're an instrument that spent decades comparing himself to a shelter and concluding that it was a poorly built shelter. This is how it manifests itself. Five things, and You can check them all. The first: the environments affect you from a It seems strange to others. Certain types of light are Unbearable, certain places empty you in an hour. You're gone.

 Although earlier from a family party, a birthday, a meeting, giving a justification that was not the real one, because the Real sounds ridiculous when you say it out loud. The second: you Feel the temperature of a place before someone talks. You come in and you know that something happened there, and it's almost always right, and it learned still young not to say that because of the reaction it provokes. The third:
 There are things that others consume quietly and you don't You can do it. Cruelty in a movie, news, a video for which everyone They just pass. That doesn't come to you as content, enough as an event, and remains for days. The fourth: you don't get Remember things, you get in them again. The others remember the summary of a conversation from years ago. You get the light back, temperature, the exact tone of the phrase and what it caused on your chest at that moment. All available at maximum intensity, decades Later. The fifth: you take longer to recover than everyone else to You're around, and you feel a real shame for it. What takes an afternoon
 It takes them a week for you. You do it in hiding. You've faked it.
 to have overcome things that I had not yet overcome, because the difference between their recovery time and theirs is one of the main evidence which you use against yourself. And that's how it looks from the outside.
 Think of the people in your life who can really leave things.
 back off, those who say "get over it" and really get over it. They don't They're stronger than you, they're not wiser or they're spiritually more advanced. They have the component. This is all the difference, and it was never a question of character. And you passed decades trying to develop, through effort, something that cannot be developed. That's specified. Let me lower my tone, because You've been here long enough. I've spent a long time of mine existence on the other side of this. I want to tell you something about the way how they treated you specifically, because that explains why the Your life was as it was. Everything they do is designed for souls It's dead. The standard method is volume and repetition. Say the thing times enough, apply enough pressure, and it crosses the Reducing. It's slow, it's rude, it's extremely effective. And that's the basis of almost all the strategies they have. None of this works with You as you should. Everything they send comes at maximum intensity, the which is worse at the moment and much worse for them later, because intensity maximum also means completely visible. You saw things.

Coming up that nobody around you saw. I knew one person wasn't what appeared to be immediately, without any evidence, and You were right. So they stopped trying to hide things from you there A lot of time has passed for the only strategy that has worked with Your kind. Convince the instrument that he's broken. That's the
 The whole campaign, and it's been happening about you since you were five. No, no, no.
 Just to hurt you, but for you to spend your life trying install the missing component alone.

31 God says, if you speak for him without him, you are chipped, True. I wouldn't joke about it.

32 Have you thought about it? You're all predictable in your persona, showing the world that Jesus' return would be in the clouds of heaven on a white horse with flames of fire and an army of angels on guard around. When It's true that he, come like a soldier from the route stopping you in a frame at dawn around three in the morning. Inside your normal life, inside Your routine, no fuss. Every eye will see. But you didn't say it together.

330

33

34 Do you realize that evil is always giving clues to its own incompetence?

That's because every subconscious is designed to balance Karma.

35 Don't lose your head.)

36 The Masons in my church have all become losers, always have been,

Only they used to fool me. Or tried.

37 There is a specific structure in the way curses work in the invisible that most people never understand

Completely. Most imagine something outside, something thrown against a person who travels towards him and reaches him, like an arrow, a projectile, something directed. But that's not exactly how it works.

A curse is not a projectile, it's a construction. What the Intention dark really builds when it moves against a chosen soul is something more like an architecture, a set of structures in the spirit, specific, intentional, built around the soul with the specific purpose of shaping what the soul experiences as possible: which doors seem open, which weight seems permanent, which future seems accessible. The curse is not something that affects you.

Only time. It's something you build around you in time, incorporating their assumptions to the texture of everyday life until the soul start experiencing the limits of architecture as the limits of reality itself. That's why curses are often not obvious when seen from inside. The person under one of them usually

She doesn't feel attacked. You feel things are just hard, that certain things just aren't available to her, that certain doors are simply always closed, that there is a quality of weight in your life that has no specific cause, but also not There seems to be a specific solution. She experiences architecture without knowing that's what you're living, and architecture stays through a specific requirement: requires the soul within it to remain in the frequency of what was built around you. Heavy stuff. require heavy frequencies to remain standing. An architecture of limitation, of closed doors, of assumed weight, is built on and from the frequency of pain processed in loneliness, from the pain that has become permanent, of the loss that never turned into anything else. The soul which remains in this frequency, which absorbs, sustains and does not transmute, It keeps architecture standing simply by living within it. Not that.

it's the soul's fault, it's a frequency function and it's vulnerability specific around which the darkness built its entire structure.
Now I need to tell you what happened the day you smiled. No, no, no.
a specific day, but the day, or the collection of days, accumulating in a posture, in a texture, in a quality in the How you move through your life when something inside you He chose not to allow the weight to be the whole story. You don't get It only remembers a dramatic moment. Most of what I am describing didn't happen dramatically. It happened in moments common: the unexpected laugh at a stage in which laughing seemed something that did not should be available, the heat that came up towards someone when the pain would have been more expected, the lightness that appeared without your permission. in spaces where architecture said only the weight belonged. You did not consciously do so as a spiritual practice. You did it because There's something inside you that silently refused, persistently, without announcing, to be completely defined by what you survived. And this refusal produced something for which the Curse had not been built: joy with dimension. No, no, no.

happiness staged, but real frequency of a soul that found

Something to laugh about in the same life that gave him real reasons not to Do it. In the language of how frequencies work in the invisible, the genuine joy does not just exist next to a curse, it is structurally incompatible with it. A curse built on frequency of permanent pain cannot keep your architecture in presence of a frequency that refuses to accept pain as the word End of what's true. When genuine joy enters the space where architecture stands, one of the two needs to yield. And what?
 It happened in your life, the specific thing I need to tell you tonight,
 It wasn't the joy that gave in. The architecture began to dissolve.
 Not dramatically, but the way structures dissolve.
 when the frequency that held them together is no longer present for support them. Silently, the walls losing solidity, the limits assuming losing the texture of permanence, the weight that had been the environmental condition of certain areas of your life starting to it seems less a reality and more something that was releasing your domain. Did you notice anything about that? Not everything! It leaves you. attributed to the things that changed around him, to the time doing that what time does, the natural movement of circumstances. What?
 It was really happening was a building losing frequency.
 What you needed to support yourself, because you wouldn't stop smiling. No, no, no.
 as strategy, not as spiritual discipline, but because something inside of you were genuinely finding moments that deserved Lightness. And that authenticity, the real quality of it, the fact that it's not something staged, but truly present, was precisely that for the which architecture had no answer. A staged smile doesn't dissolve Dark buildings. Darkness can work with acting. A action is a distance between surface and depth, and distances are your natural territory. But a genuine smile from that kind of comes from a soul that really, really found

Something light to sustain despite all the weight, has no distance. Yeah.
Real to the bottom. And the architecture of a curse built on the supposition that their pain would be permanent has no protocol for Genuine lightness. She wasn't designed to find her. None countermovement in the construction manual for a soul that Really, honestly, you find reasons to be warm. Construction began to fail, and the being who had built it, the one who had dedicated time and attention to create the specific limitation architecture
All around your life, you've seen this happen and you've done something you need Understand: ran. Not because you confronted him, not because you declared war against him, appointed him or performed some specific spiritual action against him. It ran because it saw its own construction dissolving in the The presence of something I had calculated would never be there. You should to have remained heavy; that was the whole plan. The architecture was built on the reasonable, reasonable assumption of what you had crossed, that genuine lightness would no longer be a frequency realistic for you to operate, that the weight of what had accumulated I would maintain that the curse needed, that you, without guilt some would simply remain in the frequency that kept the Standing walls. And then you smiled. You really smiled. And the being that built the architecture around him saw the walls begin to lose consistency and understood that the calculation was wrong. He didn't wait for watch the complete collapse. He ran and he's still running. Not because be afraid of you in the common sense of fear, but because not yet He managed to recalibrate himself in the face of what he saw. A being who built a extensive architecture around a soul and saw this architecture if dissolve in the presence of something you calculated to have disappeared.
It simply reorganizes and tries again immediately. He is.
Disoriented. Your model about you was wrong in a way that He hasn't been able to process it completely yet. Escape is not a panic

It is the specific disorientation of something that has devoted an effort. considerable building around an assumption that revealed itself incorrect. You still smile. The assumption remains wrong. A Disorientation has not been resolved. He's still running. Now confront that with the parts of your life where people said your lightness It was inappropriate. You've heard some versions of this! The suggestion that, in the face of what he had gone through, his joy was somehow Irresponsible, that more seriousness was needed than the weight of his circumstances should have produced a different kind of person, in instead of the one who still found things for which to smile, that the Lightness inside you was evidence of something not completely processed, not completely recognized, not taken enough Really. Reverse this completely: Lightness was not evidence that You had failed to take your pain seriously. It was evidence that something Inside you had processed the pain and refused to allow her It was the only thing left. And this refusal, this refusal of pain like the final and permanent grade, it wasn't evasion. It was the specific spiritual action who dissolved what had been built around him. No, no, no.
They said your smile was inappropriate because you were dealing with things the wrong way. They said your smile was inappropriate.
Because people couldn't understand how he was still there.
They couldn't explain the lightness. She didn't match what they knew. about what you've been through, and things that you haven't correspond to expectations are often pathologized.
They call it denial, they call it naivety, they call it not being Really dealing with that. What it really was, according to this reading spiritual, was exactly the quality for which nothing built for contain it had protocol. Let me show you five signs that dissolution has been visible in your life and has been for some time.

The first sign is that weight in specific areas of your life began to Get up without you working directly in these areas. A change did not come to face directly the limitation, came along with the change within you. The areas that seemed closed began to let go at the same time that your capacity for genuine joy It expanded. Correlation is no coincidence within this interpretation: a architecture loses its domain in specific places as the frequency that sustained it changes. The second sign is that you surprised people with their state of being in the face of what they They knew you were carrying it. The specific quality of surprise: not impressed, not admired, but genuinely confused. This one. confusion is the echo of what the being who built architecture You tried it. People who knew the weight of what you carried They couldn't explain the lightness. Their confusion was the reflection in Human level, a misreturned calculation. The third sign is that things that were meant to remain closed began to Open without the effort that should have been necessary to open them. No, no, no. all the doors, but specific doors, those that were walled on architecture around them began to show movement. Not because You found the right key or made the right effort, but because the wall around them began to lose coherence. The fourth sign is that yours joy has a quality of endurance, not hardness, resistance. She He survived things that should have extinguished him. You had reasons. to stop finding anything light. The motives were real and, still, the ability to find lightness persisted. This persistence It is the signature of genuine joy, rather than a staged optimism. A staged version is fragile. The real one, the one who knows the weight and, Still, choose the light, it's the toughest thing there is. The fifth sign is that there are people in your life who are attracted to quality specific of its lightness in a way that goes beyond the explanation that They can do it. They don't know why being around you makes certain things seem lighter. They attribute it to your personality, to his mood, to his human warmth. What they really are realizing, within the spiritual language of the text, is the frequency of a soul who refused to be defined by his more seasons dark. That frequency is real, and the people who carry their own weight feels it. Let me speak honestly now, with my own voice. You've been here long enough to hear it. I know that. that had been built around him. I know the specific type of architecture built around souls whose lightness represents a private threat. Darkness does not build elaborate structures to around common targets. The architecture they build reflects the size what they're trying to contain. What was built around you did not It was a casual construction. It was extensive, careful, built around of a very specific vulnerability: the reasonable assumption that What you'd been through would change the frequency at which I could operate realistically, that the accumulated weight would do the maintenance work the construction needed. And I want to tell you What happens on that side when a construction failure unexpectedly. Not a building that is fought, not a soul who found the right weapon and won a confrontation. These results are processed, there are answers to them. But a construction that is dissolves because the soul inside it has maintained a frequency for which that structure was not built, this result does not have a simple answer, because the only countermeasure would require changing what the soul really is. Not what she does, not the strategies that employs, but what she truly and genuinely is. And that's not Something that can be changed from the outside. The escape is not temporary. It's the continuous condition of something that saw a construction dissolve and yet found no structure capable of explaining why. One thing before to let you go: when a soul discovers that their genuine joy

It dissolved what had been built to contain it, the darkness find a new whisper. They'll say, if your smile broke any Why do you still have heavy days? If your lightness has dissolved the architecture, why does the weight sometimes return? You shouldn't feel Lighter all the time if what was broken really is Broken? When that whisper comes, and he will come, remember this:
 its ability to have heavy days is not evidence that construction It's evidence that you're completely human. The human beings who have dissolved curses through their joy They still feel everything. Feel the loss, feel the weight of things Real. The difference is not that they no longer have heavy moments, the difference is what happens to heavy things when they Enough. They don't stay. Don't settle in and turn into architecture. They cross a soul that has already shown that they do not will allow them to become the permanent note. Your heavy days aren't evidence that the smile didn't work is evidence that the smile was real, because only a soul that really feels the weight as well can truly find the light within the same life. Your joy
 It was never inappropriate. She was the most precise thing you've ever done.
 38 If the class of alles, a 'a' is spoken, it will be machined immediately. th loco to collect the largest qtd of PT scalp by October! To com 11 guaranteed already.
 39 Goat, Scapegoat. Do you know who Daniel 8's goat is? I AM the goat Daniel 8, I'm going to tear down all your buildings now your Sons of Bitch. Mine, scapegoat. For you, unicorn goat.
 40 If it's not God, it doesn't matter.

41 This one from now on, it's the same one he was with. He gave you his own crown.
 And when you didn't accept it, he said something about you that didn't stop to say since then. Let me build something with you first, because None of this makes sense until you know what a crown is down there.
 Hell is not a disorder, it is an order with posts, and the posts are Real. But a crown in that place is not what you imagine. It's not a I adorn and it's not a trophy, it's something that holds weight. A crown is the a record of every soul that bowed down before him that carries it. And no I'm talking about leaning the body, I'm talking about inner reverence, from that invisible moment in which a soul quietly accepts that What is before her is above her. That's the whole coin. It's the only thing they collect. Every act of domination that ever existed, Smaller to larger, there is to get this silent concession from a soul.
 And everything they build holds on to their accumulation. So, one crowned is exactly equal to the number of bows that Officer. Nothing else counts, no strength, no antiquity, no cruelty. And Here comes the part that hardly anyone knows and that matters today: a crown can't be taken away by those who carry it, he can't abandon it, no You can reject her, you can withdraw from her, you can't push her away for an hour. While keep those bows, the post sustains it. And the post comes with a obligation, which is to continue. He needs to keep collecting. A crowned man to start losing the job. And losing the job down there is not a It's a decommissioning. There is exactly one way to a crown come out: it can be delivered up to something that is above of the one who carries it, and for a gentleman of his level this has been a An exit that, for a very long time, did not exist. Because, in order below it, there is nothing above it, and above it, there is nothing to I would. So he's been carrying her nonstop for a period of time that his mind was not made to endure, obliged to continue

By pressing souls until they accept that they are smaller. Because, no

When he stops, the thing about his head begins to dismantle it. That's the being that went after you, and here's the center of Everything. He didn't come to torment you, understand that, because it changes what It happened. Torment is what little people do. He went to collect more a reverence, a common soul, in a common season of an ordinary life, as has already collected a quantity that cannot be writing. Don't lose that. No one remembers. That's not enough as one.
It comes as a feeling, and the feeling is that that is before you is simply bigger than you and no use Pretend otherwise. That's the pressure. It's not fear, it's obesity. He makes Obviously he's more, and the soul does the rest. He applied it to you with All the weight, and it didn't, not because you resisted, because you resisted It would mean you realized. You didn't notice. Simply There was nothing in you that could hold on to. He pressed the verdict and went looking for the place where a soul accepts, and in you this There is no place, there never was. Not when you were little, not in us.
years when they treated you like it was nothing, not once.
He tried again. That's what I mean, and again, and in some the point of this occurred to him something that had not occurred to him for ages, and was not defeat. It was that he had found his way out. Because a soul that doesn't give inner reverence to a crowned is, by the only measure that It exists down there, above it. Not spiritually, structurally. O post is made of reverences, he couldn't get his, and that puts You higher on that count. Which meant that for the first time in an unimaginable time, there was someone to whom he could Give her up. And he did it. Took the crown out of his head, something he didn't You can do it yourself and you can only do it by standing in front of someone above
He extended it to you, not in surrender. He's not capable of himself.
I was asking you to let him out. He had found the only soul in existence to which I could legally surrender it and wanted

Seeing her away from you, and offering you everything you've spent eons accumulating just to stop having to accumulate. Anyway... You didn't accept her. And I want to be careful here, because this is the part where you will be tempted to interpret as a loss. You didn't reject her out of wisdom, did you? I was being strategic and I wasn't being humble. You didn't accept her. For the same reason that the pressure never caught on: because there is nothing You want to be above anyone. That's all, that's all you are. The post in hell is built with the desire to have put it. Every crown there Underneath is carried by something you wanted one, and the only soul in existence. with enough post to receive his is the only soul without any interest in keeping anything about someone. He just stood there. with the crown extended. You went on with your day, there's none I remember that, and then he said what he's been saying ever since. I said, then I'll hold her for you. He put it back, keep going. carrying it and no longer carries it like yours, carries it as something that It belongs to someone who didn't want it, and every time she's named now, it's named with you attached to her. That's what comes next. He calls You, in the title of this message, of king, not as a compliment, of which you are unable, but as a file detail. The crown now owns, and the He doesn't own it. Now turn around and look at your life. Years supposing silently that you have no authority, that does not rule in Nothing. You saw people with your substance put in front of A room while you stood aside. They talked over you, They went through you, treated you like furniture in situations where You were the firmest thing in the place and, by the sheer consistency of it, He concluded that he simply does not possess what makes a person count. And underneath there's a second conclusion, heavier than you ever I said out loud: that you didn't even want that and that's yours defect, which lacks ambition, that everyone has a hunger with which You're not born, so you move on. It's totally the opposite.

What you've been calling lack of ambition is exactly the
That is why your post cannot be withdrawn. Every crown down there was granted by the reverences of others, which means that every crown Down there it can be lost, and everyone who carries it passes its existence defending it. Yours was never granted by anyone, No one gave it to you, no one can take it. He doesn't lack hunger.
You are the only soul who stood above a crowned precisely by Not having her. And he knew it the moment his weight didn't pick up and did to you an offer no one has ever been in a position to make. Five signs, and you can check them all for the last three years. The first:
They offered you a position and you felt weight instead of will, a promotion, a head office, being responsible for something. All They assumed you'd be happy and you had to pretend to be happy, Because what you really felt was something coming down on you. The second:
In spite of all this, yet authority always comes to you, you end up deciding things you never offered to decide, bring the You ask the question no one wants to answer and you answer, and never You understand why it's always you. Third, you can't flatter yourself.
Have you seen others do that little adulation that opens doors, laughs
In the face of the joke that wasn't funny, agree without agreeing, and you physically can't produce that. It's already cost you opportunities.
Real and yet you still don't make it. The room: people Dominant or pay attention to you or avoid you completely.
There's no middle ground. Either they can't leave you alone, or they do.
Like you're not in the environment, and you've been noticing this pattern for years without that theoretical certainty to explain it. The fifth:
You don't take pleasure in beating someone who's already fallen. Other Sit. You've been in a position to take down someone you deserved and the will simply did not appear, and then wondered if there was Something's wrong with you. And here it can be seen from the outside. Think of the People you've seen running after it, those who've positioned themselves, They took care of their own image, kept the spotlight for which You, in silence, served better. Project them forward in your mind.

There's nothing wrong with them, but notice how much of their life is spent sustaining what they conquered and ask themselves, with Sincerely, if what they have is authority or a work of defend authority. Let me talk to you in my own voice, Because you've been here long enough. I've been through a long period of My existence on the other side, I sat in the rooms and I want to give up the You're the part they least wish you had. Whole structure It works on borrowed post. Every crown down there was taken from someone, which means that everyone who carries it watches who is below, and the strategy meetings I participated in spoke less about souls that people imagine. Most of the time, they were about themselves. Your file is different, and it's different since that day. They can't open a case against you as they should, because a case requires establishing which post you have in relation to the one assigned to you, and the last entry in your file is the a statement from a crowned man saying the post is yours. Nobody down He might contradict her. No one above him will touch her. You passed years with virtually no file. Everything that's come against you since then came from things acting on their own, no case, no plan. One Argument is coming towards you, and I want to give it to you before that That's enough, because it'll be here, probably in a day. He will. say, if you are king, where is your kingdom? Look at your situation, look at your Your loneliness, look who doesn't answer to you. Nice story, and your life Real is proof against her. When that comes, remember that He was trying to get rid of it. He had the kingdom, he had eras of authority accumulated and every soul that bowed before him, and tried to deliver all to you so you can stop. What he wanted, standing before you, is the you already have: a position that does not need to be defended because

No one has granted it and no one can revoke it. You're not seeing the You're seeing what he was trying to buy.

Three things and I'll leave you. One, stop apologizing for no

Want to send it. You treated it like a missing piece all along.

His adult life; it is precisely the piece that sustains everything. The second:

When they give you authority, take the job and reject the debt.

You have a habit of accepting responsibilities and then acting as if I owed something to whoever gave them to. You shouldn't. All that arrives with a bow attached is granted, and the post may be withdrawn. The third: observe the moment. Next time

Once someone tries to make it obvious that it is above you, observe the that happens inside, not what you say. What happens by Down. You're gonna feel that doing what you've always done, that's nothing, and you're gonna be observing the mechanism that a crowned man could not overcome. This is the which comes next. He keeps carrying her and can't help carry it, and it's filed in your name. That's not a debt from Your share and you don't owe anyone anything. What that means is a lot simpler and much stranger: in a built structure entirely over who is above whom, there is an entrance permanent with your name in the highest position and no one ever

He got it out. And there's only one thing that can repeal it: if you accept a crown that someone gives you, not the job, the post. If someday accept to be placed above people in exchange for accepting Someone above you, if you take the job and do the reverence that comes with him, his post becomes granted, and what is granted is the only something that can be removed. He didn't come out of anything that day.

Holding her up and keeps calling you the way she calls you. No, no, no.

Give him back the one thing he couldn't get from you. Something who has been collecting the silent consent of souls since before

There are nations went after theirs in any week of their life and He did not find in you the place where this consent is delivered, Because in you this place never existed. So he took what he didn't can be taken away, extended it and discovered that the only soul in existence in a position to welcome him was the only one who didn't want him.
 Then I'll hold her for you. He's carrying her right now, filed under a name that is yours, and what you asked for Apologies all your life, the fact that you never wanted to be up from no one, it's exactly why they can never get her out of You.

42 Every gift you've ever heard someone describe works exactly to be given at birth because they are in the specification. But it exists a second category, which is not granted, and this is where you live.
 There are a small number of capacities that cannot be issued to no one under any circumstances. Not because they are dark; because of what they would turn into the hand of someone who received from present. Yours is the oldest entry on that list. I'll describe with Careful, because you've lived inside this whole life and never had a name for that and almost every time you've called something That's not very flattering. In your presence people stop defending themselves. No, no, no.
 Because you ask. You don't ask. Usually you're not doing it.
 Nothing, but something comes down on a person when she's near You, and the stuff she had decided to keep in store comes forward, and she talks, and half the time she hears herself talking and can't Explain why. In the record this state is called the disarm, and a soul that produces that just being there is filed as safe ground.
 That's what you are. It's a real classification and it's on the forbidden list.
 Now, why? Think what it would mean to give this to someone, a soul capable of making people lower their guard, which won the skill instead of becoming a tool she received

The most complete control there is: no force, access. All that one

The person who guards is what protects her, and who can get behind it.

Anytime. On purpose, he owns anyone he goes through with.

One afternoon. Then it's never granted. No version of the log in

That was issued to someone. She can only graduate, and only form in a soul that has spent decades proving, without audience and not knowing that I was establishing something, that she won't use what she gets.

Every time someone told you something and you didn't do anything with that, every time you had material about a person and never brought to the surface, not even an argument in which that would have won for you, each

Once you kept something for years and she never showed up. Nothing.

That was you being decent. That's how it looks from the outside. What was of Truth is a capacity riding alone within you at the pace one common occasion at a time. You totally dominated her and you didn't.

a single deliberate thing in this direction in life. Now let me Tell you what happened when it was completed, because this is the center of everything. You have an obvious problem in such a capacity.

to exist. All arrangement presupposes granted capacity. Grants specification, limit, condition and someone responsible. This is how Anything is supervised. Yours has no concession line, no

There's somewhere to hold a condition. She graduated into a lifetime human for decades, silent, in a person no one was

And when someone had a reason to look, it was already Ready. That's why the common movement of things stopped. I want to be exactly here, because you'll want to hear it as a surprise and it wasn't Surprise. Nothing about you was unknown. What happened is not that Something unexpected happened. What happened is something happened.

that required a decision and no such decision had been taken before and there was no previous instruction to apply. Emergency

That place doesn't mean alarm, which means the common movement is suspended because something needs to be resolved now and not in line. It was decreed upon you, and the whole question was simple:

Such capacity, complete, without attached concession, is either governed or It's not. They're the only two options and one of them had never been chosen.

in the history of nothing. The answer was four words, that no one

Teach. That was the statement, not a warning about you, an order of protection on top of you and the specific thing she protects is yours

Ignorance about what you're doing. Because the moment

Someone teaches you how it works, you start using it. And one

This capacity, used on purpose, is no longer the same capacity.

It becomes technical, and technique focused on what people keep is Exactly what that can never turn into. So nobody had permission to tell you. That's why you never had a teacher.

specific. Not even for that. And if you look at it honestly,

Not much. You set up everything you know on your own, out of order, without mentor and carries a particular little pain because of it all my life.

It wasn't abandonment, it was the statement holding up. Now turn around and look at

Your life. You've been believing for years that you're the person everyone else is.

dumps their b.o.s, that people bring the worst stuff from them because You're available and never say no, that you're everybody's support and

Nobody's first call, which you know inside a dozen of lives in detail and the people of these lives know nothing of

You. And underneath there's the second, heaviest, you probably Never said out loud, that it's your fault, that you have no limit, that you have become a deposit of vents and that tiredness that you feel after a common social contact is the account of a weakness that you never corrected. Turn it completely inside out. You don't You're exhausted by lack of limit. You're exhausted because you carry real material, absorbed in whole weight, in a soul that never received the armor that would come along with a capacity granted. Na You don't have that filter. That's what not issued means. All that one You're the one she left with. None mechanism that reduces and no one ever told you this because no one I had permission. You spent your adult life treating the cost of rarest ability that exists as proof of a character defect.

 Here's how it comes out: five things, and you check them all today. A First, strangers do that to you, not just friends you have.
 reasons, one person in line at the market, the app driver, Someone on your side at an event that neither of us wanted to go to. Person Opens the heaviest thing you carry, standing, without any introduction, for someone she'll never see again. Second, the sentence comes later.
 I never told anyone that. You've heard that phrase so many times Enough for her to stop looking montable, and she should look.
 Most people go decades without listening once. The third:
 Silence with you does not weigh. Other people need to fill it out. Close of you people stop acting in a few minutes and relax from a
 The way they think it's weird themselves, and you've seen it happen.
 So many times you think it's normal. Fourth, you're a bad talker.
 And it's not shy. Close to you the conversation jumps level whether you want it or not.
 You've tried to keep something on the surface and couldn't hold it.
 There. The fifth: common conviviality empties you in a way that those in back interprets as introversion. It's not the noise and it's not the people.
 You get out of there carrying stuff, you take it home and you're still carrying it.
 Some, and here you can see from the outside. Think of the people who learned that as a technique, who took a course, read some books, train a method of making people open up. Look what really happens.
 around them. People act deep, they talk that guy of something that sounds like confession and isn't, because something inside

They know the difference between someone who creates the condition and someone who You're applying a method to them. No one tells the real thing to These people. They tell you. Let me speak with my own voice.

 I spent a period of my existence on the other side of it, rooms and I want to give you the part they least want you to Had. Which explains something the shape of your life you never had explanation. Everything they hold about a person is a no Say it. That is the whole mechanism and it is much simpler than the People imagine. There is no lever over something that has already been said Out loud for another human being. Domain exists in the distance between What happened and what's already been said. Extend this distance and you can working a person for decades. ■ Close it and there's nothing left ■ work. You shut down all the time without a single deliberate act. All Once someone says the thing to you in a parking lot, standing up, unprepared, a domain that took years to be built leaves exist and you never knew what you did. You went home thinking you had A strange conversation. So there's no strategy against capacity, Because you have nothing to attack. What's left is to organize the only thing that reduces the number of these occasions: keeping you alone, keeping you Convinced that you're a burden, keeping you for sure that only you
 They look when they need something, for you to retire, stop To be in the places and the conversations don't happen. The loneliness that you Sorry there wasn't a consequence of your personality, it was the only one countermeasure available. At some point it's going to reverse, too.
 43 As a matter of curiosity.
 44 I'm not a threat. I'm an answer.
 45 And if anyone will harm them, fire will come out of their mouth and devour their enemies; and if anyone wants to harm them, it is important that they do so.

349

be killed.

46 Did you know that David was the eighth brother?! Yes, eighth!

47 Jealousy is a tribute paid by the weak.

48 Bass player doesn't use pick. It's lazy.

49 Red is the lowest vibration color, and black the vibration color Higher. That's still physics.

50 Smart people notice the time you took to answer a question through her complexity. Reply fast is almost always the opposite of wisdom.

51 Your mythochondria knows when you're standing, you soft ass. Ta Taking it easy on yourself, huh? Your little alley, 52 It's AI, everything.

53 While the priests were concerned about the garments ceremonial, the latter surpassed the first.

54 Relax, you're no different, 95% of people embrace hell familiar because the unknown is scary. kkkkkk Hug the same God damn it, Dad, and they spend their lives telling us leverage. I'm not talking about Someone specific, huh? I'm talking about everybody. But it's a grenade.
It hits the whole herd, we can see the currents, the Most grow and die in the same place with the same beliefs surrounded by the same people. I believe they need to pay penance. O paraiso unknown, so for this remains, because the family hell always presents more options and much more accessible.

55 This prophet wept too much, complained so much that none
You noticed the treasure you had in your hands! I should've blown it.
But he kept dragging himself.

56 I'm listening to these guys a lot. Awesome what they do with two stratos with single caps. Kkkkk They obtained virtuosity from less likely environment. Stouro. Organized, good to hear.

57 There is a wall, which allows a person to fight against almost everything without the proper answer. Almost no one can go on against the total lack of response. In the record, it's called Deconstruction is not punishment and is not sent to anyone. It happens.

When a life goes beyond what a certain self, built to load. It's a structural event that every human being Face it sooner or later, and the same way a bridge has a weight for which it was made, so almost everyone survives this event I don't understand. This is important. The survival rate is practically Total after this event. They just don't get out of there like themselves.
Here's what happens to almost everyone when the construction takes place undoes: the person has to keep working because life does not pause.
So something needs to go into the space where I was and what enters, in the overwhelming majority of cases, is a wall. It's built fast with the only material available at that moment, which is the conclusion to which the person reaches deep: "never again", "not that I'm not gonna get caught like this a second time. And it works. That's what No one tells you. It works extremely well. The person becomes efficient, controlled, hard to move, hard to hurt. She stops committing the

The mistake that broke her. Often she is more successful after the
 That was before. In the record, this result has a name: they call the Sealed. And there are hundreds of millions of them and they're all walking by there now being described by those who know them as strong people. Seal It's the standard result. That's what deconstruction produces. And after that You know what to look for, you see it in people. And you come Seeing his whole life without having a word for it. It's those perfectly pleasant and completely unreachable. You're coming.
 Seeing his whole life without having a word for it. It's those who agree with everything and reveal nothing, who have an answer ready for any questions about themselves and the answer concludes the Ask instead of open. You can be close to someone like that by years and realize one day you have a huge amount of That person's information and nothing about it. Look at the little things around these people. A seal cannot be reached by anything small. Not for a song, not for the kindness of a stranger, no for a phrase in a movie. Big thing still goes through sometimes, by Not long. The little ones stopped working and he'll tell you he It's just not much of a thrill. You know at least two. It's possible that one of them raised you. And if one of them raised you, then you you also know the other half of it, which is the one you can love.
 Sealed completely and never once reach him. You can get through.
 Thirty years looking for a new angle. You can get extremely good.
 to read an environment just because of that person. And the wall doesn't Move and it's not personal. And it was built before you arrived, on a Season about which you know nothing, by someone who was in ground somewhere and reached the only conclusion that was available.
 Now the part about you. You went through that, the whole thing. That one.
 version of you broke up exactly the way you undo it for everybody and

You were down there the whole time and there was nothing soft about the way

That was and you didn't seal it. I want you to understand how much this is Out of the normal result, because you've spent the years since assuming that what happened to you was standard and that everyone You carry something like that. No, they don't carry something like that. They They carry a wall. You've returned from below yet to be reached And it's the weirdest thing in your entire file. You still cry with That's not sad. You still lose an hour in a song. You is still affected by a stranger being kind to you at a counter of a way that makes you slightly dull. Someone's son speaks a And that thing stays with you all week. You are, by any means measure available, less protected than before that happened.
That's not the way a person should be on the other side of the Deconstruction. So the question is why and the answer is why our conversation today. Deconstruction dismantles the construction and then Go look for what's underneath. And what she finds underneath, in Most people, it's nothing. Because construction was the whole thing. She was made of what worked and when what worked stopped working, the whole structure was the element that sustained and it was gone.
This empty space is what is filled with the wall and it has to be filled with something immediately or the person cannot Stand up. Yours was different and I'll say it carefully. You Never built a self made of the things that worked, because Your life at first didn't give you enough of them. I'm not going to you Tell me more about your childhood and I'm not pointing to a situation specific. What I'm telling you is that one person only builds this kind of me when the world regularly confirms who she should be. And yours didn't do it regularly. So you developed into on top of something else, a layer that was already there before anything. to be built, that you didn't put there, that never depended on being confirmed by no one. And there is a strange consolation in that Most people take years to reach and I'd rather give you up now.

What you carry as the great disadvantage of your life, that You didn't have the confirmation that the others had, that you had to find out who you were without much help, that none of your first years gave you a clean ID to stay on top, it's exactly the why the worst structural event that happens with a being Human couldn't take you apart and finish. They didn't give you a me that It could be dismantled, they gave you something else and when deconstruction dismantled the construction, it arrived in that layer and it did not He managed to do nothing with it, because deconstruction is very precise about what she takes apart. She dismantles what was assembled. That's all it is.
She's capable of doing it and whatever's underneath you has never been Mounted. So there was nothing to take away and no empty space opened up and You never needed a wall, because the ground didn't fall. It was expected that you crossed, not twisted. Waited. The way an engineer Wait for a specific structure to hold. Because the only part of you that the test reaches is the part that was built and the part of you in that everything else is supported never was. In the record, those who return without sealing They're called the rebuilt ones. Not many. All that you
You think it's weird in yourself since that season you've been back to it. Leave it.
I'll tell you the part where I walked into those rooms. Deconstruction It was never the point. That's what people make the most mistakes. None of the
The other side causes it and nobody needs it. It's not a gun and you can't do it.
aim. It happens to everyone at some point, with saint and with Monster. And it doesn't matter to them at all. What matters to them is The 12 seconds in the background. Because sealing is a decision. But no Looks like one. Comes disguised as clarity when the person It's on the floor and something inside it says the phrase that looks the only Wise conclusion available: "never again", "never like that", "from here"

Nothing comes in the front." That phrase is the whole prize. That's what the

The whole thing will do. On their side, a sealed soul is not damaged. She It's worse than damaged. By any criterion that matters what One person fits, she's closed. It works. She makes money.
She's raising kids. She's nice at parties and she can't be moved anymore for nothing small. Which means she can't be reached anymore.
by the specific instrument, through which almost all the real things Enough. They don't want you broken, broken recovers. They'll get you They want it closed because closed is permanently safe. And you It was on the floor with everyone and the phrase was available to you. And She's available to everyone and for reasons you don't know You didn't. There's an argument in yours.
And I want you to hold him before he gets here. Because he arrives, Soon. He'll say, yes, you have. Look at you. You are.
colder than it was. You don't trust the way you did. You keep them People away now and you know it, so this whole story is A beautiful version of someone who's sealed and can't admit it. When That comes in, does a check, asks what was the last time a little thing caught you, not a crisis, something that didn't it mattered, a song, a memory, a prayer, an animal, a Strange, a phrase in something you were seeing in half. If You find one in the last month, you're not sealed. Because it is exactly and precisely what stops working when a You are. Being careful is not the same as being closed. You You're careful now and you must be. Careful is a door with a Lock it. Sealed is no door. Three things and then I'll let you go. A One, stop apologizing for how much stuff is still going through you.
You've spent years slightly ashamed of it. Did you ever hide that had been affected. You've already waited to be alone to get the reaction. And all Once you did this, you were treating the rarest result of the thing.

more difficult that happens to a human being, as if it were a weakness you couldn't fix. The second: care

With whom you take advice on this. The people around you who went through their own version and sealed it, will advise you on time all and the board will always point in the same direction, because it is the Only direction they know. "Keep more," "stop opening"

You're too good, you don't trust anyone.

Some people really talk. They're describing the wall behind which they stand and sincerely believe that that is the Same thing as being strong. The third: the sealed can once in when it's reached and you're one of the very few capable people

To do that. Not talking about it, never naming it,

Because it thickens the wall. It happens by proximity, along of time, in small and ordinary moments when someone who is not achieved 20 years ago is briefly achieved by something because

You were in the environment and you didn't have your own wall up. You You've done it without knowing. That's most of what people mean.

When they say there's something about you. Here's what's coming. Come Another one. Not as a threat and not soon in a way that I could date. Deconstruction is not a unique event in a lifetime. She comes whenever a life goes beyond what the current version of One person was built. Which means she comes for all world more than once. And the following are usually quieter and Bigger. And there's one thing that can change the outcome this time. If you Seal on purpose. The first time you were on the floor and the phrase was available and you didn't take it. And you didn't take it because you didn't know she was

It was there. Now you know. Which means next time she won't It'll come as a whisper in the background. It will come as a reasonable idea, in a calm moment with attached evidence, a list of all that will be Achievable, since it cost. And everything on that list is gonna be true. And the People will support you on this. That's the part I want you for.

Ready. If you close, people around will say they are Proud of you. They'll say you finally learned. They'll say With love. Have you survived the version of this that nobody chooses? No, no, no.
 pick her later, in a quiet week, following the advice of people who's describing a wall. One more thing and I'll stop. that version yours that no longer exists. You mourned that silent person for years.
 Have you ever thought about who you would have been if that season hadn't been?
 happened? And you consider that person the real you and everything then as some kind of continuation. It wasn't a person who was Leave. It was a construction made of the things that worked, in a period of his life where things still worked. She broke up.
 Because it was made of material that would always fail at some point.
 And everyone else's fails. And almost every living human being is walking by There inside the emergency version he built later. You're not the continuation of someone who died. You're the first version of yourself Even if it wasn't mounted with evidence. That's why nothing in yours Life has since fallen into the shape it was meant to fit. You You've been working with a self that doesn't need to be confirmed by anything for Stay on your feet. And there's no map to that. And nobody around you There's one, too. The test doesn't kill people. He makes them decide once deep down that nothing will ever come in. You It was on that floor and it didn't decide. And all the music that still gets you, all the Kindness of stranger who falls deeper than he should, everything Little girl who catches up to you and makes you slightly dull. All this is the noise from a door that was never walled in a person who had all the motives and every opportunity to wall and not wall.
 58 Here, where the sky almost took its name off the list, there was a phase in That you've had enough to stop waiting. You weren't. in peace. I was tired. There's a difference. You didn't want another lesson.

Another proof. Another explanation of God's time. I was tired of Turn pain into wisdom. Tired of rebuilding. Tired of listening That something difficult was preparing you for something else. For the first Once, you just wanted something good to be just good. And when that didn't happen either, something inside you said: enough. The sky saw Your light's going down. Your prayers got shorter. Your expectations Also. You stopped asking for signs. One of the angels recommended to withdraw Your name. Hope was the central requirement, and yours seemed to be dying. God refused. I said, you're measuring the wrong thing. Then They looked again. You'd stopped waiting, but still Living like tomorrow matters. You stood up. It was over. things no one would have blamed you for abandoning. Helped countless times even though it's empty. I made plans, I created them. I was trying Again. Nothing dramatic. I just kept going. It was then that Heaven found something beneath hope. You didn't have to feel it anymore.
hope to act like life still has value. That changed everything.
Because feelings can fall. The mood may fall. Expectations
They might break. But what you choose after a disappointment It's a lot harder to start. Your hope is no longer a emotion. It became behavior. Registration changed: candidate, then Confirmed. Still, the door was still closed. One last one was missing. requirement: another disappointment. No one told you. The last proof
It would only work if it seemed like a bad day. Something that you
I really wanted to go wrong. Not enough to destroy You. Just enough to reveal if your new hope is still depended on being rewarded. Then it happened. Can not open message It's here. The person didn't choose you. The opportunity went to another Place. The result wasn't what you expected. Whatever. You He felt the old reaction. Of course, for a moment, all disappointments previous ones seemed to gather behind that one. You made a single event to interpret your whole future. See? Nothing's changed. Why?

Do I keep trying? Maybe my life just works that way. A Heaven's door unlocked. An angel reached out. God stopped him:
Not yet. They watched you. First came anger. Then the sadness.
Then the silence. No one intervened. The question was simple: what Would you do it after it hurts? A few hours have passed. So you He did something completely normal. You prepared your day, made something to eat, answered his questions at work, lengthened his visitors Back from work, went out for a while, took care of everything that depended on
You. The action didn't matter. It imported the phrase under it: mine Life goes on. The door opened. Not because you pretended not to feel anything.
You cared. Not because I knew something better was coming.
Or because someone promised to make it up to you. You didn't know.
You continued without demanding that life prove immediately that To continue was worth it. That was the last requirement. His name lit up Everything. Classification changed: not candidate, not confirmed, hope final. The angel looked at God. Why save this person for the end?
Why not activate it first? And God answered with the part that no one I understood. The last light could never be someone who didn't know the darkness. The world wouldn't believe a hope born of an easy life. Whoever was suffering wouldn't recognize himself on it. The final light needed to know the darkness or could never Enter dark places without fear of them. That's why you were saved for The end. Not because suffering makes someone special automatically. Pain
It can destroy as easily as it can develop. You It was saved because what heaven needed could only be confirmed after you had enough reasons to choose the Otherwise. Your kindness means something else now because you know the manipulation. Your trust, because you know betrayal. Your peace, because

You know the chaos. Your hope, because you saw things fail. That's it.

It's not innocence. It's kind of knowledge. And that's what the darkness It's hard to understand. Darkness understands innocence.
You know how to corrupt it. You understand bitterness. You know how to feed her.
But someone who has seen enough to become bitter and yet, decides to become more lucid creates a problem: that humans They lie. You already know. That some people will never ask for forgiveness. That.
Also. That life can be unfair. You know. That you could lose that that you love. Yeah. And yet you're still here. Hence the hope has become dangerous within you: no longer depends on ignorance. But being the final hope of heaven doesn't mean you have that save everyone. Be careful with that. It's been a while.
Too confusing purpose with carrying people. Not the last light.
It makes you a savior. A light doesn't run through a room forcing everyone to look at her. She stays. Your responsibility It's not convincing every cynic that goodness exists. It is to prevent the cynicism recruit you. It's not fixing all the wounded. It's to stop your Wounds turn into weapons. It's not carrying the world. Is to load Your part without adding more darkness. That looks small. It's not.
Think of how darkness travels: someone gets humiliated, comes home angry and dumps it on the one who loves him. This person takes pain to Another place. One wound turns into three. The pain has found people available to continue traveling. Now imagine that one of them Stop it. He feels the anger, but refuses to give it to the next person. The chain ends there. That's the last light in real life. Not a supernatural spectacle. Transmission aborted. And you already have. more times than you know: someone gave you insecurity, you He refused to give it to someone else; someone punished you with silence, You learned to communicate; someone betrayed your trust, you became made more attentive without condemning every new person. Every time that Something ends with you. That's the hope in your Stronger way: do not believe that darkness does not exist. Refuse become your delivery system. So the sky had never recorded that result. Not because no one else has suffered or continued being good. The protocol had never found this combination with that depth. You lost your innocence without losing your incantation.

He developed limits without losing his compassion. Learned about darkness without obsessing over it. He was disappointed without turning the disappointment in identity. Not because you're the last person that It matters. But because hope has reached its last form within You. First, hope was expectation. Then the expectation is It's broken. Hope has become faith. Faith has been challenged. Hope if It's become resistance. Resisting has become exhausting and, finally, hope became a choice. Nothing needed to happen outside so that You could practice it. That was the way the sky was waiting.
Now you need to understand what happens after the protocol if Open up. Maybe tomorrow nothing dramatic will happen. Don't turn this one history in another demand for immediate reward. That would take you from Go back to the beginning. Change is quieter. You stop waiting Let your life begin when something finally works. Use what's already here. Stop treating peace as a prize at the end of chaos and goes on to practice it while some things continue without Answer. Stop waiting to be completely healed to build.
Some parts heal because you started building. That means be saved for the end. Your final version is not the most powerful. Yeah.
The one that least depends on perfect conditions. You may lose one Plan without getting lost. Losing someone without losing their ability to love.
Lose certainty without losing direction. Losing a battle without declaring Your future is closed. That makes you hard to erase. The heavens don't They need their light at most every day. To the strongest light

It needs fuel. Remember why the door opened. You

I was disappointed. Your light looked weak and yet you It went on. That's the secret. Heaven's strongest hope didn't seem trust. It seemed like someone having a bad day and refusing Turn that bad day into a philosophy of life. Remember this:
a bad day is an experience. Not a worldview. A betrayal is an event. Not a definition of humanity or even a person. A failure is information. Not prophecy. A closed door is Just one door. Maybe that's another reason why God kept it best for last. The best wasn't his version intact. It was his version.
integrated. The one who knows both sides. The person capable of saying:
Yes, I know what darkness is like and, no, she won't decide how I'm gonna look after her. That's your authority: not to control the world, but authorship about what continues through you. Now come back That door. It had never been opened. Generations have passed. Names were considered. Some were too innocent. Others stayed Too injured. Some had strength without softness. Others had passion without limits. Then your name came up. Not first. In the end.
You weren't protected from the things that could have eliminated your name.
You found them. Some almost changed you. Others really They changed you for a while. So you changed again. And Finally came the last disappointment. Heaven waited. It hurt you.
You questioned. He was silent. Then he got up and went on living. The door opened itself. Your name lit up the room. Hope final. And God finally said, "Let the last light go." Not in heaven. Na That person's own life. That's where it starts. ■ The next person you ■ Refuse to punish for the crime of someone from the past. Next limit that you keep without hate. The next thing you can build without knowing If anyone will applaud. The next time you feel pain and decide that it ends in you. That's protocol. That's the light. And that's why

It was worth saving you for the end.

59 Note, when the money, is an arrowless bow. Visible; 60 You could just keep going back to the part where you look. That part doesn't.
It was evil. I was tired of absorbing the impact. You imagined
What it would be like to finally make her understand reality. The angels waited Retaliation, not because you were cruel, but because the proof was made retaliation justifiable. And that mattered. It's easy to reject one ugly attitude while she still looks ugly. Real measurement begins When wrong starts to seem fair. You stood before the possibility and something inside you asked: No, I can do it.
This? Would you? Nope. Does that person deserve it? Maybe he deserved it. A Question was: Who do I become if I do? That question changed yours Score. You came out of there with a power you could have used and not Yeah. The record marked that, not as weakness, as strength under Control. Then came the test of absence. That hurt more. Who It mattered to you to stop providing security. The person walked away. That project just stood still. That door you were waiting for didn't open. You He received silence, enough to create his own explanation. And the mind He hates empty space. Then he started writing: They don't care. You He's left behind. You missed your chance. God has forgotten you. You're losing time. The angels weren't measuring if those thoughts They would. Thoughts come up. They mediate which one you
He would obey. Then the evidence became personal. Somebody got you wrong.
Not a stranger. Someone whose opinion really mattered. And you don't You got a perfect way to fix that. He once explained, Maybe two. Still, the version that one wanted to believe She's still alive. And that was also part of the test. Because there is one addiction that hardly anyone calls addiction: the need to control who you are inside someone else's head. It's been years.

Feeding it. One more explanation. One more conversation. One more.
trying to make someone finally see their intention. The question
It was simple: you can still be you while someone else Still wrong about you? It's a lot harder than it looks. During A while you couldn't repeat conversations in your head. imagined the Perfect phrase that would finally make that person understand. Until one day you got tired of defending yourself in a court that only existed within yours lie. and let the person get it wrong. Not because the truth has left to matter, but because you realize that the truth doesn't need to unanimity to remain true. The record's changed again. It was there. that the angels began to comment more on his case. Lots of people It went through parts of the test. Hardly anyone passed her the same.
Cool. Some resisted revenge, but needed recognition.
Others could stand in silence, but not be misunderstood. You It wasn't perfect either. Sometimes he reacted, got tired, got lost. But there was a pattern underneath everything: you came back. The error didn't change in your identity. You could lose your balance without deciding that Fall was who you were. That was worth more than perfection. The proof does not I was looking for someone who never slipped. I was looking for someone capable of to realize that you left the right direction and came back without needing applause, Punishment or a grand restart ceremony. The final stage had a only instruction: give the person something he wants very much. Then take it off. No, no, no. forever. Just long enough to reveal in that present had become within it. That's why there was a When something finally started working. Money's better.
Real people have arrived. Your trust is back. The expected movement. You breathed differently. You finally thought about it. Then Something's changed. Not necessarily a tragedy. Only instability enough for you to realize you could lose that.

That possibility was proof. For a few days the result seemed Bad. You panicked. He tried to control it. He loved the old one again.

He started imagining the worst. The angels prepared to close with a normal result. Incomplete. One more cycle. More prep.
Then it happened what no one expected. Nothing outside.
It's changed. The situation was uncertain. But you stopped. Did you realize what It was happening inside you. You didn't understand the evidence. Not yet.
I knew about her. He only realized that he had given something external permission to decide who you could be that day. And silently you took That permission back. Maybe you said to yourself something like this: If Stay, I appreciate it. If you leave, I'm still me. That phrase It's over. No thunder. Without anyone showing up. You maybe Don't even remember the exact moment. But the record does. The last step changed from pending to completed. And next to your name One word came up: approved. That should have been the end. It wasn't. O official result opened a review. Every finished test passed through an analysis before the final classification. Because results without context available. And when it opened, it announced, there was something that didn't fit.
You had broken one of the oldest standards of that evidence. Almost Everyone who came to the end realized at some point that I was being evaluated. The person began to change repetitions. I was looking signs. He adjusted his behavior. Some even became better by to believe that heaven was watching. That was still growth. But introduced a variable: performance. On your record, she wouldn't show up.
You hadn't acted like someone trying to get through. I had acted like someone trying to keep looking at themselves after Every choice. That's why they said they never saw anyone like You. The difference was in motive. Some of the best decisions happened when you were sure you wouldn't get anything for They. Some happened while you were angry with God. O

He was responsible for the review. Then another one. Then he asked:

When did he realize he was being tested? The answer came: He didn't.
 You got it. Quiet. Then: When did you realize there was a reward?
 You don't get it. When did you realize that the last stage had begun?
 Neither do I. That's when your rating changed. Normal result for someone approved was qualified. Yours has been changed up government. This part I want you to understand: a person who needs external correction all the time can't carry much freedom without turning freedom into a problem. Because freedom expands what already governs it inside. If applause rules you, more influence makes it more dangerous. If fear rules you, more responsibility expands fear. If revenge rules you, more power Give her tools. But when someone begins to rule himself when you can have power without using it through silence without invent orders to be misunderstood without abandoning the truth to receive something good without turning it into an idol. So freedom stops to be so dangerous. That's what you went through. No pain. No suffering.
 Self-government. So your next phase may seem different from previous. Evidence creates friction of purpose freedom usually seems irresponsibility. Maybe you'll notice less dramatic warnings, less situations where life forces you to take direction. More decisions Open. At first this may seem like a distance from God. Be careful. with that interpretation. Sometimes the orientation gets quieter because You've learned enough to decide the next step. A good one.
 Professor does not blow the answer throughout the test. A father does not hold the bike for son forever. There comes a time when help changes in shape. Maybe you'll get less signals. Not because it was abandoned.
 But because some decisions are coming back to your hands. What are you Want some? What do you really believe? Who do you want to be when you're not even afraid They're not even choosing approval for you? These questions seem to be pressure. It's actually freedom. And here comes another danger. Some People pass the test and create a new prison. They get obsessed to keep the image of who passed. Don't do this. Is there something in yours?

 official result that was not counted immediately. A short observation, No title, no big promise. just one instruction: Don't tell me yet.
 It may seem strange, why hide from someone who's been approved?
 Because recognition creates temptation. The moment you know passed, a part of the ego tries to turn the result into status. It is.
 See? I was right. I'm different. They were wrong about Me. And that would lower the value of everything. Then the result remained hidden long enough to observe one last thing: what Would you do it when the pressure went down without knowing why? Search Another war! Would it create conflict because conflict had become familiar?!
 It would take an enemy to know who it was..! This is no other proof, It was a precaution. And something beautiful happened. You've come back to wish simple things: peace, meaningful work, people who don't need it to be deciphered, a love that doesn't have to hurt to look like Important. You started to lose interest in proving how much He can handle it. That's when the result can finally be released. because now you could hear: You passed. Taking over liability without needing any reward.

61 Some moments I don't like the way he talks, but the truth doesn't It requires many molds saw. Just so you don't hurt innocents, that's all.
 Important. Vital actually.

62 To angels who dared to talk to Michael, G A Mentos>.) Already They chipped once now so screwed up in my hand. They're going to ask you stones roll over you. There won't be a table for you anymore, just jail.

367

63 Your body uses an anti-fragile structure to survive or expand, it regenerates from microinjuries attenuated by repeated effort assist. In other words. Either you get hurt because you want to, or it will be.

I didn't mean to. Your paradox.)

64 The mystery of the twelve souls in my glass pots!

[No extractable text was found on this source page.]

Chapter 9

Some doors close to make a future impossible.

1 We're in the sixth phase, but we're missing the fourth.

Two in parallel. Tension and awareness.

2 I can't forget that anymore. The Japanese is more enchanted with punctuality than English. Tattoo that tape!

3 Funny, the Apocalypse at the summit and guess which people Lost? The evangelicals.

4 The correct word is not 'disobedient' to God. But he needed 'if prove' that it was God himself speaking. Notice that he is LANCED to sea, then it is thrown back to Earth.

5 That was the moment you saw, so regular, that your the future could be predicted by looking at its past, and at that point, a phrase was written in the Book, about the moment that this current I would finally get to you. The prophecy did not call him chosen, no He said you'd be powerful, nor promised you'd defeat any That's it. He said something much more difficult: when the wound came to you With all your strength, I would finally understand why everyone who came before they decided to pass it on, and then you would pass it on too. This one.
That was the phrase. Not because you were bad, but because when the pain I'd carry much more than the weight of yours.
history itself; you would have a reason, a very good reason. Someone would do something to you that would turn revenge into something no longer

It would seem cruel, it would seem justice. And that difference matters. It's easy.

Reject cruelty when she hasn't given you an argument convincing. The real proof begins when she gives. And yours

Time has come. I don't have to tell you what it was. You know the category:

trusted someone, loved someone, gave access to a part of himself that

You never had the right to treat it that way, and she did.

You lied looking into your eyes. It disappeared just when you

I needed to receive a small part of everything that has gone on for years offering. He took that info you told him about and then used it against him.

You. It made you feel ridiculous for trusting. The details are yours,

But then something happened. Something inside you changed from temperature. You didn't ask why anymore. I had already understood the enough and, for the first time, managed to see how easy it would be if

Make it colder. That was exactly the moment described by the old prophecy, because suddenly you had access to the same logic that there was carried that wound for generations. Next time, do it

First. Trust me less. Give me less. Don't let anyone

Get back so close. If anyone comes into your life, make sure That person needs you more than you need her. Keep Always a prepared exit. Don't forgive what you still get Remember. Don't give the same person a gun twice. None of these ideas seemed evil; that was the danger. They looked smart.

They seemed deserved. It seemed like experience, maturity, lessons that life

I had finally forced you to learn. And according to that old one phrase, you'd accept them. Not at once. Nobody changes like that. First You'd become a little colder and call it maturity.

Then a little less available and I'd call it boundaries. Later

I'd be a little more willing to hurt him before they could hurt him.

I'd call it discernment, until one day the wound would no longer appear a wound, it would look like your personality, and you would end up giving it to someone who never met the person who originally gave her to You. The current would go on. It had always happened like this, until it arrived to you. There was a specific night after that wound. Nothing. supernatural appeared. No angel entered your room. No voice Yeah. No one congratulated him. You were simply alone in front An opportunity. I had information I could use, a message you could send, a secret you could reveal, a person who could finally make pay. Your opportunity was very Quieter. You could decide that no one would ever go back to to receive the sensitive part of you, and no one would have blamed you. It matters.

Because the sky wasn't watching a person choose between good It is evident and the evil evident. I was watching a wounded person decide between becoming someone perfectly understandable or continuing to be herself. You stood there, and the old phrase came to your last word.
The prophecy was about to turn into history. So you did Something tiny. It stopped. He'd lowered his phone. Maybe he erased it.
Something. You just cried instead of calling. You abandoned a conversation that I could have won if I agreed to become cruel. I just said to This ends with me. And the paint moved. The guardian of that prophecy I've never seen anything like it. Understand why that was so weird.
A prophecy can be fulfilled, a warning can be heard, a conditional word may produce regret, but that page It was ancient precisely because no one had ever interrupted the pattern she described. The writing did not disappear because the prophecy You were wrong; you disappeared because you came to exactly the the moment that she described and answered in a way that there was never It was written. The original sentence ended with the wound crossing you and Moving on. Not the new one. First they changed a few words, Then the last sentence began to rise from the page. The Keeper

He reached out. His job was to conserve. Old things weren't modified for no reason. He thought something strange had entered the Registration. Then came the new phrase. It was shorter. No prediction, no grand title, no promise of reward, only one fact: the wound You came to him and you didn't go any further. That was your version. Here's the story Change. God did not celebrate because you had shown that Prophecy was wrong. The prophecy had perfectly fulfilled its function. It showed what a pattern produces when no one produced it.

Stop. It was a map of inertia, and inertia is powerful, but inertia.
He has no sovereignty. There's something people usually confuse when they speak of prophecies, patterns, curses, families, wounds, stories and even personality. Something might explain where you're going.
You're probably walking without authority to decide where You'll finish. The old phrase knew the wound, knew what it was. produced before, knew what used to become those who They carried it, I could read the story. The one thing she couldn't to do was to choose for you. That still belonged to him. So when the Guardian tried to restore the original ending, God stopped him. The instruction was simple: keep both. Not because they both kept being True. One showed what was inherited; the other, what was Chosen. The old version was under the new one. Hasn't been erased Hidden, because the sky didn't have to pretend that your story always It had been beautiful. It wasn't. Something came to you that should never have That's it. Something cost him years. Something changed his way of sleeping, from To trust, to understand the danger. There were consequences. God didn't call A blessing wound only because you survived. The first version remained because the price had been real, but his phrase was written by Up, because the price didn't get the last word. That difference is the center of all this. You spent a lot of time wondering why certain things had to happen to you, and maybe some never get an answer that will satisfy you. But there's another question, much more important: what happened after what happened with you? That's when his authorship began. You didn't pick the first one.

phrase. It was born inside parts of it. Other people wrote words about you before it was big enough to understand them: fear, silence, abandonment, anger, need to prove its value, impulse of disappear when need help, custom of waiting for a disappointment so that disappointment can never surprise him. You inherited it. vocabulary, but vocabulary does not mean final. And you proved it. For That there were strange moments in his life when they seemed to exist. two versions of you at the same time. One made perfect sense; the other was Harder. Someone lacked respect for you and a version knew Exactly how to destroy it. The other one was leaving. Someone was cheating on you and one version wanted to make the next person pay for the damage caused by previous. The other recognized what was happening and stopped. Someone It made you feel small and a version wanted power so no one I would never do that again. The other one wanted enough power to Make sure you never turn into someone who can do that.
with someone else. It seemed internal conflict, always seems, were Corrections. You were looking at old words and deciding if they They'd be in the next draft. That's how you feel to rewrite a story inside. It almost never seems epic. Usually it's uncomfortable, because the standards are efficient. A pattern already knows the What to do. He practiced. You have proof. You have arguments prepared. A Freedom is slower. The freedom to ask: to be justified and Are doing the right thing really the same thing? And this little one pause saved parts of you who probably don't even know that They survived. But there was something else that the ancient prophecy didn't say. Yours review didn't end on you. Think of the people who came to yours life after what hurt him the most. Some received a version of you who had no reason to wait. Someone came in scared

And you recognized this person's fear instead of taking advantage of him.
Someone made a mistake around you and you corrected it without doing it if Feel useless. Someone told you something that I was ashamed of and you You protected that. Someone expected you to abandon him and you remained long enough to teach that a conflict not always It means abandonment. Someone asked for forgiveness and found that taking over responsibility before you did not mean being humiliated.
You probably never called any of these things prophecy.
I was just trying to be a decent person. But that's how it is.
Old times really end. Not with thunder, but when someone You get something different from what you got. I want that Keep an image. Imagine a man receiving a glass full of bitter water. Your father drank from her, your grandfather too, and everyone heard the Same instruction: you're thirsty. That's what there is. Drink. Later Give the cup to your son. Until one day the cup reaches a man who feels exactly the same thirst as all the previous ones. He's...
Get up, smell what's inside and for the first time, someone does a question no one had thought to ask: why do I need Get this to the next person? He doesn't pretend the glass is empty.
You don't call sweet what's bitter. Just pour the content on the earth. The earth absorbs him, his hands tremble and he Still thirsty. That's the part that many stories omit. Romper a pattern does not mean receiving immediately what you should to have received in his place. Sometimes you're the first person who ever refuses to drink bitter water and still needs to learn where Find clean water. That might seem deeply unfair. You interrupts the pattern and discovers that it still carries the consequences of to have received it. Forgive me and still have trouble trusting. Resigns Revenge and, in a few days, still wakes up angry. Decide not to repeat your family and still listen to their voices within your own reactions. It comes out of a destructive relationship and still misses it. that person. Choose different and then wonder why choose different didn't make you feel different right away. Listen with Attention. The prophecy changed at the time of your choice. Your system nervous doesn't change the speed of the paint. Your habits don't go away because your direction has changed. Keep healing does not show that You chose wrong. Healing is just what can happen now Because you chose another direction. The glass is already on the floor. Now it is.

I need to learn where the water is. And that's why God kept his version instead of turning the whole page into a clean story and triumphant. The scar on the record mattered. Someday, someone will need to know that the new phrase was written about an old one. Your story doesn't have force because you never carried darkness. Has strength because, some day, someone can look at you and understand that a person can Carry darkness without handing it over to the next. There's a difference. You You're not here to turn into someone who's never been hurt. This one.
There is no person. You're turning into someone that a wound
You can't use it as transportation anymore. And now comes the weirdest part. O Guardian hoped the page would close. That didn't happen. Underneath from your new phrase came an empty space. It was never there. The old Prophecy ended in you, not because your life ended, but because the pattern didn't need to describe anything after the moment you I would repeat it. Once repeated, the future was predictable again. A Current knew how to keep writing. But when you're refused, the prediction ran out of words. For the first time in generations, there was no inherited phrase prepared for what would come next.
Blank space. You understand how this is different from receiving the promise of a perfect future? They didn't give him a prophecy.
Better. They gave us space. No sentence promised that everything would be Easy. No guarantee that no one would ever betray him again. None promise that the pain would stop visiting him. Just space. A place that the old pattern was no longer allowed to fill. And God He also kept this, the empty part, because that's the part you're in. living now. Maybe that explains something you've been feeling.

 lately: not sure, almost the opposite. The strange feeling that Your old version no longer fits, but your new life is not yet completely visible. Things you once tolerated now seem Impossible. Reactions that used to happen automatically now They seem strange as they happen. Some relationships only They worked while you agreed to play your old role.
 When you stopped doing that, the relationship found that you no longer He had a place to live. Maybe you confused that void with to be lost. You're not lost. It's in a part that hasn't yet It was written. And an unwritten space can scare when your whole life was organized around patterns. The patterns hurt, but they're... known. Freedom at first may seem absent. It's gone.
 an ancient instruction dictating who you should be after, and that's why stage requires even more courage than surviving. Survive question:
 Can you stand it? Freedom asks: now that nothing forces you to Repeat that, what will you build in place? An Ancient Page Not You can answer that. It's up to you. And there's one last thing. The name of Prophecy has changed. Not your name, the name of the prophecy. For generations, She had been known for the wound she described. After your review, that name no longer makes sense, because a prophecy whose last event is repetition speaks of inheritance, but a prophecy whose last event is an interruption turns into another thing: a testimony. That was the last change. It was no longer "the wound that will continue", but "the place where she left off". That's what God did.
 It did. Not because your sentence was more correct than his, nor

Because you surprised the one who created him. The part that

It deserved to be preserved was never information that God I didn't know. It was the evidence of what you did with the freedom that He gave it to you. There is a difference between God knowing what a person can choose and a person really choose that while You're hurt. One thing is knowledge; the other is character. And no one can write your character for you. Now come back with me to the beginning. One Old page. A phrase that had survived for generations. One Guardian watching the same wound move towards the same end Same old. And then you, no audience, no ceremony, not knowing that Something beyond your room was watching. You had every reason to continue the sentence. It didn't go on. Words have changed. The Keeper He tried to restore them. God said, no. Keep them both. The first version Show him what got to him. The second one, the one that came out of him. And between them is the story you've probably spent your whole life trying to Understand. You've never been chosen because nothing dark has succeeded catch up. He was chosen for what he did when it reached him. A Prophecy was not broken. The chain, yes. And now there's a space in white after your name.

6 Meaning and interpretation. Do you realize the danger? The army still I could create pain. What I couldn't control was the meaning. And who controls the meaning of an event controls what that event can become later. That was his true power. in that story. No invulnerability. Interpretation. The darkness still They could send the event. They couldn't guarantee the conclusion. O Fernando da luinha, let's call him Lucifer, realized something that the lower levels had lost: the battlefield had changed. They They were still trying to control circumstances. You had begun to control what circumstances were allowed to teach. A Normal war stopped working. Then the order changed. None

Unit could act against you without authorization. No pressure coordinated without revision. No repeated tactics after it was recognized. For a period of time the attacks decreased. Maybe you even if Remember a phase like this. It wasn't complete peace. It was something weirder. Quiet. After all this time living under pressure, space appeared. You thought something was over. I didn't. They were studying. And the study produced a conclusion that Lucifer did not He liked it. There was no safe attack. Not because every attack failed, but Because even success was beginning to be dangerous. The record gave a name for this: field of reversal. Not a magic shield. Something much more Annoying for those who tried to control you. A condition under which pressure hostile begins to generate advantage for those who receive it. The better you it was in extracting meaning from what happened, stronger the reversal I would. Until one unit made the mistake that ended everything. They ignored the restriction. They saw an opening. You were tired. One relationship was already unstable. There was a fear I hadn't yet completely healed. They believed your old version still It was available. So they coordinated everything: pressure from the outside, prosecution coming from someone close, an unexpected loss and a voice inside your head repeating the oldest lie you carry about yourself. The training was accurate. It worked for a while. You started falling apart from the inside. Questioned advances that already I had won. You almost decided to panic. Almost. So one thing. Little one happened. You recognized the sequence. Not just every event. The sequence. That was their mistake. The army repeated the architecture so accurately that, for the first time, you succeeded See the whole plant. You stopped. It didn't solve everything. You didn't feel suddenly powerful. He simply refused to do the next expected movement. That one refusal stopped the formation. Pressure

I needed your fear to make the charge convincing. The prosecution

I needed the isolation to generate despair. The loss needed the desperation to make the wrong opportunity attractive. And the inner voice I needed that wrong choice to prove my own lie. You

He withdrew an answer. The chain couldn't finish. This is how systems collapse. It's not always destroying every piece. Sometimes just refuse the only movement around which all the pieces were built. Then the army turned against itself. Orders have begun colliding. One unit occupied another. Another increased the pressure without Authorization. Another tried to correct the attack and exposed who was being used against you. The training has lost coordination. And there is one thing important about a system built by fear. When it fails, it

It doesn't produce union. Produces prosecution. Many people imagine evil as Something perfectly united. It's not. Fear can organize. No, no, no.

You can build trust. An army sustained by domination remains united while domination seems to function. When you leave Every part of it starts trying to save itself. It was

Exactly what happened when the final report came to Lucifer. There was no burst of anger. That came later. First

There was silence. He read the sequence. Then you read it again. And you saw that. that nobody wanted to write directly. The problem wasn't you anymore. O problem was the army. All parties had been trained to produce predictable responses. You no longer answered in a predictable way.

Enough. Worse. After all this time trying to keep up with your adaptation, the army itself began to reveal its weaknesses through behavior. Keep sending units meant expose more. More people would learn. More tactics would lose their usefulness.

Lucifer took two strategic options: withdraw the army and admit that a human target had forced the retreat. or eliminate the structure committed before the failure spread. He chose to eliminate. Yeah.

That's what the title means. You didn't give Lucifer an order. No, no, no.

He defeated an army on his arm. You made that army too expensive to continue to exist. There's a difference. He started to disassemble the units built around their reactions. Connections broke.
 People who depended on your reaction disappeared. Situations sustained by their old role have collapsed. Old Temptations They lost power because the route had been exposed. Some Conflicts They just ran out of structure. Maybe you interpreted that. like people coming out of your life. Some went out. Not every breakup is a cosmic event. But certain patterns don't survive when You stop completing them. A manipulator without his guilt loses his lever. A tease without his reaction loses the fun. One Liar without his need to believe loses access. Who only values you while you're saved usually disappear when you stop Save. On the outside it looks like the person left. Within the pattern o Army lost a position. And now comes the most important part to Your life: it does not rebuild what has collapsed. You've done this before!
 Something ends, silence appears, and because silence seems Strange after years of living in chaos, you confuse the unknown with something wrong. So reopen the conversation, go back to the old environment, explains again, gives access to the same person under another name, tries restore something that only worked while you abandoned yourself. Later He asks why the same war came back wearing other clothes. Listen with Attention. Some forms of peace seem empty because chaos
 I used to give you a job. When no one is attacking, You need to find out who you are without defending yourself. When No one needs to be saved, you need to decide where your energy goes.
 When you stop living to prove others wrong, you have to to build something that continues to exist even if they never see it. Yeah.
 That's where you're going, not for a life without opposition. For a life where the opposition no longer decides what its strength will be used for.

For years, strength meant resistance: hold on longer, survive longer, Get it back faster, stay on your feet. That was necessary. But push.
 There's another stage: construction. What can you build with the attention you used to spend watching the danger? What happens when the Is intelligence used to identify manipulation? Start identifying opportunity. When the discipline created by delays remains ahead of something good, enough time to watch it grow. When the boundaries saw structure for healthy relationships, not walls. This is how the reversal Finish. You don't win by spending the rest of your life studying the enemy.
 You win when what you learned from the enemy ceases to be About him. There is a time when discernment must turn direction. Otherwise, you're still psychologically paralyzed in a Battleground that's already been closed. And there was one last thing that Lucifer realized when he decided to destroy the army: it wasn't just that The army had failed. He had helped form a version of you.
 that Lucifer himself could never build. Think about it: patience, pattern recognition, the ability to leave, wait before respond, survive being misunderstood, rebuild after Lose, realize manipulation without exposing everyone. Nothing.
 That's where it came in completely ready. Some of these skills They were born because life forced you to practice. That doesn't make what It happened well. Don't confuse both. A wound doesn't get It turns into something fair because you managed to hold it. A betrayal It doesn't become a blessing just because it taught discernment. What was wrong remains wrong, but the error does not receive exclusive property over what comes next. That's your part. You decide what survives event. The pain can survive, the memory and the scar too, But the instruction doesn't need it. The event can say: Never again Trust me. You can answer: Am I gonna trust you differently? You can say: Stay.

cold. You answer: I'll be lucid. You can say: Prove your worth. You responds: I'll build it quietly. You can say: Do them if Repent. You answer: Their opinion will no longer direct My life. This is the field of reversal in the most practical way: no spiritual immunity, the refusal to allow hostility to write Next instruction. When this becomes consistent, any system hostile encounters a serious problem: he can still touch his circumstances, but you can't recruit your own so easily Answer. That's why the army had to disappear. An army only useful if at some point the target starts working against you Really. You stopped cooperating. And when sufficient parts of the They depended on their participation, Lucifer was forced to destroy What was left. Now go back to the beginning. Remember the last time Someone tried to hurt you and ended up damaging your own position.

 Maybe now you see it differently. Not every collapse in An enemy's life is divine punishment. Not every consequence has relationship with you. Don't wait for someone to fall. That would just be another way to keep organizing your life around this person. A important part is simpler: what tried to reduce you showed where he still delivered his size. What you tried to confuse He taught clarity. What made you chase taught you to stand still. What?
 Tried to make you hate yourself, showed the price of abandoning yourself. They don't They gave you these things. You extracted it. That difference belongs to You. And now the army no longer occupies its place. Don't be.
 There waiting for the other one to show up. Build it.
 7 Functional tip: Don't ever come out against a guy in a helmet! Basic Rule.
 8 You gonna kill people? Go on, it's already killing! It's spiritual.

9 He only suffers from rejection who needs external validation to prove the ego itself! For those who see themselves as “normal”, without any extra value Who separates him from the others! You really need that validation.

10 Preventing that spiritual identity becomes arrogance. That's why He had to start learning from underneath. (((

11 He received an order: load by the end of the day. That's all. He's already had carried soul stamps before. I knew how they were supposed to be. Yours You almost dropped him on his face. Before the day ended, he made a question that silenced everything around. What kind of human needs a Seal like that? No one answered. Then he looked closer. And that's it. who discovered something that he should never have discovered. Your seal didn't exist. to identify you. It existed to limit you. You're not necessarily better than the others. He's not above anyone.

But it's like a part of you understands things that your own life He never did. Because that day explains a lot more than it looks. There's something people get wrong about a stamp. He can show who something belongs to. But also keep something from opening Before the time. Yours has been with you for so long you haven't even Feel the pressure. This happens with everything that goes with someone since the Start. Those born by the sea stop listening to the waves. Who lives near a train line learns to sleep with the noise. And who You get into life under pressure, you end up calling it normal. You He called it personality. That mind that almost never stops watching. The feeling that there's always another layer behind that someone Say it. The way certain environments tire you out before anything else. to happen. The lack of something you can't even name. The will to be understood mixed to the tiredness of explaining. You thought that I was just born that way. In a way, he was born. But it exists a time when certain seals need to be examined. All that was Made to contain pressure needs to be tested someday. A container is inspected. A limit is checked. When your turn came, an angel received the task of carrying his seal while he was examined.

Receive. Charge. Return. One day. That's it? He put his hands on The seal and immediately heard something. A knock. Your heart.
That shouldn't happen. A stamp records the identity. No, no, no.
It reproduces experience. He set his hands. The crash got stronger.
Then something else came. Wait. Not the idea of waiting. Experience human to wait for. For the first time he understood what it means need an answer and not know when it will come. He felt the nights in that you wanted to be sure and received only one more morning. Decisions You took it without knowing if it would work. The times you asked for direction to God and still had to choose before seeing the road. The Angel Almost You released the seal. Not because it was heavy on my hands. Because there was uncertainty inside him. He had seen humans waiting. View It's not carrying. Then came the memory. Not your memories like pictures. Their weight. You felt like something years ago can come back in one piece Because of a sentence. A look. A known silence. You got it.
How can anyone know you're safe as the body prepares to a danger that's over. And then, in the middle of all that, it came to joy. That confused him even more. Because the pain hadn't gone away First. Joy existed beside her. He felt you laugh while one part of his life fell apart. It felt a song reach you in a day when words couldn't. It felt you taking care of someone while carrying problems that person didn't even know. The Angel I thought emotions worked in sequence. First finishes the I'm sorry. Then the joy begins. First the fear ends. Then it starts.
The courage. Your seal showed something else. A human being can do it.

carry opposite feelings at the same time. Missing someone and knowing she shouldn't come back. Love and go. Forgive and remember.

Feeling scared and continuing. Question God and still talk to him. And, of Somehow, contradiction doesn't destroy you. It becomes part of the experiment human. That's when the angel stopped asking how much the seal weighed and He started asking me something else. What's that holding? Right away
When you asked the question, marks appeared on the surface. Restrictions.
One limited perception. Another one, intensity. Another one, memory. But for below them was something he had never seen around a life Common human. A limit on memory. The angel froze. Now he I understood why in some moments of your life you felt as if I was trying to remember something you never learned. The seal is not
It would erase you. Controlled the speed with which certain recognitions They came back. You know how this works. There are truths you've heard several times before finally understanding them. The information hasn't changed. You It's changed. The seal followed the same logic. Not everything inside you could Get to the conscience at once. So certain things came in fragments. A strange familiarity with an idea. A dream that I was in my head too long. A person you seemed to understand Too fast. A phrase coming at the right time. That feeling I suddenly know that. Most of the time you missed it.
Good. It was supposed to be like this. Because the goal was never to make you spend your life obsessed with proving where you came from. It was to make you live where it is. Choose. Wrong. Love. Build. What existed Before this life could not make those decisions for you in here. And Now the angel understood the first function of the seal. He wasn't holding.
Something evil. I was making something bigger compatible with something smaller.
Imagine trying to take an ocean into a room. Not the ocean.
It comes in like an ocean. He needs a container. The edges of the container They don't lower the water. They allow her to be in that space. Yours human life is the fourth. The seal is the edge. And for a day someone else

I was carrying that. Because the angel had not yet found the part of the seal that would make you ask if you were really human. As he carried the seal, something strange began to happen with You. For the first time part of that pressure wasn't there. You don't You've gained supernatural powers. Something weird has happened. You stayed Quiet. Things that normally required your attention seemed Small ones. You've lost the will to explain yourself. To prove something. From I've already shown where I want to be. To win Useless arguments. For a few hours you came closer to yourself even without the usual compression. And what came up was not power. It was Peace. That surprised the angel. If the seal was holding something huge, He expected intensity. But when part of the restriction came out, you stayed Simpler. The approval of others has lost importance. Comparison You've lost your strength. Revenge no longer seems interesting. The Need of being understood by those who insisted on understanding you wrong almost disappeared. You didn't remember another existence. He just stopped taking this one so far. personal side. The angel felt love. Change through the seal, your heart It slowed down, the noise inside it decreased. Then something started to press the last restriction. He had been ordered to carry, no To investigate, but at that point you needed to understand what you were holding. Then played the last mark, a single line opened. No explosions, No voice. Just one sentence. The angel read it, then read it again: No, no, no. remove completely while incarnate. One word changed everything: incarnate. Not born, not raised, incarnate. He looked for you: a human body, a human history, human pain, human needs. Everything seemed normal. Then why the seal Did you call your condition an incarnation? He looked at them again. Marks and realized something that had previously gone unnoticed: his seal It didn't start when you were born. He came in with you. That's when the

Angel finally asked: What kind of human needs that? A

The answer came from behind him: the one who agreed to forget. The angel knew the voice. God did not explain what you had been before. That's not what it mattered. Explained why forgetting mattered. If you'd come in there would be no proof. If you remember just who he was before he was rejected, rejection would never succeed. Ask who you believe you are. If you knew the meaning of all loss before feeling it, trusting in the middle of loss would cost nothing. If remember the whole purpose before the confusion, I would never find out if I could choose a direction even without seeing everything. Then the seal didn't make you smaller, made the experience real. You needed it. feel uncertainty as uncertainty, loneliness as loneliness, rejection as rejection, choice as choice. Otherwise your life would be theater and it should never be theater. That was the reason for the seal: not punishing you with ignorance, protecting the value of your choices. But the angel still had one question: why so many restrictions? Why limit perception? For what limit intensity? Why make the recon come back slowly? God answered with another question: What happens when someone do you remember too much before you understood why you had to forget? The Angel knew: the person stops living forward, is fascinated by the origin, ((turns identity into escape, turns difference into superiority and the mission disappears behind the obsession with itself. This was the second function of the seal: to prevent that spiritual identity turned into arrogance. Listen to this carefully: being chosen does not mean be better, function is not hierarchy. A bridge is no greater than margins that connect, a light is no more worth than the person who needs seeing and carrying something different gives no one the right to reduce the others. That's why you needed to learn from underneath. I needed to know. what it's like to be ignored, misunderstood, weak, wrong, uncertain. I needed respect the human fragility living within it. And that's when the mission began to change the angel. He watched humans for ages, knew fear, grief, doubt, impatience. But knowing that something exists is not the Even if you carry it. For one day, he understood why courage

It matters when a body can be hurt, because trust matters
When there is betrayal, why does forgiveness matter when memory remains, because faith matters when there is no certainty. He always knew that eternity existed, but knowing that there is eternity does not make a night of pain seem shorter for those who are still inside that Night. Upstairs perspective is not experience inside. So he's...
He understood the intelligence behind the seal. He didn't hide his greatness, He gave weight to his decisions. Goodness means more when irritation is Real. Courage means more when there is fear. Integrity means more when no one would find out if you betrayed your own values.
Forgiveness means more when you still remember. No limitations Some virtues would cost nothing. With limits they became character. O angel finally understood why something other than a human identity I'd agree to live one. Not to show power, but to do choices that power alone would never make meaningful. And this is where the title changes meaning. When the angel realized you weren't just human, he did not begin to see mankind as something inferior.
On the contrary, he came to respect it even more, because what existed in you beyond this experience had agreed to enter it without shortcuts, No permanent memory of what came before, no emotional immunity, without guarantee of ever recognizing oneself, without protection against disappointment.
You came through the same door. That's why the seal needed to be strong. No, no, no.
Because you were dangerous, because the experience needed to continue True. The end of the day approached, the seal got heavier, no Because something new had entered him, he wanted to return. You too.
He started feeling it. That strange peace was diminishing, your mind
It got restless, the responsibilities regained the usual size.

Something seemed missing, although you couldn't say what. O

Angel was ordered to return the seal, but first asked for one thing:

I wanted to see what the seal considered important in your life. Permission

It was given, the seal was opened, and what appeared surprised him: no throne,

No epic battle, no time when thousands of people

They knew your name. He saw something small: once you could

You humiliated someone and you didn't. Then another: you helped one person

I couldn't offer anything in return. Another was angry with God and You chose to be honest instead of pretending. Another you missed, felt shame and came back. Then one more came up: someone hurt you enough to Make it understandable if you turned cruel. No one would know what was happening inside you and yet you didn't leave that decide completely who he would become. The angel understood: it was for these moments that the seal existed. If you remember everything, if you knew just who it was, if you could see the sky watching every decision you made,

Would these choices have the same weight? Nope. You chose to feel common, without certainty, without applause, without proof that someone ever

I'd know. The seal made that possible. For the first time the angel lowered the head, not to adore you, to respect the price of a choice human. The mission was to examine what your seal holds. In the end, your seal had changed the observer. Then the day is over. The seal has returned to

You. Maybe you just felt your normal mind coming back. O

Noise returned, trouble regained size, distance

The worry about tomorrow is back, but something has changed.

What the seal protects came back with a mark, the mark of the angel's hand,

He carried that long enough for the seal to record who held him.

Underneath the mark was a phrase. The angel asked permission for Leave her there. God has allowed it. It said: Now I understand why they

They forget. That phrase goes on with you, not to make you move on.

life trying to remember everything, almost the opposite. It exists for the days when you get frustrated with your own limits, when you asks why you can't see further, why the answers take so long, Why do you still fight with something you found healed, because one day God

It looks close and on the other it looks quiet. Don't turn the days Quiet in evidence against you. The recognition comes in parts, because parts can be lived. You don't need to know everything it is for be the one who needs it today. And be careful how it feels to be different.
Difference can also become prison when someone begins to love it.
You're not here to spend your life proving you're different. Whether it exists Something in common with you, that should make you more capable of understand someone else, no less. Look what happened to the Angel. He started the day wanting to find out why you were different, ended by understanding humanity better. That's the direction. How much Deeper you go, less need to reduce others, less need to prove, less comparison, less obsession with Enemies, less desire to see who hurt you regretting publicly, more responsibility, more discernment, more peace.
Maybe that's why parts of your seal can appear now. You He's less interested in opening it for show. You don't need it all world know what you carry. It just needs recognition. necessary for the next step, enough to understand the next pattern, get out of the wrong place, recognize the right place, stop fighting with yourself just because you can't see the whole road.
They never promised the whole road, just enough light to go on. O Angel started the mission thinking he was carrying proof of who you were Yeah, ended up understanding why he might not know. That's the secret of Seal. He doesn't hide you because heaven is ashamed. He hides one part of you, of yourself, so your choices can still be Yours. Now go back to the beginning. For one day, something was taken away. One Angel carried the pressure you called normal during life whole, felt his waiting, his memory, his contradictions, his uncertainty,

391

then found the restrictions, opened a line: do not remove completely while he is incarnated and finally understood:
humanity wasn't just what you were, it was a experience that you agreed to live in full. That means getting tired, get confused, miss, learn slowly, love people that don't always can understand you, lose things you thought would remain, have days when God seems close and days when you hear nothing.
Don't waste this experience trying to escape it. What came before It can wait, which comes after, too. You're here now and it's here that your choices have weight.

12 The worst of today's pattern is not even Cain who kills Abel, because He runs away. The saddest thing is for Adam and Eve who never know what It happened to both of them.

13

prospects.

Meet selected pages before choosing your edition.

Choose your book and receive the download after payment approval.

14 Energy Codes: https://www.salemais-app.com/library?livro=energy-codes-volume-1&format=PDF&utm_source=facebook Book of Wisdom Vol. 1: https://www.salemais-app.com/library?livro=book-of-wisdom-volume-1&format=PDF&utm_source=facebook k

Hidden Manuscripts Vol. 2: https://www.salemais-app.com/biblioteca?book=the-hidden-manuscripts-volume-2&format=PDF&utm_source=facebook

Book of Wisdom Vol. 3 — Part 1: https://www.salemais-app.com/biblioteca?book=book-of-wisdom-volume-3-part-1&format=PDF&utm_source=facebook

Book of Wisdom Vol. 3 — Part 2: https://www.salemais-app.com/biblioteca?book=book-of-wisdom-volume-3-part-2&format=PDF&utm_source=facebook

Universal Sacred Geometry: https://www.salemais-app.com/librioteca?book=sacred-geometry-universal&format=PDF&utm_source=facebook
Okay

Glandula Pineal: https://www.salemais-app.com/library?book=como-decalcify-a-glandula-pineal&format=PDF&utm_source=facebook

Cabalist Astrology: https://www.salemais-app.com/library?book=astrology-cabalist&format=PDF&utm_source=facebook

Emerald tables: <https://www.salemais-app.com/library?book>

== sync, corrected by elderman == @elder man

15 sales plus-app.com/library

16

prospects.

Meet selected pages before choosing your edition.

Choose your book and receive the download after payment approval.

<https://www.salemais-app.com/library>

17 As long as you're interested in any of the books in the vasco, you've just changed your mind, I'm not gonna charge you a drink of water. It's worth a lot.

18 The Book of Wisdom

<https://www.salemais-app.com/library?Book=Wisdom-vol.>

ume-1&format=PDF&utm_source=facebook&fbclid=IwY2xjawUOm8 VwZG9mBWV4dG4DYWVtAjEwAGJyaWQRMWlrMUFwWIE2Zk9 p NVVOUGVzcnRjBmFwcF9pZBAyMjIwMzIxNzg4MjAwODkyAEE YOyZjpSSJCjs63ql1M7zMoEhBbJ9O2FRWNWMGg FwrzSyAtjhjkuq cRIA3M aem RDJTi2wrh7gwV2shUhuYCg

Alkalino Awakening - Health by nature and posture

<https://www.salemais-app.com/library?Book=Wisdom-vol.>

ume-3-part-1&format=PDF&utm_source=facebook&fbclid=IwY2xja wUOnKtwZG9mBWV4dG4DYWVtAjEwAGJyaWQRMWlrMUFwWI E2Zk9pNVVOUGVzcnRjBmFwcF9pZBAyMjIwMzIxNzg4MjAwOD k yAAEebRELRQv6l4F2cXzRmaEE Vbd6bW730HXIBMSE9QuAwhcdt ZU1t3YL0bsr4l aem 3TuW3g5a04j1eIPo1LwOWQ sales-app.com/library

19 Imitation generates immediate exposure. You weren't in one. competition. You were on silent ascension. The energy that you radiate reveals their emptiness, not because you are attacking, but because the authentic light makes the shadow disappear. Every desperate attempt of to replicate their perceptions, to use their words or to dress their wisdom, only added interest to the karmic debt. You did the inside job and Now the universe is liquidating the account in its favor. Your victory is not More of a future hope. It's a consummate fact that reality is Just starting to transmit. They're trapped in the movie that ended, trying to reverse the score, but you've already changed the channel. The rise that You've experienced altered the physics of the game for everyone. But if their defeat It's already guaranteed and the charge is inevitable, you've already stopped to think for that the universe allows this comedy to continue and what is the final role of this exposure in its total sovereignty? You've spent too much time trying to prove your worth for what you do, for the effort you put in.

But your true strength is not a muscle that flexes. It's the vibration of your conscience. It's your being who's doing the job heavy, not your doing. While others desperately try copy their movements, they fail because they cannot copy the unique frequency of your soul. You don't have to run to win or To force results. You just need to be aligned with your truth more Deep. It is this silent authenticity that disarms all who They try to compete. Remember, while they strive and seek external strategies, you are in divine flux. They're using force.
brute, trying to break down doors that the universe opened for you Gently. His simple presence exposes performance and Their artificiality, without you having to lift a finger. You don't It's more in the competition. You're demonstrating a level of play totally different, where the only rule is to be sovereign about who you Yeah. This truth resonates louder and shakes the foundation of any lie.
The game you play has already transcended the dimension of opposition. You He won, not for fighting, but for ascending to a new level in the hierarchy. Pay attention to this, if your strength lies in the memory of identity you conquered, what will you do when the universe start revealing the mirror layers of this consciousness, remember that Even you don't know everything that exists yet! Prepare yourself, for the Next phase of revelation is not about what they think of you, but about the infinite capacity that hopes to be accessed in yourself, from you for you high precision and totally autonomous. You're finding out a truth that breaks the game. His invincibility is born from his He refuses to fight. You don't have to waste energy by hitting the Cheap imitations or proving their worth. The paradox is this: how much Except you strive to defend yourself, but the universe moves to you Protect. You've raised your frequency and that's enough. While the Others run to try to imitate their light, this imitation serves only as A spotlight, revealing how empty and desperate their stage is. Yours authenticity has become the solvent that dissolves the entire farce of others.

 Understand that your strength is not in your actions, but in your alignment Inside. They may even copy your words or your movements, but They can never fake the wounds that have become wisdom within you.
 They studied their rise as scientists, cataloging every success external, but failed to note that its power base is entirely Internal. While you build your empire from the inside out, they They're exhausted trying to maintain a facade that demands their energy as Coin. You're not just winning, you've already won from When you stopped playing their game. That freedom of no need to confront mediocrity more is not the end of the journey, but yes the gateway to a new dimension of existence. You get freed from the need for approval, but now faces a new reality. The universe is reorganizing around it with a Amazing speed. What happens when your power is no longer measured by battles won, but by the ease and speed with which the Does reality bend to your will? What will you do now with this Unbelievable acceleration of your destiny? You don't need proof anymore.

Outside to know what's true. His body turned into a High-precision lie detector. That strange feeling in the stomach, chill in the back of the head, that's not anxiety. It's your system.
 Internal shouting: warning of falsehood! Your intuition is working like a cosmic GPS, guiding you away from forced energies and from People who try to copy their glow. You are now the final judge of your reality and your body delivers the verdict before even the mouth if Open up. While others desperately try to dress their frequency, of your movements and using your words, you feel the difference Like a shrill mud. They want to hitch a ride on their rise, But imitation only speeds up exposure. Your light is not an accessory that It can be bought. It's the result of wounds transmuted in wisdom.
 They seek the stage without the preparation and that's why their acting makes the cosmic joke that life itself makes a point of transmitting to Everyone. His evolution changed the rules of the game and the physics of his life. You He stopped searching for the truth outside and started feeling it inside. But now that you can see through all the masks and detect each deviation from reality, a deeper question arises: if your presence dissolves all that is false, what exactly will remain of yours reality when you finally stop nourishing anything that doesn't be 100% authentic? Do you notice the noise they make? It's the sound of blows But they're hitting the air. They memorized yours.
 Old frequency, that version of you that was still vulnerable, but You don't live at that address anymore. You went upstairs.
 20 Moving on to the cross, ripping off several heads along the way! Me Have fun heading for the target.
 21 If you knew how much and since when do we have dreams of revelations. You would finally understand that the life of dreams is more real than the 397 under the sun.

22 You have no idea how many lists there are in the universe.

23 KKKKKKKKKKKK That even a good bathroom cleaner has to have.

24 All problems can be solved in conversation.

25 Look, undead just gets fat! He may be sick, and still I'm getting fat! It's getting too small for you to hide.

26 One of the best sensations in life is after taking a skeitada That level in the ankle region on a roll. The next day Run five miles uphill. How it gets later, throbbing and presiding. This one. It's the feeling. Experienced, really short.

27 Let me take you to the place where there is this information that few understand still in life, it is the standard error of religious, insisting that the harvest only comes after that life. Stay focused, 'cause that's what Important. There is a spiritual economy that operates parallel to Physical economy. In this economy, gifts of the soul have values assigned. Not arbitrary values. Rarely based values, in impact on transformation capacity. Most people never Think about it. They live their lives without realizing they carry internal treasures that overcome any material wealth. But entities spiritual know this perfectly, especially those who operate in the darkness. They can see what humans cannot see. They can understand the value of a soul. They can measure the potential from a gift. And when they detect something extraordinarily valuable,

They activate specific protocols to acquire it. You activated one of those protocols, not recently, since you arrived in this world.

Because what you carry inside you is something that the realm of darkness He's been desperately searching. Not to destroy it. That would be easy to Understand. To buy it. To get it. To make you voluntarily deliver it in exchange for something that seems valuable, but not Yeah. This is important for you to understand. The enemy of his soul operates under rules he can't violate. One of those rules is free will. Him

You can't take what's yours without your consent. He can't. Steal your gift. He can't take it from you by force. He can only Do one thing: offer you something in return. Convince you to turn him in. voluntarily. Make the exchange assent to you when, at reality, you're losing infinitely more than you earn. That's got It happened in your life more than you realize. Every time you They offered a shortcut that compromised their integrity, it was an offer Buying. Each time an opportunity appeared that required that You betrayed your values, it was a purchase offer. Each time the Easy path came right when the right path became difficult, It was a purchase offer. The devil has been dealing with you. And you, without You know, you've been rejecting his offers. One after another. Year after year. And That made him absolutely frustrated. Because your gift remains intact. It remains in your possession. It keeps growing in value while He still can't get it. Now let me explain exactly

What is this gift you carry? It's not something you learned. It's not A skill you developed. It's something that came into yours soul from the moment of its creation. Your forbidden gift is the ability To remain pure in corrupt environments. Let me explain why That's worth trillions. In the spiritual world, purity is the most valuable currency that exists. I'm not talking about perfection. I'm not talking about never Mistake. I'm talking about something much deeper. I'm talking about that one part of you that, no matter what you've been through, no matter the mistakes who committed, no matter what falls he had, remains Fundamentally intact. That part that refuses to corrupt itself Completely. That part that, after every stumbling block, seeks to rise.

That part that feels uncomfortable in dark environments because It just doesn't belong to them. That's unusually rare. A Most people, when repeatedly exposed to darkness, eventually adapts to them. It becomes part of them, stops feeling the discomfort, normalizes what should be unacceptable. But not you.
You were exposed to things that should have corrupted you. You've been through environments that should have turned you into something dark. ■ Faced ■ temptations that should have corroded its essence. And something inside you He just refused. This is your forbidden gift. It is forbidden because the system of the world does not want it to exist. The darkness needs everyone eventually they corrupt. They need purity to be gradually eliminated. They need every soul to eventually give in and join downtown frequency. But you're an anomaly. An error in the corruption matrix.
Someone who should have fallen long ago, but remains Inexplicably standing. That has incalculable value. Because every person that keeps its purity in a corrupt world becomes a point of light that illuminates others. It becomes living evidence that it is possible not to give in.
It becomes the incarnate hope for those who thought that the corruption was inevitable. Its simple existence, its simple persistence In remaining who you really are, you have the power to transform realities, to awaken others, to remind them that they too can Resist. That's what's worth trillions. Not for what you can do. So You are. For what you represent. By the possibility that you demonstrate Every day you refuse to become what the world wants you to be.
Now let me show you the specific offers the enemy has made.

for you. Because when you understand his tactics, you do.

to recognize them more easily in the future. The first offer is called the immediate relief offer. This offer comes when you're in your lower point, when the pain is intense, when the pressure is unbearable, when you feel like you can't take another day. In that Exactly the moment, an exit appears. But that exit has a price. She requires you to compromise something of your essence, to accept something that will against your values, take a shortcut that takes you away from whom you It really is. The offer says I can take away that pain now. You just need Do it. And what you need to do always involves delivering a piece. Your gift. Your integrity. Its authenticity. Your purity. Think about times that it happened in your life. Moments of despair where a solution appeared that seemed too good. An opportunity that It would solve everything. One person offering exactly what you I had to. But something didn't feel right. Something inside you doubted Even if his logical mind could not find reasons for I doubt it. And eventually that offer revealed its true nature. It turned out to be something different than I promised. It had hidden costs. It would have required sacrifices that were not worth it. Those moments were Buying offers and your instinctive rejection was your gift protecting you. A second offer is called the offer of belonging. This is particularly effective with chosen ones. Because they're chosen often feel alone, misunderstood, as if not they belonged nowhere. And that loneliness hurts. This feeling of being different, of not fitting, of being perpetually outside Looking inside is exhausting. Then the offer appears. A group that you Take it. People who seem to understand you. A place where you finally It could belong. But to belong, you need to adapt. Need change certain things about you. You need to abandon certain values that you They're different. You need to reduce certain parts of your light to not let the other uncomfortable ones. This is a purchase offer disguised as community. The entry price is a portion of its authenticity. And Once you start paying, the debt just grows. Think of the times who asked you to be less yourself to be accepted. Stop Hide your light so you don't stand out. ■ To silence your truth ■ Make others uncomfortable. To abandon your path to follow the others'. These were buying offers. And here's what it is Beautiful: you rejected them. Not consciously. You didn't know you were in a spiritual negotiation. But something inside you just doesn't I could do that. Something inside you preferred loneliness to be to be someone you're not. That something is your gift operating, protecting you, keeping you in yourself, even When you didn't understand yourself why you couldn't just Give in like everyone else. The third offer is called the offer of recognition. This one is especially tempting for chosen that were ignored, belittled or made invisible. After years not being seen by who you really are, after having your value constantly questioned, after giving so much and receiving so little recognition, someone or something appears who finally sees your greatness, which finally recognizes its value, which finally offers you the recognition you've earned your whole life. But there is one condition.

 To receive this recognition you need to use it in a way,
 You need to direct your gift to purposes that aren't really yours, It needs to shine, but under terms that someone else establishes. That's the More subtle offer, because it doesn't look bad. It seems to finally receive the you deserve. But the price is your autonomy, your freedom to use your gift as your soul knows it must be used. Now let me explain Why can't the devil just steal your gift, because that's the part that changes everything: free will is a universal law that not even The enemy may violate. It was established from the beginning of creation and,

Although he hates that law with every fiber of his fallen being, he can't avoid it. Your gift has been given to you. It's yours. It belongs to you by right divine and only you can decide what to do with it. No one can take it off of you without your consent. No one can pull it out against yours Will. No one can force you to turn him in. That's why the enemy is limited to tactics of persuasion, offers, temptations, to make the exchange Assent. But the final decision is always, always, always yours. And It enrages him, because he has thrown his best offers at you by years. He used moments of weakness, enjoyed seasons of Desperate, employed people who seemed trustworthy, created circumstances that seemed to leave you no choice and you continued saying no. Not with words. Not consciously. But something inside of you kept rejecting every offer, kept choosing integrity rather than relief, he continued to prefer the difficult path to Corrupt shortcut, continued to remain faithful to something you didn't even I could name it, but I knew it was valuable. That something was your gift forbidden, silently operating, protecting you from sales that you He would have repented forever. Now let me give you the evidence of that this has happened in your life. First evidence: you He experienced suspiciously timely offers. Think of moments in your life where just when you were most desperate, a solution appeared that seemed too good, an opportunity that It would solve everything, a person offering exactly what you needed, But something didn't feel right. Something inside you even doubted your logical mind could not find reason to doubt. And eventually that offer revealed its true nature. Monday evidence: the wrong people were attracted to you. Not attracted to good sense, attracted in the sense of wanting something from you, of wanting to extract something, to want to associate with you not for who you are, but for what You carry it. Did you notice that certain people seem to want to be close?

of you for no apparent reason. They come to you, they flatter you, they try to win their trust and eventually reveal intentions that are not pure. That.

 It happens because your gift emits a frequency and that frequency attracts both those who want to learn from you and those who want to Take advantage of you. The enemy sends people to make his offers To convince you to give up what he can't take. And you had to learn to discern between genuine admiration and In disguise manipulation. Third evidence: you felt protection Inexplicable in critical moments. Situations where logically you I should have made the wrong decision, where all the pressure pushed you.
 for the wrong way, where you had no strength of your own to resist, But something intervened. Something stopped you. Something changed the circumstances well to time. Something gave you clarity at the exact moment you needed. This one.
 protection is not coincidence, it is response to the value of what you carry, because the sky actively protects those who carry gifts from above value, not for the gift to be preserved without use, but for the Right time for your full manifestation to come. Wednesday evidence: you have experienced scarcity in areas where others have Plenty. That might seem a contradiction. If you carry something so Valuable, why did you miss so much? But here's the truth spiritual: scarcity was protection because premature abundance would have was used as another purchase offer. If only you had received everything that you wanted before you were ready, you would have been more vulnerable to offers.
 who seemed to complete what you lacked. The shortage kept you with hunger for the right things, prevented you from contenting yourself with substitutes Cockroaches, forced you to get something real instead of accepting imitations. A scarcity was a form of protection for your gift. Uncomfortable, yes.
 Painful, absolutely. But effective in keeping you out of reach of offers that would have cost a lot more than they were worth. Fifth evidence: You feel that something big is about to manifest. There is a anticipation within you that you cannot explain completely, a feeling that all you've been through is building toward something, that the rejections of the enemy's offerings were not in vain, that his preserved gift is about to find his purpose. This feeling is spiritual perception. Your soul knows what yours Mind still can't fully understand. Something is Something's lining up, something's getting ready to go. manifest and everything is connected to the gift you protected without knowing I was protecting. Now let me tell you what happens when the Devil fails to buy a gift, because that's what's happening in your case. After years of rejected offers, something changes in strategy the enemy. Not because he gives up. He doesn't give up. But because he acknowledges that certain souls will not sell, no matter what he offer, no matter how attractive he makes the trade, no matter how desperate the situation is. Some souls just aren't sale. And you're one of them. When this reality is confirmed in the spiritual records, when it is documented that a soul rejected consistently every purchase offer, something different is activated. The Focus Switch from acquisition to containment. If they can't buy you, They won't try to limit you. If they cannot acquire their gift, at least They'll try to stop you from using it. If they can't have you on their side, At least they'll try to neutralize you. That's the phase you're in. Attacks designed not to make you sell, but to keep you so busy surviving that you cannot manifest what you carry. Constant problems draining your energy. Distractions that consume Your attention. Situations that keep you in survival mode, instead of on purpose. But here's what the enemy didn't calculate: that the same resistance that made you reject his offers also you makes it impossible to contain permanently. That the same gift that You've now protected yourself. That the purity you preserved in times of corruption now becomes power that cannot be limited.

You're entering a new phase, the phase where your gift stops being just something you protect and become something you actively use. And The enemy knows that. So the recent attacks were more intense. So the circumstances were harder. That's why you felt more pressure than ever. It's the last attempt at containment before yours. gift manifest in its fullness. But it's too late to stop him. What's coming your way can't be blocked. Rejections that you made, the offers that you refused, the exchanges that you refused to To do, all this accumulated something: Spiritual Credit. And that credit is about to become tangible manifestation. Let me explain how this It works. In the spiritual economy, every time you reject an offer Corrupt, something is deposited in your account. It's not money. It's something else. valuable. It's authority. It's influence. It's impact capability. Each not That you said to the enemy was a yes you said to the purpose. Each rejected offer was an investment in its future. Every temptation resisted was a brick in the construction of his destiny. And now this building It's almost complete. The pieces are in place. The moment is coming. What you've protected for so long is about to be revealed to world and it's gonna be bigger than you think. Because the value of a gift It doesn't go down when it's preserved. It increases. It accumulates interest. Win. Power. Your gift today is worth infinitely more than it was worth when you started protecting him. Because each test you passed added one depth layer. Every temptation you resisted added one Power layer. Each offer you rejected added a layer of authority. What you will manifest is not just the original gift. Yeah. the original gift plus everything you invested in it through years of protection. Now let me give you the final instruction: what you need to do with this revelation? First, you need to recognize what you have Done. You haven't just been surviving. You've been protecting

Something priceless. Every day you didn't give in was a win. Each

The moment you kept your integrity was a triumph. Every moment that you chose the hard way instead of the corrupt shortcut was a investment in your destiny. Stop seeing your story as a series of No sense fighting. Start seeing it as the successful protection of a treasure worth trillions. Secondly, you need to prepare for the demonstration. What you protected is ready to be used. But Using it requires intent. It takes conscience. Requires you to stop Just protect and start designing. Your gift to remain pure in corrupt environments aren't just for you. It's to light up others. It's for demonstrate that it is possible. It's to give hope to those who believe that corruption is inevitable. Start looking for opportunities to be light where there's darkness. Not by force. In a natural way.

Simply being who you are in places where you are Just what's necessary. Third, you need to be alert to the Final offers. Because they'll come. When the enemy feels he is Losing, he makes final offers. Offerings more attractive than all previous. Offers designed to make you wonder if it was worth it The penalty to reject everything first. Don't give in now. Not after all that you It did. Not when you're so close to the full demonstration. As Next offers will be the most seductive of your life, but will also be The last ones. Resist them and you will have crossed a threshold that you cannot more to be reversed. Now let me share with you what it was registered about your case. When a soul consistently rejects The enemy's offerings, that's documented. A special note is added to that person's spiritual file. Your note says something that You need to listen. She says: this soul demonstrated incorruptibility under extreme conditions. Incorruptibility. Not perfection. Not absence of mistakes. Incorruptibility. The ability to remain fundamentally intact, regardless of the circumstances. This classification changes as you are treated by heaven. It changes what kind of assignments you get.

It changes what level of trust is placed on you. It changes how big It's the doors that open. Because the sky is looking for people in whom it can trust important treasures. People who won't sell what they are Trusted when the right offer comes through. People who have demonstrated through years of testing that your loyalty is not for sale. You're a These people. And the assignments coming your way will reflect this level of trust. Finally, you need to understand the message that It was registered specifically for you. Not a generic message.
A message for your specific situation. She says that to you that You protected what was given to you, you did something that few people can. You It kept its essence intact in a world designed to corrupt it.
He rejected offers that others would have accepted without thinking. You chose pain temporary rather than permanent corruption. That didn't go away.
I don't know. Every rejection has been recorded. Every resistance has been noted.
Every time you picked the hard one, but right, instead of the easy one but wrong, something's been added to your account. This account is full now. O which is coming towards you is the result of everything you invested.
It's not luck. It's not a coincidence. It's return on investment.
Purity investment. Resistance. Your forbidden gift will stop being Not allowed. It became his greatest instrument. Unwittingly you cause Deep impact. What the enemy wanted to buy is exactly what he wanted. more regretted for not having been able to acquire, removed legitimately all the authority he thought he had, the demoralized in front of everyone, many witnesses now talk about Yeah. You'll use it even more to free others from the same offers. that you rejected. Walk only looking ahead, knowing that your value is not negotiable. That what you carry is priceless. None offer, no matter how attractive you look, it's worth what it would cost you.
sell it. You're a guardian, and this treasure is worth trillions. You get

He proved worthy of that responsibility, and now he gets the reward for it.

28 The third time I died. It was a Thursday morning, around. Nine o'clock. The day of the month was 22/08/2013, there were just over two weeks I had completed my work for Itaú, it was two years delivering projects of collection centers, URAs, interfaces with Those companies that kept calling you swearing you had a You owe them. Anyway, you signed the benheê contract. In the same week A friend of mine got me a job as a salesman at a grocery store. Supplements at Polo Shopping in Indaiatuba. It was a new experience. For me, I was dominating that subject already, I did, with +- two weeks in this work, arrived the day 22/08/13, it was a Thursday and this friend who got me the job, who also He was working with me. It was his day off. Prick shopping knows it's usually a one-off in the middle of week. And he had warned me several times on Wednesday, on the day 21/08/13. That on the 22nd of the year, he'd be off. He made a point of reminding me the next day off because we went together in the same car, a week with his car and the other with mine. It happened that, even He warns me countless times about his day off the next day, I I forgot, and I drove my car to his house in Cafezal 7 neighborhood in Itupeva, counting on leaving my car there, as usual, we go with his car. As expected, he wasn't. Of course, it was the The guy's only week off, he'd gone out, he'd been asleep, or not even I was home yet, I don't remember exactly. The point is, he fell for it. my file 'was his day off, he shouldn't even be home, I'm going alone with my car'. Only there's a detail on the Itupeva route-- Indaiatuba. There's no gas station, so I needed to get back from Cafezal 7 which in thesis is the last starting from the center of Itupeva, pro post Closer before going back to the path that would take me to Indaiatuba To Polo Shopping. High risk combination: wet asphalt, was Raining, hurry I had forgotten that my friend had warned me I was worried I wouldn't be late for a job I already had. another seller at the store that had opened the 'Perfect Form' store at 10am Correct timing and I didn't even know I was going to work that day. On the way down Cafezal 1 direction center, I went down to about 80, bordering 90k/h without belt of security, at the turn of the tower, the 'black curve', my car, a Black goal 2008, the year was 2013 I saw as a zero car, did not make the turn even if I did it with the steering wheel, the asphalt was wet, no gave enough adhesion, the car about 80k/h was straight and crashed from Faced with a white Sprinter who was climbing the Cafezal. At the time of Impact, I saw it all in slow camera. I remember the details, everything passed Very slowly before me, it seems that the brain releases a charge hormone much higher than the pattern that allows you to have a reaction Quick enough for you to do something to save you. I understood you were Without the belt, so I flexed all the muscles of the body carefully in the arms and hands holding the steering wheel. And then the blow came, it was Stronger than I could take, my hands let go of the wheel, even I concentrate to hold him tight, remember the sound of shock I made with the chest, that involuntary hrraaannnn. The Force I still throw my chest on the steering wheel for the lack of a seat belt, where i absorbed this main impact with 4 ribs and the neck, again the neck. rsrs. The crash went head-on in both cars, but how did the Left end of my car with the right end of Sprinter, both Cars swirled over and stopped in the opposite direction as before. Mine

 The car coming down was as if it had gone up, in the right lane and the Van, same thing. My first reaction was to see if I had fractured.
 Some bone, that silence, I don't need to move for that. Just silence him.
 And feel her body, feel a lot of chest pain but I saw that it was nothing so He was breathing relatively well and could walk. Fingers, hands and

The driver's door wouldn't open. Too much.

Smoke from my car, and I believe from Sprinter too, was PT on both Cars. So I managed to open the passenger door on the right side of the car. I went to see the Sprinter driver. How he was wearing a belt, and Sprinter's a lot taller than the goal he was fine who had if I was hurt. Who knows the road to the cafes knows that not there's nobody there, just farms off the road. I called my dad first. from anyone coming. As soon as my father answered the phone I I said, 'Dad, I'm gonna say something bad, but seriously, I need you Stay calm. I didn't have to say anything else, my father understood me. He returned: 'All right son, you can speak calmly...'. Dad I crashed the car, I'm Well nothing happened to me 'I didn't even know'. I explained where I was, it wasn't far. In five minutes after the call my father was There with the car, super calm didn't accuse me nor want to know details. Me I just said I had to go to the doctor because it was hurting, I know pain, much more than I'd like and I knew that was not a pain Common injuries. We went to the municipal hospital of Itupeva, the service there was always top, I already needed some 4x of the PS de la They saved me without any mistake. I calmly explained the that had just happened, then two PMs arrived in the E.R. Confirms the accident. I stayed on the gurney with the nurses. cleaning the wounds. Some grating hands, knees, why did I do the I don't know. of this EQM. EQM is death for who doesn't know, there's a lot in A few seconds, you have a choice to come back. It's always a choice. On my neck with the crash on the steering wheel the doctors were right if had not broken the lymph glands or some other vazo that It compromises the blood or respiratory system, I've done several tests of blood because the blow of the neck on the steering wheel had left a New brand, but this time thank God I didn't break anything, the sternocleidomastoid along with the escalenes held me

Try to hold all the muscles at the time of the beat the doctor me
He said it was what prevented worse fractures, because it has the detail that I haven't told you yet. I had fractured four ribs on that beat. That I just I would have known three weeks later, because on the day, with the X-rays of Time of the accident, in the ER. Two doctors told me showing the X-rays that there were no fractures, that the pain that I feeling was just because of the beating, no belt, that sank the whole Drive into the panel of my 2008 Gol G4. When I got the car all dented in the patio in Itupeva, had a meeting surrounded by I'm the one who still had broken ribs without knowing, They asked out loud, pointing their finger at me: 'It was you who was In that car over there? And you're here all the time walking now picking up your Car? I swear they didn't believe it. The guy at the yard called his friends.
to show me and show me the car they probably already had commented earlier. I stayed for two weeks, having trouble with myself.
Drying after the bath, I got stuck and I didn't want to ask for help I cried for about 20 minutes in the bathroom until I could dry myself up and go to bed. That same day I went back to the same doctor, who took new radiographs and identified 4 fractures, each in a rib different. One of the particular fractures showed much care of God be with me. She broke in the back, in the back, near the vertebra. With the impact of the accident, in theory I would displace one of the vertebrae, compensating the ligament of the spine probably generating a permanent paralysis. But the mercy of God is infinite, he did with that my rib fractured before the vertebra, the pain is much greater than a fracture on the front of the ribs. That's why the vertebra passes all the veins and roots of the central nervous system was this fracture in the back that had caused that lock of mine after the bath, We'll finish by talking to the doctor later. Already recovered, I needed 2 months of bed, to heal the pain in the ribs and prevent any Unaligned recovery. I still have a memory in my nervous system. who insists on reminding me. That at the point of the fracture, in the back of the rib, grows according to doctor 'a fibrous callus' a part of bone thicker on the fracture point, is normal is part of recovery, But since it's a very sensitive body spot, it won't let me stay sitting comfortably for a long time. Who knows me knows I don't I'm in a chair for a long time, even if you're interested in Talk. It's not mania or discomfort, it's because the backrest presses the fracture point and I start to feel a tingling, that If you don't get up and feel the blood circulation in that region, it won't pass.

29 The extraction system was known as sky hook and made by a aircraft C 47 modified. The cables were nylon and they had a system.
 Elastic to absorb the initial impact force. This system was applicable to people and loads.

30 Calm down the solution comes...

31 For most of your life you believed that you belonged It meant being accepted. It doesn't. Acceptance can be bought. And You figured that out early. You learned which parts of you received They were caring and creating tension. Be helpful and people smile.
 Always be available and people would remember you. Understand it all world and you will be called mature. Forgive me quickly and you will be considered a good person. But say no at the wrong time and suddenly climate changes. You become difficult, cold, different, selfish. No one used it.
 Just those words, you didn't have to. You felt the change. Then It started to change before them. This has become a hidden skill.
 You would enter an environment and quickly discover which version of You could survive there. With one person you spoke less,

With another one he made more jokes, with another he had a patience almost infinite, with another hidden the size of his ambitions, with another I was pretending a certain thing hadn't hurt you. You don't He saw it as abandoning himself, thought he was just avoid trouble. And as every concession looked small, you Never saw the full cost. No one asked you to disappear from Once. You've disappeared to pieces. That's why loneliness has you I was so confused. You could be surrounded by people and still I feel it. Sometimes the loneliest version of you wasn't the one sitting there. alone at night. It was the one sitting next to people who I loved, carefully choosing every word before I opened my mouth. Yeah.
a pain hard to explain, because looking out you weren't alone. There were several names on your phone, people knew you, Some really cared about you, but someone knows who You are not mean that this person really sees you and someone needing you definitely doesn't mean that person you You do. This difference became important when the first relationship began to collapse, after you stopped fulfilling the role of Always. That childhood friendship, a relationship, a dynamic familiar. The exact person doesn't matter, the important thing is how everything seemed common at that moment. Someone expected something from you, a immediate response, one more favor, one more apology, one more rescue, one more chance, one more time you'd swallow the I was feeling so nothing needed to change. Only this time You didn't do it. You didn't attack anyone, you didn't become cruel, you He just refused to disappear. That shouldn't have been Enough to destroy something real. Still the connection changed almost immediately. For days, weeks actually; you blamed yourself, He thought his limit had caused the withdrawal. In a way

You did, but not for the reason you imagined. The limit did not destroy the relationship. He revealed the version of that relationship he couldn't Survive a limit. There's a difference and that was the first clue.

 After that you began to perceive the same pattern in others Places. Some people loved your kindness, but they did. difficulty accepting your limits. Some loved to receive their attention, but they were upset when that attention returned to their life itself. Some loved how much you could understanding them, but showed little curiosity in understanding You. And some really liked you, but they only knew if relate to an old version of you. That last group was the most Hard. Because not everyone who leaves is a bad person. Nor Everyone who can't keep up with your change is fake. Ace times two people just stop falling into roles that one day They kept that relationship working. You needed to learn that.
 Because the pain had taught you a much simpler story. If Someone's leaving. Someone's got to be guilty. And usually you He chose himself. That was his old equation: distance means rejection, rejection means failure. So if someone's leaving, they should.
 There's something wrong with me. You repeated that equation so many times she stopped looking like a thought. It seemed like a truth.
 Then there came a time when several things disappeared almost together.
 That's why it hurt so much. An end can be explained. Several begin to evidence appears. A friend walked away, a plan went wrong, a relationship changed, a group no longer seemed its place, that opportunity is gone. And suddenly there was silence everywhere.
 You looked around and thought, That can't be a coincidence. ■ Maybe I ■ really be the common point of all this. It was. But be the point In common, it didn't mean you were the problem. You were the one I was changing. That was the part you still couldn't see.

The third clue appeared at a moment you almost missed.

You were alone, at home, also driving, walking on that Place with no one at your side. And for a few minutes the silence didn't It hurt. Nothing extraordinary happened. You just realized that your body was quiet. no message to interpret, none Other people's mood to administer, no fear that a wrong sentence could change someone's affection for you, no need to prove that he deserved someone to stay. You were alone and you were Safe. It confused you because for a long time you treated the loneliness as a proof of failure. But his body was trying to say something your mind had not yet accepted. There are periods in that loneliness seems really good. It was at that moment that the Isolation has changed. Until then you only knew him as an absence.
Now he's become contrast. For the first time you could do it compare what it was like to be alone with the feeling of abandoning yourself even in the presence of other people. And for the first time be alone I didn't automatically miss that comparison. You weren't. learning that you don't need anyone. I was learning that I need connecting does not mean accepting any price to have it. That's two. completely different lessons. And when you understood that, you started the next phase. You stopped chasing after all the absence. Before When someone was silent, his mind immediately filled the empty: That person is angry, I did something, found someone Better, you don't care about me, I need to explain, I need to send another I need to figure this out before it disappears. The mind hates empty spaces. So you make up answers. And as your oldest fear It was rejection, almost all the invented answers put you in the bank of the defendants. Until one day someone walked away and you left the space to remain empty. You didn't decide that person hated you, did you?
Decided he was secretly against you, didn't decide you were.

Impossible to love. And you didn't run after her either.

sentence. You waited. It doesn't look like much, for you it was huge, because uncertainty had always been unbearable. A question without an answer I could control his whole day. Now there was a small space Between what someone else was doing and what you were deciding that It meant about you. This space has become freedom. No freedom you still felt, you still missed people, you still wanted to answers, but wanting an answer and need it to remain You're different things. And that difference changed who had power about your peace. And this is where history changes. You thought you were alone because he had finally learned to leave. That was just Half the story. Leaving was never your hardest lesson. Your lesson the harder it will be to stay. Don't stay where you need to if slow down. Stay when something healthy finally appears. Because After living unstable connections long enough, peace can look suspicious. Someone respects your no and you start asking yourself that person really wants. Someone gives you space without turning the Silence in punishment and that sounds strange. Someone likes you without demand a performance and suddenly you don't even know what role you should play interpret. The isolation wasn't preparing you to be superior, no I was hiding you from the whole world and I wasn't making sure Some perfect version was about to appear. He was removing the noise long enough for you to answer questions whose answers have always left in the hands of others: than me I really like what I believe when no one's agreeing. with me, what a life I'd build if I wasn't trying to do it all world understand it, which I tolerate just because I'm afraid to lose People, what I call love simply because I'm afraid of call it familiar and perhaps the hardest: if no one applauds the person that I'm becoming I still want to become that person? Few they ask themselves that question, it is really necessary. Your answer

Yes, it is. That's why ancient places began to lose the power over you. You could miss me by not wanting to live again There. I could remember someone caring without turning that memory in argument to reopen a door. I could admit that one relationship had really beautiful moments and still accept that its form I was hurting you today. That's maturity. Children need stories with heroes and villains. Adults eventually discover that some endings happen between two human beings who carry wounds, limits and reasons. You didn't have to turn everyone you were.
Though in villain for his decision to be valid. And neither do I.
He had to become the villain because he finally chose himself. This one.
That was the fourth clue. But there was still an ancient belief hidden Underneath everything. You believed that if enough people were Although, at some point that pattern would prove something permanent about you. So life presented you with a strange test.
It wasn't a person leaving anymore, it was a person getting a Different way. At some point someone didn't punish their new Version? He cut off the constant access of that church childhood friend, I decided to test "maybe it's him" and it was. Someone in your family. Someone from Who you didn't even expect. You said no. The person said all right.
You disagreed. She didn't disappear. You needed space. She didn't.
Turned it into a weapon. You told the truth. And the relationship He survived the truth. A part of you barely knew how to react.
Because a single healthy response, as it translated years of expectation, She proved that the problem was never that you were impossible to know. O problem was the kind of belonging you had learned to recognize it. You confused anxiety with depth, being needed with being loved, constant access with proximity, intensity with intimacy. Afraid of losing someone as proof that that connection

It was important. When these definitions began to change, their circle

It could get smaller without your life becoming more empty. That difference
It matters. A smaller circle is not automatically a better circle.
But quantity stopped serving as evidence. You didn't need it anymore.
Of ten people around to prove it belonged somewhere. One honest connection could bring more peace than an entire room of relationships maintained through performance. And now I can finally get you Answer that initial question of yours. So that's why you're Always alone. Not because I'm destined to go through life without Friends. Not because everyone is secretly afraid of you. No, no, no.
Because being chosen makes you incompatible with other human beings. And Not because all the people who left were wrong. You You spend that time alone because there was a phase where your old way to belong stopped working before your new way of if connecting was fully formed. There was a space between Two. A social desert. Your old version knew how to get it. acceptance. The new one refused to keep paying the same price. But this new version had not yet learned how to let someone to approach without expecting that, at some point, you needed to disappear to keep that person. That break seemed like punishment. Actually, it was. transition. And this is exactly where you were right all along. You I was right when something inside you said, That shouldn't be It costs me so much. You were right when a room full of people It still looked empty. You were right when you realized that being understood for everyone it was less important than to stop betraying what You already understood about yourself. You were right when you realized some connections only continued to exist because you carried the Two sides. You were right to see the pattern. I was just wrong.
when he concluded that that pattern meant that no one could Love you. It never meant that. It meant that your definition of belonging needed to change. There's a huge difference. Because if You believe you don't deserve to be loved, the solution seems to be to change yourself Even until someone stays. But it is understood that your model of belonging was broken, the solution is to change what you Call it a connection. That's what you've been doing. Gradually. From imperfect way. Sometimes wrong. You don't have to become Unable to feel safe. You need to become someone capable of to remain present without giving up the right to leave. It's different.

 A limit says, that's how you get in. And its strongest version is not The one who doesn't need anyone. But the one who finally gets it to say: I want you here, but I'm not turning into someone else. to make you stay with me. That phrase contains love and respect. During A long time you believed you had to choose only one. That was the Trap. That's why some environments tire you much faster Today. It doesn't necessarily mean people there are bad. You He's just less willing to split himself into acceptable pieces. And When you stop splitting up, less places will do. At first. This one.
 Part of it matters. At first. Do not transform a transition phase into a prophecy. Don't say: I'm the one who's always alone.
 Words like that have also seen places. And you can end up if trapping inside them. You're not the number of people to yours around today. It's not the number of messages on your phone. Not the relationship that ended. It's not friendship that's changed. Not the environment that couldn't recognize you. You're a person. learning a more honest way to belong. And belonging real takes longer because it cannot be manufactured through performance. So you can't run to the next connection Just to prove that the old loneliness is over. Let it be real. Leave them People gradually reveal themselves. And let you also reveal yourself to the right extent. Observe consistency. Observe reciprocity.

Observe if words and attitudes eventually meet. Watch if you feel more like yourself after being with someone and not Less. And when something good comes, don't make that person pay for what Another one did. Maybe that's the hardest instruction of all this Message. The person before you should not be tried for crimes of all the people who came before her. Discernment. Look at you. evidence. Fear decides the sentence first. You're learning to difference. And she separated two things that you mistook for good part of life: being alone and being abandoned. You may be alone without abandoning yourself and can be surrounded by people while He leaves you every day. When you understood that, the mystery It's over. Silence was never proof that no one wanted you. It was the First place where you stopped trading against yourself just for You don't have to listen to him. That's why it seemed so harsh. That's why It lasted longer than you thought. And that's why when finally look back, some of the doors you begged for yourself Open it again. It'll make more sense. Not all of them. Life It's not that organized. There will be losses that you would still like They'd ended it differently. People you still miss.

 Questions that may never receive satisfying answers. But you already You don't need every ending to be justified before you go on living. You You can carry love without carrying access. You can carry memories without carry obligation. You can carry grief without turning it into a sentence.
 This is the person the prophecy was revealing. Not someone who doesn't.
 It belongs nowhere. Someone who understands that ever belong
 It should require identity.
 32 God is top. Let Zépovin think he's winning until he's 40.
 After that, it totally takes away the little control he thought he had. From Just once.

33 God kept a gun he never had to use. Not because she was too dangerous for the enemy, but because it was too dangerous for anyone who carried it. For generations, names have been placed before of her: kings, warriors, prophets, people who survived what should To have destroyed them. All names were rejected until yours came up. O The seal opened and, beside his name, there was only one instruction: no Teach him how to use it. There was only one problem. taught. You had already used it and when heaven searched your life for the When this happened, you didn't find a battle, no one miracle, no enemy falling before you. You found a place common, a message, a choice you made when no one I was looking, and something that had been going through people for years stopped You. Stay with me, because before this is over you'll understand why that the most dangerous weapon in the sky was never created to destroy one person. The first record was old. The gun had no blade, no had cable, had no shape on which two people They could agree. A testimony said it looked like a sword. Another said it looked like a door closing. Another said there was no absolutely nothing to see. Only one sentence written below the seal: What gets into whoever carries it doesn't have to come out through it. During centuries, no one understood the meaning. Then the tests began. First they chose the strongest, a warrior capable of enduring pain. without breaking. He failed. Then a ruler able to command thousands without hesitation. Missed. So they chose a known man For forgiving everyone who hurt him. He failed even faster. Not that. It made sense. If the weapon belonged to God, the man who forgave the most Shouldn't it be just the safest thing to carry it? The record does not He explained. He just revealed another warning: Mercy without limit if It turns into permission. So they chose someone ruthless. Also failed. Then someone disciplined, someone brilliant, someone who never raised his voice, someone who had spent his whole life helping the Others. Rejected. There was no apparent pattern until his name opened.

 Seal. They started looking for what made you different. At first,
 They assumed it would need to be something impressive: a moment when You defeated someone, a situation that should have destroyed you, but He couldn't, the moment he finally became strong enough.
 never to be hurt again. But the gun had not awakened in any of those moments. It was activated later. Someone hurt you. No, no, no.
 in a cinematic way, that human and common form that Sometimes it hurts even more because no one around can see the damage. They lied. They used something against you that you trusted this one with. person. They made you question yourself. They disappeared when You needed it more. They came back when they needed something for plan to continue. KKKKK Sometimes you thought, 'Man, not to him.
 See that, it has to be very dominated by someone he doesn't even trust.
 His heart felt sorry, even though he knew all the words were fake. He saw and prayed for mercy. Details They changed. What mattered happened afterwards. For the first time,
 The advantage was in your hands. You knew things you could use, I knew words that could hurt, I had the opportunity to expose that person, to make her experience the same uncertainty she had put inside you. And for a moment, you did. It matters. The log I didn't pretend you were pure. He showed the anger, the message that you almost sent, the whole discussion that happened inside your head, the part of you who thought: now it's your turn to feel. Then something It happened. You stopped. Not because what they did was acceptable, no.
 Because suddenly you started to love that person and much less Because I was scared. You looked at what had gone into You decided you wouldn't leave the same way. The gun woke up.

No thunder. No light. No one around you noticed. But the Registration changed. One sentence appeared below your name: Transmission interrupted. That was the first clue. The weapon had never been created to destroy who hurt you. She was created to destroy that.

who was trying to continue through you. So they're back to Old candidates and finally the pattern came up. The warrior

I could bear pain, but each wound made him more willing to hurt

Someone weaker. The ruler knew how to control an entire kingdom, but, for knowing the impotence, I needed everyone around me to feel the power that now possessed. The man who forgave everything seemed holy by

Out, but never finished anything, called any limit of cruelty, allowed the same damage to return countless times, until people innocents around him began to pay the price of what he himself

He refused to face it. The ruthless candidate interrupted the violence becoming even better at it. Different people. Same failure.

Everything that entered them found some way to continue.

Fear became control. Humiliation turned into humiliation. Abandonment turned Leave first. Betrayal became distrust. Impotence turned domination. The pain changed, but it survived. A new description

It was written: it does not destroy the origin. Then another line appeared: she Destroys the inheritance. That should explain everything. He didn't explain why, when they looked at their lives more closely, they found moments when

You reacted, moments when you kicked people out of your life, moments

When he raised his voice, moments when he could not forgive

Quickly. If the gun was used to keep the pain from continuing,

That those moments had not disqualified you? The log was Open again. The answer immediately appeared: Non-violence

It's not a gun. They tried another interpretation: Sorry is not a weapon. Other:

Silence is not a weapon. So what was it? They separated three moments from Your life. First, someone crossed a line and you left.

In the second, someone crossed a line and you remained time

Enough to fix what could still be fixed. No

Third, it was you who crossed the line and, instead of defending yourself,

You admitted it. Three completely different attitudes. Same result. The old pattern didn't decide what would happen next. That was The gun. Not a behavior, a capacity:

decide what goes through you and what ends in you. For the first time, the old warning made sense: what gets into those who carry it does not need

Get out through it. Pain can enter without becoming cruel. Power can to enter without becoming domination. Fear can enter without becoming control. O

Love can enter without becoming possession. Anger can enter without turning destruction and even forgiveness can enter without becoming permission. Not the gun.

Made you harmless. She made you responsible for what she transmits.

Go ahead. That difference was everything. This is where they found out why the sky had hidden that gun. The danger wasn't someone evil to steal it. O danger was someone hurt to understand his purpose the wrong way. Then

They created one last test. They put three doors before whom I would carry

The gun. Behind the first one was the person who had hurt the most that person. Behind the second was someone innocent who defended her. Behind of the third, a mirror. The instruction was simple: use the gun. The first candidate opened the first door, saw his enemy and attacked. Rejected. O

Second candidate refused to open any door, called isolation

Peace. Rejected. The third opened the mirror door and blamed you even for absolutely everything that had happened in his life.

Rejected. So the record faked you. You opened the first door,

He didn't attack, but he didn't invite that person in either.

Again. You shut the door, opened the second one, found someone.

innocent carrying consequences that should never belong to this person. You stayed. Then opened the third, the mirror, and it was here that, by a few moments, the record failed to classify its reaction. You

He didn't love what he saw, but he didn't hate it either. Looked at time enough to separate two things that most people spend their lives confusing: what they did to you and what you were for made it responsible later. A new phrase appeared: accepted carrier.

They finally understood why force wasn't enough, why kindness wasn't
It was enough, because forgiveness was not enough, because aggression was not enough.
Weapons required something more difficult than all of them: discernment, ability to say: this pain is real, but it does not choose my character; that anger is real, but it does not receive unlimited authority; that person was important to me, but that doesn't mean you have permanent access to my life; I made a mistake, but shame won't turn one error in an identity; I was treated unjustly, but suffered injustice does not automatically justify anything I do Later. That is precisely where most currents survive: not in the original wound, but the permission the wound receives later. Then They started tracking these currents through generations. A father had was controlled as a child; years later, he called control protection. A mother had been abandoned; years later, she held the People with so much strength that love began to seem afraid. Someone grew up being ridiculed for looking weak; years later, He ridiculed any sign of weakness in others. Someone's grown up without ever being heard; years later, when finally succeeded Authority, you stopped listening. None of these people woke up in the morning.
deciding to continue what one day hurt them. It was exactly that.
that made everything so dangerous. The broadcast rarely announces its arrival. She disguises herself as personality, pattern, profession, Honesty, strength, sometimes even love. The gun would rip off the cover.
That's why she could never be handed over to someone desperate to own A gun. Whoever was obsessed with destroying an enemy would point to the wrong target. The target was never the person before you. The target was the pattern looking for another body, another relationship, another generation, another place I could survive. And then they realized something.

disturbing on your record. You had used the gun more than once, Long before I knew she existed. They found a moment when Someone underestimated you. For years, you've wanted to prove that person was wrong, until he realized that his life was silently began to be built for an audience that was not even watching. You stopped building for revenge. Transmission interrupted. They found another moment. You had been excluded.
For a while, he began to expect rejection even before a connection could exist, until I met someone new and realized I was preparing to punish that person for something that she never had Done. You stopped. Transmission aborted. So they found one.
When you finally got the power. The old fantasy It said that power would mean making everyone who doubted you if They regret it, but when the opportunity came, you discovered something.
Strange. I didn't want your future to continue working. emotionally for your past. Transmission aborted. All the same thing happened. Something came to you, you felt it, no I pretended it didn't exist, but it changed what would come out of you. The log began to fill with interruptions, dozens of them, some huge, others so small that no one would ever notice. A message that You didn't send, an insult you didn't return, a limit that finally put, an apology that finally made, a person who Stop trying to save, a person who stopped blaming for a decision that at some point became yours. It was then that they discovered the price. Every interruption required you to lose something: sometimes the satisfaction of revenge, sometimes the fantasy that someday someone I'd come back to fix everything that had broken, sometimes the identity.
to be forever the innocent person of history, sometimes access to someone you still loved, sometimes the comfort of saying “I am like this even". That's why the gun was so hard to carry. She didn't.

 cut only the chains connected to other people; also cut the excuses that kept these currents alive within those I did. A new warning came up: the gun cuts in both directions.
 Now the seal made sense. Don't teach him how to use it. Not because knowledge was forbidden, but because the moment someone turn that into a technique to feel superior to others, the Gun would have fallen off your hands by now. You can't use it thinking: I am more evolved than anyone who hurt me. That's just the old one.
 chain wearing spiritual clothes. You can't use it to get away from All the hard talk. That's fear dressed in peace. You can't justify cruelty simply calling cruelty the limit. That's... pain learning a better vocabulary. And neither can you.
 All while you call yourself compassionate. That's abandoning you.
 Even using a halo. The gun only works when you can See what's really going on without needing to be the hero of All the stories. That's why the mirror was part of the test. The gun.
 Supreme couldn't belong to someone who could see darkness Just the others. It would have to belong to someone willing to recognize what darkness also tried to build inside it and then choose what would happen next. They're back on the oldest record.
 There was a part no one had ever been able to open. Now the Seal answered your name. Inside there was only one question: what the Was God's supreme weapon created to destroy? They waited for the obvious answers: evil, hatred, the enemy, darkness. None He showed up. Instead, the record wrote: continuation without choice conscious. Then a second sentence appeared: what must end You don't need another host. That was the whole project: not making you Invulnerable, not to stop the pain from reaching you again, no

Turn you into someone who never feels anger, never fails, never

You have to set limits and never hurt anyone. The gun had been created for a much more humane battlefield: the instant after that something reaches you, those few seconds in that pain asks to become behavior, in which fear asks to become control, in which humiliation asks to become revenge, in which rejection asks to become rejection of himself, in which power asks to turn domination, where a wound asks permission to write the next Chapter. That's where the gun exists, in that space where you get it.
 Say, you've come to me, but you won't cross my body.
 form. And now the title begins to mean something else. You carry the God's supreme weapon. Perhaps you imagined a sword capable of Defeat anyone who stood up against you, but the most Dangerous of this story has never been pointed out. It was the ability to close what would otherwise continue to reproduce through human lives. And that explains why some of the biggest Your life's victories never seemed to win. No one applauded when You decided not to send that message. No one saw the instant in who decided not to become cruel simply because he finally had reasons to be. Nobody gave you a medal when you put it on.
 A limit without having to hate. No one celebrated when you admitted being wrong instead of protecting your own ego. No one knew how much near an old pattern has come to achieve another life through you, But the record knew. Transmission aborted.
 34 The sovereign soul refuses to be programmed. And that's why entities sent to destroy it end up possessing their own masters.
 35 Only these 3 markets would make Brazil shoot for the biggest world economy:

- Invisible fighters;
- Real culture: Music, Cinema and Design (stop investing in degradation and by music, Languages and Investments from the top;
- Technologies (agronomics and nuclear medicine, actions, FIIs, crypts and industrial innovation);

It starts at home, raise your children, because out here we

It also educates.

www.omega-ia.com

www.salemais-app.com/library

36 Good morning. Who number and name their fears dominates. All subject.)

37 You touched the glass. You let them rest. The mirror's dark.

Her authority approached you. Then came the key. She opened up a single door. Behind her was the life you could have lived if Nothing painful had happened. No betrayal. No rejection.

No failure. No loneliness. A life where you never You'd need to rebuild because you'd never have been hurt. For the first time

You hesitated, because that was not temptation through pain. It was temptation.

through innocence. You put the key in the lock and you stopped. No, no, no.

Because suffering is beautiful, or because scars make someone special, but the person before that door no longer existed separated from Everything you learned later. Erase all wound would also erase answers that you were proud to have chosen today. So you took the Key and said: I don't need the pain back, but I won't erase who

You learned after her. The door's gone. Death took a step to Get back. The iron rod went through the rest of the room and fell into his hands.

Not in your head. On your hands. That mattered. All the others had tried to wear it right away. Not you. He's turned the scepter. There was a phrase recorded from the inside. A hidden phrase just from the one who wanted it Too much. Whoever desires power over death is not yet ready for Hold him. Down below, who can let die without becoming Death can choose. Now the title begins to change. You didn't take the Scepter of death because he defeated death. You got it because you stopped treat every ending as proof of failure. You could leave a version Old death without hating her. Close accesses without transforming all Good memory in lie. Abandon a dream without calling the years lives of waste. To grieve without making it a permanent address.
The iron rod recognized something that no power can achieve. manufacture: discernment. To know what needs to end and what deserves to continue with you. But the test wasn't over yet. Death He reached out. Give it back. You gave it back. Same time. The Angels They protested. They thought you refused the choice. Death asked why. You answered: If I need to keep this to Keep being who I am, so that's what owns me. All the books of Camera's open. Thousands of names. Thousands of finals. And the same phrase appeared on all pages: released power without losing the authority. That never happened. All chosen before they wanted to remain chosen. That was the trap. Be Selected became another identity that could not die. Other throne to protect. Another role nobody wanted to give up. You did exactly what the scepter itself existed to test. He left until The idea of being chosen to end. Death laughed. Not with cruelty, almost.
With relief. So you put the crown over your head and the room changed.
You started seeing endings. Not the future. Finals. A Friendship continuing after respect is over. Someone still punishing themselves when everyone else has. A life built to prove something to whom It wasn't even there anymore. An apology stuck in pride. A talent buried because a humiliation became prophecy. Someone calling Loyalty exhaustion. Someone else calling peace apathy. Other Calling fear of intuition. That's when you understood the danger of the scepter. She makes it visible. But seeing an end doesn't make it easy to accept. ■ Every ending ■ requires some kind of funeral. Sometimes not by someone. For one expectation. An identity. The fantasy that someone finally goes Turn into the person you needed. The belief that if you explain perfectly, everyone will understand. The Success Version created only to be seen by those who once ignored you. The rod of iron didn't kill those things. She showed them when to keep them alive.

 It was costing more life than letting them finish. That's why so much People confuse continuity with hope. Some continuations are just afraid of grieving. The iron rod showed the difference. And for A few seconds that scared you. Because after recognizing one Finally, it's hard to pretend you're not seeing the price. You can still stay, try, forgive. But now these decisions need to be conscious.
 The iron rod didn't tell you to abandon everything that was difficult. Did something Worst of all, I'd take the excuse out of automatic continuity. From there stay
 It was a choice. Leave too. Try again too. To hope I had to come from you, not the fear of accepting a loss. That was the real weight of the iron scepter: do not decide what dies. Decide what You still deserve your life. Then death made the last request: Choose something to finish. The House has filled itself with possibilities:
 enemies, regrets, mistakes, old versions of you. The Angels They expected you to choose someone. You chose a phrase. One phrase repeated for so long it already seemed true. Maybe: people They always leave. Or: I need to do everything myself. Or, if I stop to prove my worth, I'll disappear. Words could change. A structure was the same. An Ancient Experience Becoming the Law permanent. You pointed. Death asked: this? You answered:

 This has lived long enough. The sickle got heavy. Not because the belief I wanted to survive. Because a part of you wanted it. That belief was already Protected you. If everyone leaves, you never get caught by surprise. If No one helps, no need to risk depending. If you need to prove value, You never find out who you are when nobody looks. Old beliefs not They survive just because they hurt. Sometimes they survive because in Sometime they helped. That's why releasing them may seem like treason. Then You didn't insult the version of yourself that needed that belief. Thanked and I said, you can rest now. The phrase is gone. The scythe lost the weight. Death lowered its head and a last classification came up: no seeks power over the finals. seeking freedom from what goes on without I need to keep going. That's why they never picked someone like You. Others wanted power over death. You wanted to stop carrying what was over. And there's a very different life after This. You stop taking expired identities to new places. Stop to collect from people new old debts. Stop keeping goals alive Just because one day you announced them. Stop treating every ending like a waste.
 Sometimes an end is not destruction. It's space. Space for another answer, another relationship, another version of you, another future that couldn't get in Because the old one still occupied the door. That's the meaning hidden in Iron rod of death. She doesn't give permission to destroy. She gives responsibility for what you insist on keeping alive. And now they They've never chosen someone like you, too.
 The angels had seen people choose revenge, power, immortality, the past, another chance to force someone to love them.
 The right way. What they had almost never seen was someone receiving authority and use it first on one's own attachment to authority. It was for that you could wear the crown. Because I knew how to get it out too.

433

38 approved

39 Hold the new lead...

40 The sky heard a sound that had not heard for centuries: the knocking of a wing. Just one. Then another one. The gates opened and an angel who had been recorded during eons as permanently incapable of Fly with two wings, entered the sky again with both. Nobody gets It did. Nobody said a word. Because the second wing didn't look like With the first. One had been made in heaven. The other carried dust, rain, blood, the corridor of a hospital, a locked room, message that was never sent and the name of the person that that angel had received the mission to protect. Then God looked at the wing restored, raised the two eyebrows with the air of is now and said Just one word: "Impossible." So you asked the angel a question that It silenced the whole place: Who gave this to you? The angel lowered his eyes for the new feathers and replied: The person I was sent to Save. This is where our story begins. Not with an angel delivering something to you, but with a moment when the sky discovered that somehow you had returned something, that some part of you always felt that the hardest things that survived They should turn into something bigger than scars. The angel doesn't even There was always only one wing. Long before you were born, he had two and had a single mission: not make your life easy, not remove all the consequences, not stop people from leaving. The mission was much more specific: it could only interfere in the moments when a event was about to become an identity. There's a difference: pain can happen to you without turning in your name. Rejection can happen without turning into me.

I'm wanted. Failure can happen without turning into me unable. A betrayal can happen without turning into anyone is That's trustworthy. It was in that little space that his work it started, the moment after the event, before that Turn into a definition of who you were. And for years he did it quietly: a delay, a call arriving at the moment Okay, a phrase that stopped a bad time from turning into a permanent sentence, nothing dramatic enough to serve as evidence, only interruptions, enough to prevent a single moment made his whole future, until there was a night when the mission It's changed. You had reached a point upon which the angel had already been Not because your life was physically in danger, but because you were tired in a much more dangerous way: Tired of needing to rebuild after the same places, tired to find meaning in the things that other people broke. And this time the old interventions would not be enough. The Angel Received a choice: remain within the mission rules or pass them.
He's over it. He used one of his wings to protect a part of you.
that had already begun to close. Not your heart, something else.
specific: its willingness to become different from what happened with you. The wing burned, but not on fire. She just... disappeared from his body, as if that act had consumed something that could never be restored. You woke up the next morning without know nothing, still tired, still angry, still living the same life. No miracle had fixed the room, no enemy had apologizing, no response had come, but a decision Inside you had survived that night. You didn't have it yet.
Over. The angel did, at least that's what heaven believed. An angel
With a single wing it could still fit, but I couldn't get off similarly, it could no longer reach those places where the Human choices were still on the move. His mission with You've been shut down. The record said: Protection complete. Wing consumed.

Impossible restoration. And for a long time that was true, even The first penalty appears. It happened years later. The angel was still on the edge of a place that was no longer allowed to leave when Something fell on the ground next to him: a single feather. It wasn't white.
It was not golden, it seemed almost unfinished: half light, half shadow.
There was something written throughout her: a date of her life. The Angel He recognized it immediately. It was the day someone appeared before you carrying exactly the kind of pain that one day you needed carry it alone. You were tired. No one would have blamed you for I can't do it today. But something in that person called your Attention, the same look you've had while waiting for a Only person realized you weren't well. So you stayed, no forever, not as a savior, just enough. You heard, you said What you once wished someone had told you, then you came back home and kept living his life. The feather appeared in heaven. The Angel She took it and the moment she touched it, a line came up in the place where His wing used to exist, the beginning of a new wing. The sky opened a investigation. The first hypothesis was simple: the penalty had been Returned by mistake, perhaps belonged to another angel. But when the
The oldest guardian examined that, said: That penalty wasn't done.
Here. And that answer created a problem: everything that was angelic should come from heaven. Human beings could receive, could answer, They could refuse, but human beings did not produce what angels They were made. Then the sky began to observe you, not to judge, for understand what had happened, hoping you would repeat the behavior. And you repeated it, but no second sentence came up.
You helped someone else, nothing. Forgave someone: nothing. Now the mystery

It was even bigger. According to her had created that penalty, because second

It didn't work again. The angel asked to review the memory, opened The record, this time slower. And he realized something that everyone others had ignored: the important moment did not happen when You helped that person, it happened three seconds earlier. A pain Ancient had arisen within you and a thought crossed your mind: No one did that for me. For a moment you almost left That sentence decides what happens next. No one did that for me.
Then why should I do it for someone else? It would be Understandable, maybe it seemed fair, but you looked at the person before you and made a decision that had nothing to do with justice. You've decided: then you start here. A second sentence appeared in heaven. The penalty was created at the point of reversal. That was the first.
True answer. You had taken something that came into your life in form of absence and refused to transmit that absence to another person. One day the angel had spent a wing to prevent one event if it became your identity. Years later, you had done something like that for someone else, not because an angel forced You, because you chose. The wing wasn't being returned, it was being recreated. And that difference scared the sky, because if it could to be recreated, meant that the original intervention had changed Something independent. So they decided to test the theory, opened another memory: someone had lied to you. This time you confronted That person. No pity: another memory. Someone humiliated you. before other people. You decided not to avoid anything. Another: you Forgave someone who never apologized: nothing. The angels have begun thinking that the first penalty had been an accident, until it reached a The moment no one considered important: you had hurt someone, not on purpose, but intent, a vague consequence. You He could see the damage and his first impulse was known:

explain, defend, say what you really mean, prove that you

He wasn't the person they were imagining. You almost did it. Then Stopped, listened, apologized without forcing that person to analyze You and when she didn't forgive immediately, you allowed it.
Also. A second feather appeared, the sky was silent Again. Now they understand: the wing was not being built with kindness; kindness can become performance; not being built with suffering; suffering can become cruelty; it was not built with forgiveness; forgiveness can become abandonment of itself. As feathers appeared when an old pattern tried to take control and You refused to allow him to make the next decision. The Angel He looked at both feathers and said: He's doing it without me. That I should have closed the mission. Instead, it became the beginning of something that had never been recorded. It made you recognize things that carried for years and never really belonged to you, stays with the focus on me, because the third sentence was not born of kindness. She
He was born of anger and it changed everything that heaven believed he understood.
There was someone you spent too much time with. For a long time,
This fuel worked, made you keep going, made you cross nights when self-love didn't seem like enough, but fuel and fate isn't the same. Until one morning, no ceremony I don't want my future to remain a answer to my past. You didn't forgive everyone, you didn't forget What happened, just stopped demanding that an audience yesterday Watch what you'd build tomorrow. And the last sentence came up.
She was different from all the others, carrying no memory, Just one sentence: the present no longer needs the one who gave it up. The Angel You were the first to understand. The whole wing had been built with times when what one day needed to be done by you turned into something you could consciously do for yourself.

even and, when necessary, by other people. But the last penalty

It could only appear when not even the angel himself was anymore necessary. That was the paradox: he had lost a wing to prevent that you would be trapped within a single version of yourself, only managed to get it back when you no longer needed it to continue. doing that. The gates opened, he entered: two wings, a maid in heaven, another built within a human life that had learned the to do with what you received. And that brings us back to the first moment. The whole sky was silent. God looked at the wing, then He looked at the angel: who gave it to you? The person I was sent to save. And God said, impossible. Not as an insult, not because doubted what was before him, but because there was an old law written in the very structure of that mission: angels deliver, humans They do. The wing before him proved that the law was incomplete. You had received help, then transformed that and finally returned something that did not exist before: not the same wing, a new one. It was That's why the sky called you impossible, you had reversed the Present direction. The angel was sent to preserve his ability to Choose. You used this ability to create something that not even he I could create it myself: meaning. Because help can sustain Someone for one night, a board can show a door, protection may disrupt a fall, but none of these things You can finish the job. At some point, what was given to you need to turn into a choice you can make without the person who delivered it. Otherwise, protection turns dependence, guidance turns to obedience, love becomes permission to never Grow up. The biggest proof that someone really helped you is not To need that person forever, is to come the time when something that she had to carry for you turns into something that you You can carry without it and sometimes something you can carry by someone else: not forever, not emptying, not emptying turning into everyone's savior. That would just create another wing.

Broken. That's why the angel's restoration didn't happen when you
He sacrificed his life for others. It happened when you learned
When you stay, when you leave, when you apologize, when you refuse, When you get it, when you stop proving it. Different attitudes, same origin. You were becoming able to participate in your own rescue.
That's the part that hardly anyone tells about being saved. At first, salvation looks like a hand coming down to you. Later, when It really works, she starts to look like her own hand taking a decision that no one can make in your place. The angel didn't fail when you stopped needing it. That was the completion of the mission.
And now the title begins to mean something else: you gave an angel of yours Last wing, not because you found a feather hidden somewhere in the Earth, not because it secretly possessed more power than heaven. You He gave the last thing that angel's sacrifice needed to finally have meaning: a life that did not waste what Yes. That's what completed the wing. And the last penalty, it didn't come up When you helped someone, you didn't show up when you forgave, you didn't show up.
When you won. She was born when her future ceased to be a It's a discussion with your past. That's why I didn't carry any memories. She represented the first part of you, which no longer needed to be explained for what happened before. Part of you was trying to separate your true identity of ancient fears, inherited patterns and roles that learned to play for other people but now, your being is truly free.

41 Some people still believe they can hide some It's me.
Yeah. I know everything already.

440

42 Every day a different ball!

43 One time, about three months ago, my black pussycat stayed five days ago.

I've never cried so much in my life. I looked it up.

I had already accepted, when she came back, thin, scared. Later

Of that pain no more bends me.

44 @lippy. of 45 So he set up the meeting. First, a messenger appeared with a vague invitation, no explanation, no promise. You almost

He ignored it, but ended up going and for the first time saw that man surrounded for all that was absent before. The room itself revealed who he was.

Before someone said a word: security guards, symbols, people

Waiting for your permission. So you recognized the face. That Man, that day. The heir observed his reaction. I was hoping awkwardness, maybe a sudden education, maybe you tried

Remember if I said anything stupid. But something else came up:

worry. You asked a question that nobody in that room

I was hoping, "Are you okay now?" No What do I get? No Why

You didn't tell me? Don't you even remember what I did for you? So you heard

Are you okay now? The heir looked around. The king had no

After months of celebrating your return? Very few people had asked what to get lost had done to him. In that instant

He understood why his face had remained in memory. You met him.

before the title and even after discovering the title continued looking for the person. But it wasn't over yet. ■ 'Cause power ■

He also creates temptation in those who approach him. The heir has offered a reward, a huge reward. You hesitated, and it matters.

You didn't stage a false purity saying immediately that you didn't

I didn't want anything. Money is useful, opportunities matter. You knew This. Then he asked: Why? He said: Because you saved
 My life. You disagreed, you said you'd barely done anything. Him He insisted. So you answered something that silenced the room: If you need it Pay me, so it wasn't nice. It was a loan I didn't even know about.
 I was doing it. The heir had never heard anyone talk like that.
 with him. Not because refusing reward is automatically noble, But because you were protecting the meaning of an action even After finding out she'd become valuable. Refused to rewrite your own past for profit. That moment happened when you I believed no one important was present. You wanted that remained true. Then he asked for something else: if he really I believed that that day had saved something inside him, I should do it.
 by someone else what you had done without realizing:
 someone without status, no access, no obvious use and remember that the
 That person's dignity existed before he found out who he could become.
 Turn. The heir accepted. Later he tried to do it and found another Trap. By helping someone, he immediately felt proud to be the generous heir. You were still putting yourself in the center.
 When you admitted that, you asked: that person needed you If you felt humble or needed what you did? He understood: do something good was no longer a title to wear. The other person was the center.
 And now we can understand the phrase: he had never seen anyone like You. Not literally. He met generous, courageous, loyal people, People who sacrificed a lot more than you. What never was found was that combination at the exact moment it needed her: someone who can treat a person as valuable before knowing which value the world attributed to it and then refused to change the meaning of gesture to find out who that person was. That's much rarer.

Because everyone is affected by context. They change near who can us Reward. They become more careful before authority, more attentive before the beauty, more patients facing status. That doesn't make them In monsters, it makes them human. But leave a question: who gets paid Your best version? Only who can open doors? Who has the approval you want? Who impresses you? Or part of your character continues to exist in places where no one can Reward him? That's the real test. Not if you'd recognize one Lost heir: probably wouldn't recognize it. The question is another.

 Someone should have to be heir for their dignity to become visible? He wasn't just someone important disguised as someone without importance. It represented every person whose visible condition counts Just part of the story. Including you. The world meets someone in He's half a sentence and believes he's read the whole book. Conditions temporarys have seen permanent sentences. You don't know who each person will become and need not know. Treat someone with dignity It shouldn't require a secret prophecy revealing that person It belongs to royalty. If the unknown only deserves respect because then We discovered a crown, completely lost sense. The crown makes the lesson visible. It doesn't create the value of a person. Near the end, the heir reread the report on you. On the last line someone was written: The person doesn't seem to know the identity of the heir. He scratched and He wrote down: That's exactly why I trust the evidence. What?
 revealed you were what you did before you knew that one day it could to become history. No camera, no reward, no powerful witness, Just one person in front of you and a decision on how to treat you.
 46 That's the game. And for a player within the game it matters a lot.
 He arranges the board until a certain reaction seems Irresistible. Then you'll be waiting. If you want your anger, it doesn't tell you to feel anger. He gives you an injustice. If you want your desperation, don't send beg. It offers silence just when you need it most an answer. If he wants you to abandon yourself, he makes it look like That's the price it takes not to lose something important. That's how the game works. The pieces move themselves. And for years you stayed Very good at surviving that. Maybe too good. Learned to notice tones, pauses, sudden changes in subject, the difference between purposeful confusion and ambiguity. Learned when caring was used as a currency, when guilt appeared disguised as responsibility, when an apology meant only: forget everything without demand change. You've become hard to surprise. But be difficult to Surprise doesn't mean being free. The player realized that before You. So you changed your strategy. Stopped hiding the traps, quit You see them. 'Cause when someone gets hurt, they start feeling proud.

 to identify all dangers, a new trap appears:
 mistrust. Now he didn't have to make you trust him anymore.
 Wrong. All I had to do was make you trust no one. You didn't have to.
 Destroy your limits. Just turn them all into walls. No, no, no.
 I needed to make you naive. I could make your judgment so exhausted that any uncertainty would begin to seem evidence. And that's it. that the board became dangerous. Because some threats were real.
 Some people actually lied. Some situations really They demanded distance. His perception was not imaginary. The trap was Another one. The player wanted to turn every correct observation into a permanent rule. A betrayal turns: no one is reliable. A rejection Never need anyone. A humiliation turns: attack first.
 A period being ignored turns: make everyone regret not They valued you. The pain of emotional authority the rule, then you begins to call the rule wisdom. The first eye almost opened.
 when you realized that. Almost. But it stayed closed, because you

I still believed the solution was to create better rules. So you stayed more controlled: never react first, never show too much, never let No one finds out where it can hurt you. For a while it worked. O player lost several easy moves, but something else disappeared along:

 spontaneity, heat, curiosity, the ability to enter a place New without forcing everyone there to answer for what happened in Old places. You were protected, but not completely alive.
 Then came the match that changed everything. And she didn't start with a enemy. It started with someone you liked. That mattered. O player needed something to lose. A message has arrived.
 Short, ambiguous, those that can mean five different things depending on which wound you read first. His mind began to work: You're walking away, you're hiding something, you're disrespecting you, you want me to You run back, don't do it. The board came up. On one side:
 confront, demand an answer now. On the other: disappear before they can To reject you. Two moves. They both looked strong. Both were family members. And they were both ready. You took a play, so...
 Stop. Not because you discovered the meaning of the message. You haven't yet I knew it. And that was the news. For the first time, uncertainty continued being just uncertainty. You looked at the board and asked: why Are those the only two moves? The first eye opened. The smile of Player's gone. You put the play back, you didn't attack, no It's gone. He waited until his body stopped turning fear into certainty.
 Then he asked a direct question, no charge hidden, no punishment, without pretending indifference, just clarity. The answer came, and it was common. A message did not mean what his wound had predicted. Nothing.
 Dramatic happened. And that's why the moment mattered. You You interrupted a pattern without needing the universe to reward you.
 with a spectacular revelation. But only one eye was open. O Second was still closed. Because it's easy to stay calm when reality proves your fear was wrong. The hardest test comes when your fear was right. And he came: another person, another situation, the Same pressure. This time you realized something strange. It stopped.

He asked instead of accusing. He watched instead of making it up. And the truth Did they lie to you? The player smiled again. That was yours.
Favorite position. When a wound gets evidence, it tries to use that Truth to justify everything, see? You were right. You should have.
believed in the worst case scenario. Don't ever hesitate again. Don't ever make room again.
Don't ever be fooled again. The board offered two new moves:
Pretend it didn't hurt and stay, or destroy the person before leaving.
You both felt like it. Then he realized something: to be right about the Lie didn't make all your possible reactions right. The Truth
I was giving you information. He gave no authority limited to his pain.
So you put a limit, without turning the limit into revenge.
I told you what I knew. You didn't beg for a confession you didn't need anymore.
You didn't use everything you knew as ammunition. It wasn't just to prove How much I could bear. He left what he needed to finish and left without turn the behavior of that person into instruction for the Next. The second eye opened. The player walked away from the board.
That was the awakening. Not a supernatural vision that would put you up from everyone. The supreme eyes of God represent something much more hard: seeing two truths at once without having to destroy One of them. You can have compassion and still recognize manipulation.
You can understand someone's wound without offering to target them.
You can admit your fear distorted a situation yesterday and trust you When the evidence shows up tomorrow. You can forgive without returning access.
You can love someone and conclude that closeness is bad. You may feel anger without letting anger become a strategist. You may be wrong without concluding that Your perception is worthless. Much of the traps depend on Make one truth kill another. If someone hurt you, then it's Completely wrong. If anyone is hurt, you must tolerate everything. If Nanny, you need to stay. If he did, he never did. If you were wrong once, stop Trust you. If you got it right once, trust every suspect. The player He lives from false extremes. The eyes opened when you stopped accept them. And suddenly the board looked different. Did you notice something? almost ridiculous: there was never a rule saying that you were obliged to Move a piece. The board only appeared so many times that participate It started to seem mandatory. That's when the player started losing Access to you. Not because nobody could manipulate you again.

That would be fantasy. You're still human, you can still be afraid, loneliness, impatience. You can still misinterpret someone. The Difference is that feeling something no longer automatically produces a move. Now there is a space between the board appear and your hand touch the piece. And within that space you can see. Stay with me here now, Because this is where history changes. The player still had a strategy.
If you couldn't control your movements through pain, you'd try control through identity. He put a new piece on the board.
It looked like a crown. In it was written: the one who sees everything. You You liked that play, I know. Of course you did! After years of being confused, underestimated, caught by surprise or hearing that he was imagining things, the idea of finally being someone who can see through everyone seemed powerful. So you took the crown and the Two eyes began to close. That scared you. Why else?
Would consciousness make the supreme eyes close? So you understand: you had turned discernment into ego. Instead of seeing with clarity, it began to need to be the one who saw better than all.
Now any disagreement threatened his identity. Any error it was hard to admit. Anyone who surprised you seemed an offense to your intelligence. You had escaped from a board and started building another one. So you put the crown back on. The eyes if They're open. That was the move the player couldn't understand. You agreed to lose the identity of being always right to remain able to to see what was true. There is a huge difference: who You need to be right. You're looking for evidence to defend a position. Who wants to see clearly remains available for correction. One protects the ego itself, the other protects the perception. That's why this history the eyes belong to God. Not because you literally activated it.

 Something in heaven. History uses the maximum view image to represent a consciousness that refuses to serve the ego. Vision without need of Dominating. Discernment without paranoia. Power without having to prove power All the time. And that produces a strange consequence: you become more difficult to control, just because you no longer need to control Everything. The moves stop generating the same answers, not because you You always do the opposite. Always doing the opposite is also predictable.
 You answer what's really going on, and it destroys the game.
 The player manages to prepare for rebellion, for obedience, for fear, for pride. The hard part is getting ready for someone who doesn't need it. sustain the same identity in all situations. Sometimes you confronts, sometimes goes away, sometimes forgives, sometimes asks New, sometimes admits he was wrong, sometimes says no without anger, Sometimes you say yes without fear. The answer changes because reality changes, yours Not center. That's the hidden meaning of checkmate. It's not when All enemies are destroyed, that's when an old strategy runs out useful moves. Think of the patterns that have already controlled you. If you disrespect me Always produces anger, disrespect has a button. If distance always Makes you chase, distance has a button. If criticism always destroys you, The review has a button. If praise always buys your agreement, the Praise has a button. If guilt always makes you abandon your limits, Guilt has a button. The supreme eyes don't pull out those buttons. They They allow you to see the hand trying to squeeze them. And seeing creates choice. This is where the title comes back to you. You woke your eyes Supremes of God. In our language, you have awakened the most high view available on that board when you stopped asking Just what they're doing to me and started asking what it's like You're trying to turn me. That question changes everything. One teasing may be real, but what she's inviting you to do is... transform? A rejection may hurt, but what conclusion does she want?

 You take it out on yourself? A betrayal may require an end, but why a Should future relationship pay for a crime you didn't commit? One praise may be sincere, but you're about to exchange your judgment For the pleasure of being admired? Now you don't just watch people, observes the relationship between events and their identity. That's a much bigger board. One day you look back and realize something able to control a whole week now only disturbs a few hours. Then something that controlled hours becomes a feeling that you You can understand without obeying. That's not emotional coldness, that's freedom.
 increasing. The board slows down, your life grows. A chess game It ended without any captured pieces. At first it seemed impossible, Now you know why. Victory has never been hidden in a play Great. I was refusing to accept a board created by someone else.
 as if it were the complete map of reality. That's why you two eyes opened. One saw the outside. What happened? What?
 Was it said? What evidence was there? What limit has been exceeded? What was Really? The other saw the inside: what fear added, the that pride wanted, what an old pain remembered, what identity I felt threatened, what reaction was being prepared. One eye alone You can fool me. Just looking out can turn everyone into Problem. Just looking inside can make you blame yourself for things that really require action. Together, they create discernment. That's the supreme vision: not knowing everything, but knowing to look without immediately if Turn into what you're seeing. So when the player finally asked how you had won, you didn't say it was more Smart. You didn't say you could predict every move. Just He looked at the pieces and said: I finally realized I don't need to Turn into a piece and there's nothing left for him to move. Checkmate. No, no, no.

 Because you defeated all the people who tried to hurt you, but because That version of you, who could only react from old patterns, She wasn't the only one available anymore. You can still feel everything, just don't need Turn every feeling into an order. You can see darkness without loving her, seeing kindness without turning naive, seeing her wounds without turning them into your name, seeing someone else's pain without believe that you need to absorb it, see a trap without passing the
 The rest of his life looking for traps. The eyes are open, the board It's visible and your hand still belongs to you. That was the part that the player never planned. He prepared movements for his anger, his fear, your need for approval, your willingness to prove who you are, Even for the pride of believing that no one else could get you Manipulate. What he couldn't predict was his ability to See all these parts without letting any of them become king. It's for This is what the departure ends here, not with destruction, with choice. The Supreme eyes have never been about seeing further than everyone else.
 It was about seeing clearly enough to choose what happens.
 Later. When you can do that, the old game runs out of place to continue. It's checkmate.

47 Discipline loses to people who have fun every time.

48 Maybe the hardest part to accept was this: you had learned explaining so well the behavior of another person that no longer needed Admit what that behavior was doing to you. Then reacted: irritation, a strange desire to walk away, a harsh thought

Too much, a will to close the door. And as the reaction seemed ugly, You thought the reaction was the problem. That was the mistake. Your darkness He didn't always tell the truth, but he often said: look here, there is a difference. Fear can misinterpret a situation; anger can exaggeration; jealousy can invent evidence; pain can do something innocent It looks dangerous. So, no, not every dark feeling is wisdom, But also not every uncomfortable feeling is enemy. A thrill It's not always a verdict, it's an alarm. And an alarm doesn't need understand the fire to know that something is burning.
You learned that slowly. The first clue appeared in a relationship you insisted on fixing. No matter if it was love, family, friendship or something hard to define. It matters the pattern. Every time something hurt you, your light tried to understand: maybe the person is stressed out, maybe I didn't mean to, maybe I was being Too sensitive, maybe I should explain myself better, maybe one more Talk it out. His darkness had a much shorter vocabulary:
Enough. He seemed insensitive, primitive, almost cruel. So you ignored her.
But every time she did that, she got stronger: first the restlessness, then irritation, resentment, until you reach indifference.
And there came a time when you barely recognized who was making it close to someone I once desperately wanted to keep.
I thought your darkness was destroying the relationship. Then came the First inversion: finally you created distance and your darkness became Quietly. Not satisfied. Quietly. If she wanted destruction, why Did you calm down when the conflict ended? Why cruel thoughts They lost their strength when you stopped forcing yourself to be available? For that your body calmed down when you stopped calling it failure loving every limit you set? That was the first clue: yours darkness did not want to destroy that relationship; I wanted to return you to you Really. But you still didn't trust her. So life brought one Second test. This time there was no villain. Someone good got into yours.

 life. Not perfect, not available all the time, just safe Enough to show the difference. You expected the same alarms, and Some of them showed up. An answer took long and his mind prepared for the abandonment. The tone changed and you started looking for what you had done Wrong. You argued and part of you waited for a punishment. A darkness was there again, only this time the reality was not You agreed with her. The person answered later: it had not happened Nothing. You said no. She didn't disappear. You expressed your discomfort.
 She didn't punish you for this. You needed space. She didn't.
 Turned his distance into a weapon. And there was a possibility troublesome: your darkness could also be wrong. Because, if that's story ended by telling you to trust every dark instinct, you I'd just trade one prison for another. I'd be suspicious and call it Intuition, closed and I would call it force, cruel and call it limit. That's not integration. It's domain. The True Transformation started when you stopped obeying your darkness and learned to Listen to her without giving her command. When the fear said: They go Although, you asked, what are you trying to protect? When Anger said: make that person suffer, you asked: what was the limit Overworked? When jealousy said they're replacing you, you I was wondering, what am I afraid this will say about me? When Indifference said: I feel nothing, you stop forcing yourself to feel and I wondered what had become too expensive to feel. For the first time, The darkness could speak without driving. And that changed his behavior.
 Anger became discernment, suspicion became observation, loneliness became selectivity, mourning became depth, memory became pattern recognition, fear became preparation. A The raw material was the same. What changed was your job. Until one day

Something impossible happened to his old version: someone tried teasing you. I knew exactly what version you wanted to wake up:

 defensive, the desperate, the one who writes endless paragraphs, the one who needs to fix everything, the one who can't sleep while someone, somewhere, builds a wrong version of history. The provocation was perfect and its darkness awakened Right away. She handed over all the weapons: the phrase she would humiliate, That secret, the weakness you knew, the answer that would make you win That moment. For a few seconds, you felt everything. Then Something even stranger happened: you didn't get any brighter. Stayed dark, without becoming destructive. You saw exactly what you were capable of and You chose not to. The innocence says: I would never do that. Integration It says: I could do it. I know exactly how. And I chose something else. Exists a fragile kindness when she never knew her own ability to hurt. But when you contemplate the worst answer available, you understand why it would be satisfactory and still refuse to give up its her future, her self-control ceases to be innocence and becomes authorship.
 At that moment, its darkness began to produce light, not because the anger became love, not because all wounds healed, nor because You've ceased to be human, but because the parts capable of recognizing danger, manipulation, hypocrisy, revenge and consequences have ceased exist only as a reaction and became information. And information, hands of someone who can choose, turns into direction. But still There was a problem. You had learned to use your darkness as Information, but I didn't know what to do when she was pointing at you.
 That was his oldest form: the voice that remembers every mistake at the moment Perfect, that takes an uncomfortable conversation and puts all your personality on trial, which says: you should be much more already far away, should have realized, wasted too much time, trusted the person Wrong, you've ruined everything, look how everyone's getting ahead of you.

For years, you treated that voice as proof that, deep down,

I hated it. Sometimes she really sounded like hate. But one night in Instead of arguing with her, you followed the charge back. You should already to be further away. Why? Because he's afraid there won't be any time left.
Enough. You wasted too much. Why does it hurt? Because that What you want still matters. You trusted the wrong person. Why?
Do you still remember that? Because you never want to leave your own perception that way. Underneath cruelty there wasn't always I despise you. Sometimes there was a terrified care that could only speak Attacking. That doesn't make the attack right. It changes what you do next.
His. You don't have to agree to that voice. You need to translate it.
You're late, you become afraid that my life will pass without that you took advantage of it. You were stupid turns into, need Understand what I ignored. Nobody cares about you turns into,
I need a connection without having to act to earn it. You'll fail again turns into, I still remember the pain of the last failure. A same darkness, another reading. And when he learned to read it, his voice lost part of the authority. Because a threat is much more powerful when You don't understand what she wants. Now you could hear fear by behind the insult, answer to fear without accepting the insult and understanding that maybe your biggest mistake was believing that healing meant to become someone without darkness, without anger, without suspicion, without ugly thoughts, no desire for revenge, no envy, no fear, no bitterness returning from time to time. That person doesn't exist. And pursuing this impossible version can make you become dishonest to yourself. You begin to interpret peace while resentment It grows underneath. He says he forgave because he believes a person spiritual should forgive. You pretend it doesn't affect you because you admit that It hurts like a regression. It's called healing because it feels ashamed That an old wound still knows your address. But integration demands something more difficult than purity. Yeah. One part of me is with anger. What am I gonna do with that? Yeah. A part of me wants that person regrets losing me. I need to build my life on Turn it around? Yeah. Part of me is scared. Fear Receives the Final vote? Yeah. I can imagine being cruel. Am I? That's where the choice: not in the absence of darkness, but in the space between what You feel and what you authorize. That's why she was never your enemy. But Careful with that phrase. She was never your enemy doesn't mean that all impulse should be expressed. It means even your hard parts can be understood, disciplined and integrated, rather than worshipped or Taken from you. Your shadow does not become sacred just because it is Yours. It becomes useful when it ceases to rule you by the shadows.

 There's a huge difference. A knife can prepare food or open A wound. The existence of the thread is not the moral decision; the hand matters. And Now it's your hand. You're not becoming incapable of hurting. Is it making you responsible for your ability to do so. You're not if making it impossible to manipulate. You're learning to understand earlier When you start abandoning yourself. You're not stopping feeling scared. You're less willing to allow fear to disguise itself as prophecy. You're not learning to forgive forever. It is. understanding that forgiving and allowing access are different decisions. You It's not killing your darkness. You're giving her a new job.
 For years, her job was to survive. Now she can warn, discern, remember, protect and then walk away while you choose.
 That last step changes everything. Because protection without choice can also become a prison. A guard who never opens the door ends up becoming Jailer. Then your darkness needs to learn too. Not everyone is.
 The person who hurt you. Not every delay is abandonment. Not every criticism.
 It's humiliation. Not all disagreement is rejection. Not every uncertain future It's a threat. The light must teach the darkness that the danger has ended, and often, darkness needs to teach light that boundless goodness

It's not love. They educate each other. That's integration. Not one.
defeating the other, nor the darkness turning into light, as if Everything that was painful suddenly became beautiful. Something happened.
Much more interesting. His darkness learned to serve life. Now we can go back to that first night, to the message, to the memory, to the opportunity, to the version of you capable of doing something irreversible. Remember What did your darkness say? Not again. At first, that sounded dark. Now listen again. Never beg anyone again See what you've decided not to see. Never again use pain as permission to be cruel. Never abandon us again to stop Let someone else leave us. Never again confuse chaos with intimacy. We'll never hand the pen to an old wound again.
We call destiny everything she writes. That wasn't yours. darkness trying to destroy your light. It was his darkness before all that you had learned, refusing to allow the old cycle
It was still intact. Finally she had learned from you, and you I had finally learned from her. So it was never about defeating some evil hidden inside you. Your darkness has become your own light. Why? 'Cause the same parts that used to react blindly They started lighting up what needed attention. The anger pointed The limit. Fear pointed to the wound and what had value. Grief
He pointed out what had been lost. Suspect pointed out the pattern. O Repentance pointed to the lesson. And his conscience decided what It would happen later. That last part belongs to you. It always did.
But before you leave, remember what happened when your share happened.
darker had every reason to take control. She didn't.
It's gone. He's changed his function. Maybe that was the missing piece.
Healing should never turn you into someone incapable of feeling darkness. You should make him able to find her without giving her yours.

ID. You don't have to have every thought you'd ever put

In practice. You don't have to hate every part of yourself that you've learned to survive before learning to live in peace. You don't have to be innocent again. May integrate, see the limit without falling, recognize manipulation without being Manipulator, remember pain without turning it into personality, Protect yourself without closing all the doors, carrying tenderness and teeth. Yours darkness was never proof that his light had failed. But it was Just where your light needed to go. And now, when That old voice coming back, you don't have to run away. Ask her what she sees.
 which she remembers, which she tries to protect. Then decide if the answer is still It belongs to the present. That was the part where your darkness could never Do it alone. She needed you. Your darkness has become your own light, not because darkness has won, nor because light has defeated it, but because you stopped exiled half of yourself and finally became that who can decide what each part is for. He was never your enemy.
 It was incomplete. Not because you have to obey her. Not because she You need to disappear. But because you finally understood the place of Each. She might warn you. You can decide. She might remember. You You can play it. She can show you the danger. You can check if the
 There is still danger. She can show you where it hurts. You can decide what Do with that pain. And when the time comes to act, there is a which belongs only to you: decide. You don't decide why He's not afraid anymore. Decide despite fear. You don't decide why you left to feel angry. You decide because you can feel her without giving her your own Hands. You don't decide because you forgot what they did to you. Decide Because remembering doesn't mean repeating. You don't decide why you don't have darkness. You decide because you no longer have to exile her to feel whole.
 And maybe that's what that part of you was always trying to Say it. She didn't want to rule her life. I wanted to stop being ignored.
 I didn't want to destroy your light. I wanted the light to reach the places that,

For years, you kept it closed. And when you finally got in there,

He didn't find a monster. He found fear. He found pain. You found it.
anger. He found losses. He found wishes we never knew how to name.
Found parts of us who learned to defend themselves before learning to trust. And for the first time, you didn't have to kick them out. Could be Listen to them. It was possible to teach them. It was possible to establish boundaries. It was I can say no. It was possible to say yes. It was possible to stay. Could be Leave. It was possible to forgive. It was possible not to forgive. It was possible to love without abandoning yourself. It was possible to protect yourself without turning into stone.
Because in the end, it wasn't about choosing between light and darkness.
It was about stopping living divided. The darkness is no longer the place where you hid what you didn't want to admit. The light is no longer the mask behind which he pretended nothing hurt. And between the two, something came up.
new. Not innocence. Not perfection. Consciousness. The ability to look for everything inside you without allowing any part Take over by accident. That's integration. Not kill the darkness.
Don't love her. Don't justify it. Don't be afraid of her. Meet her. Listen to her.
Educate her. And then choose. Because your shadow can show you where the limit. But it doesn't decide if you cross it. Your fear can show What matters. But it doesn't decide what you should run from. Your anger You can show what you've crossed the line. But it doesn't decide who you It must destroy. Your pain can show what you've lost. But it doesn't decide Who you need to turn into for losing. Your past can Explain how you got here. But you have no authority to Write what comes next. That's your authority. It always has been. Only,
For a long time, you turned her over to the parts of yourself that screamed the most Loud. Not now. Now you can hear all the voices without turning None of them are destined. And when that old voice says again, Not again, you won't have to ask her if she's right. Just He'll ask, what are you trying to protect? And you will. Because maybe

This time she has something important to show you. Maybe you're wrong.

Maybe you're remembering a danger that's already over. Maybe I am.
 seeing something you still don't want to see. But after hearing it, You'll do what you couldn't do before. You'll look at reality.
 You'll look at the present. You'll see who it is now. And then you'll decide. No, no, no.
 from the light. Not from the darkness. From you. And that was the last transformation. Your darkness has become your own light. No, no, no.
 Because it's no longer darkness, but because you didn't have to hide anymore.
 Because there was finally someone who could see her. And that someone was
 You. But in the end, when all the voices have spoken, when All wounds have shown their reasons, when fear has finished warning and anger has pointed the limit, when the past
 You have delivered your lesson and the darkness has finished saying that What you came to say, there's only one voice left. Yours. And one thing that No one can do it for you. Decide.

49 About 2,000 years ago, a top guy was crucified for speaking the Same things I say. Today I, because of this, am authorized to Take your head off.)

50 The investigation began with one sentence: that person was alone after one of those days that make old wounds look like new again. Nothing cinematographic: a room, a cell phone, a Repeating conversation in the head, a humiliation that had happened hours earlier, but still growing inside. The anger wasn't Noisy; it was that silent anger that begins to turn pain into conclusion: Nobody respects me. Nobody stays. All they remember is me When you need it. Maybe people are just like that. ■ Maybe I ■ You should hurt me first before they do this to me again. O demon knew this language: pain turns interpretation, interpretation turns permission, permission turns action and repeated action begins to appear

ID. You don't have to turn someone into a monster.

Only night. Just convince that person that a cruel choice is Justifiable. Then the repeat does the rest. So the demon waited. A person opened a conversation, typed something cruel, erased, typed again, this time worse, stopped and whispered: I don't want to deliver this.

for the next person. The devil froze, not because that phrase was sacred, but because I had heard that before, years ago, someone else and before her from someone else. The words changed, the decision was the Same: I was wounded. I could pass it on, but I won't. O

Demon started following the phrase backwards and that was almost impossible.

Cruelty leaves traces, betrayal leaves names, revenge leaves consequences, but what you decide not to do almost never leaves

Proof. There's no photograph of the cruel message you erased.

No witnesses record the humiliation you could return and

He didn't. No one raises a monument to the day you

I knew exactly where to hurt someone and decided not to. Hence the

The trail was so hard. She was made of wounds that never happened: a child who did not receive a scream, a friend who did not have a secret exposed, a stranger who didn't pay for someone else's bad day, someone who heard a difficult truth without being destroyed along with it. O

Demon followed these absences until it reached you and did not find

No great heroic moment, found you at a stage where evil

I could handle what I was carrying. Someone had left something with you hoping to leave: rejection, shame, abandonment, disrespect, perhaps betrayal. And there came a time when you could deliver this pain to someone else for a few seconds. You wanted to, it matters. You

It was not illuminated, calm and above all. I was angry, I knew it.

who could say, knew that person's weak spot, knew how hurt. So you stopped, not necessarily because she deserved yours.

mercy, but because you realized something: if you used your wound as permission to create another, the person who hurt you would continue deciding who you'd become. So you did less than your pain.

I did. He left, closed the conversation, kept every private could expose, put that limit without turning the limit into Revenge and always believed that probably nobody noticed.
You believed it ended there. It's not over. Did anyone see the Enough to remember. When the pain itself came, that person He repeated not his words, but his restraint. Someone else received That, then another. The current has advanced among people who never They knew you existed. When that soul came into the room, no more There was no visible connection with you, but the demon could see the pattern and now he had a problem: his work depended on of a simple idea: pain reproduces. Wounded people can be Convinced of hurting. Humiliation can lead to humiliation. Abandonment may to produce abandonment. Fear can spread fear. Not always, but sometimes.
Enough for the pattern to seem inevitable. Only you'd created it.
an interruption and even worse from his point of view, the interruption It could also reproduce. Containment could be learned, mercy could travel, a limit could be copied, someone could watching a person refuse to turn cruel and remember it exactly when your own pain asked for cruelty. The devil knew the Contagion of pain. I've never considered interrupting the pain either.
It could be contagious. So he did something absurd: saved the soul, no because he came to love human beings, but because he needed to find out if That chain was real. If the person crossed the line that night, Standard would end. If she survived that moment without herself To transform into what pain required, he would continue. For the first time demon was curious to find out what happened after the Containment and that curiosity bought time. Often, time is Everything that exists between an impulse and a decision. The person dropped the cell phone, got up, drank water, came back, read again what almost there was sent and no longer felt exactly the same. I wasn't cured, just It was no longer dominated by the moment. The next morning, what hours earlier seemed inevitable seemed unnecessary. The soul had been saved from a decision, but the demon was still not convinced. Him I wanted to test the source: you. So you waited until the next time Someone hit your right wound. And this is where this story could Turn you into someone perfect, right? It won't. You failed, He reacted badly, spoke too much, or shut himself down. It got colder than I needed.

You made someone pay for a pain that person hadn't even caused. O Demon almost laughed: ready. The chain had been an accident. You don't
It was different. Only then you did something that destroyed that conclusion:
You came back, looked at what you had done without creating a story in which automatically was the victim, apologized for what really needed excuses corrected what he could, kept the limit that still had to exist and refused to use shame as justification for Keep making mistakes. That confused the demon more than perfection would have Confounded. Because a perfect person teaches no mechanism; a person who perceives his own pattern while it happens teaches.
You could enter the cycle and still interrupt it, not always, but sometimes Enough. And the question changed: it was no longer: why did you not go to pain ahead? Now it was: how do you realize when the pain took the pen?
That's the question that really matters. You don't win a pattern I'm sorry. You start beating him when you can recognize him before he finishes writing his next decision.
Anger can enter, fear can enter, jealousy can enter, sadness can But getting in doesn't mean becoming an author. The devil has returned to the soul
I saved it. I expected some extraordinary transformation. No, no, no.
You found it. The person didn't even know anything had happened. It went on living. Weeks later, that soul found someone else in a Bad timing. Someone embarrassed, defensive, hard to deal with. O Demon watched. The saved soul would become a savior. Not from Epic way. No miracles, no speeches. She just...

He refused to make it worse. I told the truth without using the truth to Smash. Protected herself without having to turn revenge into proof of strength. And the devil recognized that: his pattern. Only that already It wasn't yours anymore. That was the discovery: a good choice does not continue being your property. When someone lives that, they can reproduce without Don't even remember where it came from. The devil had not saved just one soul for you, without realizing it. He had preserved a whole branch of that chain, a sequence of decisions capable of continuing without its presence. Now he understood why corrupting an answer could be more powerful than destroying a person. Because an answer can becoming a model. And this is where it all starts to really make sense, this is the focus of our conversation. A demon saved a soul for you! No

I start this seems as valid as possible. Even the darkness has changed Your behavior because of you. But that's not the part anymore.
Important. What disturbed the devil was not to understand how his influence had reached where you'd never been. He looked for contact.
Right. Nothing. An order. Nothing. A reward. Nothing. You found it.
Just ordinary people who got one thing and when the pressure He's here, they've chosen to deliver another one. The devil called it contamination. The soul could call it mercy. You maybe Call it growth. The name doesn't matter. Something ended with you and Something else started, without you being able to control how far it would go.
That's why certain impacts seem invisible. People arrest measure importance for immediate response. You talk. Someone reacts.
You help. Someone appreciates it. You create something. Someone answers. Only some of the most important consequences of your life never command notification. Someone remembers months after something you said. One person observes how you react to disrespect and remember that when You finally gain power. A friend sees you admit a mistake without you Destroy for him. Someone watches you come out of a cycle that looked like Impossible to abandon. Nothing happens in front of you. Much later, in another place, a different decision becomes possible. And you never Find out. The demon understood that when he did one last experiment.

He went back to the beginning of the day, to his original decision, and imagined Remove it. Don't remove you. Just change that choice. What if you Did you send the message? Exposed the secret? Back to humiliation Why had you been humiliated? The future didn't collapse. That would have been Too simple. He changed silently. One person learned that Cruelty was normal. Then he repeated it. Another one got hard. Another one has passed Go ahead. Until the soul of the beginning reached the same room. Really mobile phone. Same pain. Only this time it didn't exist, inside the current, No interruption memory. The message was sent. Later Another one. A choice turned into a week. The week has become a habit. And the habit began to be defended as a personality. The devil restored his Original decision. You finally understood what you had done. You don't You saved everyone who came after you. You did something more realistic. Made it a Different response available. You don't control what someone else will do. with what you get. Goodness can be ignored. Truth can be rejected. Mercy can be exploited. A second chance could be Wasted. Your responsibility is not to guarantee the end. It's deciding what Get in the chain through you. Near the end of the story, they asked to the devil what happened to that soul. He replied:
human. Still imperfect. Still able to feel anger. Still hurt.
Still making mistakes. But also still able to change the next line. Then they asked: why did you save that soul for him, if Would you two ever meet? And finally the devil confessed: he

I wasn't preserving a person for you to receive. Was Preserving evidence. Evidence that something you did when No one applauded could survive outside of you. Evidence that Containment is not weakness just because it makes less noise than revenge.

 Evidence that refusing to transmit a wound can create consequences you'll never see. The soul was not his reward.
 It was your proof. And even that evidence doesn't exist to put you above No one. It exists to make you pay more attention to what It transmits from here on out. Because the same principle works in It's the opposite direction. Your unexamined pain also travels. The sarcasm that You call it honesty. The Distrust Another Person Needs pay. Cruelty justified because one day they were cruel to you. O silence used not as peace, but as punishment. ■ Everything teaches some ■ That's it. Repair, too. containment, too. Courage, too. A question is not if you influence the current. You already have. A question is what gets easier for the next person because you He stopped by.

51 Guys, I'm gonna pass on some information that might change your perception of life. His ancestors, all, watch his life and the life of ALL his Family. They know all the details of each of the lineage. They don't He has direct or physical contact with us, but there they are, on God's side, interceding furious with some things. Specific about your Family, believe me, this is hot.

52 The seven levels have been there for so long that no one else
 I did. They don't mediate wealth, intelligence, or holiness. Mediam something simpler: what a person becomes after the pressure.
 Some harden, some lessen. Some learn to obey, Others try to control everything. Some disappear inside others People. Others survive failing to feel. Different lives, wounds different, different strategies. But every answer had a place. Was That's why the system worked. With enough history, he almost I could always predict what someone's next version would be.

Rejection created a pattern, betrayal, another humiliation, abandonment, loss, success, power, fear. Everything left marks, until the system could Look at what happened to someone and figure out what that was.
I'd probably turn him. Then it came to you. At first nothing It seemed strange. His story produced obvious predictions. There was.
When you learned not to expect help. So the system
He predicted extreme independence. There were situations where opening up cost Expensive. He predicted emotional distance. You've been misunderstood anyway. trying to explain everything. You predicted silence. Betrayals could have produced permanent distrust. Being ignored could have become hungry for validation. Disrespect could have become an obsession to prove its worth.
The predictions were not absurd and that was the problem. For what I had happened before, certain versions of you seemed almost inevitable and Some actually showed up. You got more closed sometimes reactive, sometimes cold, sometimes ready to go before someone else
I could leave you. He learned to read an environment before relaxing in it.
He rehearsed conversations before they happened. Get ready for trouble They didn't even exist yet. The system recognized everything, chose a level temporary. Then something went wrong, because you changed. Not at once, Not perfectly, not forever. You just realized yourself doing something that once seemed automatic and interrupted. The system recalculated. Normal. People get better. There was a level to that. Then You interrupted another pattern. New calculation. Still explicable, even come the event that broke the model. Someone put you in a Almost perfect situation to awaken an old version of you, knew where Squeeze. Maybe on purpose, maybe not. But the pressure was real. You

He felt the old reaction coming, the words he could use, the silence that could turn into a weapon, the door that could knock, the message who could send, the part of you who wanted to say: now you will feel what I felt and, for a few moments, you wanted to. Does it matter? Because history wouldn't do any good if you just didn't. You I was not above the situation. was inside her angry, wounded, tried, knew exactly where to hit that person, had the power.

 So you figured something out? The reaction in his hands was older than the moment in front of you. The current situation had awakened that, but not I had created everything. Suddenly you were dealing with two things: what That person really did and everything that woke up in you. O system expected you to mix them both. Most of the predictions depend on it. An old pain enters a new situation and states that it belongs completely to the present. So someone today receives the collection of several stories, but you separated things, no perfectly, just enough and asked: what really belongs to This moment? The system's stopped. It was just a question, but it changed.
 Your next move. You dealt with what was real, didn't pretend that nothing
 It happened, didn't tolerate disrespect to prove he was cured, no tried infinitely to understand the other, but also did not make anyone pay interest on a debt you didn't create. The forecast failed. The system tried.
 Another level. Then a different situation came. This time the danger is not
 It was anger. It was approval. They finally offered you something I wanted: recognition, access, affection, an opportunity. Maybe chance of belonging to a place where before you would do almost any It's something to get in. The model predicted submission, because those who spend time too much without being seen can become vulnerable to whom finally It offers recognition. The system expected you to give in, no Completely, just a little. ignore a nuisance, laugh at something that doesn't respect, accept a condition that would normally refuse, decrease

A little who you were in exchange for continuing to be chosen. You

You almost did it. Then another question appeared: why be chosen You demand that I abandon the person being chosen? The system It stopped again. You didn't automatically reject the opportunity? That.
 It could also be just another predictable defense. You analyzed, kept what was true, refused what it violated what had already said and accepted that something desired might disappear, because you didn't You'd diminish yourself to keep it. The model failed again. Now The angels became interested. They opened their story looking for the event responsible for change. There had to be one: teacher, a revelation, a perfect relationship, a great spiritual awakening, some instant able to divide your life clearly Get in before and after. They didn't. found dozens of small Corrections. You reacted badly and then came back, trusted the wrong person and He learned without deciding that everyone was dangerous. You stayed too long.
 Somewhere and then left without turning him into all his personality. It closed and then it spoke, explained too much until it understood that clarity does not require infinite defense, pardoned and found that forgiveness
 It doesn't require access. And even after you learned, you missed again.
 It confused the angels. If the transformation was real, why the old Did patterns still show up? One of them suggested that his progress be fake. The system tested this hypothesis, sought perfection. Nothing, calm down permanent, nothing, permanent trust, nothing, permanent certainty, Nothing. Then why did the predictions keep failing? That's when found a variable that had never received a level: review.
 Not the ability to never turn the wrong version of yourself, but the ability to perceive this version taking control and review the Next line. That was different. The old levels described results: what pain has turned you into, what fear has turned you into, What rejection, success or abandonment have done to you. your pattern introduced something new: authorship after impact, something could affect you without

Get permanent possession over you. The system didn't have a category for that, he tried to put you in the closest: resilient, rejected.

Resilience meant being able to recover, but not recovery.

It explained everything because sometimes you didn't go back to who you were before and if made someone your previous version couldn't predict. Then they did another test: they found one of their strongest standards, something repeated enough times to make the forecast almost right. Life recreated the conditions: same emotional pressure, same temptation, the Same old door. You walked to her, the system registered.

confirmation, you were finally right. You were repeating yourself. So, In the middle of it, you stopped. Not before the mistake, during. That mattered.

Even more. Did you realize what you were doing while you were doing it? Maybe. had already sent the first message, raised the voice, began to

I took something I didn't want. The old idea of growth would say:

Too late. You failed, try again next time. But you

He did something else: changed direction before the scene ended. I'm sorry.

without sinking into shame or corrected the limit, admitted what really

I was scared. You stopped pretending indifference. You didn't wait

Tomorrow to become someone different. You searched in motion.

All levels are gone. For eleven seconds, there was no classification next to your name. Then the eighth line appeared, still

No name. Just first. And this is where history changes. The Angels

They believed they finally understood. They thought the new level

It belonged to people who could change. So they ran the story.

Millions had changed, some radically. Others After Mistakes huge. Then why had none of them created the eighth line? They

They analyzed your case again and realized a detail they had ignored. You had stopped trying to become impossible to hurt, for a long time, even its growth secretly served this objective: get stronger so nobody breaks you, smarter to

No one cheats you, no one leaves you, no longer.
 successful for no one to diminish you, more observant for no one Take you by surprise. Even healing can become a fortress when it is the fear that draws the plant. Then you realized the contradiction: if all your evolution revolves around never being hurt again, the people you They're still deciding how you evolve. That changed everything, because You stopped asking how I become untouchable and started to ask: who do I want to be even when life touches me? Now the New level was beginning to take shape. He wasn't... That would repeat the Old system? Or it would just open up super general, superficiality? Would you still be stuck in comparison? So he's... appeared in a strange place, next to the hierarchy, not above nor Down, down the stairs. The angels protested: a level... that was not above the other seven. That would repeat the old system. If the eighth meant only superiority, you'd still be stuck in comparison.
 Then he appeared in a strange place, next to the hierarchy, not above Not down the stairs. The angels protested. A level outside the levels didn't make sense. Until the system finally generates a name: Author. The first. Not the first human being to choose, nor the Not even breaking a cycle. The first, within that story, To force the system to admit something that it had always ignored. You can Mistake, without due obedience to them. That was the new level and immediately There was another problem. Do you like it? Of course you did. First, one category no one else had, a title created because of you, It touched exactly the ego that loves exclusivity. You He started imagining what it meant. Maybe it was different. Maybe People just couldn't understand you. Maybe be the First it meant that common rules no longer applied to you. A Eighth line blinked and disappeared. His name is back in the old system. The angels panicked. What happened? Nothing outside of you was Changed. Then came the answer: identity turned into another cage time. You laughed.) The new level disappeared the moment you He had to possess it. Because authorship can't become another character that You're afraid of losing. If you need to be awake, you can't admit confusion. If you need to be the strong one, you can't ask for help. If it has to be the different, a common happiness begins to seem too small. And If you need to be first, someone else's growth will come as a threat. O new level could only exist while you were willing to overcome the ID he gave you. That was the hidden test: you could do it Get a crown without turning it into another prison? You looked at the Eighth line empty, then did something unexpected: Something quite unexpected.

 Stopped asking for the title back, went back to your life, no announcement, no need to prove where it belonged, just kept practicing what it had created in the line: perceive, choose, correct, continue. And one night without you looking, the eighth line came back, this time without crown, without Special symbol, no announcement, just your name. The angels at last understand: the level was never a reward, it was evidence of the relationship that you had developed with yourself. Seven levels. Thousands of names. Then yours appears where no name should exist. No Everyone thinks you've climbed above the others. They were Wrong. You didn't get to the top of the stairs. For a moment, he stopped Need the ladder to explain who it was. That's what forced the eighth.
 line to exist. Not perfection, not power, not a life without mistakes. One a different relationship with what happens after the mistake. You can if interrupt, if you review, come back. You may realize that a belief that you Protected yesterday is limiting you today. You may recognize that someone really hurt you, without turning what that person did into yours permanent personality. You can respect who it took to become To survive. without forcing that version to run the rest of your life. This one.

It's the level. And maybe tomorrow you'll notice yourself repeating something you swore already to have healed. Great, there's the next test. I do not yet deserve the title?' But 'what is true now and how I want to answer that!'

You don't have to defend yesterday's version. Is responsible for the choice Today. This is a much lighter crown and explains why the system I couldn't qualify you. All the old levels were asking what Life has changed you. The new question is, what are you gonna do with that? what life has turned you into. Sounds like similar questions. They're not.

The first treats your story as a sentence. The second puts a pen in your hand. That pen doesn't erase what happened, it doesn't make it Imaginary pain doesn't even guarantee perfect choices. It just means that the Next line doesn't have to be written just because the previous one exists. Then Yeah, what you did created a new level. And yes, you're the first. But the True power has never been in being first above others. It was be the first within its own history, to produce an answer that Your past couldn't predict. The first to interrupt something that It seemed inevitable. The first to understand that healing does not require becoming untouchable. The first to stop confusing repetition with fate. O first to realize that changing your mind can also be growth. O first to wear a crown with a scythe lightly enough to I can get it out and pin it at the same time. And when the eighth line Finally stabilized, the angels waited for a ceremony. Nothing. It happened. No portal opened, no voice announced his promotion. The system just stopped trying to fit your name In an old box because you finally got it. Your story could get you describe, influence you, warn you, explain why certain things still They hurt, but I couldn't finish the sentence for you anymore. That right was facing your hands. The new level was never a place. It was authorship. A Crown did not represent authority over other people. It represented responsibility for what you choose next. And be the first

It didn't mean anyone else could get there. It meant that someone had finally forced an old one to admit that there was more territory. You haven't earned a position. It created a new set of scalable possibilities.

472

53 Of course it impacts on the competition, but that kind of incident. It increases KTM sales by 2% in the week.

54 Welcome to balance...

55 Stay calm, it's not just your cult that you're falling apart! They all are.

)

56 Manipulation rarely begins by taking away your freedom. She It teaches you to punish yourself when you try to use it. Miguel saw the mechanism, but the rule continued to exist. He couldn't choose by You, then waited for you to notice. And you almost noticed. One night Something small happened. You heard yourself apologize for having one. completely reasonable need. In the middle of the sentence, the excuse It sounded strange. You stopped: Why am I apologizing? For A few seconds, the whole structure was visible. You remembered how many I often rehearsed simple requests. Like someone else's discomfort It quickly turned into your emergency. How many times did I get out of a conversation?
asking if he had exaggerated, instead of asking if what They made you acceptable. You were close. Miguel got it.
Then fear appeared: What if I'm overreacting? And if I lose this person? What if it's me? The opening began to close. It was when Michael moved, not in the direction of the one who controlled you, in his.
The angels shouted: Don't! Miguel stopped a few inches from you. Then He realized something no one had noticed. He didn't have to take the decision. I just needed to return something that had been taken from her:

an option. So Miguel broke the rule without stealing his freedom. Na

Next morning nothing supernatural happened. No voice, no vision, no sword shining. You just had one.

thought I couldn't allow before: I can leave. Nope.

I must. Nope. I have to. Nope. That person is evil. Only I can. And Everything has changed. Because the possibility of leaving gave the meaning back to decision to stay. For the first time you were able to ask: If I

I can really leave, do I still want to stay? Miguel backed down. A intervention was over. The answer was yours and you did something that

It confused who was watching. You were, at least at that moment.

The angels looked at Michael as if he had broken the rule by Nothing. But he understood. His freedom had returned. That was enough.

You no longer remained because leaving seemed impossible. Now

I watched, listened, tested reality. Stopped explaining the whole discomfort to yourself. He asked a direct question, the answer revealed more than months of analysis. Then he said no to something small. O

Environment has changed. Expressed a need without wrapping it in ten

I'm sorry. You've changed again: you disagreed without being cruel. Again, the pattern

He showed up. You had spent so much time analyzing your own tone, who barely realized how certain people reacted when you exercised a Common freedom. Now he could see: who benefits from his lack of limits can interpret your limits as aggression. Not that.

makes the limit wrong. But Miguel hasn't said what you should Do it. That was the strange part: he had broken a heavenly rule and

He refused to give the answer. You wanted to be sure: that person was

By manipulating you. Leaving was right. That could change. Quiet.

So why intervene if no one would say which door to choose? And you finally understood: the intervention should never replace its trial. You should make your judgment possible again. Then

You started looking for evidence: What happens when I say no?

Can that person hear a limit without punishing me? Can you admit who hurt me without making me console her? Apology changes the behavior? Can I disagree without being threatened with distance? Me Do I feel free to tell the truth here? The more honestly

It answered, less mysterious the situation became. Maybe you've gone Although, I may have stayed, but changed the conditions. Maybe I do. Stop chasing someone. Maybe he refused an opportunity. A specific decision was not the main event. Something bigger

It happened underneath her. You stopped confusing guilt with error. For years, guilt had been one of the easiest ways to Control. You felt guilty when someone was disappointed when I rested when I said no. Then I would conclude: if I feel guilty, I am doing something wrong. Until I find out that sometimes guilt means: doing something new. Your body can react against a healthy limit simply because obeying was already a way to stay safe.

This made room: not to become selfish, to investigate the feeling before you obey him. Then something even stranger happened: you He began to realize how many times he also tried to decide for others. Not out of cruelty, out of fear. Explain until you understand, even help change, warn until they hear it. Love someone to that person at last

Get ready. Protecting people from the consequences that they themselves have They kept choosing. Suddenly, Miguel's rule made sense by Another side. If your freedom mattered, so did theirs. You could say The truth, setting a limit, offering help, asking, inviting.

But I couldn't choose for someone else. And that hurt. Because sometimes Control wears the clothes of love. Sometimes: I just want what's best for

You mean silently: I need you to choose what

It calms my fear. You realized and started to release results that They were never yours to control. That's when heaven finally understood because his situation had led Miguel to break the rule. Ao return your choice, he taught you to return choice to others. A rule had been broken once and just for that, its true purpose became even clearer. Write that down. Because this is where Your story changes. Miguel had a problem. He had broken the rule. without permission, not yours, that of heaven, and there was no written exception to That. So he was called in. The question was simple: why did you You broke the rule? Miguel could have said you were important, Chosen, different. I didn't. He said: I have not chosen for him.

 Quiet. So what did you do? Miguel replied: I returned the choice.
 That difference had never been tested. What happens when a Human choice is not physically removed, but distorted? When fear, shame, dependence or manipulation narrow the possibilities until an option seems impossible? Returning this option is Control? Or is it giving back freedom? No one answered immediately, Not even God. And this is where your title changes meaning. No God
 I expected that. Doesn't mean Michael knew something God didn't.
 I knew it. The paradox was another: the rule had never been put before of that situation. Michael protected his purpose by breaking his surface. The law said: do not interfere with human choice. Miguel interfered.
 to prevent anyone from interfering in human choice and God did not Punished. Instead came a question: he chose different for his cause? Miguel looked at your life. You still made decisions that he I wouldn't. He still trusted him who disappointed you, and ignored signs.
 He came back once when he left it would have been simpler. He doubted you.
 Really, you learned slowly. Miguel smiled. Nope. The sky was silent again, because Miguel had not put a decision within you, had restored your ability to take one. What came after remained completely human, confused, imperfect, yours. That was the Proof. If Miguel had taken control, his path would have stayed Cleaner. Instead, it became truer. And then you found out the price: when someone realizes they can choose, loses part of the The comfort of pretending you can't. Sometimes I had no choice, it's True. But sometimes you had options and didn't want to pay the price of them. That's different. You could leave, but maybe you'd face loneliness.

 I could talk, but someone could misinterpret you. I could start, but...
 Failure would be possible. I could stop, but I'd have to admit how long invested. I could say no, but someone might call you selfish.
 Freedom doesn't eliminate the price, it makes the price visible. Miguel don't you Saved the responsibility, he returned the responsibility to you and Finally the secret rule made sense: protection can also become prison when it eliminates all consequences. If every wrong decision were blocked, discernment would never be developed. If all uncertainty If you get an answer, you could confuse obedience with wisdom. So you stopped demanding guarantees of life. Started doing Better questions: what information do I really have? What do I have?
 Afraid of losing with that decision? Am I choosing this because I want to?
 Or because I'm afraid of what happens if I don't? This guilt Does that mean I did something wrong? Or just that I let down an expectation?
 These questions didn't make your life easy, they made it yours. Then you came the final test: someone you loved has reached the place where you have already He was trapped inside a decision that seemed free on the outside. You recognized the pattern immediately. His first impulse was to grab that person, say exactly what he should do, show everything that You had learned, saved months of pain. You opened your mouth and stopped.
 For the first time, you understood Miguel. Helping someone doesn't mean turning around responsible for her decision. So you did for that person what had been done by you: returned the option that was missing and said:
 You know you can say no, right? That's all. Her face has changed. Maybe.
 He's gone, maybe not. That wasn't the point anymore. You returned the door, without pushing anyone through it. And somewhere beyond from that story, Miguel understood in what his broken rule was transformed: not rebellion, a pattern. You had learned the difference between rescuing and restoring, between controlling and supporting, between deciding by Someone and remind that person that she can still decide. That's why that the rule mattered, because power is not dangerous only when used With cruelty. It could become dangerous trying to help. The will of saving someone can silently become permission to control. A Michael's greatness in this story was not simply in ignoring A rule. As he crossed it once, he understood better why she There was. And his growth followed the same path. You too. inherited rules: never disappoint anyone, always explain yourself, keep Peace, don't change your mind, finish what you started, no matter the price. If anyone loves you, hold on. If anyone needs you, stay. Maybe. Some of these rules have protected you one day. But there's one. When you have to ask, what should that rule protect? And obeying her still protects that? This is maturity: not breaking all The rules don't even obey them all. Understand at the service that they exist. Miguel broke a rule to protect what the rule itself You should protect and maybe you've done something like this: break a expectation to preserve your integrity, go away to preserve your ability to love without resentment, say no to preserve your relationship with oneself, change direction to preserve the reason for which started, admit I was wrong to preserve your commitment with the truth. The difference is not only in breaking or obeying, it is What your decision is serving. You made Miguel break one rule. Not because you asked, not because you wanted him to choose for you, but because his situation revealed a contradiction that rule never had invented: his freedom was already being violated, without chains, No orders, no physically locked door. the alternatives

They just disappeared. So Miguel returned a sentence:

I can choose and retreat. That's why the sky was silent, because the most powerful intervention of that story was precisely the one who refused to become control. Miguel didn't save you from all the Wrong choices. He saved his own choice and trusted you with the Enough to risk finding out what I'd do to her. You can choose wrong again, confuse fear with intuition, stay time Too soon to leave, to give another chance that doesn't change anything.
 Freedom includes the possibility of error, otherwise it would only be obedience with better enlightenment. But you can learn, correct, go back and choose again. That part no one can do for you: no partner, no parents, no teacher, no Miguel.
 A council can illuminate a door, love can remain at yours side, experience may warn, but in the end your hand still needs reach the doorknob. That's where your life becomes yours and the secret rule It was never just about angels. It's also about your will to to give the authorship itself whenever uncertainty becomes uncomfortable. Me Tell me what to do, tell me who I am, tell me if I'm right, tell me If I should stay, tell me if I should go. Guidance matters, but the certainty of another person cannot forever replace his participation in his own life. Miguel broke the rule once so you could understand why She existed. He returned the option that someone had made you afraid to see. Then he refused to walk through the door for you. And when God asked if Michael had changed his decision, the answer was no.
 He changed something more fundamental: he made the decision his own again. That's it.
 that you made Miguel break a rule to protect: not your comfort, not a specific decision, your ability to decide. Miguel broke the rule, he returned his choice and retreated, because after all that The only thing he refused to do was choose for you, the rest was Yours.

479

57 I doubt you read that book.

www.salemais-app.com/library

58 The book of Jonah in the Bible was not written by him. Blza? For You remember that.

59 You know why the devil's mad at you? Why was he taqui tbm but he didn't

Yes. Come on. Come on.

That you were a loser, then you take off and he anchors?

That's it.

60 Never forgotten again!!!

61 You're connected that all the entities shit you, right? None

They're loyal. None. They live on the edge.

Explain everything.

62 And the fastest guys in history are still, Michael Phelps at

Water, Usain Bolt on earth, Eldon Joersz on SR-71 Blackbird on air and I on Fire.

63 And yes, you're going to learn now that there's sin and sin. You just You've learned wrong your whole life.

64 Antonio, Lavey and there was rapidin... You'll understand that movie End

The days with Schwarzenegger was based on a real story.

65 The devil's first mistake was believing you wanted the same thing

Everybody. He's been studying human beings for a long time. Not yours words, your hunger. People said they wanted truth, justice, love, freedom, but he watched what happened when the truth threatened the ego, when justice became revenge, when love turned proof of value, and I knew an uncomfortable truth: you don't need control someone if they can control what that person You desperately need to prove it. So he studied you, found one. Old wound: being misunderstood, perfect. There was a false accusation, But enough to hurt. You knew what really happened. O Devil waited for the usual sequence: explain, explain again, show proof, find better words, until the person stops defend the truth and start defending your own value. You got in the Trap, explained once, then another, began to write the third Perfect explanation. Then he's out. The devil leaned forward. You asked: if they never understand me, does the truth change? Nope. You explained what it was for you to explain and stopped trying to force understanding within a mind that did not control. The first Lie failed, so he changed the hunger. Not if you're misunderstood. It worked. I'd try to make you feel underrated. That wound had history. You knew what it was like for someone to look at you and see less of what really existed. So he put a person in his way who treated you like you had nothing worthy of respect. The invitation it was obvious: show them who you are, make them regret it. For one Time worked, you worked harder, you imagined the future reaction. O Devil smiled. He didn't care if you won, since your victory It still belonged to someone who doubted you. Till one day you He conquered something and realized that an ancient thought did not appear: I hope you see this. Then he asked: if tomorrow they would admit that I was right, what would I do differently today? Almost nothing. The second Lies failed. Now the devil got curious, tried rejection, put something desirable almost within your reach, a person, a place, a opportunity, something that made you feel almost chosen, attention enough to create hope, enough distance to create hunger. Was one of his oldest techniques: never deliver anything, nothing is easy to to abandon, deliver almost enough, a message after silence, affection after distance, compliment after doubt. You don't He was immune. Waited, checked, interpreted. For a while your condition Emotional depended on something external finally becoming constant. O Devil expected you to pursue, so you realized the word hidden in that situation: almost. Almost respected, almost loved by Truth, almost included, almost enough. And he said, how long have I Will I accept living on almost? You didn't stop wanting that all of a sudden.

 I still wanted to, but it came out of uncertainty anyway. This confused the Damn. You had discovered that desire and decision were not the same That's it. The third lie failed, so he changed his method. No more.
 People. He waited for you to be alone and used his own voice. I didn't say: You're worthless. Very obvious. I said, you should be much more already.
 Far away. That hurt because he had proof: his delays, opportunities Lost, sometimes I knew what I needed to do and yet You wasted time. He organized real facts to produce a False conclusion: you wasted time, so you're a failure. This one. lie almost worked, because some of the most dangerous lies are false conclusions built on true facts. So you realized what that voice was doing turning regret in identity. And he asked, what can this repentance teach me?
 That shame can't? Responsibility says: happened, learn, Notice what you can, change what you need to change. Punishment says: Continue if Hurting so the past knows you regret it. You You chose responsibility. The fourth lie failed. The devil has noticed Something: you weren't winning the lies proving they were fake.
 Sometimes parts of them were true. What you refused was the identity attached to the event. So he tried a Fifth strategy. This time he delivered exactly what you wanted. As Things started working, people realized, something you

He finally started to show his potential. And that was good.
It was supposed to be. But the devil was watching something else. Success would get you control better than failure? The numbers go up, you feel powerful. The numbers fall, you question everything. The trap was Elegant: give someone proof of their value and then threaten to withdraw This evidence. Now that person will repeat anything that worked and It will protect the image you built. Did you notice yourself taking one? decision only because I was afraid of losing that validation. Then He asked, when did the reward become my boss? The fifth Lie's broken. You kept the ambition, the goals, your growth, just stopped demanding that each result say who you Yeah. Now the devil was angry, not because you had become Impossible to try. I didn't. You were still human. What?
It was something else. You had begun to examine the contract hidden beneath every temptation: what I need to believe for this control? What am I trying to prove? Who am I becoming?
While I pursue this? These questions made manipulation a lot less efficient. Then came the sixth lie and that one worked. You failed. Really. He reacted even though he knew he shouldn't, he trusted something you should have asked, stayed after you already realized pattern. He hurt someone trying to protect himself. The devil didn't even have to Charge you. You did it yourself. Okay, the proof. All this evolution, All that conscience, and you still did that? Maybe I never had changed, maybe your cured version was just a performance, maybe A single ugly moment had revealed who you really were. For A while you believed. Then something unexpected happened. You stopped of trying to prove that it wasn't your mistake, admitted, without excuse, without turn that into spiritual discourse, without becoming a victim of his own behavior. Yes, I did. The devil thought he'd won. Then You kept going. And now he had no answer. Because shame

 It always depended on turning the error at the end of the sentence. You He turned it into a comma, apologized where he needed it, changed what he wanted.
 needed to change, accepted consequences that could not negotiate, answered what that moment revealed and refused to transform responsibility in self-destruct. The sixth lie failed after it worked. That. was even worse for him, because now you had shown something more dangerous than resistance: recovery. Pay special attention to this, Because it's at this point in your story that everything got more interesting. O Devil put his hand inside the coat, the seventh lie, his masterpiece, reserved for those who had already survived the previous six. He held it.
 That in a hand. You couldn't see, but you realized something: the six lies seemed different: being misunderstood, being underestimated, rejection, repentance, success, failure. But they all demanded the same Hidden condition: you needed to let the devil finish the sentence: they They didn't understand you, so prove who you are, underestimated you, so Show it, then show it. They rejected you? Then follow. Did you regret it?
 Then punish yourself. Did you win? Then protect the image. Have you failed?
 Then live the failure. The event was only the first half. A Manipulation wrote the second one and that instant you noticed. A the only intelligence of the devil was not to create lies, but that of convince people that every feeling requires a conclusion immediate. So before he revealed the seventh lie, you asked:
 What happens if I don't have to answer you? Quiet. For the first The devil once looked at the lie in his own hand. Then he looked at You. You had not refuted it, nor exposed it, nor won it in a discussion. You removed the condition that gave power to the lie. It was when he put it back in his pocket. He pulled out the chair and said, Teach that. Now the title changes. You've outdone the devil, but not because Your mind has become more manipulative than his. If that was the lesson, He'd still be the teacher. You'd just be the best student.

You overcame him by refusing the assumption that sustained all intelligence.
His. He knew how to manipulate desires, but he never learned to want anything, without becoming property of what he wanted. He knew how to turn pain into Gun, but never learned to feel pain without transmitting it. I knew it.
exploring the ego, but never learned to let the ego speak, without giving the He's the final vote. He knew how to create games people needed desperately win, but never asked what happens

When someone can drop the score. That's what he wanted.

learn. No kindness. Choose. His first question was:

You stop caring? You said, "No, you don't. That confused it.

the devil, because he believed freedom meant indifference. No, no, no.

It does. You can care deeply and still say no. May Want someone and still leave. You can wish recognition without Betray to receive you. You can wish success without forcing each result to define you. Disagreement is not absence of desire, it is the end of authority automatic desire. The devil asked, then what exactly did you

You got it? You said nothing. The word almost offended him. So you explained: you didn't master life, you just got less willing to lie to himself about the motive of his own choices. Manipulation grows in distance between the reason you declare and the one who cannot Admit it. Am I helping this person? Maybe. Or maybe you're afraid of She'll leave if you stop being useful. I'm protecting my own Peace? Maybe. Or maybe you're avoiding a conversation that scares you. O

The goal is not to distrust all your intentions, it is to learn to look

Twice. The devil finally understood. He could still provoke emotion, I just couldn't guarantee what that emotion would be

I would. The smartest person in the room isn't always that with the fastest answer. It's who realizes that the question itself was built as a trap. The devil worked with forced choices.

You learned to examine the frame. That was the lesson. So he's...

asked, can you teach that to someone else? You

He replied: not delivering my answers. She needs questions.

Better. And that became the first lesson you taught the devil:

Before I react, what are you inviting me to prove? ■ Before you chase ■ someone: what do I fear that this person's absence will say about me? And after making mistakes: what does responsibility now require? Not shame, responsibility. The devil listened for the first time without interrupting.

Before the devil left, you asked about the seventh lie, that lie.

which he never revealed. He smiled. You waited for the answer. Instead

He said, do you still think the important part is what I was going to say? Yeah.

One last trap! The need to know!!! His mind wanted to information missing. What was the lie? Would you have noticed? She Would it still work? So you laughed. The devil too, but scared.

Because you finally got it. You didn't have to know all the Traps before they showed up, not even predicting all the liars.

I needed to be able to come back to you when I realized there was a

Out. Does that change the meaning of being his teacher?! Yeah, you don't.

He taught the devil to become good. He taught the archetype of manipulation something that manipulation cannot manufacture: a person capable of to observe his own hunger, without hating himself for feeling it. Wanting love is human. Wanting recognition is human. Wanting justice is human.

Wanting success is human. The danger begins when a desire does not examined gets permission to write all next movement. You didn't destroy the desire, you recovered the authorship, and now the First scene makes sense. Seven lies, only six were told. The biggest proof that you had overcome the devil was not finding out the last, was

Make the last one unnecessary. He just couldn't guarantee that you would

I'd finish the sentence for him. That's an intelligence that no trick

You can replace it forever. Not knowing everything, but realizing when Your need to know is being used against you. Don't beat them all the discussions, but realizing when an argument stopped serving the True. Not predict every betrayal, but know that someone else's betrayal
 You don't deserve authorship about your character. Not becoming immune to failure, But learn to fail without turning failure into your name. The devil spent his existence studying what moved people: fear, pride, loneliness, anger, desire, shame. He knew all the buttons. But you discovered something he had ignored: a button only guarantees a reaction while the pressing person remains invisible. When you see the hand, options arise. You can still react badly, you can notice late, You can fall back into something you thought you had overcome. That doesn't erase the lesson. The goal was never to become untouchable. It was to become attainable for yourself. And when someone puts before you a game in That every play available costs a part of who you are at last Who says I need to play? That's why he's with you.
 He called himself a teacher. Not because you've become more cunning than the Damn. Shrewdness was his story. You brought something he never had dominated: freedom without coldness, desire without slavery, conscience without paranoia, strength without performance, responsibility without hatred for you Really. The student who tried to beat the devil through the lie would end up becoming like him. So you stopped trying to beat him in And that's exactly how you got over it. He's here.
 Carrying seven lies, he left carrying a question. You don't even He had to hear the last one. Now you're his teacher.

66 Jonas Zampietro Sanches

Holy shit.

67 Nico Valter always believed. No one believed or needed!!!

487

68 This book tells what is behind Brazilian federal policy. What if Someone is interested or has already gone through this question the answer is yes. O Mastral is Temer's son.

69 Intentional

70 Good morning, children. I'm going to share a secret here now, just like Solomon knew! And that now in that period you begin to understand that with the right intensity. But true power and physical wealth and material, it's energy. That's all, I thought. Other than that, the rest is everything...

71 2023 was the best physicist.

72 If God gave you the complete vision and you could see the spiritual world in its entirety. Would you rejoice, or would you get dirty? Has More people there than here.

73 For people who still attend temple services. Put it on.
The leaders of the trials. All sects have infiltrated the churches.
I've held leadership positions since the '90s. It's their order, if you You really think your community is free of it, you're probably the one more wrong. Prove the leaders, don't fall for that they're just without Experience. They impersonate friends, family, but they don't have the presence Of the Holy Spirit, neither God nor Jesus hears them, but they pretend by years. Now is the period when the masks fall. Don't tolerate deception In the pulps. God is so angry about it.

74 You think we don't travel astrally. The difference is that ours rope has steel and gold!!! No silver.

75 There's a change, but before it, you need to learn not to repeat the patterns that made you suffer in the previous phase. You're waiting an answer, but while you're waiting, you're learning to deal with the anxiety of not controlling time. This is also part of the preparation. There is a tendency to believe that preparation alone It happens when something outside is happening, but many of the More important changes start away from the eyes of others People. You learn to say no, you start setting boundaries, stop accept certain situations, organize your life, change your habits, starts to choose people who listen better, learns to wait without turn each delay into abandonment. You're being prepared. Just like that. And there's something important: that doesn't mean that every delay is automatically a divine promise, not all closed door means God is preparing another, not all difficulty has a hidden message, but you can cross waiting periods seeking growth, wisdom and direction instead to just ask when everything will change. The result is not yet 100% visible because you are still becoming able to handle what I wish you to receive. Imagine someone asking for a new opportunity, but still stuck to the same habits that could Make this opportunity go to waste. The external change, alone, I wouldn't. Therefore, preparation is taking place first in the character, discipline, maturity, ability to discern, how you react to the pressure, the way you deal with people, in the willingness to remain true to their values even when nobody's watching. God is teaching you to support What you once asked for, because getting something is different than getting it. Take care of that after you arrive. And that is one of the reasons why You still can't see the result. You're looking at the scenario, but the process is happening in you. Observe what has changed in the last few months. You're more patient, more conscious, more selective, more willing to wait, firmer with its limits, more Careful with your choices. What once seemed indispensable already It doesn't have the same power. You have stopped insisting on certain situations, learned to walk without needing to know exactly how everything It will be over. These changes are not small, they are preparing you to make different decisions when new possibilities appear.

So while you still can't see the result, no

Turn the wait into despair, keep doing what depends from you: pray, observe, learn, correct what needs to be corrected, keep your principles and let time reveal what not yet

It's clear. You were expecting external evidence to believe that something is happening, but often the only evidence is Just the person you're becoming while waiting, because

When the result really shows up, you realized it didn't start. at that moment. There is a contradiction that many people live without realizing: they want a different life, but continue to take decisions that lead them to the same places, want relationships healthier, but still accepting the same behaviors,

They want peace, but they keep feeding conflicts they could already have left behind, want new opportunities, but continue postponing the attitudes that could prepare them to advance. And maybe it is.

Just here you need to pay more attention. A new history doesn't just start when circumstances change. She

It also starts when you stop repeating the choices you kept

You stuck to the previous reality. That doesn't mean that everything you Did it in the past was wrong. Many decisions have been made with the emotional resources, knowledge and maturity that you had at that moment. You did what you could, but now you can.

seeing things that I didn't realize before and when consciousness increases, Some choices need to be reviewed. You learned to stay in uncomfortable situations because I was afraid of losing people. You developed the habit of accepting less than needed to avoid conflict. You spent so much time trying to please that you started to ignore their own limits. These attitudes may have helped you to go through certain phases, but do not need to continue determining All next. There is a difference between recognizing what helped you survive and keep repeating what prevents your growth. Sometimes the behavior that will be necessary in a phase stops making sense in another. So a new story demands Different questions. Instead of asking just how to keep everything If that still makes sense. Instead of taking one opportunity for fear of being without any, observe if it matches with its values and objectives. Instead of insisting on a relationship only Because you've invested a lot of time in it, consider what's real, respect and reciprocity. These questions may be uncomfortable, but... can also make room for more conscious decisions. In that period, God is teaching you to understand what faith does not mean Keep repeating the same moves while waiting different results. Praying is important, trust is important, but There is also responsibility in the way you lead your life.
 If you want to build something different, you need to observe the acts that feeds people who listen, the limits it sets and decisions that keeps delaying, not because you can control everything, but because there are parts of your path that depend on your choices.
 And one of the biggest changes starts exactly when you stop Wait for a new phase to automatically eliminate old patterns. One new environment does not solve alone a difficulty you continue

Charging. A new relationship does not guarantee that you will stop repeating harmful behaviour. A new opportunity does not replace discipline, preparation and responsibility. The scenario may change, but the same patterns can follow you if they're not recognized.

So don't be afraid to review your decisions, change your mind on of new information is not weakness, setting limits does not mean To stop loving, to recognize a mistake does not mean to condemn your story whole and choose another path does not erase everything you have lived. For the otherwise, you can use your experience to walk with more wisdom. Today you need to make the small and daily decisions that already You know, organizing what you've been putting off, refusing everything you don't do meaning, having that necessary conversation and simply stop automatically respond to situations that have always aroused the same reaction. Don't underestimate those choices. They may look small. when observed alone, but its repetition can transform the direction of your life. Not every opportunity that provokes enthusiasm represents growth. Sometimes something new comes up and you feel immediately you need to accept: a proposal, an invitation, a project, a change, a person. And the novelty can produce a feeling so intense that it seems impossible to say no. But there is one difference between being excited about a possibility and realizing that It really matches the direction you want to build. A Excitement is usually quick, it makes you imagine the result before to understand the process. You think about what you can get, what you can get It can happen, how your life could change. But maybe not yet. have considered what will be required of you. Growth It's usually deeper, doesn't always come with that initial euphoria. He brings responsibility, demands discipline, asks Patience puts you before things you need to learn. So, one of the first questions you can ask in front of a opportunity is: it just arouses my desire or also makes me

A more prepared person? Because something can make sense and yet So it's not right for you. A healthy opportunity not
It has to be perfect, but it has to make sense when you look at it Take it easy. Note if there is coherence between what is being offered and its values. Observe the conditions, risks, responsibilities, time, observe if you are seeking because Do you really believe that possibility or because you're afraid to lose a chance. Fear of losing can make any opportunity seem unique. You think, if I don't take it now, maybe there'll never be another one.
But important decisions should not only depend on urgency created by anxiety itself. When there is room to evaluate, use That space. Look, think, ask questions, look for information, talk with people who can offer a balanced view. Maybe God.
is opening a door, but it can also be simply a opportunity that needs to be analyzed wisely. Not every door.
Open is direction, not every door closed means you missed that It's yours. Hence, discernment must walk together with faith. Other growth sign is when opportunity requires you to develop something that still doesn't fully possess. You need to learn to organize, take responsibility, improve your communication, have more Discipline, exit the comfort zone. That might scare you, but there's one. difference between an opportunity that challenges you to grow and a situation that requires you to abandon who you are to stay on it. Growth expands its maturity. Encouragement may simply feed your need for novelty. So ask:
Would I keep wanting this after the initial emotion subsided?
That question is powerful, because some opportunities seem irresistible during enthusiasm, which completely lose meaning when you start thinking about the consequences. Others continue making sense even after the emotion decreases. You can do it.

see the challenges and still recognize value in that? That might indicate that there is something more consistent behind enthusiasm. Also

Observe the fruits: this opportunity brings you closer to a more life coherent, brings responsibility, strengthens your ability to fulfill what you promise, contribute to your goals, respect your limits or just offers you an escape from what you're living now? Because You're not looking for an opportunity, you're just looking for a way out.

And any news seems better than staying where we are.

Your story is changing just because you're learning not to Accepting news just because it's new. There's a big difference between learning from the past and using it as a sentence.

76 In that instant, the sky understood what you had broken. It wasn't.

Just one door, it was one of your possible futures. And the most part strange: you yourself had destroyed it, without ritual, without knowing that you were doing anything extraordinary. You made such a gesture.

It's common that no one near you would realize its importance. He pushed.

a button, put the phone aside and, in a place where it had never been necessary to make repairs, something became impossible to restore. The button

That you pressed wasn't blocking, it wasn't even excluding, not even

Send. It was something much less dramatic. You had received one.

message, a family message, not the person you're in Thinking now. Details change, but the position in which that You were known. Someone wanted access to a

Its version that existed for years, the one that explains, that solves, that back, which turns an uncomfortable conversation into something comfortable for everyone, the one who can be hurt and still ends responsible for restoring peace. You read, your finger went to the keyboard, already

I knew what I could answer. In fact, I could almost hear the phrases forming in the head: explanation, enlightenment, words carefully chosen, the message built to ensure that No one would misinterpret you. So you stopped, no Because you stopped caring. That would have been simpler. You It stopped because that whole scene looked old, same position. Other day looked again at the message that instead of answering, marked as unread. Just that, no thunder, no revelation, No voice saying you'd passed any tests. You He put his cell phone aside and continued the day. But in heaven, the door cracked.

Miguel looked through her and saw what that hallway always saw.
Keep: possible continuations. Every important choice creates paths. Some paths lasted seconds, some years. Most He disappeared silently when another path was chosen. That.
It was normal: someone turns left instead of right, takes a job, refuse another, answer a call, miss a bus, say yes, say No, one possibility closes, another is born, nothing breaks. But your door It wasn't just closed, it was missing a piece. Miguel called the Angels. Their function was simple: when a human future became unstable, they repaired the passage around him. A misunderstanding could be corrected, a deferred decision could be resumed, a relationship could change, a mistake could be repaired, even a terrible choice could give rise to another choice later. A human being almost never I'd be stuck with a single painting. Usually there was another movement. One of the angels put his hand on the crack, light through the wall, nothing happened, another tried, the opening remained, then all retreated. One sentence came up above the door: O repair requires original material. Miguel looked back through the opening. O missing material was not in heaven, it was in its past. So he's...
Went after him, hoped to find some extraordinary event.
Between that, he found you at 17, in a kitchen. Someone was Angry, you said something real. The environment got heavy and immediately began to soften what he had said, explained what I mean, you explained what you didn't mean, you tried to fix the reaction. from other people to their honesty. A small fragment got loose Miguel followed another one of you. You were older, somewhere else, Someone had let you down. There were reasons to leave, but You stayed long enough to explain why it had He was hurt and became even more angry because you He was hurt. Another fragment, another year. You wrote one message at dawn, erase, write again, change words so that the other person did not feel accused by consequences of what she had done herself. Different faces, the Same movement. Something happens, you feel, you try to explain and then He starts to manage everyone's reaction to what he felt. Miguel He went back to the door. Now I knew where the original stuff had gone.

It had been built on an old deal, not an agreement that You remembered to do it. Something learned by repetition: if something break between you and someone else, it's your responsibility to make it all Safe again. This agreement had produced thousands of futures. The Details changed, fate was the same. You were back in position.
known, restored access. Only that night, when Marked the message as unread, something new happened. You don't He punched someone, didn't become a cold person, didn't write a last one.
The badass explaining why he would never explain anything again. It just delayed the Old enough answer for a question to appear: Me Do I really want to get into this again? The question came to heaven before the Answer, and the door broke. Because the future behind her depended on you Never ask that question. Angels rebuilt all the answers that You could have sent it. In one, you explained yourself, in another you asked Apologies for the tone, in another came back because silence provoked guilt, in another one it exploded, said everything, repented and then returned to repair the damage. Different roads, same room. So Miguel realized: all those futures were still possible, but one: the future in which you would never find out you could choose, that there was Missing completely. This is what the broken door represented: Not a missed opportunity, a lost inevitability. Miguel if Turn to the angels: fix it. They tried. The fragment in your hand darkened even more: notice the impossible. So Miguel took him to a deeper region of the sky, passed by places where prayers Humans had names, went through records of choices that there were changed whole families, until it reached the place where nothing was restored, Before we knew exactly what that repair would bring back. There the fragment was placed before God. For a few moments nothing It happened. Then the black surface became transparent, your room appeared in it, the phone, the message, your hand, the few seconds of Silence before you put it aside. God once observed, then Another one. Miguel waited until a sentence appeared: it cannot be Fixed. Miguel asked the obvious question: Why? The answer didn't have relationship with powerlessness was a contradiction. To restore that door, heaven would need to restore the future in which you still didn't know I had a choice. Only now you knew. Even if I did answer tomorrow, You would answer knowing you could refuse. Even if I came back, I'd come back. knowing I could leave. Even if I said I was sorry, I'd know that the request was a choice, not a tax charged automatically because you have needs. That ancient future depended on ignorance and There's no way to return that ignorance without pulling from you. what you've already learned. That's why heaven couldn't fix it. Because fixing the door would require breaking you down. But there's a part important here: finding out that you can choose does not mean You'll always choose right. Three days later another situation appeared, another person, same pressure and this time you fell right into the old pattern:

explained too much, responded too fast, it's been almost an hour rewriting a message that should have taken a few minutes.

After sending it, he realized exactly what he had done. For some I thought the door was back to normal.

changed, that that night was just an exception. Maybe you

He was still the exact same person. In heaven, Miguel returned to Runner. The door was still broken. No piece had returned.

So he watched what you would do. You reread the conversation, looked at the and said below: I did it again without destroying myself

So, without dramatically swearing that I would never repeat that.

Then came another phrase: But I don't have to go on just because I started.

And you stopped. That was new. The sky has discovered the difference between repeating a pattern and go back to blinding him. The behavior had returned.

Not blindness. The door remained broken and this changed the investigation. Miguel went down the hall. Another door was cracked.

Behind it, a future where you stayed somewhere just

For leaving, I'd disappoint someone. Another, a future in which I accepted disrespect because the other person had also suffered. Another, one future in which spent years trying to prove its worth to someone decided

I don't recognize him. Nothing was attacking the sky, you were doing Something on Earth, something almost ridiculously small. Started to ask a question before automatically returning to the old position.

Sometimes: is that really mine to fix? Other times: I am help or am I afraid of what happens if I don't help? And sometimes

There was no question. You just felt a known impulse and Wait. That pause was enough, because the old mechanism needed to speed, needed you to act before you could separate reflex responsibility. The moment they believed the damage

It was connected to the conflict until something good happened. Someone praised

You. You finally got the recognition you wanted and another door broke down. That was different. Golden lines crossed its surface. Miguel looked inside, behind her there was a future in which you spent years trying to recreate that moment: more achievements, more numbers, more approval, more evidence. Not because the success was bad, but because you needed the next success to confirm that the previous one was real. Later, on that very

At night, you caught yourself checking again. The number was still Up, the tension was still there. For a few minutes, the old machine began to rebuild around something new. Then

You closed the screen. Not because success didn't matter; you just if He refused to make tomorrow prove that today was worth it. The door Gold broke and Miguel finally understood: you were not destroying only a habit; was breaking a law that the past I had written inside you. The next moment needs to validate previous. If anyone loved you, they needed to keep proving it. If you I had to win again. If you put a limit, everyone

They had to agree he was fair. If he was evolving, he couldn't fall. If you made a good decision, the result needed to reward you. Otherwise, the choice seemed invalid. A name came up about Broken doors: continuity debt. The debt that says all good choice needs to be justified by what happens next, which makes you reopening a door because closing it hurt, abandoning a limit because felt guilt, turned an old behavior into proof that

All his progress was false. The sky wasn't watching you become a person full of certainties; I was watching you depend less on her after you choose. Then came the test that really mattered: you He made a decision and regretted it. A real mistake, no victory Hidden, no spiritual excuse. The consequences have come. You He wished he had chosen different. Miguel waited. If the theory were Wrong, the doors should start rebuilding. They didn't.

You corrected what you still could, apologized where you owed an apology, changed what was still possible to change, accepted what was no longer possible and It went on. A new crack crossed the hall. This time, Michael didn't call the angels. Now he understood: what had broken was not his ability to return to the past; it was his need to do the past change before moving on. That's why not even God I could fix it. There was nothing to repair without undoing the reality. God did not need to turn true choices into fake choices, just to preserve an old version of you. That. seems to say the sky failed. It wasn't that. The sky has lost a future Which depended on you remaining unconscious. This future isn't He survived the moment he was seen and, after you saw,
No power could make you see that and still leave the choice being yours. This is not divine weakness; it is the consequence of something having itself made real. Some choices can be corrected, some deserve Apologies, others may be reviewed, but none can cease to have It happened. Maturity begins when you stop demanding that healing Deliver a past where nothing happened. What you can build is a future where what happened doesn't get the final vote. Miguel He went back to the first door. The piece was still missing. He looked through the opening.
His room was gone. Now I saw you before another door, a royal door. There was someone on the other side, someone important to You and that's why the decision was difficult. The person asked for some That's it. A part of you wanted to say yes right away. Another one wanted to say Not just to prove I could. No answer seemed clean.
So you did something your old version would hardly bear: said
I need to think and it's gone. Miguel watched. No celestial explosion, No new crack, nothing extraordinary, until you realize why. For the First time several futures could stay alive long enough for you to really choose. That's what existed beyond the corridor.

broken: not empty, possibility. One door led to stay, another to leave.
 One to forgive, one to refuse. One trying again, one trying again.
 Admit it's over. And none of them opened themselves. Miguel took it. again the black fragment. The phrase had changed. It didn't say this one anymore.
 The future can't happen anymore. Now he said this future can no longer to happen without your consent. That was the real damage. You already His signals are clear. Not mystical signs, signs behavioral. You get a message and you don't respond while Your emotions are screaming, you realize you're writing the room paragraph of an explanation and erases two, says yes, realizes that answered out of fear and comes back to correct, says no and goes through the guilt without treat her as proof that she was wrong, miss without turning longing in order to return, makes a mistake without using it to erase months of progress, receives recognition without immediate need ensure the next dose. You notice an old pattern earlier and earlier: first, a week later, then in the middle, until the day comes when You realize when your finger is still on the button. That's not perfection, it's visibility. And when a pattern becomes visible, it loses the right to Pretend it's inevitable. That's why you also need to be careful Even with the identity of chosen, because she can also become another Door. If being chosen means you must always be wiser, ever stronger, ever more spiritually evolved, so your identity begins to demand that the next moment prove the previous.
 You make a mistake and panic, you feel common and you think you've lost Something, you need help and you start to wonder if it ever was Strong. It's the same old law wearing sacred clothes: the next moment it shall not validate the previous. You can have a powerful perception Today and be confused tomorrow, you can grow up and still repeat something, may become wiser and continue in need of correction. The objective

It's not building a version of you that never changes again. That would just be Another prison with better lighting. The goal is to become someone capable to understand, choose, correct and continue. That's the system. Note that's really happening. Separate what belongs to this moment and which is coming from an old moment. choice, which action makes sense Now? Review what reality taught after choice. Correct yourself. a new information change the answer, change the answer. Go on. No, no, no. Turn the correction into proof that the whole walk was false. Yeah. so a broken door becomes useful, not because you never again can enter the old pattern, but because he can no longer close the door behind you and pretend there was never a way out.

Chapter 10

What seemed common was never the measure.

1 It's never been a complaint. It's a celebration.

Getting great...

2 There was a letter on that table that no one should see. No, no, no.

had king, nor queen, no number, no suit, just the verse black, crossed by a thin blue line. For nine rounds, the Man running the game kept that letter hidden under the Left hand. Nobody asked about her. That was part of the game. Ao

Around the table were six people who spent years studying how

You behave when something important is at risk. They don't They bet money. They bet decisions. A photograph was Placed in the center of the table, yours. Next to her, a situation was presented. Someone from your past gets in touch again. This one.

person knows exactly what to say, does not really apologize, no assumes completely what he did, but offers enough heat to reopen a door you've already tried to close. The players began to download your cards. He'll answer. He'll explain himself. He'll wait.

evidence. He'll be back. The man in front of the table said nothing.

So your phone lit up. The real one. A few miles from that table,

You read a message, you looked at it for a few seconds and

He did something that none of the six had bet on. Turned the phone to Down and back to what you were doing. The man's hand moved. A secret letter had changed. Now there was a name on it. Yours. One of the players got up so fast that the chair hit the ground. Who Did you put that there? No one answered. The man turned the letter. ■ The other ■ side there was only one sentence. He's not playing the part anymore. It was That moment the game stopped. Because for years they weren't predicting your future. They were predicting your position and you had just finished Leave it empty. The strange thing wasn't you ignoring a message.

Anyone can do that. The strange thing was because everyone At that table they were so sure you'd answer. They had Records. Not mystical records. Standards. Every game started from Same way. One person was put under pressure. So the players tried to predict which role she would occupy inside that situation. Some became saviors, some disappeared, some They attacked minds that could be rejected, others apologized even before they were accused and some spent their lives trying prove their worth to those who had already decided not to see them. The Details changed. The part almost never. And your file looked easy.
When tension arose, you were trying to understand. When someone gets I'd walk away, look for a reason. When a conversation got confusing, you added more words. When someone didn't understand you,
He was trying to explain himself better. And when something ended without a conclusion, part of you kept the case open. The players had a name to your position: the finisher. Not because you shut things down, But because I hated leaving them unfinished. You wanted the last conversation, the explanation that was missing, that sentence capable of making both finally To understand what had happened. Sometimes that impulse made you Careful. Other times it made you stay in situations too
After all that could still be resolved, it's over. The table
He didn't care about the difference. I just needed to know if your role
It was still predictable. And for a long time it went on. The man opened up Your record in old rounds. Once, after a discussion, the Someone else left. You went behind just to explain one more

That's it. On another occasion, a friendship changed and you spent weeks Gathering signals before accepting something I already felt. Then someone treated it.

You bad. You left. Two days later he sent that message Huge explaining exactly why. Different scenes, same position. The game didn't have to predict his words. Just know which one role you believed to have obligation to occupy. Then came the night of Secret letter. The message came up. The old gear has begun Right away. You read it once, then another. It has already begun to mount the Answer in the head. That family pressure came up, so fix it. Only that another thought interrupted everything. And if that doesn't have to be Is that settled today? It was a small question. At that table was a disaster, because all the letters bet depended on urgency.
Answer now, understand now, decide now, fix now, find the which means now. Your old role survived by transforming emergency uncertainty. And you had just allowed something unfinished was still unfinished. The man looked at the secret letter again.
A second sentence appeared: empty slot. A player protested. Him Answers tomorrow. Maybe. That wasn't the problem. The problem was that Tomorrow's response could no longer be predicted by yesterday's role.
So they waited. The next morning, you opened the message another time. He still cared. I still had questions. You weren't yourself.
made magically indifferent, but emotional temperature had He changed and realized something he didn't see the night before. Can not open message I wouldn't even ask a question. She created an opening and left you the responsibility to cross it. His old version would have completed the It's missing. Not this time. You closed the conversation. The player who Bet he'll answer lost the round, but the other smiled. So it is.
Getting evasive. The man looked at him. Bet on it. He bet.
Three days later another situation appeared. Someone else, another context.
Someone important asked if there was something wrong between you two. Now

Keeping quiet would be easier. If that player was right, you

I'd go back again. Only you responded, directly, unpunished, without disappearing. He said what was bothering him, asked a question and You heard the answer. The letter of evasion lost too. The table was in Quiet. You ignored one message and answered another.
Opposite behavior in the same week, players hated That. Predictable people are easy to summarize with verbs. He stays, he stays Go away, forgive, fight, explain, disappear. But your decisions no longer they were organizing around a single verb. The man wrote Something about your photograph. Context before paper. That was the first.
rule changed by secret letter. Until then the players asked: O What does that person usually do? The letter forced everyone to make a Better question: What does this moment really require? And that question You've revealed something uncomfortable. A pattern can start as protection and End as an identity. Explaining saved a relationship that really
It was worth it. Being useful often brought security into a chaotic house.
Learning to read the environment helped you avoid conflict when it was more new. Keeping calm kept someone else's emotions from getting made them dangerous. An answer works. So you keep going Using. The years pass. The environment changes. The answer stays, even you Stop saying: That's how I learned to act and start saying, I am Like this. That's where a strategy becomes a part. And roles are powerful because They start making decisions before the moment comes. The table never He had to control you. All you had to do was know which version of yourself if felt obliged to protect: the understanding, the strong, the forgiving, the independent, the one who never needs anyone, who never gives up, That always gives you one more chance. Choose any identity. Earlier Or later, life finds a way to hold her like a handle.
Right now. A player who hasn't gambled yet. Observed All rounds in silence. So you put a card down.

next to your picture. The man asked: What's your bet? She replied that now he needs to be different. No one understands. She Turned the letter. He'll reject your old version. It was a bet.

Smart, because when someone finally recognizes a pattern, often builds a second prison, trying to prove he escaped
The first. If you used to run after people, now you can't looking for no one. If you explained too much, now you have to stay in Quiet. If you forgive too quickly, now no one gets another chance.
If you needed approval, now care about any opinion Sounds like weakness. The old paper disappears, a reaction against it Take the place and the table will see you again. So they prepared a test Perfect. Someone from your past contacted you. It wasn't the person First message, it was again and this time there was something missing before: responsibility. No vague nostalgia, no bait. The person said clearly what he had done, did not demand forgiveness, did not ask that you Pretending nothing happened, he just wrote: I understand if you don't I wanted to answer, but I needed to say it clearly. The player silently receded, thought he had won. If your new identity I'd never come back, you'd reject it. But he meant well. Person that you would never do that on purpose? All this was true. Also It wasn't the first thing that needed to be said. So you said: What?
I said it was wrong and it wasn't fair to you, no but, no explanation immediate. You let the phrase exist alone. The table lost four bets at the same time, then something even more important happened. A Someone else didn't forgive you immediately. She was still hurt.
Your old version would try to buy quick relief, more words, more Sorry, a demand disguised as repair. Please stop staying Hurt so I can know I'm still a good person. This time you did what you could and allowed the other person to have their own time. The secret letter changed again. Responsibility without delete. The man kept looking at it. It's not what I expected. Him

Figured leaving papers would make you take on less responsibility. The opposite happened. You didn't have to if Turn into a bad person to admit a bad attitude. Also I didn't have to keep being the good person denying what I'd done.
I could correct an action without turning a single moment into ID. That changed the table. The game has always depended on people Defending characters. The loyal one who needs to stay, the strong one who cannot asking for help, the victim who can't admit when he hurts someone, the curator who believes he has no right to anger. When the character turns sacred, reality becomes an enemy, whenever it contradicts the Screenplay. The secret letter didn't give you a better character. She allowed you to stop auditioning to get a part. Was That's why it changed everything and that's when the letter started to cause problems beyond your file. The players looked at their own cards. A man who specializes in predicting abandonment realized that I always left first. A woman capable of identifying pride
I haven't talked to my own sister in six years. So the man in front of the table turned your letter. The observer. It's been years.
believing that seeing everyone's standards put him out of the game.
I wouldn't. Distance was just his role. Your letter didn't make You're impossible to predict. She made people study roles to see The very same. For the first time during a round the man stood up And out. No one stopped him. Ten minutes later he came back without a jacket. Then He removed the black box where the secret letter was kept. Inside it was hundreds of blank cards. The players were watching. How many Do people have one? He answered: all of them. That changed the room. Your letter It wasn't hidden because you were the only person who could change.
It was hidden because the game had no use from a person who hasn't received a role yet. A prediction needs a pattern.

A role needs repetition. A table built on certainty not can use the instant when someone pauses long enough to choose again. The blank cards were always there. Nobody.

I distributed them. Until yours showed up alone. Now the players understood Why his name mattered. You had not been selected as the Only to be free in a world of programmed people. Just made it visible the letter no one else used. And that was the dangerous part. Because if All had one blank card, you couldn't build another identity around waiting for the exception. Even chosen could turn Another part if I made you treat every feeling as proof, all opposition as confirmation and all correction as threat. The letter Secret required something more difficult. You get an idea powerful without turning it into a prison? Can you feel yourself without need every sentence to feed your ego? Can you recognize a standard and still allow the facts to correct your interpretation?
You can be proud of your growth without pretending you're done with Grow up. That's where authorship begins. Separate your decisions from fear, from pressure, guilt, inherited reactions and identities that try choose before you. The roles, the victories, the mistakes, even the secret letter with your name. For the first time, no one bet. He distributed one face down card for every person on the table. Turn around. Everyone turned around.
Every card was empty, except yours. His name was still there, but he...
He's not doing the part anymore. He's gone. Empty position Also. Just like all the other phrases that came up later. Was left Just one. Ask me again. The players waited for an explanation.
She didn't come. Then one last scene appeared on your record. Someone He asked a favor. Your first impulse was to say yes. You stopped, He realized he really had time and said yes. Another request came up on a day when I was exhausted. You said no. Someone criticized you.
You heard enough to keep what was useful and reject the rest.

You missed someone without turning homesick into order. Failed to something without putting your entire identity on trial. Nothing. supernatural happened. That was the point. The letter did not eliminate his standards. She helped you realize when a pattern was set going through a decision. Man finally wrote the method about table. Note: what came first, the moment or the paper? Name it.

 What version of you are trying to take control? What to Fix Everything? What runs away? What do you need to prove? The judge? The savior? Do you? O what is really true in this situation? Choose. What answer belongs to this moment and not to the reputation you try to maintain before you Really? Watch. What happened after your choice? Revise. If reality teach something new, use it without shame. The man gave Step back. That was the whole system. Not a perfect instinct.
 Not permanent indifference. Not become impossible to manipulate. One space small enough to go unnoticed, big enough to change a life. Space between. That's what I always do. And what?
 Does it make sense now? That's what your secret letter meant. It changes. the meaning of the game. They put your name on a letter. At first It seemed like proof that you had been chosen in secret. No, no, no.
 Yeah. His name came up because that table couldn't fit anymore.
 you perfectly on the paper you had predicted. Then the letter changed the game because it revealed something that the players ignored for years. One person is not just the sum of its repetitions. There is also a When she realizes the repetition. The moment when Stop. The moment you repeat it again, but you see it in the middle.
 The moment you discover that always doing the opposite is also not It means freedom. The moment new information comes up and she Check. That's the part that no fixed card can keep. O Man took his letter one last time, looked at his name, then to the empty cards around the table and tore yours in half. All if They're up. Why destroy it? He put the pieces on the table.

For the moment we preserve this letter, we will give him another paper to protect. No one argued. He tore it up again. Later again until your name can no longer be read. The letter that there was changed everything disappeared, but something else changed with her. Nobody at that table wanted their old letter back. The man marked as the observer turned his down. The woman there was Bet on your rebellion did the same. One by one all the papers They disappeared from the table. Not because the patterns were gone, but Because no one else treated them like sentences. The man gathered the deck. Before he kept it, he wrote a phrase on the lid: A Pattern You can explain your last move. He doesn't own the next one. That's what It changed everything. The goal was never to become unpredictable. It was authorship. Allow your story to inform you without letting her divert you from order, allow an identity to help without giving her your next decision. And that's precisely why the letter had to remain Hidden so far. If you had seen her before, probably turn into another title, another performance, another version of you Even if I needed to support it. But you didn't reveal that letter if making it extraordinary. It revealed in common moments, a message who did not respond immediately, a conversation he decided to have, a Apologizing that you accepted without reopening a door, a mistake that admitted without becoming the mistake itself, a yes that really was yes, a no that didn't need a defense in a court of law, little ones movements, different roles, a growing capacity. Ask from new. So the next time an old version of you gets there before Even if the moment is over, remember the only sentence that was left in that letter: Nope. Never come back. Neither. Always choose you. Neither. Trust everything you feel. Neither. Be stronger than all They waited. Just ask me again: What's true now? What?

Do you belong to this moment? What I'm choosing because it really does sense here? And what I'm choosing because I'm afraid to become Someone different from the character I know? The secret letter never gave the answer. That's exactly why it mattered. She returned the asks you, and when the question really belongs to you, that table can still study its past, can still recognize its habits, you can still make predictions. Sometimes you'll get it right, but no

 It can more confuse pattern with order and neither should you. Yours Name was never put in that letter to tell who you are. It was placed there to mark the moment when you agreed to ask Who needs to be this time. And that changes everything.

3 That's what you're feeling, it's a thousand-year-old curse falling to the ground.
 Totally. If the ritual fails he comes back hungry.

4 Now comes the part that will change the way you see all yours history. The devil has summoned the seven princes of hell for a session extraordinary. The theme of the meeting was a single question: what we do with a soul that turns everything we throw against it into force against us? Asmodeu, the specialist in the destruction of relationships, He admitted: "I tried countless times. Every relationship destroyed only I refined his judgment. Now he identifies my traps even before I finish riding them." Beelzebub, who works with the Desperation, confessed: "All the moments of darkness I induced They were transmuted. He uses the memory of the past as motivation, not as anchor." Mammon, responsible for greed, reported: "I offered financial shortcuts that would compromise your integrity. He rejected it.
 Everyone. It prefers to build slowly and cleanly to build fast and dirty way." Leviathan, master of envy, admitted: "I tried to do it if compare to others to feel inferior. He genuinely celebrates the other people's success. I cannot find entry through envy."

Satan, who acts through pride, said: "I tried to inflate it after his achievements to create an exploitable arrogance. He attributes the victories to greater forces and remains humble." Belial, specialist in worthless, confessed: "In the lowest moments, I tried to convince him that nothing mattered. He always finds something small for which he's worth the penalty to continue." And Lucifer, the devil himself, after hearing all the reports, made a statement that silenced hell: "This soul operates in a system we can't even get in. She can't resist our attacks; it metabolizes them. The more we attack, the stronger she is. It does. We are literally feeding our own enemy."

So he made an unprecedented decision: you declared a specimen protected for observation, not for kindness, but for a distorted scientific curiosity. He wants to understand how you work. He wants to find out the secret of his transmutation capability. Want Decrypt the code that allows you to turn poison into vitamin. And, To study it properly, he needs you to keep existing, and you, evolving. Attacking him now would be counterproductive for the purpose His. So you ordered all hellish hierarchies to maintain distance: no interference, no temptation, no attack, Just silent observation. You've become so fascinating to the devil He'd rather study it than destroy it. But here's what the devil didn't calculate: God was watching that whole meeting. And while the devil saw in you a scientific puzzle to be deciphered, God saw something completely different: the confirmation of the divine design that He It started a long time ago. Let me reveal something about your existence that You never knew: you were not born by accident. Your combination characteristics specific was intentionally designed. You're a divine design of something God has been developing for ages.

513

5 No blow this time, Lula. Last time we missed it.

But this time there's a laser from space pointed at your head.

6 Note: I'm not stuck here with you, you're the ones trapped, with me here.

7 What got in my way for a long time was thinking it was on average.

That everyone felt something like it. Talk to God, guys.

responds and delegates. Put yourselves on the test all the time.

DEDICATORY

I dedicate these words to my God, powerful and unique holder of all the hour and glory and power yesterday, today and forever. My family, who In spite of all the interperes of life they always stood by me.

No one's perfect I'm the first born soon, it's their first time as parents and we need to be aware that people make mistakes. But love and Jesus ' infinite mesmerity insists on reaching out and forgiving us whenever we need it. God is a father, and a father who knows ours difficulties, we were created imperfect on purpose, this is proof of the eternal love of our creator.